Sen. Heinz Meets With Local Leaders, Media

By Jim Moore Staff Writer

WAYNESBURG — U.S. Sen. John Heinz, following a tour of Emerald Mine near Waynesburg Monday morning, told a group of about 25 local businessmen and political leaders that he will oppose an administration plan aimed at rescinding the sulphur percentage reduction requirement of the Clean Air Act.

"The economic health of the Pennsylvania coal industry will be severely jeopardized if percentage reduction is repealed," Heinz said during a brief visit that included a an hour-long, informal meeting with media and local leaders at the Waynesburg Elks Club.

"If Congress goes along with the administration and repeals percentage reduction, the competitive balance of our domestic coal industry will be disrupted — if not destroyed," Heinz said. "Western states with lower sulphur content in their coal will be able to dominate the coal market at Pennsylvania's expense."

The percentage reduction regulation was adopted by the Environmental Protection Agency in 1979 in order to implement the Clean Air Act's mandates for sulphur emission reduction in coal-burning utilities and industrial plants.

Heinz noted that western senators are pushing for repeal of the EPA regulation through legislation. The Clean Air Act is up for review and extension before the Senate Environmental and Public Works Committee this year.

"Employment in Pennsylvania's coal industry is drastically low right now because of economic conditions," Heinz said. "Repealing the percentage reduction requirement would exacerbate an already dire situation."

In addition, Heinz said that repeal would constitute a step backward in our nation's efforts to improve air quality. The senator noted that plants burning western coal would not be required to have scrubbers and that all sulphur emissions from coal burned at these plants would escape into the atmosphere.

Heinz expressed concern that this additional sulphur emission "would further contribute" to the problem of acid deposition.

Heinz told the group that the international market for local coal could be expanded but this would require a special port facility. At the current time, only Baltimore has facilities for exporting coal in large quantities.

Heinz said there is some movement to dredge Sandy Hook near Philadelphia in order to allow super tankers to take on coal for export. He said because of the channel at Baltimore it would be impossible to develop the port for coal export aboard large ships.

Heinz took a swipe at Conrail and said development of the port in Philadelphia would depend largely on the rail system. "Hopefully Conrail will someday be operated like a railroad," he said.

Heinz said a group of owners of small coal mines had approached him a few weeks ago to check on legislation concerning foreign imports. "The group was looking for a way in which to export their coal. It's impossible for a single owner to undertake this venture but a group of six or 12 could possibly be successful," he said.

On other subjects, Sen. Heinz said:

✓ He is still attempting to get a federal program to help with coal-hauling roads that would offer 80 or 90 percent federal aid. He claimed the administration and Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis are for the legislation but additional support is lacking.

✓ The Hinckley case was shocking but the prosecution was forced to prove a negative. "I support legislation authored by Sen. Arlen Specter. We must change the law so this will never happen again."

✓ Promised Greene County Memorial Hospital administrator Michael Flinn to look into proposed Medicare cuts that Flinn claims would affect expansion plans. Heinz said hospitals in rural areas could be exempt from the cut backs.

✓ Agreed with local drug store owner Jack McCracken that there are too many laws many of which contradict each other. "I feel many of the federal laws should be allowed to expire and a review made of them periodically," Heinz said.

✓ When questioned about Cyril Wecht's attempt to unseat him, Heinz said he would stand on his record and not get involved in gutter politics.

✓ On the national budget, Heinz said most of the increase has been caused by inflation but heavy expenditures were necessary because the military was not combat-ready. He was especially critical of the nation's sea power and said money could be saved if the arms limitation agreement is reached with the Soviet Union. "We would not be required to build the MX missiles and the B-1 bombers if the president is successful in Geneva," Heinz said.

Strange Accident Kills 2

WAYNESBURG — Two Arlington, Va., men were killed early Sunday morning in an unusual accident on Interstate 79 near here that at first had authorities wondering how it happened.

Killed when they stepped into the path of an oncoming car were Khom Nou, 40, and Song Sour, 37, both of Arlington, Va. Nou was pronounced dead at the scene by deputy Greene County Coroner Charles Behm while Sour was dead on arrival at Greene County Memorial Hospital. Behm said both men died of multiple injuries. The two men were Cambodians.

The accident occurred at 5:30 a.m. Sunday on I-79 about one and a half miles north of the Waynesburg exit.

State police said, Nou and Sour, for an undetermined reason, stepped from the right-hand berm of the highway directly into the path of a car being driven by Richard Keith Nolan, 18, of Westover, W.Va. Police said Nolan was unable to avoid hitting the men. The impact threw Nou and Sour back onto the right-hand berm, investigating officers said.

Neither Nolan, or a passenger in his car, George Replogle of Buchanan, W.Va., were injured although Nolan's car, a 1982 Datsun coupe, was damaged to the extent that it had to be towed from the scene.

Behm said the victims' car was parked along the berm of the highway with its lights off. Their wives and families were traveling with them. He said the family members were too emotional following the accident to be questioned about why they had stopped their car or why the two men had stepped onto the roadway.

Later Sunday, after he had spoken with the wives, Behm said it appeared they had mechanical trouble with their car and stopped along the road berm.

Behm said he didn't expect an inquest to be held since there was no indication that Nolan's car had left the roadway when he struck the two men. It was still dark when the accident happened.

