Carmichaels Now Has Woman Mayor

CARMICHAELS — Carmichaels Councilwoman Luella Galatic was elected by other members of council to serve as the town's first woman mayor. The action came during a special meeting Monday night.

Mrs. Galatic will serve as mayor for the remainder of 1983 and fills the vacancy created when Robert Dobbins resigned from the post because he had accepted employment outside Carmichaels.

His resignation was originally to be effective on March 8, but after checking with the Greene County Board of Election, it was learned that date would make it too late for the position to be placed on the spring primary ballot.

"So that everybody has a chance to run for mayor," Dobbins said, "I thought it was better to resign immediately in order not to impede the election process. I'm sorry to leave before my term is over, but my new employment makes it necessary."

Anyone now wishing to run for mayor must submit a petition by March 8 in order to be placed on the primary ballot for a two year term to serve out the remainder of Dobbins' term.

Galatic and council member Christopher L. Watson submitted the only two letters of intent to council for the position of mayor. Galatic was elected by a 5-2 vote of council. With her election as mayor, she leaves a vacancy on council which must be filled within 30 days.

Council President Betty Morris said council will try to fill the council vacancy at its regular meeting on March 7 and asked that anyone interested in serving on council submit a letter of intent to Donna Weimer, borough secretary.

Saying, "I'll try to do my best for Carmichaels," Mrs. Galatic was sworn in by Magistrate Emil Bertugli. She was elected to council last year and has been chairperson for council's street committee which includes supervising all street repair and cleaning.

The Galatic family has lived on Vine Street in Carmichaels since 1979. Mrs. Galatic was originally from Penn Hills, but her husband's family has lived in the Carmichaels area for many years. She says she first became interested in politics through her neighbor, Mrs. Paul Connor, wife of the former mayor, who encouraged her to run for a council seat.

"Being on council has been a great learning experience," she said. "I wanted to learn more about government, if only for my own self-preservation as a taxpayer. I like to see where our taxes are going, and I think this council, under the leadership of Betty Morris, has had a great deal of success in bringing the budget under control."

"The council members are here every week to work, and I have enjoyed working with them," she said. "I hope we can continue the progress that has been made."

"I respect the dignity of the office of mayor, and I hope I can be worthy of it," Mrs. Galatic said. "Carmichaels is a friendly place and I want to represent the people in a way to make them proud."

She said that she would be available at any time to talk to citizens at the borough office, and urged anyone who wishes to talk with her to call the borough office, with is open from 1 until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Mrs. Galatic, in taking on her governmental duties, spoke of her wish to provide a role model and example for her daughters and other young girls to encourage them to become involved in politics. She is the mother of six children, aged 22 to 13 — Louann, a graduate student at California State College; John, at West Virginia University; Alex, at Penn State; and Valerie, Julie, and Madelynn, at Carmichaels Area Junior-Senior High School. Her husband, John, is assistant superintendent at the Nemaacolin Mine.

In addition to her other activities, Mrs. Galatic entered college after her children were born, and earned a degree in psychology from California State College in May 1980.

As mayor, she hopes to develop a good working relationship with Cumberland Township and surrounding communities, and, as she says, "promote good feelings for Carmichaels."

Help!

You can bet part of this man's conversation had something to do about snow. The photo was taken on a desolate street corner in Waynesburg Friday afternoon during the height of the storm which left eight to nine inches of snow over most parts of the county.

Curry Home Workers Ratify Year's Contract

WAYNESBURG — Service employees at the Curry Memorial Home voted last Friday to ratify a tentative one-year contract.

While the contract contains no wage increase or other economic benefits, it does provide for a possible wage reopener in June.

The 115 employees at the county nursing home are members of Local 585, Service Employees International Union (AFL-CIO).

Mrs. Alice Bialko of Nemaacolin, president of the Curry Home chapter of the union, said that the new contract is, in essence, a one-year continuation of the prior contract which expired on Dec. 31. She said that employees agreed to accept the one-year freeze on wages because of the county's financial position. The county commissioners imposed the freeze on all county employees at the time they adopted the 1983 budget.

"If there is a change in the financial position in June, we have the right to ask for a wage reopener," Mrs. Bialko said.

The union president said that 64 of the 115 union members took part in the ratification vote, with the snow preventing some members who were not on duty from participating. The vote was 59-5 in favor of ratification, providing a favorable vote by a majority of the full membership.

"Some of the members were disturbed because the commissioners refused to write a no-layoff clause into the contract, but they did give us a letter stating that every effort would be made to maintain full employment during the coming year," she said. "We certainly didn't want to subject residents of the home to the difficulties of a strike because of that issue."

Waynesburg Project Area May Be Placed On National Registry

WAYNESBURG — The Waynesburg Economic Revitalization Corp. (WERC) has received word from the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission that the two-block area of downtown Waynesburg currently being renovated may possibly be placed on the National Registry.

Donna Williams, chief of the Division of Preservation Services, informed local officials this week that a preliminary review would indicate the local project meets the National Registry criteria.

WERC will now be required to fill out a nomination form. Once the nomination is approved, the downtown area will be inspected by the Historic Preservation Board, a committee of professionals from across the state.

This board must approve the property before the nomination is sent to the National Registry Office of the National Park Service for listing.

Body Unidentified

LITTLETON, W.Va. — West Virginia authorities Tuesday were still in the dark about the cause of death and identification of a 30 to 40-year-old woman whose nude body was found near Littleton, W.Va. Sunday afternoon.

The body was apparently dumped from a vehicle along Route 250, a half-mile from Littleton and just a few miles from Freeport Township in Greene County.

According to state police in Hundred, W.Va., the body was found by an elderly couple who had stopped their car in a wide area just off the highway at 3:30 p.m. They said the body was just over the embankment and apparently had been dumped from a vehicle.

State police said that although an autopsy had been performed, the cause of death has not been determined. There was no physical evidence on the body to indict a cause of death and the autopsy revealed there had been no heart trauma, police said Tuesday.

The victim had an apparent Caesarean scar, pierced ears, a full, upper denture plate and toe nails painted orange. Her hair was described as auburn or reddish. The woman is five feet, six inches tall and weighs about 135 pounds.

Police have not determined how long the body had been at the scene.

State police said they are trying to learn the identity of a man driving a two-tone brown Chevrolet pickup truck near the scene sometime between noon and 1 p.m. Sunday. Police said the man, believed to be in his 40s, was wearing a hip-length coat and was camper top on the truck.

Anyone having information is asked to call the state police office at Hundred, 304/775-4488.

Winter Storm Buries County

WAYNESBURG — The first major storm of the winter dumped as much as 10 to 12 inches of snow on Greene County last Friday, leaving all roads hazardous, closing schools, and prompting offices to close early.

Snow began falling during the night and continued throughout the day, frustrating Department of Transportation efforts to clear highways.

"We've had every available piece of equipment out all day," Donald Bedilion, a PennDOT county maintenance manager, said Friday. "The best we can do is try to keep the roads plowed open, but as soon as we make one swipe they snow over again."

Bedilion pointed out that salting the roads does no good as long as the snow is still falling. "We started to salt early but then shifted to plowing. We had 32 trucks out but there are still a lot of secondary roads which we have been unable to get to."

Early in the morning school officials announced delays in opening of from one to two hours, but as the storm continued to develop they finally cancelled all classes for the day. All senior and junior high sports events scheduled for Friday afternoon and evening were also called off.

County offices were closed at 1:30 p.m. to allow employees to get an early start in reaching their homes. Banks in Waynesburg closed at 4 p.m., and many business places also had their employees leave early.

There were no reports of any major problems because of the weather conditions.

"We've been very fortunate. We haven't had one case of trouble all day," Frank Bogan, West Penn Power Co. Jefferson Division manager said. He added that utilities in West Virginia and Maryland have experienced major problems because of the storm there. "The snow seems to be much heavier down there than it is here," he said.

County's Emergency System Is Unique

WAYNESBURG — When the county-wide, emergency 911 phone system goes into operation on May 1, it will be the only system of its kind in the United States according to local officials.

It should be quickly pointed out that most emergency systems in the country use the number 911. However, because toll calls are involved in the Mid-Continent Telephone Corp. system in Greene County, it is necessary to dial "1" before the usual 911 emergency number. Users will not be charged for the toll call involved.

Unlike other areas, the Greene County system will incorporate state, county and municipal agencies including police, fire and ambulance services. In most areas, only one or two such agencies are involved and only in Greene County will all three agencies be involved in one operation.

The base of operations will be located at the state police barracks in Waynesburg with civilian, county-employed personnel manning the switchboard. A state police officer will be acting in a supervisory capacity at all times.

Interested parties met Thursday afternoon in the Greene County Commissioners' meeting room to complete plans and iron out last minute details.

Represented at the meeting were Greene County Memorial Hospital, Waynesburg Borough Police, Pennsylvania State Police, Richhill Township, Motorola, Mid-Penn Telephone Corp. and the Greene County Commissioners.

According to Mike Moholland, chairman of the 911 committee, the contract between the Pennsylvania State Police and the Greene County Commissioners was expected to be signed in Harrisburg Thursday afternoon.

The new system will cost an additional $472 per month over and above the current cost of operation. Plans are being made for each municipality in the county to share in the extra cost, possibly based on per capita.

Fire Of Unknown Origin Ruins Morris Twp. House

NINEVEH — Fire Monday night destroyed an unoccupied six-room frame house in Morris Township.

