Then There Will Be Light

David Jones, right, and Charley Beerenes, prepare one of the bank of lights Wednesday which are scheduled to be raised this morning at the Waynesburg Central High School football field. It will allow the school to play its Friday game with Albert Gallatin at night. This will be the first home game under the lights for the school since 1971 when the team played its home games on the Waynesburg College field. Lights there have since been removed. The lighting system consists of four 71-foot, weathered steel poles, each holding a bank of 10 light fixtures with 1,500 watt bulbs. It is being installed at a cost of $88,000, with $80,000 coming from a windfall property transfer tax from a coal mine sale and $8,000 donated by a local quarterback club.

Zoning Board Refuses To Act On Request For Shed

By Bob Eichenlaub, Greene County Editor

WAYNESBURG — The Waynesburg Zoning Hearing Board refused to act Monday on a request for a variance from a tenant of the Greene County Housing Authority, who has placed a metal storage shed on the lawn in the rear of his dwelling at 174 West Elm Street.

The request came from Challen G. Matthews, who told the board that no storage facilities are provided and that the accessory building would prevent, rather than create, an eyesore. The variance is required because the placement of the building does not meet side-yard requirements.

Louis DeMola, housing authority executive director, was at the meeting. He demanded that the building be removed because it violates the authority lease.

"I agree that there is a lack of storage facilities, but there are regulations designed to maintain the attractiveness of the properties and if we permit one tenant to violate them, all tenants might want to do the same thing and then we would have an eyesore," he said.

The zoning board ruled that it could not grant the variance since the request came from a leasor rather than from the owner of the property.

"The only way we could act on this is if the request for the variance came from the housing authority," board Chairman Robert Romanosky said.

In action at the meeting, the board granted permission to Joanne D. Rush to operate an antique shop in the basement of a building at Greene and Morris streets, where the office of her husband, Dr. Calvin Rush, is located. The entrance to the shop will be off Morris Street, opposite the post office.

Ralph Wilson was given permission to pave a portion of his property at 329 East Franklin Street to provide parking for three cars, provided he obtains a letter from a neighbor that she has no objection.

Dr. Edward Balaban was granted permission to construct a concrete block garage on the rear of his property at 168 East High Street, with the garage to front on the alley south of High Street.

A request from Edward M. Poach for permission to remodel a building at 148 South Cumberland Street for use as offices for a professional tenant was turned down. The board explained that it had no authority to grant such a variance since the building is in an R-1 (single family) zone.

Carl Shultz was given permission to locate a garage on Point Alley, at the rear of his property on Braden Street, provided that an adjoining property owner has no objection to his failure to meet the full 20-foot side-yard requirement.

David Blue was given permission to add a 10-foot addition to a garage at the rear of his property at 172 Locust Alley.

Gerald Manolas of Waynesburg met with the board to explain that he has complied with regulations regarding a house he owns on South East Street, where at one time he had four apartments. It has now been converted into a two-apartment building and considerable improvements have been made.

The board, which earlier had levied a $500 fine against him for violating the zoning ordinance, said that the fine would stand but Manolas was given until Jan. 1 to pay it off.

Lawsuit Dismissed

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Court Wednesday dismissed a lawsuit brought against the Southeastern Greene School District on behalf of a Mapletown High School football player who was injured in practice.

The suit had been filed by Victor Shine of Greensboro on behalf of his son, Joseph Shine, who suffered the injuries two years ago. The basis of the action was that the school district had failed to provide sufficient insurance coverage to cover the cost of medical expenses.

In his ruling Wednesday, Judge Glenn Toothman sustained the school

Money For Pensions Allocated

HARRISBURG — Three Greene County municipalities will receive a total of $56,786 as part of a statewide distribution of more than $43 million for police pension purposes.

State Treasurer R. Budd Dwyer said Carmichaels Borough will receive $3,055, Waynesburg Borough $21,289, and Cumberland Township $32,422.

Dwyer said the funds come from the two percent tax on premiums collected from foreign (out-of-state) casualty insurance companies, as provided for in legislation enacted in 1943. Funds currently being distributed are for tax year 1981.

The law authorizing the allocations says the funds are to go to municipalities in which provision is made for a police pension fund, for the payment of pension, retirement or disability benefits to police officers or their dependents.

Man Trapped By Tractor

WIND RIDGE — A 79-year-old man who was trapped under the wheel of a farm tractor for three hours Friday suffered extensive burns of the left leg from the heat of the vehicle's exhaust system.

John Iams of Westminster, Md., owner of a farm on Hopewell Ridge, was reported in satisfactory condition in Greene County Memorial Hospital, where he was transported by the Richhill Township Fire Company ambulance.

Fire Chief Rex Rohm said the injured man's nephew called the fire company at 7 p.m. after finding his uncle in a field when he did not come to the house for dinner. The accident happened about 3 p.m.

According to the fire chief, Iams got off the tractor to open a field gate. When the tractor ran away, he attempted to stop it and was knocked down. It was stopped by the fence, but one of the back wheels came to rest on his leg, trapping it under the tractor at a point where hot air from the exhaust pipe blew on the leg.

Rohm said the tractor's engine was still running when Iams was found.

"He was in surprisingly good spirits considering the ordeal he went through," the fire chief said. "His leg was pretty badly blistered."

At the hospital, it was reported that the leg was not fractured but that Iams would probably be kept overnight for observation.

Coaches Ordered To Walk Off Job

WAYNESBURG — When the Mapletown High School football team takes the field Friday for its game at Frazier, it will be under new management.

The Southeastern Greene Education Association, in the only new development in teacher strikes which have shut down three Greene County school districts, announced Tuesday that it has decided to withhold services for all extra-curricular activities.

"Although the association has been on strike for more than three weeks, it has permitted its members to continue extra-curricular activities without interruption," the association said in a prepared statement issued Tuesday. "However, because of the board's reluctance to engage in meaningful negotiations, the association is left with no recourse but to withhold those services."

The edict means that head coach Fred Answine and first assistant Mike Caruso will be out of the picture until the walkout ends.

School Board President James Minor said the task of directing the Maples, who won their first game in 20 starts last Friday, will fall on Elementary Supervisor Charles Wyda, who was an assistant football coach at Albert Gallatin High School for some five years during the 1960s. He will be aided by Answine's second assistant Gary Bosnic, who is a student at West Virginia University and is not a member of the school district faculty.

"We are also going to try to recruit some volunteers to help with the program," Minor said.

Minor also said that a contract negotiation session which had been scheduled for 1 p.m. Thursday by state mediator August Turak has been canceled, and no date has been set for resuming of talks.

"Most of the members of the board negotiating team are on afternoon shift and could not be present," Minor said. "We had informed the mediator that it is virtually impossible for us to get together for afternoon negotiations but he scheduled it anyway."