Trespass Summons Is Filed

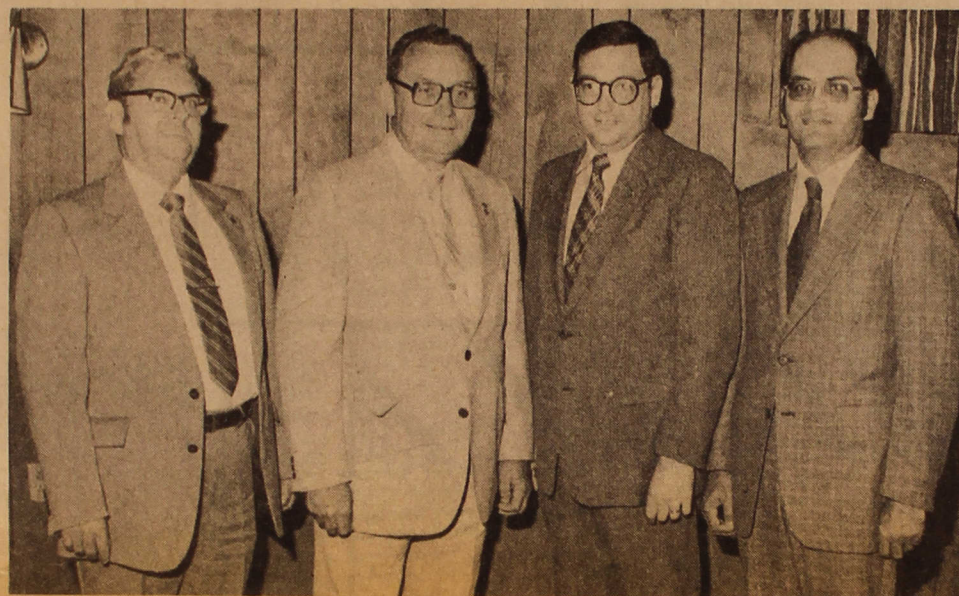

WAYNESBURG — Paul McGilton, whose wife was killed by a policeman's bullet earlier this year, has filed a summons in trespass in Greene County court naming borough officer Michael Fuller and Waynesburg Borough as defendants.

No formal complaint charging specifics was filed at this time.

McGilton filed the action as guardian of his children Paul Jr., Franklin R., Kimberly and John and as administrator of his late wife Celia's estate.

Mrs. McGilton was killed Jan. 16 when Patrolman Fuller fired two shots at Mr. McGilton and one of the bullet went through the wall and struck the woman who was out of sight. Fuller and another patrolman were answering a "man with a gun" complaint. Both officers claimed McGilton pointed a gun at them.

Fuller was subsequently charged and convicted of involuntary manslaughter but the jury verdict is currently under appeal. McGilton, who testified he was unarmed when the shots were fired, was convicted of simple assault and recklessly endangering during a non-jury trial. He too is appealing the verdict.

Rotary District Governor Visits Waynesburg Club

WAYNESBURG — Bernard Kelley of Brownsville, district governor for Rotary International, District 733, visited the Waynesburg club Monday as part of a tour of all clubs in his district which covers four counties in Southwestern Pennsylvania.

Kelley, installed as district governor in June, will serve until July, 1983 when he will be succeeded by local businessman Thomas Milinovich, a former president of the Waynesburg club.

Kelley was introduced by Robert Elliott, also of Brownsville, who is the district governor's representative to the clubs. Over 40 clubs in Greene, Fayette, Washington and Westmoreland counties comprise district 733.

In his comments to the Waynesburg Rotarians, Kelley urged them to "get back to basics" in their Rotary activities.

"We all recognize the economy has tightened in Southwestern Pennsylvania," Kelley told his listeners, "which means we must emphasize those things in Rotary which we can do well at no excessive demands on our collective abilities to meet the challenges which our clubs must set for themselves."

"Set your own goals," he continued. "If necessary, be more selective in choosing your goals but excel in meeting those goals."

Kelley touched on each of Rotary's "four avenues of service" — community, vocational, international and club service. He noted the unmatched success which Rotary has scored around the world in each of these avenues of service, citing scholarships for educational study abroad, the 3-H program, the Youth Exchange and many other programs "for which Rotary has become famous since its founding in 1905."

The district governor also placed emphasis on Rotary's role in sponsoring "fellowship programs in the interest of friendship and peace around the world." He urged the Waynesburg club to continue "your excellent record in this area of international relationships."

Susan Gardner of Waynesburg, recently returned from Australia, presented a club banner from the Rydalmore Rotary Club located in the western suburbs of Sydney. Susan, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gardner, spent a year in Australia where she attended Northmead High School and Muirfield High School, both near Sydney.

Waynesburg Will Enforce 10 P.M. Curfew

By Bob Eichenlaub Greene County Editor

WAYNESBURG — Mayor Roy Huffman and Police Chief Timothy Hawfield told Waynesburg Borough Council Monday that they plan to enforce of the curfew ordinance which is on the books but has been inoperative for a number of years.

It provides that all youths 16 years of age and younger be off the streets by 10 p.m. unless accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Enforcement will begin as soon as the borough officials have made arrangements for the fire company to sound the civil defense horn at 9:45 p.m. to warn youngsters of the time, giving them 15 minutes to get home.

"We should be able to make arrangements within the next day or two and then the enforcement will begin," Huffman said. He explained that violators could be subject to a $10 fine and costs of $36.

"We have a large number of juveniles roaming the streets late at night, which greatly increases the potential for mischief," Chief Hawfield said. "And we've been getting complaints from people about young people yelling obscenities and about other things they shouldn't have to tolerate."

Robert Romanosky, chairman of the borough zoning hearing board, attended the meeting to suggest that the zoning ordinance be amended to make "accessory uses" a conditional use in a single-family residential zone rather than a permitted use. The accessory use provision permits professional people to have an office in their home in a residential zone.

"Making it a conditional use would give us (zoning board) some control since we would then have to approve each case," Romanosky said.

The request was generated by con-

Co-Chairman Named

WAYNESBURG — Dr. Richard S. Cowan, chairman of the Committee to Re-elect Governor Dick Thornburgh in Greene County, has announced the appointment of Mrs. Inis Baily, 120 Colonial Drive, Waynesburg, as co-chairman of the committee.

He also announced that Walter Stout, Waynesburg R.D.1, has been named as finance chairman of the committee.

They, together with H. Leonard Frye, the Republican county chairman, will attend a Wednesday night dinner for campaign volunteers in Washington.

Cowan said that other volunteer chairmen will be announced in the near future.

troversy generated among a group of people who have been objecting to the establishment of a chiropractor's office in a house on East Greene Street, with the zoning board having ruled that it has no control under the ordinance as it is presently written. One of the residents subsequently appealed that ruling to the Greene County Court, where the case is now pending.