Morris Township Fire Chief Randy Carroll said the house was owned by Richard (Rick) McCullough of Sycamore R.D.1 and had been vacant since tenants moved out two weeks ago. It is located on Route 30094, some four miles from Nineveh.

No estimate of loss was made and cause of the fire is still undetermined.

"There was an oil furnace in the house and the heat and electricity were still turned on," Carroll said. He will ask the state police fire marshal to investigate as a matter of routine.

The fire chief said the blaze was spotted by a neighbor, Tillie Shumaker, who lives some 300 feet away, shortly before 10 p.m. Monday.

"Her telephone line was out because of the fire and she had to drive to Nineveh to call in the alarm," Carroll said. "She told us the house was fully burning when she drove past it."

He said that while the house was vacant, there was some furniture in it. The building was covered with aluminum siding.

Firemen were on the scene for two hours but could do nothing to save the structure. The Morris Township company was assisted by firemen from Waynesburg and Graysville.

Destroyed By Fire

WAYNESBURG — Damage was estimated at several thousand dollars in a fire Sunday afternoon which destroyed a garage and two vehicles inside the structure.

The property, located along Toll Gate Run just west of Waynesburg, is owned by Glenn R. Tennant. The call was received at 4:20 p.m.

According to a fire company spokesman, a 1978 model auto and a 1976 truck were destroyed in the fire. The fire was believed to have started near a coal stove in the rear of the garage.

Three engines and 20 men responded to the call.

Homeworkers Win Damages

WAYNESBURG — A Greene County civil court jury has awarded $7,250 in damages to a Morgan Township couple for damage done to their house by strip mine blasting, but rejected their contention that negligent blasting had caused loss of their water supply and pollution of their well.

The damages were awarded to Louis and Janet Beringo of Clarksville R.D.1 following a week-long trial. The jury held that Boyle Land and Fuel Co. of Greensburg was responsible for their payment. A co-defendant, Independent Explosive Co., was not held liable for any damages.

Mr. and Mrs. Beringo, who testified they had built their $61,000 house in 1978, claimed primarily that the strip mine operation on an adjoining farm had caused their well to run dry for six months, and that when the water partially returned it was polluted by household trash which had been dumped in the mine pit.

They had asked for an amount sufficient to offset the cost of laying a six-inch water line to their house from the nearest city water main — an expense of some $45,000 for a line 1,800 feet long.

Expert witnesses called by the defendants claimed that it would have been impossible for the well to be polluted from the strip mine.

Mr. and Mrs. Beringo also contended that the blasting had cracked the foundation of their house and caused other damage. A contractor who assessed the damage testified it would cost approximately $1,800 to repair.

The attorney representing Boyle said he would probably appeal the verdict, primarily on the grounds that there was nothing in the testimony to justify an award of $7,250 for the repair of damage to the house.

Franklin Twp. Financial Record Keeping Praised

WAYNESBURG — The Franklin Township supervisors Monday received welcome news from the auditing firm which reviewed township financial operations during 1982.

Terming it a "good, clean" audit, Jim Milinovich of Milinovich & Co. said the audit reflected good business practices and praised the township for its 1982 bookkeeping.

The supervisors, in turn, praised township secretary Leslie Smith for the findings. Milinovich said the revenue sharing audit met the 85 separate legal requirements and there were no incidents of non-compliance with the rules and regulations.

Noting no action has been taken by Spagnol Enterprises, Inc. of Greensburg in cleaning up property along Routes 19-21 in the Morrisville section, the supervisors directed the building inspector to begin legal action.

Spagnol is the owner of two buildings, including a vacated service station and two-story, brick dwelling which have fallen into disrepair over the past several years. The township has made repeated contact with the firm to clean up the property which they feel has become a health hazard.

Depending on the recommendations of the building inspector, the supervisors voted to take whatever legal action is necessary to rectify the conditions.

Library Board Elects Officers

CARMICHAELS — William Gnatuk was re-elected president of the board of trustees of Fleniken Memorial Library in Carmichaels during a board meeting Tuesday, Feb. 8.

Other officers elected were Isaac Bell, vice president; Ann Yarish, treasurer, and Marcia Biddle, secretary.

The board expressed thanks to Craig Baily of Baily Trucking for donating gravel for the new parking lot for library patrons. Several other contributions toward the library's new two-room addition were received.

Librarian Ruth Mecera reported that 2,602 books were circulated in January, a 39 percent increase over January of last year. More than 130 persons attended programs at the library during the month and volunteers worked more than 30 hours at the library.

Mrs. Macera was authorized to attend the American Library Association conference in Baltimore, Md., in March.

Area Family Threatened

ROGERSVILLE — For the second time in just over a month, the Fields family near Rogersville has been victimized by masked robbers.

The latest incident occurred early last Friday afternoon when two young men kicked open a door, choked one of the residents and proceeded to ransack the home before leaving with only $5 or $6.

According to Donald Fields, 52, the family noticed two men coming through the yard toward the house and felt they were the same men who had robbed the family on Jan. 9.

"We locked the screen door and front door but one of the men punched a hole through the screen door and then kicked the front door open," Donald said.

Also in the house at the time was James Fields, 64, and sisters, Sarabelle and Virginia. A brother Arthur, 61, has been hospitalized for several days as the result of a heart attack.

Donald said one of the men choked him and forced him to sit on a chair while the house was being ransacked. He said the men did not show a weapon but one of them had a hunting knife on his belt.

When the family noticed the men approaching they called a neighbor Jules Vedis who lives about two miles away. The suspects were in the upstairs of the house when Vedis arrived and took the family from the scene.

Donald also told the Observer-Reporter that a woman was parked in a green sedan around the bend from the house and the two men fled the scene with her.

Waynesburg Council Learns Of DER Proposal

By Bob Eichenlaub, Greene County Editor

WAYNESBURG — The Department of Environmental Resources is urging Waynesburg Borough to use silt material which will be dredged from the lake at Ryerson State Park as cover material for the former borough landfill.

President Glenn Richards reported at Monday's borough council meeting that a DER representative met with him last week to discuss the borough's responsibility to complete reclamation of the landfill which was closed last year. Approximately half of the site remains to be covered.

Richards said that he was told the state will carry out its plan to dredge the park lake, located in Richhill Township, sometime this spring and that the borough will have top priority in using the topsoil removed from the bottom of the lake.

"I was told if we don't take advantage of the opportunity or don't complete the reclamation in some other way, we could be subject to a citation," Richards said. He added that the cost of transporting the material and placing it on the landfill would be the responsibility of the borough.

The public utilities committee was asked to meet with Karl Niederwerfer of the Soil Conservation Service and County Planner Valerie Cole to determine the cost which would be involved, and also to determine if Franklin Township would be willing to take part in the project since township residents used the landfill.

The DER also complained about continuation of illegal dumping at the landfill site and is asking the borough to mount a program to prosecute those who are doing the dumping.

Council member Beverly Krill read a letter from a property owner on South Washington Street opposing consideration of that street as the location for an overpass over the Monongahela Railroad tracks and urging that it be built on South Morgan Street. Her principal objection was that it would shift commercial traffic from Morgan Street (Route 218) to a residential street, creating increased congestion and a traffic hazard.

Council noted that the decision will be made by the state rather than the borough, but pointed out that the Department of Transportation will hold additional public hearings before it makes that decision to give residents additional opportunity for input.

Councilman Frank VanCleve reported that a study indicates the borough could save considerable money by converting patrol cars from gasoline to propane.

He estimated that a savings of $200 could be effected in the first year even with the cost of conversion, and that the savings in subsequent years would amount to about $2,750. A firm proposal will be made in the near future.

Council discussed refurbishing of the front of the borough building as part of the downtown renovation program, with the estimated $4,000 cost being provided through the Waynesburg Economic Revitalization Commission. At the same time the work is bid, estimates will be obtained on the cost of additional work on the building to determine the economic feasibility of doing a complete project. Council

- also:
 - ✓ Authorized the obtaining of bids for a sewer cleaning project as soon as specifications for the work have been completed by Kimball Engineers.
 - ✓ Voted to cut back to one council meeting a month. It will be held on the second Tuesday.
 - ✓ Authorized the solicitation of bids for street repair materials needed for the coming season, including hot and cold patch material, chips and petroleum asphalt. Bids will be opened at the March meeting.
 - ✓ Reminded borough residents of the ordinance that requires that snow be removed from all sidewalks within 24 hours after snow stops falling.

Couple Buy Greene County Memorial Park

Challen and Jeannie Waychoff

JEFFERSON — Greene County Memorial Park, the largest perpetual care cemetery in Greene County, has been purchased by Challen and Jeannie Waychoff.

Founded in 1930 by the late Judge Challen Waychoff, the cemetery is located five miles east of Waynesburg on Route 188. There are 48 developed acres and another 90 acres has been set aside for future development.

Mr. and Mrs. Waychoff are also the owners and operators of Y-Coff Mobile Home Park, Y-Coff Mobile Homes Inc. and C.W. Waychoff Real Estate, all located at Waynesburg R.D.1.

Plans call for a number of changes to the cemetery, including a new office at the entrance. The office will handle such business as lot purchases, selection of bronze memorials and vespertiles.

Features will be added to the various sections of the cemetery including the possibility of a chapel and mausoleum.

Challen is the son of Andy and Mary Waychoff of Waynesburg and the grandson of the founder of the cemetery. His wife, Jeannie, is the daughter of Norman Pierce of Ruff Creek and the late Eleanor Morris Pierce.

Anyone with questions or suggestions about the cemetery may call 852-1325 or 883-4848 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. through the week or from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday.