In its statement Tuesday, the teachers' association stated that the board's reluctance to engage in meaningful negotiations was responsible for its decision on withdrawing its members from the football and band programs.

"On Aug. 26, the association was responsible for the last movement on economic issues," it said. "During the subsequent four weeks, the board has not made any counter offers. In fact, the only response has been 'that our teachers should not expect a settlement anywhere near those offered or attained in neighboring school districts'."

"Based on the board's unfair and hard-line position in this matter . . . our only possible response was to continue our strike and withhold extra-curricular activities. We reiterate our goal to obtain a fair and equitable settlement consistent with neighboring districts."

In the Jefferson-Morgan District, Bonnie Mylan, spokesman for the teachers' organization, said she had contacted school board negotiator Forrest (Bud) Cottle Tuesday and was informed that the board is not willing to meet unless the teachers are willing to make some movement.

"We told him we would like to meet to discuss movement and that there are compromises we are willing to talk about," she said. "I am going to continue to call every day and hope we can get together soon," she said.

In the West Greene District, where a strike will enter its eighth day today, the board and teachers were still meeting late Tuesday night in a session which did not include either the state mediator or the board and PSEA negotiators.

A board member said that under those conditions it was probable that most of the discussion would center on issues other than economic which remain to be resolved.

"It's not impossible that we could come to an overall agreement, but it's more likely that this session would clear the air somewhat and get us moving again," the spokesman said.

Waynesburg Area Man Is Injured

WAYNESBURG — Burl A. Cain, 23, Waynesburg R.D. 5, suffered back injuries when his car slammed into a utility pole at 3 p.m. Tuesday on Route 218, just south of the Waynesburg Borough line.

State police said his car skidded on the wet pavement and went off the highway to hit the pole. The car was demolished.

Cain, who was trapped in the vehicle for a time, was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital and was then transferred to the West Virginia University Hospital in Morgantown, where he was listed in serious condition late Tuesday night.

Police also reported that Mark S. Berdine of Holbrook Star Route was treated at Greene County Memorial Hospital for a head injury following an accident at 11:30 p.m. Monday on Route 30045 in Wayne Township. His car also ran off the highway and struck a pole.

Fire Damages

CARMICHAELS — Damage was estimated at $16,000 in a mobile home fire at 97, Route 21 Mobile Home Village.

Philip Gilley, who lived alone in the home, said he had been working on the furnace and when it over-pumped, heating oil spilled onto the floor and ignited.

Firemen from Carmichaels and Cumberland Township answered the call at noon. They extinguished the blaze but were called back at 1:20 p.m. and found the home fully involved. Fire Chief William Groves said the second fire had started in the same area as the first.

BBC To Film Part Of Drama In County

NEMACOLIN — Want to be in the movies?

If you can pass as a coal miner you will have an opportunity to appear in a British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) documentary-drama and also have a chance to earn some money as well this week.

BBC will be filming at the Nemacolin Mine on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 24-26 and they hope Greene County citizens will help by appearing as extras during the three days of shooting.

Shooting will be done from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. Friday on "Two Weeks in Winter." Other times will be announced after the first day.

There will be no daily pay but the names of all extras will be placed in a hat and a $500 winner selected each day. Also, at the end of shooting a grand prize winner will receive $1,000.

Registration is being held at the union hall in Nemacolin. Miners are asked to wear winter clothing such as sweaters, heavy coats, boots and trousers such as jeans. According to production manager Andrew Benson, "everyone is welcome and no one will be turned away."

The $500,000 documentary-drama concerns the events in Poland last year when martial law was declared. The film focuses on events at the Wujek mine when several miners barricaded themselves inside the mine before seven were killed by the secret police.

One of the mine leaders was arrested and placed in prison only because he supported the solidarity movement.

According to Benson, the event has become symbolic with the Polish in their fight to shed the yolk of martial law. "We have changed the names of the main characters to prevent reprisals because many remain in Poland."

Using taped interviews smuggled out of Poland, eyewitness accounts and films, the BBC says the documentary/drama will accurately portray the events last December. The drama will be aired in Britain on Dec. 13, the anniversary of the tragic event and will be shown on the public broadcasting channel in the United States at a later date.

The script has been written by Andrew Carr and will star Jonathan Pryce, Broadway Emmy winner in 1977; Ralph Bates, a well-known actor in Britain and Warren Clarke, who starred with Clint Eastwood in "Foxfire."

Benson, who is making his first visit to the United States, said the BBC had first planned to film in West Germany but changed its mind because of several problems including political ones.

"Actually, the United States is bet-

Need to STRETCH?

God apparently didn't want us to be cramped. He gave us the ability to stretch!

Whenever we begin to feel cramped—that ability to stretch becomes an impelling need.

The soul shares with the body its restlessness, its aversion to being cramped. And the soul too has been given the ability to stretch—through worship, to reach out toward God.

Because all week our souls are sorely cramped... that ability to worship becomes an impelling need.

Worship with us next week. Your soul needs to stretch!

Committee Is Appointed To Study Library's Options

WAYNESBURG — The board of trustees of the Eva K. Bowlby Public Library will continue to examine all options for library building expansion.

At a board meeting Monday night, President Thomas Gerace appointed Margaret Cipic, Charles Beiter, Audrey Huffman and Vi Faddis to a committee and asked the committee to look at the feasibility of each of four options presented at the Bowlby Library Association meeting last week. The options include: Making no changes in the present library setup. Adding an extension to the present building.

- Obtaining a second building to use as a branch library.
 - Selling the Bowlby house and using the money to buy a larger building.
- The board committee joins one appointed for the same purpose by Audrey Huffman, president of the Bowlby Library Association. Association committee members are Linda Mariner, Lester Moston, Nell Wermecke, Linda Nalitz, Ryan Hartley and Brenda Ganear. They will solicit opinions and suggestions from the public about the various options. Linda Mariner announced that the committee is sending a questionnaire to all association member organizations. It will also be available at the library for anyone who wishes to express an opinion. The trustees' committee will study the problems involved in each option and decide which is most practical economically. The committees will arrive at their conclusions separately and report their findings at the November board meeting. Board members agree that a decision must be made because of the library's overcrowded conditions, the need for more space to meet state standards, and the lack of access for the handicapped. Opinions expressed at the meeting produced no consensus. Mrs. Huffman stated her preference for a modest addition at the rear of the present building. In contrast, Gerace said, "In my opinion, the only way the library can really serve the community in the long run is to sell the building and move to a more adaptable space." He added that he would welcome public reaction to that idea and hoped that the committee studies would provide the facts and information needed in order to make the best decision. In other business, the board: Voted to spend $6,293 to have the slate roof on the library replaced with shingles. Heard an appeal by head librarian Marjory Johnston for volunteers to help in the library. Due to cutbacks in federal programs, the library is now paying all staff salaries. "There's no question that we'll have to depend more on volunteers," she said. She asked for volunteers willing to help with children's programs and crafts, delivering books to home-bound persons, and clerical work. Announced a gift of $100 to the library building fund by Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, a group of Waynesburg women. Reported a total circulation for August of 6,785, which includes the bookmobile, Operation Outreach and the jail library. Announced the library will be closed Oct. 2 for a CPR workshop for the staff.