During the discussion, council suggested that a moratorium be placed on all "accessory use" applications until the court ruling has been handed down. It also discussed what members feel is a need for a complete review of the zoning ordinance, and asked that the zoning board chairman, planning commission chairman, borough manager and borough solicitor meet and prepare a recommendation as to what should be done.

"My opinion is that there are some serious loopholes which allow things to take place in a residential neighborhood which were never intended," Council President Glenn Richards said.

In another matter, Richards asked the personnel committee and manager to prepare a policy to regulate the manner in which employees are transported to and from job locations in borough vehicles.

Mobile Home Park Modules Approved

CARMICHAELS — Carmichaels-Cumberland Joint Sewer Authority met Tuesday and authorized its solicitor to renew assessment liens, approved a trailer park module plan, and heard a summary of inflow and infiltration work which has been done to reduce the effect of storm water on the sewerage system.

Solicitor James Hook reviewed some of the approximately 100 liens placed on properties for non-payment of front foot assessments. The liens were imposed in 1977 and can be revived in five years.

He noted that 80 percent of the original liens have been paid or deferred. The authority will insist on payment of liens still outstanding and will also charge 10 percent interest, instead of the original six percent, to cover costs.

Route 21 Homes Inc. presented planned modules for expansion of its trailer park, the former Hoge Mobile Village. The proposed expansion calls for 63 new units with five to 10 pads to be installed each year. The owners stated the pump station at the park has sufficient capacity to handle the expansion.

Plant superintendent Edgar Harris has asked the owners to verify the inflow and infiltration in the existing park lines by air testing the lines. The board approved the planned module, which will be submitted to the Department of Environmental Resources after the air tests have been completed.

Engineer Bruce Chambers presented a waste flow management report which was a summary of all work by the authority to date to reduce inflow and infiltration. The report was approved by the authority and will be submitted to DER.

The report contained graphs showing peak flows. Chambers noted that the Park View Knoll housing development had added 25,000 gallons per day to the system. The report predicts that over the next five years approximately 230 new units will be developed to increase input to the sewage treatment plant by 70,000 gallons per day.

The report shows that rehabilitation of the old sewer system has reduced the inflow and infiltration to a controllable level, but the problem still exists. The Ceylon Road pump station, which was recently completed with direct lines laid to the treatment plant, has satisfactorily reduced some of the problems, the engineer said. He added that the authority has expended large amounts of work and funds to control the storm water infiltration, and will continue to do so, but that resources are limited.

Superintendent Harris reported on the heavy rainfalls on July 2 and 3, stating there was no overflow in any pump station and no flooding or backups in the system.

Waynesburg Office Of Signal Closed

WAYNESBURG — For the second time this year, a loan company has closed its Waynesburg office. The latest to close had been in the community 45 years.

Signal Consumer Discount Company, a Philadelphia National Financial Services company, moved accounts, employees and office equipment to the firm's office in Washington Plaza, Washington.

Beneficial moved from Waynesburg Plaza earlier this year.

Signal established an office in Waynesburg in 1937.

Its employees, including Sandra L. Stickle, who has been with the firm for 25 years, and John Frazier, office manager, were transferred to the Washington office. Another employee was sent to the firm's Dormont office.

Forms Available

WAYNESBURG — Larry Marshall, manager for the Greene County Fair, has announced that entry forms for this year's Demolition Derby are available at several stores in Waynesburg.

The derby is scheduled for Saturday evening, August 14.

The stores are: Morgan Auto Supply Inc., Route 21, east of Waynesburg; Hinerman Automotive Inc., East Greene Street; and Genuine Parts Co. of W.Va., East High Street.

More Free Cheese

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Food Bank was notified Wednesday that it will receive another shipment of government surplus cheese on Monday, July 19.

The cheese will be distributed that day, starting at 1:30 p.m., through centers set up at the county fairgrounds in Waynesburg, the fire hall in Rogersville, the Glade's Hill Community Chapel in Carmichaels and, if possible, at a location in Mt. Morris.

"We are looking for some agency or group which would be willing to handle the Mt. Morris distribution," Barbara Coccari of Waynesburg said, adding that she can be contacted at 627-9784 during office hours or at resurfacing of Walnut Street on the basis of its low bid of $6,352.

Farley Toothman of Waynesburg submitted an offer of $2,515 to purchase a borough lot on the northeast corner of East Franklin and North Cumberland streets, stipulating that his bid included the appraisal fee, transfer taxes and recorder's fee. Council deferred action on the offer until clarification can be obtained, 451-8252 in the evening.

Mrs. Coccari, who is employed by Catholic Social Services, coordinates the distribution for the Food Bank. She said the shipment will consist of 1,200 five-pound blocks of processed American cheese.

She said the cheese will be given out on a first-come basis, noting that the supply was exhausted within one hour when the last distribution was held.

Persons who are eligible to receive the cheese are those on public assistance, those who receive Supplemental Security Income (SSI), and those with low incomes who face crises situations. No family can receive more than one five-pound block.

Yet they tell me that among the men who build our skyscrapers "it's all in a day's work." Marvelous how humanity rises to every challenge! Someone is ready to answer every call!

God, who created us, is the source of man's courage and strength. Each of us faces challenges that require all the boldness and resourcefulness He has given.

When I worship and when I pray each day I don't ask God for the ability to do another man's job. I ask Him for whatever it takes to fulfill my own responsibilities. And I bring to Him earnestly the needs of my family—and of all men everywhere.

Diana Eckerd Bride Of Kim R. Wagner

Diana Eckerd and Kim R. Wagner were married at 6:30 p.m., Saturday, June 26, 1982, in the First Presbyterian Church of Waynesburg.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. John Eckerd of Waynesburg R.D.3. John Wagner of Greensboro and Matilda Wagner of Glendale, Calif., are parents of the groom.

The Rev. David Barrett performed the double ring ceremony. Nelson Fox was the organist and Kim Weaver and Bebe Harding were soloists.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown. It featured a high neckline of silk venise lace trimmed in pearls and a sheer yoke of English netting. The bodice was trimmed in silk venise lace and pearls and the full bishop sleeves of netting were embroidered with schiffli lace. The deep cuffs were also embroidered. The drop waistline on the gathered full satin skirt was enhanced with schiffli embroidery. Both it and the chapel train had a scalloped hemline. Her headpiece was a wreath of baby's breath and stephanotis attached to English netting. She carried a bouquet of white roses tipped in pink, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy.