Vo-Tech Contract Talks Will Begin

By Stan Diamond, Staff Writer

WAYNESBURG — The Joint Operating Committee of the Greene County Vocational-Technical School

last Thursday night discussed at length declining enrollment in some courses, agreed to begin teacher contract negotiations, and opened bids for roof repairs.

Acting on a request from the association representing the 14 teachers at the school, the committee agreed to set a suitable date with the teachers to begin negotiations for a new contract. The current three-year contract expires before the start of the 1983-84 term.

Members of the committee indicated they would like to conduct the contract talks without outside negotiators as was done for the current contract, when, as one board member commented, "We presented our ideas, they presented their ideas, we talked about it, and there was no real problem."

A total of 10 bids were received to repair a 250-square-foot roof area on a canopy that extends from the front entrance of the school to a driveway. Except for one of $54,000, the bids ranged from $4,600 from a Uniontown firm to $12,400 from a Greensburg company. Most were in the $4,000 to $6,000 range. The bids were tabled for review by the school's solicitor and a member of the administration.

In an extension of a discussion held at the committee's January meeting concerning low enrollment in the design-drafting technology and air conditioning and refrigeration courses, a report was given.

Norman Waldman, school director, said since the January meeting, he, Kathy Bamberger, a health services instructor, and Robert Washabaugh, air conditioning and refrigeration instructor, visited and spoke with all ninth grade students from the five school districts sending students to the vo-tech school. The school visits were made at the request of the committee as part of an effort to increase enrollment in those two courses as well as determine prospective student interest.

Washabaugh told the committee enrollment for his course is down, especially in the morning session. He said there are no students enrolled in the course from the Carmichaels Area School District and only two from the Jefferson-Morgan School District. Breaking down his course enrollment by grades, he told the committee that the morning session is made up mostly of seniors with two juniors and one sophomore and the afternoon session is made up mostly of sophomores with three juniors and one senior.

The instructor told the committee that in his visits to the school he explained the broad base of the course which includes air conditioning and refrigeration repair as well as air moving and sheet metal.

When questioned about what he sees as the future for anyone taking the course, Washabaugh said that graduates have a chance to find a job in the field but probably "not within 20 miles of here."

Washabaugh said he has had one placement in Greene County but said the record for graduates getting employment in the field in nearby Fayette County was good.

Discussion of the problem will probably continue during the committee's March meeting since it was indicated a survey from the school concerning enrollment and interest in the courses would be presented. The idea of dropping the two courses from the curriculum had been presented to the committee.

Ice Fishing

Röbert Postlethwaite, of Cameron, W.Va., pulls a rainbow trout from an ice-covered lake at Ryerson State Park near Wind Ridge Monday. Even though the area has yet to experience below zero temperatures this winter, the ice close to the shore has frozen to a depth of some four inches, making it safe to fish on. But Postlethwaite said he would not venture far from shore where the ice was thin. This particular fish was put back in the lake.

Sewers Cleared

By Marcia M. Biddle, Staff Writer

CARMICHAELS — Because of an accident last Sunday night members of the Carmichaels-Cumberland Township Joint Sewer Authority warned residents against dumping gasoline or other petroleum-based fuel into sewer lines.

Even a small amount of gasoline can create a hazardous condition, they said.

At the board meeting Tuesday, Feb. 8, plant manager Edgar Harris reported that some residents of Biddle Acres had smelled fumes Sunday night and called Columbia Gas which notified the township of the problem. Harris said there were heavy fumes in the sewer plant and in some homes, but he vented the lines and the fumes cleared out rapidly without damage.

Harris surmised that someone may have drained a car or furnace, depositing a small amount of a petroleum-based fuel into the sewer lines in that area.

Harris also reported that last week's rains had caused no flooding, overflows, or backups in any of the sewer lines. A few basements were flooded but these were caused by clogged homeowner's traps, according to Harris.

Harris said the walls have been completed in the new plant addition. The lab equipment has been moved into the back room and he is ready to put up ceilings.

Accountant John Milinovich presented the 1982 authority audit and stated that all accounts were "satisfactory and in good order, with proper internal controls." The board approved his proposal to do the 1983 audit.

An unbudgeted expense was brought up by township plans to resurface Old Waynesburg Road later in the spring. Harris said it would be necessary to raise the 14 manholes on the road to the level of the new surface. He received permission to order riser rings to that purpose at a cost of approximately $2,800. These rings can be installed as the road is being paved, to avoid traffic hazards.

New Testing Center

WAYNESBURG — Effective immediately, Intermediate Unit I will be awarded a contract for a new testing center for the high school equivalency test, more commonly known as the G.E.D.

Acting on behalf of the Department of Welfare, Gloria G. Gugliotta, director of the Waynesburg Youth Development Center, authorized the IU to use the YDC administration building as the G.E.D. testing site.

For many area residents, the G.E.D. represents one of the most significant opportunities available for completing their high school education. Candidates for the G.E.D. must meet several eligibility requirements. They must be Pennsylvania residents, 18 years of age or older, and must not be enrolled in an approved or licensed secondary school. (Also, their graduating class must have graduated.)

Robert V. Headlee, Intermediate Unit I central office program specialist, will serve as the G.E.D. test administrator.

More Than 500 People Aided By Four Assistance Centers

WAYNESBURG — Coordinators of Greene County's four "Assistance Centers for the Unemployed" told the county commissioners Thursday that more than 500 persons have benefited from their services since the centers were opened in October of last year.

"All four of us feel very good about the response and what we have been able to do to help people with the problems they are facing because of loss of jobs," Donna J. Miller said.

Ms. Miller is in charge of the center in Waynesburg, which is operated by the Washington-Greene Community Action Corp.

Other coordinators are Barbara Coccari of the Social and Community Services of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, which operates a center located in the community building in Brave; Marianne Gideon of Centerville Clinics, which operates the center located in the Carmichaels Clinic; and Cindy Tadej of the Southeastern Greene Health Center, which operates a center in Greensboro.

The assistance centers in Greene

County and similar ones in Washington County were established with funds the two counties received through a state adult services block grant. The program is monitored by the Mon Valley Health and Welfare Council.

While the centers do not provide cash grants, they try to help people find jobs, have tied into the Greene County Emergency Food Bank and Clothing Bank, and provide information on services which are available to the unemployed. Staff members also provide assistance in making application for such social service programs as food stamps and energy assistance.

Services are available to individuals between the ages of 18 and 54 who are unemployed, regardless of whether they are receiving public assistance, social security, veterans' benefits or unemployment benefits.

The Community Action center services residents of Waynesburg Borough and Center, Franklin, Morris, Washington and Whiteley townships. The telephone number is 852-2893.

The center in Brave serves residents of Aleppo, Freeport, Gray, Gilmore, Jackson, Perry, Richhill, Springhill and Wayne townships. The telephone number is 627-9784.

The Carmichaels center serves people in Carmichaels, Clarksville, Jefferson and Rices Landing boroughs and Cumberland, Jefferson and Morgan townships. The telephone number is 966-5081.

The center in Greensboro serves people in Greensboro Borough and Dunkard, Greene and Monongahela townships. The telephone number is 943-3363.

Pesticide Sprayers Must Get Licenses For 1983

WAYNESBURG — Greene County residents with private pesticide applicator licenses which expire in 1983 will have an opportunity within the next few weeks to attend an update training session.

County Agent William Brown said it is important because the only thing necessary to renew the license is filing of a form certifying attendance at such a session.

He said that two county businesses are offering update training opportunities as part of their winter promotional meetings.

One opportunity will be provided by the sprayer calibration meeting which Goshin Sales of Rices Landing will hold at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 23.

The other will be an Agway crops meeting to be held Tuesday, March 1. Interested persons can contact the Waynesburg Agway store for details on time and place.

Brown said that Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture representatives will be checking records in the near future to verify dealer compliance with the pesticide law. Dealers, therefore, must check a customer's applicator license and its expiration date to determine if they are eligible to purchase pesticides. Failure to do so will result in penalties which could include loss of a dealer's license to sell the material.

"A farmer who plans to use such materials as Paraquat for no-till seeding, Tordon for multi-flora rose control, or the various chemicals recommended for corn root worm control should make sure his license is in order," Wood said.

He also said that private applicators who have allowed their licenses to expire will be required to retake the certification test. Forms to order the test are available from the Extension Service office.

Syrup Production Expertise Tapped

RYERSON STATION — If the maple sap is running, can spring be far behind?

Ron Duke, superintendent of Ryerson Station State Park, has announced he plans to hold an environmental interpretive program covering the small-scale production of maple syrup, using past and present methods.

The program will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 19, in the "Sugarin' Grove" behind the park house. The program may be canceled if it rains.

Maple syrup production is the oldest industry in North America, dating back to 1555 when French settlers reported Indians were processing maple sap.

Early collecting and evaporation procedures were crude, according to Duke. By the 1700s, the pioneers were drilling tap holes into the trees, and by the 1800s, the first evaporator pans appeared.

Procedures have changed little since then. Duke will discuss these procedures and have examples of most for viewing.

Duke already has tapped a number of sugar maple trees using a variety of methods. Some of these methods can be used quite easily and cheaply by a family that owns some maple trees and is interested in producing syrup for its own use.

Duke will explain these various methods while actually processing maple syrup.

18 Students Receive Honors From College

WAYNESBURG — Eighteen students recently received one of the highest academic awards granted at Waynesburg College: membership in the college's scholastic honorary, Xi Psi Epsilon.