School Board Feels Proposed Contract Needs Explanation

ROGERSVILLE — A statement outlining in detail the status of contract negotiations has been issued by the West Greene School Board.

It was prepared as an "open letter to teachers," who have been on strike since Monday, Sept. 13, and is signed by board members Rick Barnhart, Roy Barnhart, Anne Bower, Thomas Braddock, James Helphenstine and Frank Johnston. They said copies have gone to every teacher because it came to the board's attention that many teachers may not be aware of which items in the proposed contract have already been accepted by both sides.

"The board has prepared this summary of contract negotiations in an attempt to improve communications and to move the bargaining process forward," the letter states.

"We feel that members of the bargaining unit (teachers) and the taxpayers of the district deserve to know what we have worked out between the two negotiating teams, and deserve to know which issues have not been settled. In this way the district residents will be better able to communicate their feelings to the board, helping board members to be better negotiators. Similarly, the bargaining unit members will be better able to communicate their feelings to the union leadership, helping them to be better negotiators too."

On the question of salary schedule, the letter states that the board's most recent offer of raises of $1,400 in each of the three years of a new contract was found unacceptable by the West Greene Education Association, which has maintained that a salary offer of $1,800, $1,700 and $1,600 is the lowest it can accept.

Other issues remaining to be resolved include membership in organizations, provision of a retirement bonus and of special terminal pay, the system of payroll deductions, negotiation of a successor agreement and the time duration of the contract, life insurance, income protection insurance, or a newly-proposed section eliminating duplication of insurance benefits.

It notes that early in the negotiating stage, the board pointed out that if the teachers demanded commitment to Blue Cross and Blue Shield rather than allowing the board to assign the insurance carrier, a 22.5 percent increase in the cost of medical coverage would cut into budget allocations for salary and fringe benefits, leaving less money available for salary increases.

The teachers' association, however, insisted that retention of Blue Cross and Blue Shield was a critical issue and would not consider alternate insurance carriers. As a result, the vision plan the board has offered would have to be provided by Blue Cross and Blue Shield and would cost approximately $100 per teacher per year.

The board has not agreed to provide extended personal leave as proposed by the association, nor has it agreed to a changed system for sabbatical leave, preferring the standard sabbatical system provided by the school code.

The grievance procedure proposed is expanded beyond the old contract and the two teams have agreed on all parts of it except the definition of grievance. The board has not agreed to provide fringe benefits for long-term substitutes as proposed by the association, nor has it agreed to a limitations section on teaching duties. The question of reimbursement for graduate credits has been discussed and the teams are close to agreement.

The statement points out that while many sections of the new contract would be basically the same as the former contract, some have undergone considerable change following many sessions of work by both teams. Changed areas include:

- A redefined work year which will consist of 180 days of instruction plus two non-instructional days split between inservice and clerical sessions, plus two evening open house sessions of three hours each.
- Earlier notification to teachers of their tentative schedules (30 days before opening of school instead of the old 15) and earlier notice of tentative assignment.
- A change in the system of payment of extra services, exclusive of extracurricular activities which is covered elsewhere.
- Payment for extra work sessions covering the duties of an absent teacher when such work exceeds one classroom session.
- An increase in preparation time for elementary teachers, adding 40 minutes per week above the old allowance.

- A change in the mileage reimbursement from a set amount to the rate set by the state.

- An entirely new section on vacancies and transfers which is more restrictive on the administration and initiates use of a transfer list and sets controls for involuntary transfers.

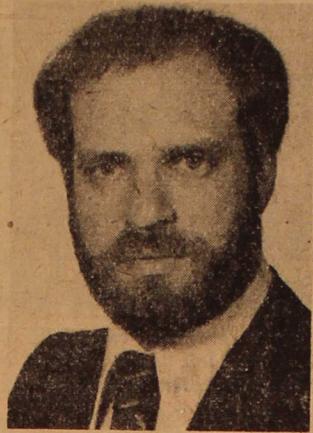

- An increase in allowed family illness days from three to five, counting against the individual's accumulated sick leave.

- Increases in all extracurricular activity salaries, plus yearly increments.

New items which have already been agreed to include:

- An article on seniority detailing maintenance of seniority, conditions for loss of seniority, mechanisms for promotion out of the bargaining unit into supervisory positions, methods for filling vacancies, and creation of the seniority list and challenges to it.
- Provision for a pre-school work period for new teachers of up to two days without compensation.
- Sections giving elementary teachers the opportunity to indicate what grade level and teaching location they prefer for the following year, and giving secondary teachers the opportunity to request new teaching assignments after two years in a given assignment.

- A section that the district can terminate extracurricular employment by declaring a position "open" within 90 days of the last event or game, and providing that if a position is not declared open the employee is automatically continued in the extracurricular position.
- A limitations section on additional non-teaching duties.
- Provision of one day per year for emergency leave and for an extra 30 days of sick leave without pay when required by the employee's doctor after sick leave benefits have been exhausted.
- Stronger commitment by the administration to the use of substitutes to cover an absent teacher's duties.
- A new provision to allow early retirement after 28 years of service or on reaching the age of 60, as long as the last 15 years of service have been in the West Greene District.

Emotions Overflow At J-M Meeting

school cafeteria. The audience consisted of taxpayers both for and against salary increases, taxpayers plainly against higher district taxes whatever the cause, and some 55 of the district's 71 teachers who quietly stood at the rear of the cafeteria.

Many of those against salary increases and higher taxes carried the same signs they did a week ago when they picketed a Monday night negotiating session which broke down with both sides taking their current positions.

Outside the cafeteria, about 15 students carried signs reading: "We Want to Graduate: Settle Contract" and "Class of '83 Held Hostage."

Later when the meeting inside broke up, they chanted: "Negotiate! Negotiate! Negotiate!" "We Want School!" "We Want School!" and "We Want to Graduate!"

Most of those speaking vented their anger, either over high taxes, high salaries or no movement toward a contract settlement, at members of the board. A few directed their remarks toward the teachers at the rear or at fellow taxpayers on each side.

At one point near the end of the meeting, Fowler, who throughout his long tenure as a board member has seldom shown anger during a meeting, stood up and directed several sharp remarks at Mrs. Mylan about not liking several statements made by the teachers.

In return, Mrs. Mylan made an emotional statement concerning her career as a teacher and the thanks she has received from many of her former students for the concern she has shown them.