Annabel Clark of Milwaukee, Wis., was maid of honor. Attendants were Donna Pazzula of Pittsburgh, the bride's cousin, and Jonna Shultz, Brenda Smith and Lynne Speelman, all of Waynesburg. They wore pink satin gowns.

Mike Bock of Waynesburg served as best man. Ushers were Bill Harding, John Eckerd, the bride's brother; Bob Harding and Jay Buckhalter, all of Waynesburg.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 200 guests was held at the Waynesburg Moose Lodge. Kim Mahle was in charge of the bride's book.

The bride is a 1979 graduate of Waynesburg Central High School and is employed at Shop 'N' Save in Waynesburg. The groom is a 1974 graduate of Mapletown High School and is employed as a hydraulic mechanic at Hydra Service.

GARC Board Takeover Raises Many Questions

The manner in which a new group of people took over control of the Greene County Association for Retarded Citizens (GARC) raises a lot of questions about the future of the agency, which provides services to adults through its West Waynesburg Opportunity Center and to children through its Community Living Arrangements program.

Most of the members of the former board were ousted through a strategy devised by a former Opportunity Center director to take advantage of a clause in the agency's by-laws. He recruited people to sign up as new members at the GARC annual meeting, which gave them the right to vote for board members.

Since only a few members had attended what was expected to be a routine meeting, the new group comprised a clear majority which was able to propose and elect its own slate of directors and officers.

Principal questions center around the motivation for the action.

The former Opportunity Center director was dismissed from his post last year on the grounds that he could not relate to other staff members. He has since filed a complaint about the action with the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission.

In recruiting his backers, he cited a number of things which he felt were wrong with the program in relation to the way in which staff dealt with GARC clients. At its first meeting, the new board indicated it will make a complete study of the program and the way in which it is administered.

The test will lie with the way the new board deals with the obvious conflict between the GARC executive director and the former Opportunity Center director.

If it can make its judgments objectively and in a way which establishes confidence among families being served by the agency, the program probably won't suffer. But if the board embarks on any "house cleaning" campaign so far as administration and staff is concerned, it will lose its credibility and the retarded children and adults who are being served will be the ones to suffer.

Reply To Letter

To The Editor:

As a member of the Waynesburg Volunteer Fire Company and also as a resident of this community, I feel that I should make a reply to the recent letter from Mr. Nelson Miller to your newspaper.

Mr. Miller attempted to outline the priorities of the fire department in regard to ambulance service to the area and a barbeque pit that will be built jointly by us and our neighbors, the Waynesburg Moose Club. I feel that since Mr. Miller is neither a present member of our department, nor was he at the meeting at which both subjects — the advanced life support system for our ambulance and the barbeque pit — were discussed, he at least should have the courtesy to get his information right before he flies off to the typewriter.

The fire company did not vote to sacrifice the emergency care and well-being of the people it serves to make way for "chicken," as was stated. We simply decided to table any action on the purchase of a very advanced, expensive piece of equipment until we could consult with experts in the field, such as Dr. Stanley Falor and others, as to the feasibility of such equipment in our ambulances.

The system that is being studied is one that takes medical command to use in the field. At this time we have two people capable of taking these commands, but the local hospital and doctors also must also their consent and leadership to the program.

At this date we don't have all the details or paperwork on either end ready to implement such a service. I want to stress again that even if we had the equipment today we would not be able to use it without the consent and command of the local hospital and, particularly, the emergency room doctor on call at that time.

We at the Waynesburg Volunteer Fire Company and Ambulance Service do try, and have done so in the past, to give the community of Waynesburg and surrounding area the best and most advanced fire and ambulance service possible. We are all volunteers who give of our time and talents freely when called on to do so.

It saddens us all when one of our former members decides to create a situation that appears to shadow our one purpose for being in the community; that is "Service to Others."

Lauded For Service

To The Editor:

Greene County residents are very fortunate in having a citizen endowed with the integrity, knowledge and dedication of Miss Betty Walker. She has served this area well in many ways over the years.

In addition to her other services to the community, she has been managing and supervising the Central Swimming Pool in Waynesburg for the past 30 years. She has taught hundreds of people to swim and to save their lives and the lives of others in the water. She is unexcelled.

Miss Walker also teaches and instructs others in teaching first aid and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation. She attends special conferences regularly and is aware of all of the latest methods in these fields, as well as in water safety. She has a degree from Pennsylvania State University in pool management to go with her many years of on-the-job experience.

Her good management and insistence on strict enforcement of water safety rules has kept the Central Pool accident-free for all of these years. Miss Walker also presently oversees and advises management of the county pool in Carmichaels. During the school year she manages the indoor pool at Waynesburg Central High School.

Young people working under Miss Walker's supervision are, as is she, dedicated, responsible and well-adjusted individuals. They go ahead in life more mature and better equipped to meet challenges because of her influence.

Miss Walker runs and repairs most of the machinery at the pools. Her ability at this phase of the operation was learned under the guidance of her father, Bill Walker, who was city engineer in Altoona and Belfonte for many years.