Each year, the college honors those students who have completed at least 80 semester hours with an accumulative academic average of 3.50 or higher. Xi Psi Epsilon members are formally recognized and honored at the annual Academic Honors Banquet to be held in April.

Susan E. Pool of Waynesburg was named president of the honorary for the 1982-83 academic year. She is a senior mathematics and computer science and geology major.

Also named were the following: Shelley J. Christ, a senior English major from Waynesburg.

Jeffrey W. Clemens, a junior biology major from Greensburg.

Karen E. Connolly, a senior chemistry major from Sycamore.

Margaret T. Crouse, a junior elementary education major from Prosperity.

Lynn A. Elek, a junior accounting major from Carmichaels.

Gillian G. Friday, a senior English and Spanish major from Waynesburg.

Rebecca S. Henderson, a junior public service administration and English major from Carmichaels.

Ronald E. Hixon, a senior mine management major from Rices Landing.

Lisa G. Monas, a senior management major from Mather.

Sue Ellen Mortimer, a junior mathematics and computer science major from Hollywood, Fla.

Charlene Raytek, a senior management and English major from Richeyville.

Scott C. Robertson, a senior English major from Elizabeth.

William C. Robison, a junior accounting major from York.

Kathleen E. Rohrer, a senior accounting major from Mather.

Michael Zeglen, a junior psychology major from Clarksville.

Cheryl Zeiler, a junior secretarial science and general business major from Waynesburg.

Carl C. Zeillie Jr., a junior accounting major from Fredericktown.

Student Aid Information Available

WAYNESBURG — With the current economy increasing the importance of financial aid in paying for a college education, Waynesburg College will place special emphasis on a financial aid seminar and workshop as part of a campus open house set for Monday, Feb. 21.

"Approximately 90 percent of our students receive some form of financial aid," said Ronald L. Shunk, dean of admissions and financial aid. "We have found that, because of our financial aid awards, costs at Waynesburg College are competitive with costs at any of the independent colleges and with most of the state supported colleges and universities in Pennsylvania."

He said that the average financial aid award for an incoming student this year at Waynesburg College was $3,250, adding that the amount of college resources used for financial aid has been increasing annually.

Topics to be discussed during the financial aid workshops at the open house include the financial aid form and how to fill it out; PELL, PHEAA and Waynesburg College grants, and specific information on loans and scholarships.

"We can sit down with a prospective student and his or her parents and figure out a tentative financial aid package for the coming fall," Shunk said. "This package could be made up of several areas, including scholarships, loans or the work study program."

Students and parents attending the open house will also be able to tour the campus and its facilities, attend meetings with faculty members and have lunch in the cafeteria.

"This is an excellent way for a prospective student to gather information about the college in one visit," said Bob Bishop, assistant director of admissions. "One of the best ways to evaluate a college is by visiting the campus."

Older Friend Can Help Juveniles

By Christie R. Molzon, Staff Writer

WAYNESBURG — A new program to combat juvenile delinquency has been given the go-ahead in Greene and Fayette counties.

Try-Again Homes Inc. received notification last week that it is now licensed to start a Big Brothers/Big Sisters of America program. Try-Again Homes is a non-profit Christian agency that serves abused and neglected children and youth in Greene, Fayette and Washington counties.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of America is an international program that matches volunteers willing to spend some time with children who come from single parent families or impoverished homes. The idea is to establish a healthy, supportive relationship between a needy child and caring adult.

Commenting on the program, Dave Dinich, executive director for Try-Again Homes said, "It has been proven to be one of the best delinquency preventing programs around."

The agency has been interested in starting a Big Brothers/Big Sisters program for some time and recently completed a study evaluating the need for it. The study shows Greene and Fayette counties rank highest in the state in problem areas contributing to juvenile delinquency. For example, Fayette ranks first and Greene second as having the highest percentage of children living in poverty in Pennsylvania.

Jean Ahwesh, community education director for Try-Again Homes, said the program aims mainly to serve children from single-parent homes. There are over 11,000 children living in single-parent families in the two-county area.

Although the purpose of the program is to combat the rise in juvenile delinquency, Ms. Ahwesh and Dinich stressed they are not just looking for kids in trouble to match with volunteers but children who could become delinquent. The hope is that by having an older friend they can rely on and talk to, an adult who serves as a good role model, these children will not get into trouble in the first place. "The Big Brother or Big Sister is a person the child can trust, a person outside his family who cares, someone the child can articulate his problems to," Dinich said.

There is really only one qualification to become a Big Brother or Big Sister — a willingness to spend time with a child. Volunteers will be interviewed and given a training session before they are matched with a child. The child, the child's family and the Big Brother or Big Sister must all be happy with the "match," and the relationship will be monitored every four months. Volunteers are expected to commit themselves for at least one year to the program.

The types of activities a Big Brother or Big Sister can do with the child are many, though the agency recommends volunteers spend between three to six hours a week with the child. They can go to the movies, to a shopping mall, to a ballgame or just take a walk in the park. The volunteer isn't expected to just spend time entertaining the child. "Suppose it's a night you were planning to take the child to a movie but your car broke down," Ms. Ahwesh said. "You can still spend that time with the child while working on your car. This is not to be a contrived thing, it's just to establish a bond between the volunteer and child under normal situations."

Observer-Reporter Barbara Andrews, treasurer, and Dave Dinich, executive director for Try-Again Homes Inc., make preparations for the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program.

The program is expected to get underway sometime this summer, although anyone wishing to become a Big Brother or Big Sister may contact Try-Again Homesnow. Volunteers to serve on an advisory board to the local Big Brother/Big Sister program are also needed. Although Try-Again Homes operates in a three-county area, the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program will serve only Greene and Fayette counties. The agency is also seeking ways to fund the new program.

Ms. Ahwesh and Dinich expect from 30 to 50 children will be served by the program in its early stages, but they note that ultimately 1,500 children in the two-county area could be served, further evidence that so many children are in need of a Big Brother or Big Sister.

Program Improves Skills

WAYNESBURG — Students who discover they have a reading problem or poor study skills when entering college now have the chance to improve their reading and study skills through the Developmental Language Skills Program being offered at Waynesburg College.

Kristi Dixon-Bills, coordinator of the Developmental Language Skills Program, said the program focuses on diagnosing the problems and then helping students through reading labs and course work.

Ms. Bills pointed to a change in attitude about going to college and changes in college populations nationally as reasons why programs such as Developmental Language Skills are gaining importance on college campuses. "Most students are making the decision to attend a college much later in their school career," she said. "As a result, we are seeing many students entering colleges across the country who, as recently as a year ago, did not think they would go to college."

"As a result, they haven't taken many of the courses that college-bound high school students normally take. That means many students enter college without the skills they need in note-taking, essay writing, reading and studying."

In the Developmental Language Skills Program, students take standardized tests to determine their reading level and then take diagnostic tests that point out specific problem areas. High school grades, class rank and Scholastic Aptitude Test scores also are considered.

Students with problems are placed in reading lab programs that correspond to a course they are taking. In the reading lab, each student can work through a particular textbook reading problem while trying in the lecture notes from the class.

Problems of freshmen often can be traced to curriculum changes in high schools, Ms. Bills said. "Many schools changed their curriculum during the 1960s as part of the movement toward more relevant and in-

Divorces Granted

WAYNESBURG — Five final decrees in divorce were handed down Wednesday by Greene County Court:

Hazel Ruby King Martin, Gilmer, W.Va., from Michael Dee Martin, Waynesburg R.D.4. They were married March 12, 1979. There are no children.

Ruth Darlene Herod Wade, Waynesburg, from Richard Earl Wade, Greenville, N.C. They were married Aug. 24, 1964, and have four children.

Susan Helene White Bilonick, Waynesburg, from Michael Ray White Bilonick, Bobtown. They were married May 5, 1972, and have two children.

Gladys Janet Lange Rankin, Carmichaels R.D.2, from John Edward Rankin, Hopwood. They were married April 23, 1965, and have five children.

Darlon Ray Yoder, Waynesburg, from Karen Marie Kelly Yoder, Carmichaels. They were married May 26, 1977. There are no children.

Divorce Granted

WAYNESBURG — Michael Allen Sweeney of Brave was granted a divorce from Melissa Dee Craft Sweeney of Spraggs in a final decree handed down Tuesday by the Greene County Court.

They were married Sept. 2, 1978, and have one child.

resting course work instead of the usual broad-based topics typical of college prep curriculum.

"As these changes were made, among the things sacrificed were the basic skills students need to succeed in college."

The Developmental Language Skills program at Waynesburg College is designed to work primarily with freshmen, but Ms. Bills said anyone who wants help with reading or study problems are welcome to enter. This semester, 17 students are enrolled in the program. The reading lab is located on the third floor of the Buhl Humanities Building.

Ms. Bills holds a master of education degree from Kent State University and is enrolled in a doctoral program. Prior to coming to Waynesburg College, she spent two years at the University of Akron in the Department of Developmental Programs, where she taught reading and study skills. She also was assistant director of a private reading clinic in Hudson, Ohio.

KRISTI DIXON-BILLS

TO WED — Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Escott of Waynesburg are announcing the engagement of their daughter Wendy to Thomas C. Bloom of Philadelphia. The bride-elect is a graduate of Waynesburg Central High School and is currently employed by Allen and O'Hara Inc. of Morgantown, W.Va. Mr. Bloom is a graduate of West Virginia University and is currently employed by the Monongalia County Board of Education. An Aug. 13 wedding is being planned.