Many in attendance Monday night wanted a quick settlement of the contract issue to get students back to school. Others spoke out for the teachers and a fair salary increase, while still others felt teachers should make concessions.

During its brief business session, the board approved issuing senior citizens complimentary passes for school events which will be available at the high school office.

District Superintendent Ken Macek reported that there has been some increase in the number of students attending the Greene County Vocational-Technical School during the teachers' strike since the district began offering transportation. He said a telephone followup is being made on those students from the district enrolled in the vo-tech program who are not attending.

It also was announced that Loverna Kervaski and Wayne Moore, Waynesburg College students, will be doing their student teaching in the Jefferson district on the secondary level.

An elementary and secondary student testing program for the 1982-83 year was approved by the board.

In final action, board members Louie Baniecki and Floyd Haney were selected to be the board voting delegates to the Pennsylvania School Board Association.

portunity at that time to defend their positions by presenting evidence to refute the claims.

In dismissing the preliminary objections, the court directed that the case be scheduled for a hearing. No date was set.

Full Court Hearing To Be Held On Wayne Twp. Surcharge Case

WAYNESBURG — The Wayne Township surcharge case moved into a position where it can be aired in a full court hearing after the Greene County Court Wednesday dismissed all preliminary objections.

It involves surcharges totaling $31,487 which the Wayne Township auditors are seeking to recover from the three township supervisors who left office Dec. 31, 1981 — George M. Adams, John G. Jenkins and Robert L. Simpson.

The wide-ranging claims allege, among other things, that the former supervisors during 1981:

- Made improper expenditures from special funds.
- Failed to make required payments for withholding taxes, Social Security and other taxes, which resulted in the assessment of penalties against the township.
- Received compensation for unauthorized holidays, for claimed work at the township landfill which was never done, and for improper mileage charges.

Purchased items from township funds which were intended for personal use.

Attorneys for the former supervisors filed exceptions based on the contention that the audit and subsequent surcharge was erroneous and was based on faulty or incomplete evidence. They also objected to the fact that the auditors accepted additional surcharges proposed by the supervisors who took office in 1982.

The court ruled that the present supervisors, as trustees of public funds, had a right to suggest additional surcharges and that the auditors had a right to consolidate them as part of their findings.

The opinion points out that the purpose of a surcharge hearing is to address the issue of proof, and that the defendants will have an op-

Trail Group Building Shelter

MT. MORRIS — Members of the Warrior Trail Association of Greene County are building an Adirondack shelter in the two-state Mason-Dixon Historical Park near Mt. Morris.

Began this summer, the association's hikers have been spending afternoons on the second and fourth Sundays of each month working on the log structure. Funds for the building were donated by the Greene County Bicentennial Commission.

When finished, it will be available to picnickers and hikers on the Catawba Trail, which has its southern terminus in the park.

It is located in the saddle between two summits on the Pennsylvania side of the last marker erected by Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon in 1767 to mark the border between Pennsylvania and what was then part of Virginia, now West Virginia.

The historical park consists of 131 acres in Monongalia County, W.Va., and 135 acres in Greene County. It is located just north of the Mason-Dixon Industrial Park located along Route 39, running from Route 7 to Mt. Morris.

The park, which is owned by the two counties, is being promoted and developed by the Mason-Dixon Historical Park, Inc.

Officers are Charles R. Snider of Pentress, W.Va., president; W. Bertram Waychoff of Waynesburg, first vice president, and Earl Core of Morgantown, W.Va., second vice president.

Individuals and organizations can join the 40 or so present members by mailing the annual membership fee of $5 to secretary-treasurer James W. Shepherd, 225 Euclid Ave., Morgantown, W.Va., 26505.

Interested persons are invited to attend the next meeting, which will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct.

5, at the Mt. Morris Community Center. Those interested in assisting Warrior Trail members work on the shelter should be at the bank in Mt. Morris at 1 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 26. Membership in the Warrior Trail Association can be obtained by paying the annual $3 membership fee to M. James Hennen, 519 Fourth Avenue, Waynesburg.

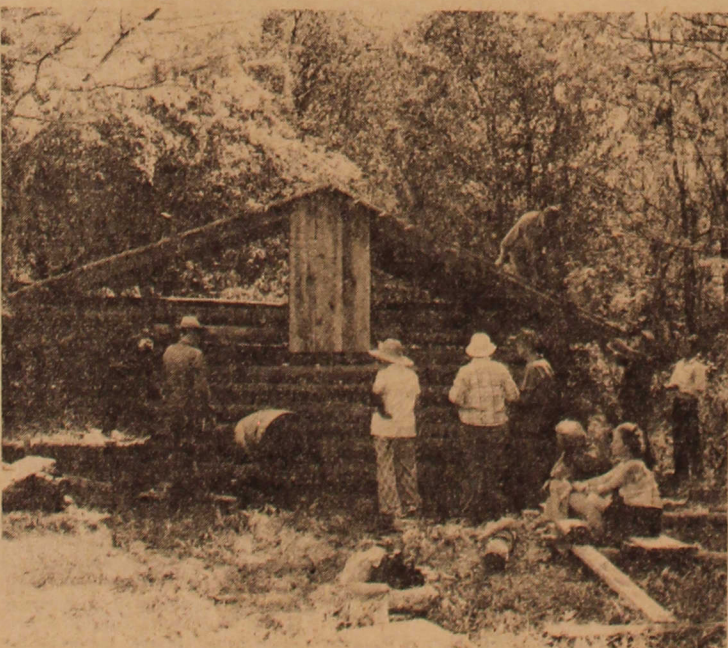

The Adirondack shelter being erected in the Mason-Dixon Park is the fifth to be built by the Warrior Trail Association.

Two are located on the Warrior Trail hiking path, which runs from Greensboro in an east-west direction through Greene County to the West Virginia border west of Aleppo. One of the cabins is located on the Talpas farm in Oak Forest and the other in Moniger Park, Nettle Hill.

Of the other two shelters, one is located in Pumpkin Run Park, Rices Landing, the eastern terminus of the Catawba hiking trail, which runs in a southwestern direction to the Mason-Dixon Park. The fifth cabin is located on the Zavora farm near Garards Fort, where the Warrior Trail crosses the Catawba Trail.

Both hiking trails generally follow trails which were used by prehistoric Indians.

Warrior Trail Association members work on an Adirondack shelter.

Private School Increase Boosts Student Bus Costs

An operational cost which is becoming increasingly significant in many school districts with the creation of new private schools was brought into focus at a meeting last week of the Central Greene School District.

It centers on the state law which requires that a district which transports its own students also provide the service to its students who attend private schools, provided that the private school is located within a distance of 10 miles from any border of the district.

In Central Greene's case, the district is transporting just three students to such schools, but the service is costing $19,980 per year. This is well above what it would cost to educate the boys and girls if they attended the public schools.