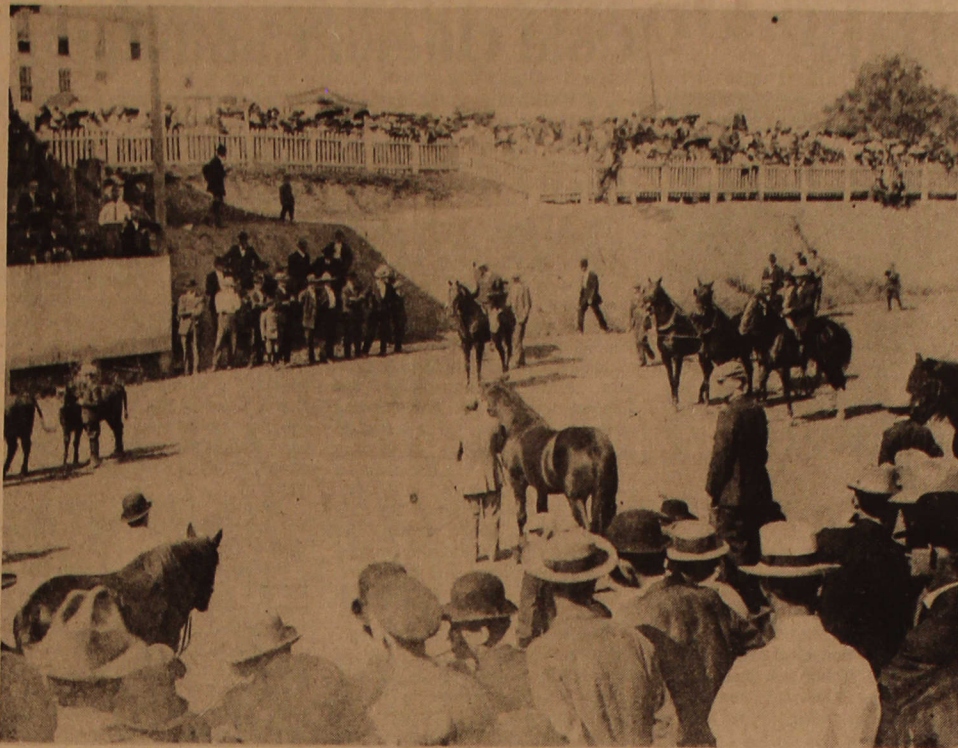

She and her staff members at both pools keep these recreational facilities attractive and immaculate at all times.

A few misguided, unthinking persons are inclined to complain about the strict enforcement of rules and regulations. Evidently they do not realize that these very rules are for their own safety and protection.

Miss Walker deserves the thanks, respect and acclaim which she has so justly earned. The county commissioners and the recreation board can indeed be proud of this employee who has done and is doing so much for the people of Greene County.

Favors Band-Aids

To The Editor:

Recently I openly applauded the addition of a paramedic to personnel of the Waynesburg Volunteer Fire Department and Ambulance Service.

I sincerely believed that Waynesburg's time had come and that quality pre-hospital care would be greatly enhanced with the paramedic and additional equipment.

But I was deeply saddened to learn that at a recent meeting a choice of either purchasing a heart monitor-defibrillator, which could help to sustain life until an extended care facility could be reached, or construct a barbeque pit, came before the department. The approximate cost of each, $1,500.

The fire department voted to allocate the money toward construction of the barbeque pit, but tabled the advance life support equipment purchase.

I only hope that the fire department will weigh again whether the community could benefit most with barbeque chicken dinners or quality pre-hospital care administered by well trained paramedics.

On my menu of decisions, hold the chicken dinners; pass the Band-Aids.

Fact and Folklore

John O'Hara

It was Rudyard Kipling who said it first — and best — when he penned his immortal poem, "The Ballad of East and West," the punch line of which was "Oh East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet."

For years and years it was accepted as the basic truth of Oriental and Occidental thinking and, in a different sort of way, was accepted as basic differences between the men who have gone underground or stayed on the surface in working in the coal mines of Greene County.

Actually, however, the original coal miners in Greene County included many natives who live around the village of Rices Landing, where the county's first mine was started by the Dilworth family of Pittsburgh. The coal outcropped at that point and no deep shaft was necessary to reach it.

Just prior to World War I, the Crucible Steel Co. opened the county's first deep mine at nearby Crucible and erected the first "coal town" of row houses that were as identical as the pods in a pea patch.

Several hundred immigrants from central and southern Europe were brought to Greene County to work in the mine and live in the county's first coal town, where the homes have long since been purchased by their occupants.

Gradually the county mining industry started to unfold with opening of the mine at Nemaocolin by the Buckeye Coal Co., a subsidiary of Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and the mine at Mather by the Pickands Mather Corp. of Cleveland.

Buckeye's model coal community of Nemaocolin was built coincidentally with opening of the mine during World War I and the town of Mather, also a planned coal community, came into being shortly thereafter. Up until that time, most of Greene County's vast underground caches of energy had remained intact under its cover of five or six hundred feet of earth.

Years later, following World War II, U. S. Steel's vast Robena complex in Monongahela Township was created to become at that time the world's largest underground bituminous operation.

As mine after mine was opened, the county's original identity as a pastoral area as pristine as the Blue Grass regions of Kentucky and the vast prairies of the western states began to pass.

On a much smaller but just as fascinating scale, the same real life scenario of men and machinery will be played out in the northwestern corner of Greene County within the next few years as Consolidation Coal Co. carries out its plan to develop a complex of mines in Richhill Township. The first of them, the Baily mine at the village of Enon, is already under construction, just a whoop and a holler from the West Virginia panhandle.

Richhill is virtually the last bastion of rural Greene County — the home of the famous Jacktown Fair which is the oldest in the United States on the basis of continuous yearly presentations.

It reeks with the folklore of early America and is the place where Burt Lancaster made his professional debut as a member of an acrobatic team at the conclusion of his senior year at an eastern college.

The Jacktown Fair was the last one in Pennsylvania to have its own horse traders alley but which has long since gone to be replaced with displays of "four on the floor" type sporty automobiles.

AROUND TOWN

By THE STAFF

Arthur and Virgil (Lawrence) Finch, formerly of Greene County and now of Mt. Clemens, Mich., were among those who attended the wedding of Marsha Dembo, daughter of former residents William and Dorothy Parker Dembo of Vienna, Va. last week in Vienna. Also attending were Haven and Bettie Calvert and Victor and Dottie DeWeese of Waynesburg.

Two of Greene County's oldest Methodist congregations will hold a joint centennial celebration this weekend. Both churches, at Nineveh and Hopewell, were organized back in the days of the circuit-riding preacher. Food, fellowship and worship will be offered on Saturday and Sunday at both churches.