SCHOLARSHIP — Jennifer E. Graham of Waynesburg, daughter of John and Judy Graham, has been awarded a $7,200 academic scholarship to Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio. The award was based on class standing, SAT scores and involvement in school activities. She is a senior at Waynesburg Central High School, is the senior class secretary and is a member of student council, the National Honor Society, Alpha, Ski Club and French Club. She plans to major in international business.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. John Brodak of Carmichaels have announced the engagement of their daughter, Jacqueline Alicia, to Joseph Lewis Pascuzzo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmine Pascuzzo of Carmichaels. The bride-elect graduated from Carmichaels Area High School in 1981 and is employed at Brodak's Shop 'N Save. Her fiancé graduated from the same high school in 1979 and is employed by Pascuzzo Distributors. The couple will be married Aug. 6, 1983, in St. Hugh Church in Carmichaels.

MARIAN H. FIEDOR
Nemacolin Native Earns Degree In Nursing

FAIRFAX, Va. — Marian Hockenberry Fiedor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hockenberry of Nemacolin, has received her bachelor of science degree in nursing from George Mason University, Fairfax, Va.

She received her pin from her husband, Richard B. Fiedor, during ceremonies held in St. Leo's Catholic Church, Fairfax.

A 1965 graduate of Carmichaels Area High School, she was graduated from the Washington Hospital School of Nursing in 1968 and worked as an orthopedic nurse at Washington Hospital for four years.

Since 1972, she has been employed at the Fairfax Hospital on an intravenous team of nurses.

Her parents attended the ceremonies.

30th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Lapping of Beaver Falls, formerly of Greene County, recently celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary at a surprise dinner party held in Bridgewater. They were married Dec. 25, 1952, in the Jollytown United Methodist Church with the Rev. Ellsworth D. Crispen officiating. Mr. Lapping, an employee of Babcock & Wilcox Co. tubular products group in Beaver Falls, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lapping of New Brighton, formerly of Pine Bank. Mrs. Lapping, a 1952 graduate of Waynesburg High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Wise of Jollytown. They are the parents of two children, Larry of New Brighton and Sandra, at home. There are two grandchildren, Shawn and Hollie Lapping.

Fact and Folklore
John O'Hara

Long before Lindberg made the first solo flight across the Atlantic, thrill seekers found their greatest satisfaction in reading the fictional tale of Jules Verne circling the globe by conventional means of travel.

Thousands of first year high school French students, including those at the former Waynesburg High School, were among those who had to read "Around the World in 80 Days."

Even as late as the early 1920s, the idea of circling the globe in such a short time was considered nothing short of fantastic.

Largely from having been a reader of the book, a Waynesburg man, the late Lemoin (Moine) Hoge did make a wager that he could walk from Waynesburg to Uniontown, a distance of some 32 miles, depending on the number of short cuts they could find.

The real life effort to walk from Waynesburg to Uniontown in one day or less originated in the rooms of the Waynesburg Elks Club then located in a block building at the northwest corner of Morgan and Greene streets which was owned for many years by the late Nick Thomas, a Waynesburg restaurant owner and now owned by his son George of Pittsburgh.

The club was the daily meeting place for the "Gung Ho" oil and gas workers then living in Waynesburg. However, none of them accepted the challenge while watching a storm rage outside the windows. One mentioned, "A person could freeze to death in this kind of weather."

The men who were involved in drilling the early oil and gas wells in Greene County never hesitated to back their claims of physical strength or resourcefulness with hard cash.

Being natural early-risers, they were at the starting point early and betting heavily on the outcome. Unlike the husky drillers, tool dressers and teamsters, the fragile Hoge was just over five feet tall but full of self-confidence in his own ability.

The snow continued to fall as he started on his journey down town hill on Main Street. There was every indication the snow would continue to fall throughout the day.

His route took him on the most direct course and traffic was no problem in those days. The few cars in town had been stored for the winter for several weeks.

Hour by hour, the gritty, little Hoge walked. The snow and ice continued to build on his wool overcoat and his 100 pound frame.

According to the fragments of the story still available from older citizens, Hoge finally reached the home of a Polish woman a few miles east of Waynesburg where he gladly accepted some food and hot drinks.

As for the bet, the word has been handed down through the years that Hoge finally made it to Uniontown and collected the money.

AROUND TOWN
By THE STAFF

Ralph Scott who passed away recently spent his entire professional career as a wire chief and technician with the former South Penn Telephone Company. A honor student at Waynesburg College, he succeeded his father, who was one of the pioneers in the telephone industry in Southwestern Pennsylvania.

Regardless of whether March comes in like a lion or a lamb, no could have complained about the winter weather—that is until last Friday when eight to 10 inches of snow fell within a few hours. Many motorists were laughing because they never bothered to get winter treads but smiles turned to tears last week.

The big league baseball teams will be heading south within two weeks and Waynesburg College baseball coach Bill Hardisty won't be far behind with scheduled practices. There isn't a more dedicated coach in the college ranks than the former University of Pittsburgh football star who has a wide-variety of duties around the campus including assistant football coach.

Jerry Moore, well-known barber in Rogersville, numbers many senior citizens in his patronage and on Wednesdays when the shop is closed makes his rounds to the Curry Home, hospital, jail and many homes where his services are requested. He is certainly one of the few remaining "professionals" who make house calls—and on his day off especially.

Candidates File

WAYNESBURG — Two candidates for township supervisor filed nominating petitions Tuesday in the Greene County registration office, Waynesburg.

They were filed by Edward W. Brumley, a candidate in Monongahela Township, and Leonard W. Cook, a candidate in Wayne Township. Both are Democrats.

Optimist Support Needed

The Waynesburg Optimist Club is looking for 180 partners in a venture that will benefit local youngsters for years to come.

For some 20 years, the Optimist Club operated a Little League field on coal company property in West Waynesburg. The field was one of the finest in the tri-state area and was the site for thousands of baseball and softball games and countless tournaments including state softball tournaments.

However, the land was reclaimed by the coal company for the construction of Emerald Mine.

Members of the Optimist Club, some 21 strong and ever-mindful of their motto, "Friend of Youth," recently announced plans to construct a new field.

The club has an option on nine acres of property in Franklin Township and hopefully can collect the $18,000 necessary to purchase the land for a new athletic field. Club members are seeking community help by offering $100 shares in the project. The purchase must be completed by June.

Every member of the club got the project off to a fast start by purchasing a $100 share. Although non-interest bearing, the shares will be refundable through a drawing procedure in the future.

A playing field for area youngsters was the first project of the Optimist Club when it was founded in 1958. Since that time, a generation of young men had the privilege of using a fine facility. The time has come for that generation to assure today's youth of the same privilege.

It's a badly needed facility that needs the community's support. Those interested in helping need only to contact a member of the Optimist Club, including club president John W. McCall.

LETTERBOX

Considering the Pennsylvania Department of Highways' (PDH) proposal for the elimination of a grade crossing for the Monongahela Railroad on South Morgan Street, it appears that the time has come for the tail to stop wagging the dog!

Residents of Waynesburg, borough council, the Greene County commissioners, the Franklin Township supervisors and people residing along South Washington Street and along Route 218 in Franklin Township — collectively, the "dog" — are surely not powerless to prevent the installation of an alternative overpass of First Street, the Monongahela Railroad and Ten Mile Creek, which overpass would create more problems than it would solve.

An initial consideration, it is appropriate to ask why a meeting on this whole matter on Feb. 14, with representatives of the involved utilities, is being held in Uniontown.

A realistic approach, before substantial amounts of money are spent on exploration, would be for another meeting of the public, in the daytime, in Waynesburg, at a time and place that would permit those with limited transportation to be present and express their sentiments. Opportunity should be provided for at least the victims of the PDH plan, and taxpayers generally, so seek a dispassionate analysis of the problem and the proposed solution.

Ironically, the utilities involved in the PDH proposal would be allowed by the Public Utility Commission to add to their charges any additional expense that would result from the PDH solution.

There are so many cogent objections to the PDH proposal that it is hard to determine their relative importance.

1. South Washington Street is the main north-south street in Waynesburg and is primarily a residential street with many nice homes having a high assessment value and tax potential. The PDH plan would penalize virtually all of the residents in this area and would very substantially reduce the value of all Washington Street properties south of Elm Street. Such reduction in value is bound to end in lawsuits for damages which, when adjudicated, would result in payment of taxpayers' dollars to recompense these property owners.

2. It is going to take huge amounts of highway or other funds to build the necessarily high and expensive bridge across First Street, the railroad and the creek; construction of the approach to the bridge on the north end, and the heavy excavation of the solid rock of Duvall's Hill in angling the road easterly to intersect

Divorces Final

WAYNESBURG — Two final decrees in divorce were handed down Tuesday by the Greene County Court: Terri Lee Blaker Cornwell, Waynesburg R.D.2, to Michael Dean Cornwell, Waynesburg. They were married May 6, 1978. There are no children.

Brad E. Martin, Waynesburg R.D.6, from Alisa Faye Johnston Martin, Chicago, Ill. They were married June 26, 1980. There are no children.

County Will Receive Grant For Airport From PennDot

WAYNESBURG — An agreement under which Greene County will receive a $13,000 supplemental grant from the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation for a new blacktop surface on the runway at the county airport was executed last week by the county commissioners.

It represents five percent of the $260,000 estimated cost of the project. Ninety percent ($234,000) will be provided by a grant from the Federal Aviation Administration, with the county itself being responsible for payment of the $13,000 balance.

Bids for the work are scheduled to be opened by the commissioners on March 3.

Airport Manager William Shultz attended the meeting with the owners of a firm which hopes to establish a flight school and air taxi service at the airport.