According to the administration, the district was unable to work out an arrangement under which it would pay members of the families for taking their children to the schools, which forced them to contract with the district school-bus carrier to make the trips.

In the most recent case, two daily round trips of 24.8 miles are required for the student, who lives almost 13 miles from the school she is attending. The school, however, is located just four miles from the nearest border of the district.

As the administration pointed out, if the student had resided in the other end of the district it might require a round trip of as much as 40 miles, which would greatly escalate the $40 per day now being paid.

The battle over having taxpayers pick up the tab for transporting private school students is one which has been fought in the legislature time after time and it's unlikely the state will back down from its present position.

But it would be more reasonable, particularly in far-flung rural districts, if the eligibility criteria were based on the distance traveled from the home of the student, rather than on the distance from the school district line.

One of the reasons cited by a Pittsburgh area school district for eliminating all high school transportation was the cost of transporting private school students. If the district does not provide rides for its own students, it does not have to provide it for those in non-public schools.

Undoubtedly this is an extreme case, but the increasing number of parents who are opting to send their sons and daughters to parochial schools of one kind or another indicates that the problem will become more and more significant if a change is not made.

New 911 System Start Is Delayed

WAYNESBURG — Because of unforeseen delays, Greene County's emergency services telephone system will probably not be in place and operating before the end of the year.

Two members of the Greene County 911 Communications Board — Michael Mulholland and William Groves — met with the county commissioners Thursday and were authorized to enter into a contract with the Pennsylvania State Police to install the system at state police headquarters in Waynesburg.

The new system will enable residents of the county, regardless of where they live, to obtain fire, police, ambulance and other emergency services by dialing 911, eliminating the need to seek out the correct number for each service or to call an operator.

The early installation of the program was urged because of the elimination of local operators by Mid-Penn Telephone Co., which services Greene County. Effective in October, all calls placed to operators will go to the company's office in Kittanning, where operators may be unfamiliar with Greene County.

"It is important that Greene County residents list their present public safety telephone numbers and have them available if an emergency should arise," Groves said. "Or at least if they call an operator after October, they should know which fire company, ambulance service and police department serves their area. If they don't, the operator won't know who to call. Once the 911 system is in place, this problem won't exist."

Mulholland said the new contract with the state police will be much like the present one for the countywide police communications system, currently operating out of state police headquarters.

He said state police are insisting that the county have a maintenance contract covering radio consoles which will be installed. And Motorola Corp. has agreed to provide such a contract at a cost of $122 per month, which would cover both parts and labor.

"This would guarantee that in the event of an equipment breakdown, a repairman would be on hand within six hours to get the system back in operation," he said.

Groves said he believed it would be a good investment.

The commissioners agreed to the execution of the maintenance contract, with the county's share of the cost being about 50 percent of the monthly charge. The balance would be pro-rated among other municipalities in the county.

In other action at their meeting, the commissioners executed an agreement under which the Waynesburg Economic Revitalization Corp. (WERC) will receive the $75,000 supplemental grant committed to it by the state Department of Community Affairs.

Fact & Folklore

John O'Hara

None of the younger residents of Greene County in this year of 1982 will likely believe that back in an earlier era of the county there were as many different telephone companies — all independent of each other — as there are television cable systems today.

"Ma Bell," the industry nickname for the gigantic Bell telephone system of the 1900's, did not reach out into regions as remote as Greene County was in those days.

People didn't get around as much in the days before Henry Ford put the nation on wheels with his early model automobile that erased the lines of Prince and Pauper out of social distinctions evermore. But telephone equipment was available, even if they weren't as complicated as they now are.

Back then a farmer's wife could call her neighbor with one of those crank telephones as well as a man. All that was necessary was to gauge the difference between a long and a short ring and the ability to remember the numbers by which they could ring their neighbors or kinfolk down the road a "right fur piece" during the long afternoons or on the lonely evenings when the line didn't flash the busy signal.

A little country line of a dozen or so neighbors could be put together without a very big cash outlay and not too many bucks had to be shelled out for the hand-me-down telephones and the few hundred feet of wire they could buy from the bigger lines put together by their more affluent neighbors.

Thanks to the foresight and insistent prodding of the late Gordon Wood of Franklin Township, an excellent outline of the use of telephones in Greene County, the individuals and organizations which formed the small but efficient localized companies, has been prepared for the Greene County Historical Society museum.

This was done by the best-qualified resident of the county to undertake such an assignment — Ralph P. Scott of Waynesburg — who learned the telephone industry from the ground up while working for the South Penn Telephone Co. with his father, the late

College Students Getting On-The-Job Experience

WAYNESBURG — Students in communication arts-media studies at Waynesburg College are getting on-the-job professional experience this semester shooting on-location material for use on news and sports broadcasts at KDKA-TV, Channel 2, Pittsburgh.

The director of audio visual services at the college, Bill Molzon, coordinates the shootings and manages the campus' television crew, which is made up of Waynesburg College students interested in communications.

Molzon said, "We started this (providing videotape) last winter by sending material from basketball games to KDKA. I talked with Stu Kaufmann, KDKA's sports producer, and he used tapes of the games against Point Park and LaRoche during the sports segment of their news broadcasts."

Since then, Waynesburg College has sent several tapes for use in the news segment. When there was a "breaking story" recently in Gilmore Township, Molzon and his crew got footage and information from the site that was very useful to KDKA.

"It happened over the Labor Day weekend, and KDKA was short on crew people," Molzon said. "They were glad to get the footage, and said that we were a big help to them."

One of Molzon's objectives in providing tapes is that these taping sessions are excellent educational experiences for the students on the crew. "They learn to pack equipment, shoot the footage, gather information, deliver the tape, and watch the editors work with the tape," he said. "The students get to see what editors like and don't like, which helps them the next time they go out."

As for Waynesburg's future contributions, KDKA has expressed an interest in footage from three Yellow Jacket football games, including last Saturday's game and this Saturday's game against Geneva. There also are plans to send basketball footage again this year.

Molzon said the students are ready whenever KDKA needs tapes of events from this area.

"The students know how to handle getting everything together" he said. "You never know when or where news will happen, but KDKA knows we'll be glad to help out whenever we can."

He added that there have been some preliminary discussions with other Pittsburgh television stations and stations in other communities, but no plans have been made.

AROUND TOWN

By THE STAFF

After a long and very pleasant month of September, the first twinge — but only a twinge — of eventual winter was experienced in Greene County Wednesday as temperatures just barely reached 60 degrees and a cold drizzle fell all day.

The weather was exceptionally pleasant last weekend when a large group of the "Wolfmen" of Waynesburg College — the players, managers, trainers, water boys and what all else goes with a football team — were back for their fourth get-together since the interruption of sports during World War II. It was to have been their last one. But it turned out to be so enjoyable and the brief reminiscent talks gave everybody such a real inspirational lift that some are having some more thoughts on the matter. The possibility of holding another reunion is just an indicator of their maturity and the affection that still holds them together as it did in the long ordeals that bonded them stronger than what they could recognize at the time.