Mrs. Lucinda Greenlee of Bonar Addition and an ad salesman for the Greene County office of the Observer-Reporter, has returned home after visiting with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Norris and family of Rockport, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis of Jefferson have returned home after vacationing this past week at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. George Bumgardner of Chambersburg. Dr. Bumgardner retired last year as a family physician in Orbesonia. His wife is the former Ruth Davis of Waynesburg who was a registered nurse in Pittsburgh. They will continue to live in Chambersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. James Maxwell of Waynesburg have returned home following an European vacation. They were in Brussels when the World Cup Soccer tournament was ended and reported police had to be called out to control the celebrating crowds.

For Republican readers now living in other areas of the United States, it will probably be a surprise to learn that building a hay stack is now practically a lost art in Greene County and that virtually all of the crop is now baled.

Waynesburg College lost one of its most loyal graduates last week with the death of J. Ray Johnson, 73, who died in a fall at his home in Long Island, N.Y. His teaching career started in Uniontown in 1929 but most of his career was spent in Long Island. His brother, Homer of near Blacksburg, was also a teacher, mostly at Blacksburg, W.Va.

Between The Bookends

Marcia McKenna Biddle

"Syzygy" looks and sounds like something out of a spelling bee. Instead, it's the name chosen for a new enterprise—a small newsletter for artists and arts organizations. Actually, it's so small the editor refers to it as "an underground rag." That appellation is also misleading, since it is (honest) strictly legitimate.

The editor is Joan Stern, an artist from Blair County, who believes that artists too often are isolated from each other. "What we lack is a sense of community," she said in Syzygy's first issue. "Syzygy", she said, "means joined together. What we hope to provide is a forum—a place for discussion, for argument... a place where one man's problems concern us all."

Mrs. Stern therefore talked some of her friends out of some money and has now produced three issues—on her own, with many articles provided by artists and arts administrators around the state.

In the first issue, an article discussed the problems of "quality control" at arts festivals. Another issue had the background on the new pavilions at this year's Three Rivers Arts Festival.

An article from the Westmoreland Arts and Heritage Festival contained suspense, in telling of their planning for a sculpture garden and their application for a grant to support it. But then—they didn't get the grant. Oh, well, they said, they decided to go ahead with the project anyway. They were still trying to figure out how to do that when the article was written.

A report from the Lehigh Valley claimed that during the formation of their Arts Council, "Personalities clashed and egos bounced around the room at breakneck speed." After some initial successes, they had a let-down. "The Council lay dormant, wrought with inner strife, a lack of funds, and a sense of indecision as to future direction."

And you thought you had problems. According to Syzygy, you're not alone. Think of all those egos bouncing around Lehigh County.

Somerset County came up with some desperate fund-raising suggestions. The first was to "kidnap wealthy members' small pets and hold them for ransom." And, "The Honeyworth Prison Arts Center reports that they have had success with a fund-raising activity entitled: "Your money or your wife."

Somebody else suggested equally desperate publicity ideas, which included applying for a grant for a monkey: "You probably won't be able to get on television to publicize your event, but the monkey will. Don't call him Bonzo. Too obvious."

And, seriously, each issue contains news of artists, Arts Councils, and art events from all around the state. Beyond the news, correspondents are always getting into arguments on issues such as writing grant applications. From Pittsburgh came the opinion that arts groups are too dependent on grants. And from a member of the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts came a lecture on writing better grants. This was printed along with a lecture from an artist directed at the State Council and its distribution of funds.

Lonely artists, festival directors and arts groups can get on Syzygy's mailing list by writing to Syzygy, MR 205, Roaring Spring, PA 16673.

Police Plan Operation: ID

WAYNESBURG — The Waynesburg Borough Police Department, in conjunction with the state Crime Watch program, has a limited number of engraving devices available for local residents.

The electric markers will be loaned free of charge to residents who wish to engrave an identification number on such valuables as bicycles, cameras, musical instruments, stereos, typewriters and other items.

Free stickers will be given to those who mark their valuables. The stickers should be placed on exterior doors or windows to warn housebreakers that all valuables on the premises are marked for easy identification.

Crime Watch officials recommend engraving your Pennsylvania operator's license number which can be checked in seconds with police computers.

The engraving tool will be loaned on a first-come, first-served basis from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday at the police station.

The engraver can be used on wood, ceramic and glass, in addition to metal.

Elderhostel To Open Sunday At Waynesburg College

WAYNESBURG — Elderhostel, the nationally acclaimed program of low cost, short-term academic program for older students, will begin this Sunday, July 18, at Waynesburg College.

Election Workers May Get Slight Pay Increases

WAYNESBURG — Most of the people who staff Greene County's 48 polling places will receive slight increases in compensation as a result of action taken Thursday by the Greene County commissioners.

The proposal was suggested by County Commissioner L. R. Santore because the election board officers, who are elected officials, cannot benefit during their current terms of office from recent state legislation which increases by $10 the maximum amounts which the county is authorized to pay.

"The new law (Act 108) became effective July 4 but the polling place officials were elected in May and are barred by the constitution from receiving the pay increases it provides until they are re-elected four years from now," Santore said. "But by changing the system under which they are currently being paid we can at least give them a little more money, and they will be entitled to the increased mileage allowance and ballot delivery fees included in the new law."

The action affects close to 250 persons since there are six people involved in each voting precinct. They include three elected officials (judge of election, majority inspector and minority inspector), two clerks and a constable.

Their pay scale depends upon the number of votes cast in an election. The judge of election receives $50 and the other staff members $45 when less than 150 votes are cast. If the number of ballots falls between 151 and 300, the pay increases to $55 and $50, respectively. And when more than 500 votes are cast, compensation is $60 for the judge of election and $55 for others on the board.

Under Santore's plan, the lowest category is eliminated and the county will pay $55 to the judge of election and $50 to other board members where less than 300 votes are cast. If the number of ballots exceeds 300, they will receive $60 and $55, respectively.

"What it will mean is that most of the election board officers will be getting an additional $5," Santore said.

In addition, the judge of election and minority inspector will receive an additional $6 for delivering election returns to county headquarters at Waynesburg after they have completed the vote count. They have been receiving $3.50. The person who provides the car for the trip will receive 20 cents a mile, which is double the amount provided before Act 108 was passed.

"The car allowance and mileage provided by the new law does not fall into the category of compensation, so the elected officials are entitled to receive it even though they can't benefit from the salary provisions of the act," Santore explained.