Maurice Royster and Ken Rodriguez of Mt. Lebanon, owners of Business Aviation Service, said they were operating until recently at the Campbell Airport near Bridgeville but would like to move their headquarters to the Greene County airport. There has been no flight school at the airport since a prior operator moved out some six months ago, Shultz said.

The airport manager and owners of the company were advised to meet with the county solicitor to work out details of a lease for use of a room in the airport administration building. It will then be considered by the commissioners.

The commissioners received a commendation from the Department of Public Welfare for the "outstanding efforts" of the county domestic relations department staff in administration of the Federal Child Support Enforcement Program.

In the letter of commendation to the commissioners and Judge Glenn Toothman, Linda M. Gunn, director of the Department of Welfare's Bureau of Claim Settlement, stated:

"Our records indicate that in 1982 your county collected $109,560 in child support that was returned to the state to offset public assistance payments to those families who were forced to turn to welfare when one parent deserted."

"This figure represents a 22 percent increase over your 1981 collections and we feel you, the officials who are ultimately responsible for the increased efforts by your county employees, deserve to be acknowledged."

The commissioners authorized Diane Piatt, administrator of the Curry Memorial Home, to arrange for a direct line between the nursing home and the Waynesburg fire hall so that activation of the fire alarm in the home will automatically trigger an alarm in the fire hall.

Mrs. Piatt said installation of the system would bring the home's fire alarm system into compliance with the state life safety code. She estimated it would cost $429 to install the system.

Mrs. Vera Patterson, Mrs. Joan Owens and Max B. McMillen were re-appointed to additional three-year terms on the advisory board of Children and Youth Services of Greene County. D. Glenn Bates, a member of the Waynesburg Borough police force, was also appointed to the board to fill a vacancy.

The Environmental Protection Agency notified the commissioners that Greene County is in full compliance with national air quality standards and other requirements of the federal Clean Air Act.

Supervisors File Suit In Greene Twp.

WAYNESBURG — The Greene Township board of supervisors is seeking to bar two strip mine operators from using township roads until a permanent agreement can be reached setting forth their responsibility for repair and maintenance of the roads.

The township filed suit in Greene County Court last Thursday against Viable Coal Corp., Carmichaels, and Willow Tree Coal Co., Uniontown, who operate strip mines about a quarter of a mile apart in the Willow Tree section of the township. The supervisors claim that coal trucks operated by the two companies have damaged Township Routes 416 and 678 to the point where the mail carrier has refused to use the roads and they have received numerous complaints from residents.

The complaint notes that the township has an ordinance setting a 10-ton weight limit on all township roads. The supervisors met with owners of the two coal companies on Dec. 9, 1982, and agreed to permit them to use the roads under a temporary agreement until March 1, 1983, provided that they kept the roads in good repair.

The supervisors are asking the court to enjoin the companies from using the road until they agree to make repairs to the satisfaction of the supervisors and execute a permanent agreement for future upkeep, with posting of a suitable cash bond to assure compliance. They are also asking the court to award damages to the township.

The court scheduled a hearing on the injunction request for 10 a.m. Friday, Feb. 18.

"The Guns at Gettysburg." By Fairfax Downey. Collier, paperback.

If Napoleon said, "God fights on the side with the best artillery, General Henry Jackson Hunt proved it at the Battle of Gettysburg.

This book is one of the best of the hundreds of studies of that battle. Written in a good, swift prose, it specializes in the role of the artillery, but gives a full sense of the incredible drama and the terrible sadness of Gettysburg.

Dominating the book is General Hunt, Chief of Union Artillery, "one of the great gunner generals," the "Nemesis of the Confederates." Downey says, "The Confederate artillery, for all its valor, was outfought, not because it was outgunner but because it failed to make effective use of its available cannon."

And it was no accident that Hunt was able to control his Union guns "as if he were an organist pulling the stops for the instrument's mightiest diapason." He was the son and grandson of army officers, graduated from West Point, and made a name for himself as a young lieutenant in the Mexican War. He'd "galloped his gun straight up to the citadel walls of Mexico City. Although almost every man and horse was hit as he unlimbered, he and other survivors manhandled the piece forward, muzzle to muzzle with a Mexican cannon." Hunt fired first, as you probably guessed.

Hunt was brave, all right, even reckless, but not with the lives of his men. He consistently spoke out against the second-class status he felt the army too often gave the artillery, especially the practice of taking away his most promising subordinates.

public records

WAYNESBURG — The following deeds were recorded during the past week in the office of Greene County Register and Recorder Thomas Headlee:

Center Township
Nicholas L. Knotts, North Versailles, to David L. and James A. Knott, North Versailles, three tracts, no consideration.

Cumberland Township
John W. and C. Marguerite Ketchem, Waynesburg R.D.3, to Imogene Harkins, Carmichaels R.D.1, lot, $3,000.

Bessie May and Charles A. Shuckhart, Nemaocolin, to Gary E. Shuckhart, Nemaocolin, lot, Nemaocolin, no consideration.

Franklin Township
Dponald E. and Carol A. Patterson,

"Weed had served with such distinction as an artilleryman," he once said, "and showed such special aptitude and fitness for large artillery commands that he was immediately promoted from captain to brigadier general and transferred to the infantry."

Hunt's "most trying experience" at Gettysburg came when he found it necessary to cross a ravine on foot. Trouble was, the gully was filled with a herd of horned cattle, cornered and stampeding while the shells crashed among them. Hunt could have detoured around them, but it would take too long, he thought. So, "He took a deep breath, scrambled down into the gully, and threaded his way through the panic-stricken mass of cattle."

"Luckily," Hunt wrote, "the poor beasts were as much frightened as I was, but they were good enough to let me pass through, scot-free but badly demoralized."

Later, during Pickett's Charge, it seemed for a few minutes that the Rebel charge might succeed. "Men in blue and gray mingled in a wild melee of hand-to-hand combat. The surviving cannoners closed with the enemy and fought them with sabers, trail spikes, rammer staffs, and the bayoneted rifles of the fallen. Among them was the Chief of Artillery. As General Hunt galloped to the threatened point, his horse had been shot under him. He dragged himself clear, drew his revolver, and strode toward the clump of trees, joining his gunners in their last stand."

Like everybody who writes about Gettysburg, Downey gets carried away by the drama of it — its military importance, of course, but mostly by its human tragedy.

Waynesburg R.D.4, to Rudy and Jacqueline Marisa, Waynesburg R.D.2, 10 acres, $21,000.

Freeport Township
Charles A. Grimes, executor estate Mary Emma Kimble, Freeport Township, to Duane and Susanna Snider, Hundred, W.Va., three lots, Garrison, $5,000.

Gilmore Township
Lott S. and Mona L. Thomas to Consolidation Coal Co., 4.5 acres, $14,000.

Jefferson Township
Greene County Tax Claim Bureau to Charles K. and Sharon Balazick, Jefferson R.D.1, lot, $1,250.

Waynesburg
Charles R. and Carolyn R. Berryhill, Waynesburg, to Charles A. and Marion Berryhill, Waynesburg, and others, house and lot, Ross Street, no consideration.

Jackets Find Heart In Victory

By Tom Rose, O-R Sports Editor

PITTSBURGH — You're on the road in a critical game and what has been a favorable situation has suddenly turned sour.

While the home team is getting excited over the change of momentum, the visitor has three options.

1. Panic.
2. Call home and ask mom for advice.
3. Show a little character.

Waynesburg College's basketball team chose door number three and because of it, the Yellow Jackets are just one-half game from first place in the torrid NAIA District 18 race.

Waynesburg's 78-71 victory at the Allegheny Community College gym Monday night over Point Park has thrown a blanket over five teams in the pursuit of four coveted home court advantages in the impending playoffs. And it was the importance of the win, both in character and in the standings, which impressed Jacket head coach Rudy Marisa.

"To this point in time we haven't had a win this big this season,"

Marisa said. "Our backs were to the wall. We were playing a team away from home that had cleaned our clocks earlier and we beat them."

The victory was the Jackets' ninth straight since Point Park humbled them 83-66 at College Gym. But since then Waynesburg has gained momentum and is 17-6 overall and 10-4 in the crowded district race, tied with Point Park and one-half game behind Pitt-Bradford (11-4 and a 69-68 overtime winner at Behrend) and Geneva (9-3).

And it came when it appeared that the Pioneers were ready to spoil Waynesburg's best-laid plans. Point Park had rallied from an 11-point deficit to cut the Jackets' lead to 66-64 with 4:16 left to play. It was at that point when Marisa called his team's fourth time out and gave the three-pronged option.

"We were down a couple points and some of my players made the dumbest mistakes," said an obviously distressed Pioneer head coach Jerry Conboy. "We fought our tails off to get back and then we made a dumb pass and took a terrible shot and that was the game."

Jackets Don't Feel At Home

WAYNESBURG — The home court advantage.

A great deal of emphasis has always been placed on it. In fact, that's been the rallying cry for five teams involved in the heated NAIA District 18 basketball race.

So what does Waynesburg College, with a chance to all but clinch such a position in the impending playoffs, do here Wednesday night?

The Yellow Jackets lose.

At home. Actually a great deal of credit belongs to Westminster, a 90-78 winner over the Yellow Jackets at College Gym. It would be awfully difficult to play much better on the road than the Titans did here.

And Westminster head coach Ron Galbreath was the first to admit it.

"We played very, very well," he said with a thin smile. "Waynesburg had been playing well lately and it's really a lift to play here and win."