Along that same line, the annual Homecoming will be held at Waynesburg College the weekend of Oct. 16. The theme for this year's festivities is "Mardi Gras" and an excellent program is being prepared, including the annual football game. That same weekend, the annual Fall Festival will be held at the Greene County Historical Society's museum along old Route 21.

PennDOT (the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation) is winding up one of the most needed improvements to the town in years. It is the completion of laying new curbs and gutters along Greene Street from Richhill Street all the way east through town, including the former East Waynesburg section. At the same time, Columbia Gas Corp. is laying new pipe down the street. The whole street will then be repaved — a much needed improvement.

The curbs that are being replaced were put in during the horse and buggy era and were made from quarried limestone from a Greene County farm. Many were badly deteriorated because of the many years they had been exposed to the elements and in later years were mauled by heavy trucks instead of horse drawn wagons. The rehabilitation work was performed by a firm which specializes in that type of construction and with special equipment for that purpose. It has been done with no serious accidents to workmen or damage to equipment.

The Bennett family, formerly of Ruff Creek but have been living in the former three-story brick home of the Reese family at Reese's Mill on PA 18, two miles northwest of Waynesburg, have moved to the Hopewell section as the Reese house will be torn down because of construction of the new railroad being built for coal mines in Richhill Township. Several generations of the Reese family, which also operated the flour and grist mill at that site, had resided there including in more recent years the late Dr. Alonzo Reese, a dentist; Charles Reese, who ran the farm and mill; Miss Florence Reese, a teacher of English and other modern and ancient languages at West Virginia University; and Mrs. Gertrude Reese Kent and her son, Paul Kent, who now lives on a nearby farm.

UMW District 4 To Hold Election

MASONTOWN — James W. Kelly, president of United Mine Workers of America District 4, has announced that a special election will be conducted for the office of one district executive board member.

This election is due to the resignation of Gerald E. Swift. The nomination meetings of local unions in District 4 will be held Sunday, Oct. 17. The election will be held Tuesday, Dec. 7.

The results will be certified by the District 4 Election Committee on Dec. 7 and the member elected will assume office on Dec. 20.

Strikers Picket Homes

WAYNESBURG — While no progress was reported Wednesday toward ending teacher walkouts in three Greene County school districts, there were new developments in all three strikes in the face of mounting pressures.

In the Southeastern Greene School District, the teachers' association confirmed that it has expanded its picketing activities to the homes of school board members.

"We regard it as informational picketing," a spokesman for the Southeastern Greene Education Association said. "The pickets are at the home of board members to distribute information outlining our position and to take the strike to them since they aren't at the schools. We aren't interfering with them in any way, but we do want them to know where we stand."

Board solicitor John Stets said that he regards the action as a violation of labor relations law. "We understand they are even picketing the place of employment of one board member in Fayette County," he said. "That's illegal."

Don Peroni, PSEA negotiator who is working with the Greene County teacher associations, confirmed Wednesday that he has filed unfair labor practice complaints with the Pennsylvania State Labor Board on behalf of both the West Greene and the Jefferson-Morgan education associations.

The action in the West Greene District is based on an open letter which the school board circulated.

Waynesburg Salvages Tie

WAYNESBURG — Terry Jackovic capped a fourth-quarter drive with a 12-yard run and Jim Eckert caught the two-point conversion pass to help Waynesburg High School's football team salvage an 8-8 tie with West Greene Friday afternoon.

After a scoreless first half, West Greene went up 8-0 on a 74-yard touchdown pass to Craig Riffle from quarterback Paul Kreuzer. Arleigh Closser hauled in a pass from Riffle for the two-point conversion.

Mark Horr, who rushed for 65 yards on 10 attempts, made 23 tackles, nine unassisted. Teammate Rikk Walters had 33 yards on eight carries.

Strike Sidelines Maples' Coaches

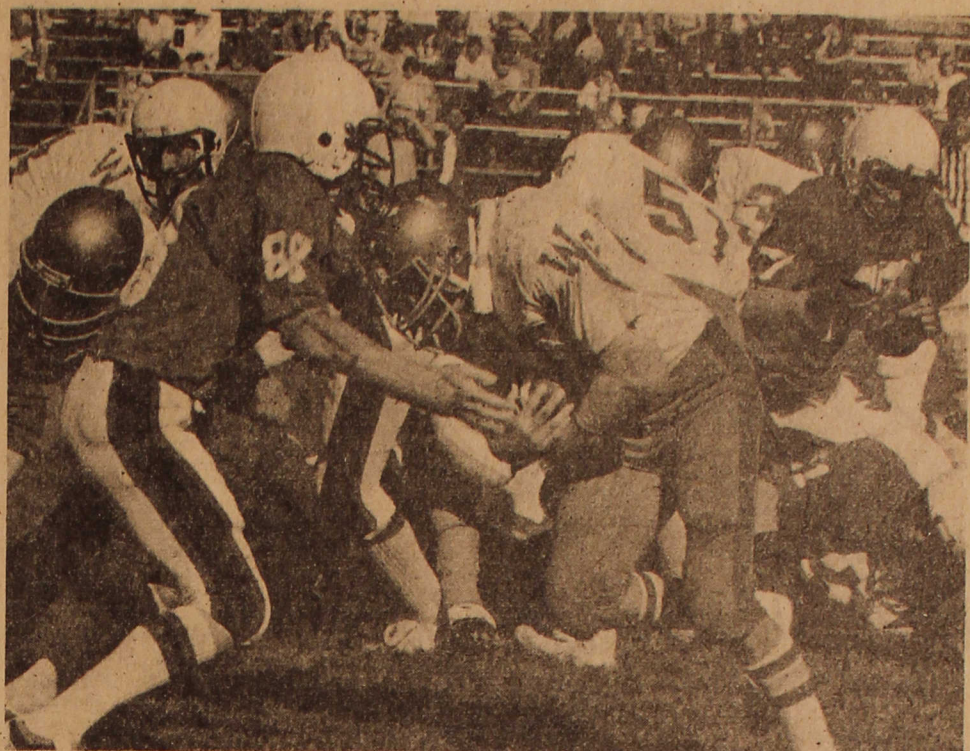

MAPLETOWN — Fred Answine is a man with mixed reactions.

After coaching Mapletown High School to its first win in 19 games last Friday, he was officially given the word Tuesday that he can't go back on the football field again in the foreseeable future.

The word came from the Southeastern Greene Education Association, which feels that it has to do something to try to break the impasse it has reached with the school board over issues which led to the first teachers' strike in the history of the school district. It has therefore decided to withhold services for all extra-curricular activities, including coaching services which it had permitted its members to provide during the three weeks since the walkout began.