Both Commissioners Joseph Pawlosky and Richard Cowan agreed with Santore's proposal and adopted the change, which will be in effect for the general election in November.

In other action at the meeting, the commissioners approved a proposal involving adult services block grants which Greene and Washington Counties will receive from the Department of Welfare for the 1982-83 fiscal year.

Henry Fiumelli, Washington County director of human services, explained that the Mon Valley Health and Welfare Council will make a needs assessment study to determine priority uses for the $139,000 which will be available in the two-county area. Information provided by the study will be used in preparing a proposal which must be submitted to the Department of Welfare by October.

The commissioners named two of the three members who will represent Greene County on a 12-member bi-county Human Services Commission which will work with Fiumelli in administering the program. Those named were Al Jarek of Waynesburg R.D.2, who is director of social services at Washington Hospital, and District Magistrate John Watson of Holbrook. A third member will be named within the next few weeks.

The commissioners were notified that the Bureau of Aviation of the Department of Transportation has approved an increase in the amount the county will receive for taxivans constructed last year at the Greene County Airport. With the change, $90,981 will be provided by the federal government and $5,505 each by the state and county.

Representatives of Route 21

Mobile Homes and Continental Builders met with the commissioners to present plans for a commercial-type modular building to house the office of District Magistrate Ruth Hughes, currently located in a mobile home in the parking lot at the airport.

County Commissioners Joseph Pawlosky stressed that the county has not solicited proposals and has no definite plans for replacing the existing facility, with no more than preliminary discussions having been held in the matter.

"Any change would require court approval and we are merely thinking about the possibilities at this stage," he said.

Sunday Golfers Play

JEFFERSON — The golf course at the Greene Country Country Club over the weekend was dominated by the club's male membership while members of the Women's Golf Association traveled to Wheeling, W.Va., and Oglebay Park's Speidel Golf Course.

College Awarded

WAYNESBURG — The Pennsylvania Energy Center (PEC) in Pittsburgh has named Waynesburg College as the "energy saver of the month."

The college is attempting to supply its own fuel by drilling into multiple coal veins for methane production. The college estimates it has saved over $12,000 on last year's fuel bill.

Officials To Help Raise Money

WAYNESBURG — A number of local and county officials, area personalities, businessmen and others in Waynesburg and from Greene County will soon be placed under arrest.

On what charge? Certainly not failure to have a heart, according to the American Heart Association, Southwestern Pennsylvania Chapter.

The local residents will be jailed on July 29 in an outdoor "cell" during the Waynesburg Rain Day festivities until they are able to raise bail in a new fund raising event for the Greene County Heart Campaign-Jail Bail.

Each of the accused will try to raise bail set at $300 by telephoning potential bondsmen, in the form of donors, who will most likely be their friends and co-workers. Their pledges to free them — or to keep them jailed — will be accepted by volunteers at the jail on July 29.

The public is invited to stop by the jail site on Rain Day between noon and 8 p.m. and participate in the fun. Pledges may be called to 627-9404 and proceeds will help support the Heart Association's research, education and community service programs.

For additional details contact the Greene County Steering Committee chairman Petey Carlson at 627-5634.

Township Adopts Road

WAYNESBURG — Takeover by Perry Township of three miles of state highway was completed Wednesday when the Greene County Court approved the action.

Under an agreement between the township supervisors and the state Department of Transportation, the township has accepted responsibility for maintenance of a section of Route 30018 (Little Shannon Road) and has also agreed to gradually upgrade the condition of the road over the next four years, using $125,000 provided by PennDOT.

The agreement was negotiated under terms of Act 81 of 1980, which makes it possible for the Transportation Department to return to local municipalities state legislative routes which carry low volumes of traffic, with the provision that the state provide the money needed to place the roads in good condition.

The road is then added to the township system and becomes eligible for annual state reimbursement to assist with its future maintenance.

The $125,000 will be used to clean drainage ditches, replace 10 cross pipes, do manual patching, and put on a binder course and double seal on the road surface.

Her Reign Day Almost Over

WAYNESBURG — Kimberly Huffman's reign as Miss Rain Day 1981 is coming to a close.

Her last official duty will be to crown her successor at the 1982 Miss Rain Day Pageant which the Greater Waynesburg Area Chamber of Commerce will hold at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, July 18, in the Waynesburg Central High School auditorium.

The past year has been an active one for Miss Huffman. Her responsibilities as Miss Rain Day have taken her to many parts of Greene County as official ambassador from Waynesburg.

As a dancer and model, Miss Huffman performed at the Carmichaels Community Days and at the fall and spring fashion shows sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Waynesburg Special Events Commission. She greeted and congratulated many individuals from around the country at the Greene County Horse Show when, as part of her official duties, she presented ribbons to class winners.

Miss Huffman is a February graduate of the Barbizon School of Modeling and will attend Waynesburg College in the fall.

KIMBERLY HUFFMAN

Surcharge Issue To Be Aired In Court

WAYNESBURG — Issues involved in the Wayne Township surcharge case will be aired in Greene County Court on Wednesday, July 21.

Through the surcharge, the Wayne Township board of auditors is seeking to recover varying amounts from the three township supervisors who left office on Dec. 31, 1981. Their claim against George M. Adams, John G. Jenkins and Robert L. Simpson totals $18,089, covering alleged discrepancies found during the audit of 1981 accounts.

In a development this week, the auditors asked the court to permit incorporation of an additional $13,398 in the claimed surcharge. Members of the present board of supervisors — Charles J. Raber, Charles E. Tedrow and Kenneth R. Kerr — claim the additional money should be collected to cover improper expenditures of $5,860 from the state liquid fuels fund for the purchase of reddog and $7,538 from the machinery fund for a wide variety of items and services.

The auditors pointed out that in their original surcharge they made note of the fact they had noticed "many other cases of mismanagement but were unable to obtain sufficient information about them to include them in the surcharge." The matters brought up by the present supervisors, they state, are covered by this general statement.

All three members of the former board of supervisors have filed exceptions to the surcharge. They contend, among other things, that the auditors' allegations are not based on sufficient or credible evidence; are vague, unintelligible and impossible to interpret as to their legal validity; are based on supposition; are based on superficial investigation; and fail to allege specific and individual liability.