"I would like to say too in their defense that Waynesburg was sky-high against Point Park Monday night (a 78-71 Waynesburg victory). I saw that game and I was very impressed. But playing Point Park could have taken its toll for Waynesburg. It's tough to play a very big game and then come back practically the next night and get ready to play another big one."

Waynesburg head coach Rudy Marisa subscribes to Galbreath's theory to a point, but was still very dejected over the district loss.

"That may be the physical aspect of it because we were huffing and puffing out there at times," Marisa said. "But a part of it is mental too, it has to be when you win big one night and then look inadequate the next. We may have very well left our game up there at Point Park."

Westminster's Craig Randall certainly didn't leave his game anywhere, as he scored a game-high 34 points and had a near-perfect, all-around game. And when Randall wasn't burning the Yellow Jackets with 15-footers or twisting drives to the basket, his Westminster teammates were hard at work grabbing rebounds.

In fact, the Titans had an amazing 47-28 advantage in rebounds. And that's with a lineup that features just one player (6-6 Ron Lloyd) with any imposing size.

"They're quick, probably deceptively quick," Marisa said of the rebounding difference in the game. "Now of course Lloyd is no slouch, but basically they rely on quickness."

"Our guys just have a lot of desire to get the ball. They hustle on the boards," Galbreath said of his rebounding leaders Herb Luckey (6-3) and Rob Killmer (6-1), who each had 13. "If we get a good shooting effort outside we're more than adequate inside."

Westminster, now 10-4 in the district and 13-8 overall, jumped to a 16-6 lead with 13 minutes left in the first half as Randall scored eight of his team's points. It was a lead the Titans held firmly and for the most part flawlessly. They never led by more than 14 points in the game, but at the same time never allowed Waynesburg any closer than eight (66-58).

Paul Stanley has plenty of reasons to smile after Waynesburg tripped Point Park Monday night.

B-C Pulls Out Win

FREDERICKTOWN — Beth-Center High School's boys basketball team staved off a late comeback attempt by Waynesburg here Wednesday night to secure a 70-66 win in Section 12-AA action.

The Bulldogs, now 5-5 in the section and 10-9 overall, outscored the Red Raiders 18-10 in the second quarter to overcome a five-point first-quarter deficit and take a 33-30 lead at halftime.

John Murphy paced the Bulldogs' attack, pouring in 18 points, while teammates Mark Miller added 17 and Frank Hoak 14.

Tom Jackovic scored a game-high 21 points for the Red Raiders, who fall to 1-10 in the section and 8-16 overall. John Wion added 18 and Kirk King 12 for Waynesburg.

Maples Get Easy Victory

ROGERSVILLE — Mapletown High School's boys basketball team went home winners, garnering an easy 81-63 victory over West Greene Wednesday night in Section 16-A action.

Bruce Clites scored a game-high 17 points for the Maples, who up their section record to 4-10 and overall mark to 6-15, while teammates Dave Mcle chipped in with 14, Craig Cole, 13 and Jerry Mason, 11.

West Greene, which falls to 2-12 in section action and 3-18 overall, received 16 points from Dave Weaver, 14 from Nick Pablonis, 11 from John Jones and 10 by Joe Jacobs.

Jackets Wallop Thiel

GREENVILLE — Waynesburg College wrestlers breezed to a 53-3 dual victory over Thiel College here Saturday to go over the .500 mark with a 6-5 record.

Waynesburg's Phil Gifford (190) raised his record to 15-0-1 with a superior decision.

Yellow Jackets scoring pins included Dave Stewart (118); Todd Eddy (142); Lonnie Barnes (150); Bill Mundell (167) and heavyweight Tim Matthias.

Don Valesky (158) scored Thiel's only points on a decision.

Jackets Win Final Match

WEST LIBERTY, W. Va. — Waynesburg College wrestlers came from behind to edge West Liberty State 23-18 Wednesday in the Yellow Jackets' final dual match of the season.

Lonnie Barnes (150) and Phil Gifford (190) scored the only falls for the Yellow Jackets.

Dave Stewart (118) and Brian Ross (177) had major decisions, and Steve Burchianti (167), a regular decision.

Jim Raines scored West Liberty's only fall in the heavyweight match. Rich Crosier (158) added a major decision. Capturing regular decisions were Randy Pryor (126); Randy Hopple (134) and Dave Delande (142).

The Yellow Jackets had a 7-5 dual record.

UPJ Downs Waynesburg

JOHNSTOWN — University of Pittsburgh-Johnstown wrestlers defeated Waynesburg College 31-16 Thursday.

Phil Gifford (190), scored Waynesburg's only pin.

Mikes 75, Trojans 55

CALIFORNIA — Carmichaels High School, led by 27 points by district scoring leader J.L. Lechner, handed California a 75-55 loss in a Section 16-A basketball game Tuesday.

The Mikes, who raised their section record to 10-4 and their section record to 12-8, led by quarters 18-12; 28-24 and 50-34.

Lechner tossed in eight baskets and 11 free throws. Also in double figures for the Mikes were Dana Nichols with 18 points and Jamie Wamsley and Jamie Yarish with 10.

Willie Tyler scored 14 for California, 2-8 in the section and 2-12 overall.

Jackets Fight For Win

By John Barker, O-R Sports Staff

PITTSBURGH — This was a basketball game.

Supposedly. Instead of slam dunks and blocked shots highlighting the action, left hooks and right jabs stole the show.

After breezing to a 23-point lead late in the first half Saturday night, the Waynesburg College basketball team had to fight, literally, to stave off a wild comeback by LaRoche College in an NAIA District 18 game.

The Red Devils' comeback faltered when Waynesburg countered with its own comeback to win, 97-83, in a game marred by a bench-clearing fight and 12 technical foul shots.

"I don't know for sure why they got back in the game after we were ahead by 23 points," said Waynesburg head coach Rudy Marisa. "I thought 23 points indicated we were playing well but the momentum shifted and they started playing desperately. They are very scrappy and played like a different team in the second half."

That scrappy play by LaRoche not only seemed to prompt some extra foul shooting but wreaked havoc with Waynesburg's offense. The Jackets scored more points in the second half than they did in the first, but LaRoche forced Waynesburg to commit 11 turnovers in the second half with an aggressive, full-court trapping press.

LaRoche cut the lead to nine points, 65-56, with 10:36 remaining in the second half, when the aggressive play intensified. Four minutes and many elbows later, Waynesburg led, 77-64, when Tim Walker grabbed a rebound and was immediately fouled by LaRoche's Bill Knass. Walker retaliated with a stiff chop to the face and the court became a boxing arena.

Most of the players, coaches and even fans ran onto the court and play was stopped for almost six minutes as the officials tried to sort out what had happened.

"I have to question if the right calls were made tonight," said LaRoche head coach John Pasquinelli. "We didn't play well and I have to question if some of our people want to play. We played terribly in the first half and had to play more aggressive in the second half. It worked because we cut the lead to nine points and I think we made a hell of a good run at them. They (Waynesburg) hung in there, though, when they had to."

Bucs Take Second

HOUSTON — Finally, after nearly three months of grueling competition, the pieces have fallen together in Section 7-AAA.

Chartiers-Houston High School's wrestling team completed the picture with a handy 27-18 victory over Waynesburg Wednesday at the C-H gym. The victory catapults the Bucs into the WPIAL Team Tournament as the section runnerup to Canon-McMillan and assured Trinity a wild card spot.

The Bucs, ranked second in the O-R's Class AAA wrestling poll, finished the regular dual meet season with a 6-1 section record and a 14-2 overall mark. Waynesburg ended the year at 4-3 and 12-4.

Had the Bucs lost this match, there would have existed a three-way tie for second place in the section between C-H, Waynesburg and Trinity. A triangular match most likely would have been used to break the tie.

But with this win, Chartiers-Houston saved itself the extra work. Still, Buc head coach Tim Mousetis isn't one of the team tourney's bigger boosters.

"I don't really like it," he said. "Even though we've won it the last two years, if I were given the choice, I'd rather not have it. Wrestling is an individual sport and too much pressure is put on the team championship. At the end of the year, you want to get ready for states."

Mousetis is also concerned about the little bumps and bruises the team has and the lack of time to heal them.

"We got little aches and pains," he said. "Stuff like this happens when you don't get rest. Our guys beat each other up in the wrestling room. If we had four or five more guys, I wouldn't have to have Phil (Mary) wrestle Chris (Mary) or (Tim) Gump wrestle Patsy (Vulcano)."

The Bucs were without Rob Castelli (knee strain) but he's expected back soon. Chartiers-Houston wrestles Saturday at the Section 4 champion. That could be either Hampton, Penn Hills or Plum. The latter school, ironically, is coached by Stan Mousetis, Tim's father.

Yet none of these plans would have been complete without the Bucs' win over Waynesburg.

"They just had too much manpower for us," said Waynesburg head coach Joe Ayersman. "I knew Triple-A would be real tough this year but I think our day will come."

Waynesburg, which was moved up from Double-A this season because of the new WPIAL alignments, fell behind quickly. After a no match at 98 pounds, Chartiers-Houston's Barre Bell (105) pinned Paul Weber at 2:49.

Bell's win was followed by decisions from Don Clendaniel (112), two-time state champion Phil Mary (119), his brother Chris (126), Gump (132) and Vulcano (138). Scott Byrd (155) also won by decision.

Waynesburg lost a team point at 126 pounds when Ayersman approached the mat before injury time had been called.