Jackets Come To Life

By Denise Bachman, O-R Sports Staff

WAYNESBURG — For two weeks they played the role of a simmering volcano, every so often showing slight signs of erupting into an awesome force.

Well, those signs finally took hold in grand fashion Saturday afternoon at College Field as the Waynesburg College Yellow Jackets showered Geneva (0-2) with an explosive offense and stingy defense to rout the Golden Tornadoes, 48-18.

"A win like this heals a lot of question marks and the self doubts like 'Gee, are we any good?'" Waynesburg head coach Hayden Buckley said. "We played today. We didn't play before."

Mike Forbes, who returned as the starting quarterback after being sidelined with a hamstring pull, quickly put all those doubts to rest permanently. He moved the offense with authority and precision, executing the option to perfection.

On the Yellow Jackets' second possession, Forbes skirted to his right and just as he was hit, pitched the ball to tailback Keith Davis, who scampered 16 yards for the score. That play produced two more touchdowns, a 23-yard run by Davis in the second quarter and a 22-yard jaunt by Otto Birkhead in the third.

"Forbes was utterly outstanding on the option," Buckley said. "We felt the option could be a big play for us, but we needed somebody who could run, and Mike's our best running quarterback."

"Mike can do more things. We needed a leader, not that (backups) Casey (Cavanaugh) and Kent (Marisa) aren't. But we needed somebody who we have more confidence in."

Forbes and the first-unit offense were taken out after the Yellow Jackets' first series in the second half, when they had built a 41-0 lead. Forbes finished the game completing four of seven passes for 105 yards and two touchdowns.

But it wasn't just Forbes who shredded the Golden Tornadoes' defense. After Davis put Waynesburg on top, 7-0, Birkhead came back early in the second quarter with a 69-yard punt return, eluding a tackle at the 50, cutting back to the middle and racing untouched into the end zone.

The Yellow Jackets scored on their next three possessions, staking themselves to a 34-0 halftime lead.

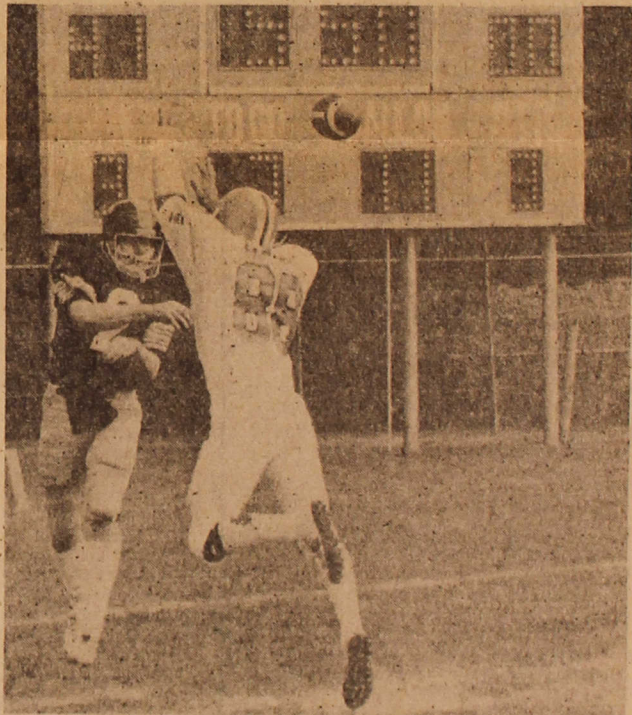

After Davis' 23-yard score padded Waynesburg's lead to 21-0, Forbes connected with fullback Pete Long over the middle on a 52-yard pass play. Then, Joe Persichetti recovered a blocked punt by Dan Pepock at Geneva's 32-yard line to set up Forbes' touchdown toss to Dave Zilli, which took all of six seconds.

The Yellow Jacket defense constantly kept the pressure on all three Geneva quarterbacks, recording seven sacks for a loss of 59 yards and intercepting two passes. Persichetti and Vince Frank were each credited with two sacks, while Ted Rodavich, Kevin Davis and Ed King had one each. Rodavich and Richie Barnes grabbed the interceptions.

And the Golden Tornadoes didn't put any points on the board until late in the fourth quarter when Buckley had pulled the first-team defense.

FLAK JACKETS — Marisa tossed a 13-yard pass to Matthew Toney for the Yellow Jackets' final score in the third quarter. Birkhead was Waynesburg's leading rusher, gaining 78 yards on five carries, while Davis tallied 65 yards on nine carries. Despite the win, Buckley wasn't entirely pleased. The Yellow Jackets were penalized 18 times for almost 140 yards.

Lapcevic Claws Mikes

By John Barker, O-R Sports Staff

CARMICHAELS — It wasn't officially Tom Lapcevic night, but it could have been.

The 5-8, 180-pound tailback ran and ran and ran. When he was finished, the results were impressive. The senior sparkplug rushed 37 times for 180 yards and scored two touchdowns to lead Bentworth past Carmichaels, 14-0, Friday night.

But it really wasn't a one-man show. Actually, the Bearcats' offensive line and their defense played superbly. The defense stopped the Mikes on many occasions, including one at the six-inch line and one at the four-yard line, and shifted the momentum back in its favor. The offensive line also ripped huge holes in the Carmichaels' defensive line.

"Our defense played very organized tonight, that was the difference," said Bentworth head coach Ron Skiles. "A lot of people are playing well in their positions on defense. It's right on target. The defense just gave an outstanding effort."

Carmichaels, on the other hand, was a picture of bad luck and confusion. The Mikes (0-3) have scored only eight points in three games this year and the drought continued last night.

"We didn't make the big play when we needed it tonight," said a disgusted Tom McCombs, Carmichaels head coach. "When we got close we either didn't execute or we got a penalty called on us. We were confused when we needed the big play."

Bentworth (2-1) took the lead late in the first quarter when it drove 55 yards on 10 plays. The highlight was a perfectly executed pass and pitch play. Bearcat quarterback Jerry Maley completed a pass to wide receiver Adam Palyas near the 25-yard line and then Palyas pitched the ball to Lapcevic, who was trailing the play, and he ran to the 16-yard line. Lapcevic carried the ball three more times in the series before ramming in from one yard to give Bentworth a 7-0 lead.

Bentworth scored its second touchdown in the third quarter after driving 67 yards. It was the first drive that saw the Bearcats use someone other than Lapcevic and it worked to perfection, too. Pushkarich carried the ball three times for 20 yards in that drive and Maley completed a 13-yard, fourth-down pass to tight end Brian Richards. However, Lapcevic took the scoring honors, powering in from five yards to give Bentworth a 14-0 edge.

Pekar, Defense Take Charge As Maples Snap Winless Streak

MAPLETOWN — A ray of hope and optimism is once again shining on Mapletown High School's football team.