In light of the conflicting claims, Judge Glenn Toothman has ordered that the case be scheduled for argument, "on all of the issues."

Cyclist Injured

WAYNESBURG — Steve Curtison, 25, of Pittsburgh, received chest and head injuries when he was thrown from the motorcycle he was riding when he lost control and hit a tree, state police reported.

Curtison was given emergency treatment at Greene County Memorial Hospital before being transferred to Presbyterian Hospital in Pittsburgh where he was admitted in satisfactory condition.

The accident happened at 2 p.m. Saturday on LR 30050 in Morgan Township, about six miles north of Waynesburg. Investigating officers said Curtison was thrown from the motorcycle into several trees.

Wind Ridge Man Fined, Sentenced

WAYNESBURG — A 30-year-old Wind Ridge man was sentenced in Greene County Court Friday on charges of indecent assault.

Alan J. Lavigne was ordered to pay a $200 fine and received a two-year suspended jail sentence in a plea bargain arrangement. As part of that arrangement, Lavigne has volunteered to seek help in the Mental Health/Mental Retardation program.

Wendy Hamel Wise, Waynesburg R.D.1, from Larry Neil Wise, Waynesburg R.D.4. They were married March 29, 1974, and have two children.

Main Library Will Be Painted

Library Addition Nears Completion

CARMICHAELS — The two-room addition to the Flenniken Memorial Library in Carmichaels is nearing completion. The library board members, who met Tuesday evening, volunteered to paint the interior rooms in the main library to correspond with the new addition. Painting will begin at 9 a.m. Wednesday, July 22.

The board announced that handicapped persons may use the library's new ramp at their own risk until the addition is opened to the general public. The board asked that handicapped persons notify the library prior to their visit, to ensure that a path is clear into the main library.

The board announced that 50 folding chairs will be purchased for use in the new community room. The children's department will be furnished with shelving, tables, and chairs which were used in the former children's room.

Librarian Ruth Mecera reported that book circulation in June totaled 2,515 with 46 new registrations. She also reported that three volunteers worked 20 hours and that the library's booth at the sidewalk sale attracted 110 children to make Father's Day cards.

The summer reading club, with the theme "Welcome to Your World" is in progress at the library.

WAYNESBURG — A food service teacher was hired to fill a one-year vacancy and salary increases for the administration, licensed practical nursing department, clerical and maintenance and custodial employees were approved Thursday night by the Greene County Vocational-Technical School's Joint Operating Committee.

Carol A. Tanner, of Carmichaels, was hired as a food service teacher to fill a vacancy for the coming school year created by a sabbatical leave of Dorothy Kopanic. Mrs. Tanner is a 1976 graduate of Indiana University of Pennsylvania with a degree in home economics. Her salary was set $11,850, base salary for beginning teachers.

With the exception of student teaching in the food service area, she has had no teaching experience. She has been employed in various positions in a fast food restaurant as well as a full service restaurant, has done catering for large events and is currently head cashier for a Waynesburg area variety store.

The following salary increases for the 1982-83 school year were approved: Norman Waldman, school director, $1,400 increase to $32,750; Francis Greesly, supervisor, $1,400 to $25,400; Jean Ingram, bookkeeper, $1,000 to $11,000, and as Joint Operating Committee non-member secretary, $50 to $800; Winifred Riggen, secretary, $1,000 to $8,625; Marilyn Whiting, secretary, $1,000 to $9,600.

William Swan, maintenance supervisor, $975 to $12,000; Eva Kennedy, custodian, 50 cents per hour to $4.60 per hour; William Haney, custodian, 50 cents per hour to $4.50 per hour.

Sara Jacobs, licensed practical nursing program coordinator, $828 to $17,389; Joan Clites, LPN instructor, $675 to $14,175; Marcella Watson, $700 to $14,715; Louise Cooley, LPN part time secretary, 20 cents per hour to $3.70 per hour; Sharon Hall, LPN department, $1 per hour to $7 per hour.

The salary of $2,400 for the chief school administrator remained the same. The position of chief school administrator rotates on a three-year basis among the superintendents of the five participating school districts and is currently held by Kenneth Macek, superintendent of the Jefferson-Morgan School District.

The committee approved purchase of new textbooks for the electrical class. The school will purchase 20 textbooks each of Electricity I and Electricity II, Devices, Circuits, Materials at $4.05 each.

A letter from Joan Clites, an LPN instructor, informing the board she will be requesting a sabbatical leave in January.

Accident Victim's Widow Files Suit

WAYNESBURG — The widow of a man who died of injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident has filed suit against everyone involved in the construction of a highway median strip near Carmichaels, claiming its design was the cause of the accident.

The action, asking damages "in excess of $10,000," was filed in Greene County Court Tuesday by Sharon Yvonne Mayfield of Smithfield, acting for herself and in behalf of her two children, Joseph Jr. and Malissa.

Her husband, Joseph Mayfield Sr., died May 26, 1980, as the result of injuries suffered in an accident at 3:15 a.m. on May 17. The motorcycle he was riding struck a median strip on Route 88, at the entrance to the Paisley Industrial Park south of Carmichaels.

Named as defendants are the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation; Greene Industrial Industrial Developments Inc., as owners of the park; J. Robert Kimball, the firm which designed the highway median; Cumberland Township, where it is located; and Greene Acres Construction Co.

3 Injured In Crash

Three people were treated for minor injuries Friday afternoon following a three-vehicle accident in Franklin Township on Route 21.

Troopers said a vehicle driven by Margaret Toth of Clarksville struck the rear of a car operated by Rebecca Bargerstock of Greensboro. The Bargerstock car then struck the rear of a car operated by John Hanna Jr. of Clarksville that was stopped for a traffic light.

Bargerstock and a passenger in her vehicle, Joan Owens of Waynesburg, and a passenger in the Hanna car, Tracy Hanna, were treated for minor injuries at Greene County Memorial Hospital.

Minor damage was reported to the Toth and Hanna vehicles. The Bargerstock car sustained moderate damage.