The Maples, who started the wheels in motion with an 8-8 tie against California last week, snapped a 20-game winless streak Friday night with a 12-7 victory over German Township in a Section 4-A game.

Mapletown depended on a stingy defense, which did not surrender a point, and the passing of quarterback Ed Pekar.

Pekar connected on a 40-yard pass to Frank Jeffries in the first quarter to give the Maples a 6-0 lead.

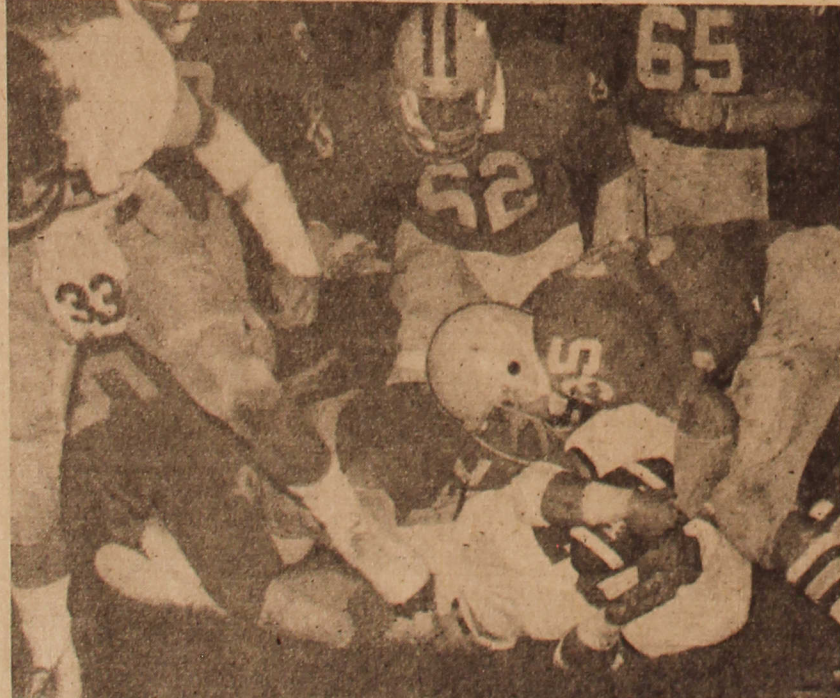

Rockets 18, Runners 6

YORK — Brian Virgin passed for 185 yards on six of 10 completions to lead Jeff-Morgan High School's football team to an 18-6 Section 4-A win over Fair-Georges Friday night.

The win gives J-M a 1-0 section record and a 2-1 overall record while the Runners fall to 0-1 and 0-3.

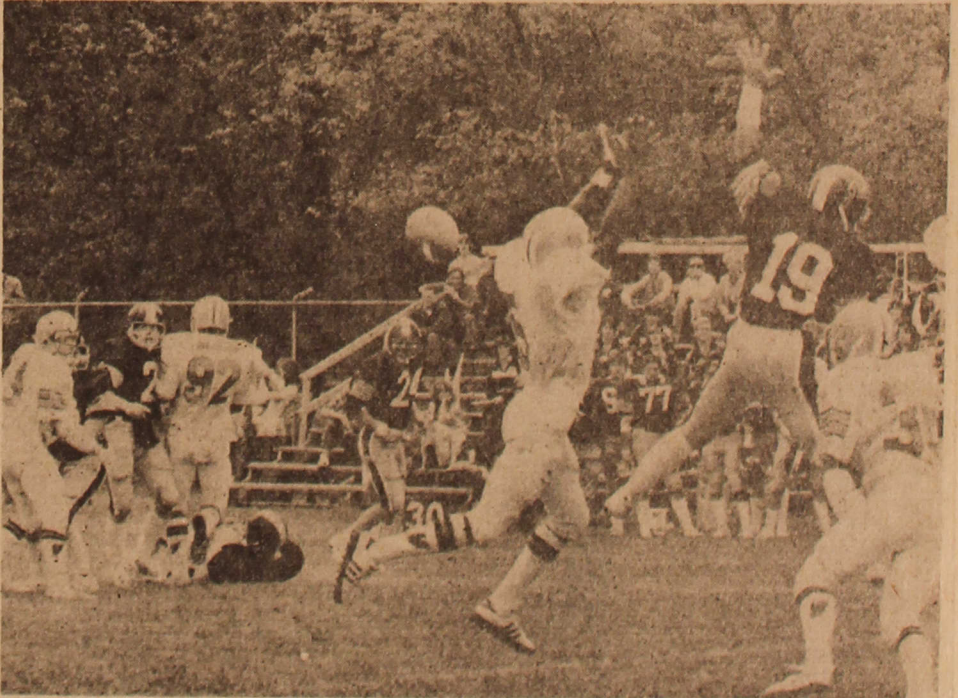

Virgin opened the scoring with a 77-yard bomb to Alan Yanak for a 6-0 first-quarter lead. In the second quarter, Rick Kabisik hauled in a pass from running back Phil Sahady for a 40-yard touchdown and a 12-0 halftime lead for the Rockets.

Bruce Beres cut the Jeff-Morgan lead to 12-6 with a one-yard run in the third quarter but Lincoln Robinson dealt the death blow to the Runners when he gathered in a 17-yard TD pass from Virgin with two seconds remaining in the third quarter.

thanked the supervisors for their help. The supervisors also agreed to pay registration fees for attendance at a conference on "Zoning Law and Administration for the Planner" which the state Department of Community Affairs will hold at Monroeville on Nov. 8.

Appeal Favors Deputy

The Greene County Court ruled Monday that a deputy game protector did not abuse his discretion in stopping and searching a truck which he suspected was being operated by an illegal deer hunter.

The ruling dismissed a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict filed on behalf of Ronald David Clutter, 47, West Springs, Ill., who was charged Nov. 23, 1981, with illegally killing two deer near Crabapple in Richhill Township.

The arrest was made at 11 p.m. by Deputy Game Warden Harry Gillespie of Wind Ridge after he received a call from the county police communicator in Waynesburg to investigate two complaints about shooting in the Crabapple area.

When the case was tried before Judge Glenn Toothman on an appeal from a summary conviction, the Greene County jurist fined Clutter $400 and costs. The appeal was taken on the grounds that Gillespie did not have probable cause to stop Clutter's truck.

In his opinion, Toothman said persons calling the police communicator had given him a description of a "suspicious truck" seen in the area where the shots were heard, and that this description had been relayed to Gillespie. He also said Clutter's truck matched the description, and that his vehicle and the game warden's car were the only vehicles in the area.

He further noted that fresh blood was found on Clutter's clothing and that deer hairs and blood were found in the truck. The carcasses of both deer were subsequently found where the second one had been shot.