The Red Raiders finally broke the spell when Doug Higgins (145) took an 11-3 major decision from C-H's Ron Marshall. Kevin Durkin's pin of Tony Sobrasky (167), Tom Garber's 9-7 decision of Dave Patterson (185) and Doug Henderson's forfeit win at heavyweight finished Waynesburg's scoring.

Pioneers Out Of Hiding

By Denise Bachman, O-R Sports Staff

Resting comfortably in Center Township is the small town of Rogersville, population 1,300.

In the small town of Rogersville is the small school of West Greene, enrollment 290.

Although it is relatively obscure to the rest of the world, the Pioneer wrestling team is anything but obscure in the WPIAL.

The Pioneers are in second place in Section 8-AA with a 6-1 record and have gained the respect of the coaches throughout the WPIAL, evidenced by the fact they maintained fourth place this week in the O-R's wrestling poll.

Much of that respectability can be attributed to John Walters, who this season entered his 22nd year as head coach at West Greene. During a 21-year span, Walters compiled a 185-96 record. And barring a loss to Carmichaels Wednesday in the regular-season finale, the Pioneers are assured a berth in the WPIAL team tournament, its first since the tournament was initiated three years ago.

Walters is quick to point out, however, that he couldn't have done it alone.

"The kids have worked under adverse conditions and it's more a tribute to them that they've done this," Walters said. "The kids today are a little more dedicated than they were 10 years ago. There's more things to do today, more money, more time and more places to go. Who wants to go to wrestling practice and sweat when you don't have to?"

Arleigh Closser at 167 pounds, Rikk Walters (145), Alvie Bedilion (155), Jeff Hartzell (98) and Kurt Jones (126) are willing to name a few. For it is these five lettermen who have formed the nucleus of the 1982-83 team.

They have received a boost from the remainder of the lineup, including Doug Rissla (98), who has filled in admirably for the injured Hartzell, Scott Durbin (105), Scott Miller (112), Bob Simms (119), Pat Headley (132), Tim Horr (138), Buzzy Walters (185) and heavyweight Doug Ealy.

"This season is a little bit of a surprise, but we're hanging in there," Walters said. "Our strongest point is the experience we brought back, while our weak point is the lack of depth, which is the same chapter written every year."

"I have had better balanced teams, but the character of this team has stood so far. They have withstood a lot of trials and tribulations. Every

Face Reduction Of Staff

WAYNESBURG — The number of clerical positions in Greene County's three district magistrates' offices will be reduced to bring them into line with recommendations of the Pennsylvania Court Administrative Office.

The county commissioners, at their meeting last Thursday, said the staff reductions will be carried out in compliance with an order of the Greene County Court.

At the present time, there are six full-time clerical and secretarial people employed — two in John Watson's District 1 office in Waynesburg, two in Ruth Hughes' District 2 office at the Greene County airport, and one in Emil Bertugli's District 3 office in Carmichaels. The sixth employee rotates among the offices as needed.

Effective March 1, staffing will be reduced to one full-time person in each of the three offices, plus an additional part-time clerk who will work 20 hours a week in the office of Ruth Hughes.

John B. Waters

John B. Waters, 93, of New Freeport, died at 7:45 p.m. Sunday, February 14, 1983, in his home.

Jury Favors Contractor

WAYNESBURG — A Greene County Civil Court jury Wednesday awarded $6,000 to a contractor for repairs he did on a garage and barn during the summer of 1981.

The verdict in favor of Gaylord Shumaker and the Shumaker Construction Co., Rogersville, was returned following a two-day trial. Defendants were James D. and Minnie Stoneking of New Freeport R.D.1.

In addition to awarding $6,000 to Shumaker, the jury directed the defendants to pay interest and court costs. It rejected the defendant's claim that the work had not been done properly.

The work was done under an oral contract. It was brought out during the trial that the Stoneking had paid Shumaker $2,000, but refused to pay the balance of his bill.

The staffing levels were recommended by the state court administrator on the basis of a statewide study aimed at determining how many staff members were needed to efficiently deal with the caseload being handled by the magisterial offices. It determined that one person could effectively handle an average of 1,484 filings per year.

In making the recommendation for staffing in Greene County, the report noted that a high percentage of filings in the three offices consisted of traffic citations, which require less time for processing than do misdemeanor and felony complaints.

In 1981, traffic citations made up 41 percent of the workload in Watson's office, 72 percent in Mrs. Hughes' office and 61 percent in Bertugli's office.

The total number of cases filed in the Greene County offices in 1981 were 1,411 in Watson's office, 2,479 in Mrs. Hughes' office and 1,227 in Bertugli's office.

Dairyman Noted For Production

WAYNESBURG — A Greene County dairyman was honored by the Atlantic Breeders Cooperative for outstanding herd production during the past year at the 19th annual District 10 meeting held Wednesday at Waynesburg.

Arthur Biddle of Carmichaels R.D.1, owner of Plainfield Farm, received a certificate of merit for having a top Dairy Herd Improvement Association average during 1982.

His herd averaged 18,031 pounds of milk and 675 pounds of butterfat, which was in excess of 10 percent above the state average for milk or butterfat production last year. At least two-thirds of cows in the herd are progeny of Atlantic sires.

Awards were presented by Robert Badger, Atlantic field supervisor for this area.

Clyde Robinson of Coal Center, a District 11 director, informed members that 1982 was a successful business year for Atlantic despite economic uncertainties. An expansion program was completed to house more bulls at the Lancaster headquarters and additional land was acquired for raising feed and to provide for possible future growth of the facilities. Robinson called on members to keep their cooperative financially sound through increased patronage this year.

Through a panel discussion on a film on "progressive breeding," several Atlantic members explained how they use the superior genetics from current proven sires to improve their herds.

Management representative David Yoder of Lancaster reminded members that service fees and semen prices on cooperative bulls have held steady for the past 18 months while their genetic merits continued to improve. He said the new herd evaluation program called Linear-Mate leads to more accurate sire selection for better progeny.

Owner Arthur Biddle, left, and herdsman Paul M. Hoge display dairy production award won by Plainfield Farm.

90TH BIRTHDAY — Mary M. Newsome, mother of Mrs. Dale (Carolyn) Hockenberry of Nemaocolin, was recently honored on the occasion of her 90th birthday at party held at the Ramada Inn in Cordele, Ga. Friends and family members from Pennsylvania, Georgia, Florida and Virginia attended the affair. Among the guests were her five children, seven of her grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. She has three brothers, John Moreland, 92; Charles Moreland, 88, and Joshua Moreland, 80, and one sister, Mattie M. Brooks, 86.

Arrested Following Accident

WAYNESBURG — George Morris of Waynesburg R.D.3 was arrested by Waynesburg police Sunday night and charged with driving under the influence following a three-vehicle accident on East Lincoln Street.

Police said the accident occurred at 6:36 p.m. when Morris struck a parked vehicle owned by Oscar R. Iams of 785 Broad Street, Washington. While attempting to back up after the vehicles locked together, Morris pulled the Iams vehicle into another parked car, this one owned by Cathy L. Stagers of Waynesburg R.D. 1.

Morris was taken to the state police barracks for an intoxilyser test. Police said Morris will be taken before Magistrate John Watson on Monday when charges will be filed.

Ground Is Broken For New Recreation Center

WAYNESBURG — For Waynesburg College, 1982 was a year of great change, with the start of the first major capital project in more than a decade, new academic programs that included the first graduate-level degree offered at the college in modern times, and a change in leadership at the presidential level. Perhaps the most visible change at Waynesburg during the past year was the recreation center project. First announced four years ago as one component of "A Program for Waynesburg College," the recreation center was, in some ways, a victim of the economic recession of the past two years. The project was delayed at its start, then revised in size and scope, and finally launched in three phases.

Alumni and friends of the college played major roles in initiating the project. In a "special effort" phonathon in the spring, alumni pledged more than $110,000 toward the recreation center, this providing the funds necessary to launch the renovation and construction effort. Overall, more than $1.2 million was raised for the project, while the college continued to expand its scholarship programs and finished with a modest annual-fund surplus for the 1981-82 year.

In its deliberations concerning the recreation center, the college board of trustees had voted to proceed with renovation and construction without assuming a burdensome debt. President Joseph F. Marsh, in announcing the trustees' decision, said: "This revised concept will provide the additional facilities needed to accommodate men's and women's sports, an expanded intramural program and increased recreational use, as well as bring facilities in the existing gymnasium up to acceptable quality."

Addition To Flenniken Library Dedicated In '82

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Library System was formed in 1976, by a joint resolution of the Greene County Commissioners and the library boards of the Bowlby Public Library and the Flenniken Memorial Library. The library system is comprised of the Bowlby Public Library in Waynesburg with its Operation Outreach and the Flenniken Memorial Library located in Carmichaels. The Greene County Library System assures that all county residents can borrow materials from and utilize the services of any library in the system free of charge.

with the Greene County Council on the Arts, by Elaine Comparone, harpsichordist, and Craig Babcock, mime.

Bowlby Public Library originated as a Children's Library and many activities are still designed for children. Story hours and special events are scheduled regularly. These include regular morning sessions for pre-schoolers and special after school programs. Featured after school programs this year included cider pressing and tomato planting conducted by Roger Smith of the Penn State Extension Service. Other special events for children included a puppet show, a children's art contest during the Rain Day festivities and trips to Ryerson State Park, Little Lake Theater and the Creative Arts Center of West Virginia University.

Our outreach services currently include the establishment and maintenance of mini libraries throughout the county and the delivery of books to homebound people. Anyone interested in more information about either of these programs is encouraged to call 627-9776.

Phase one of the project, renovation of the existing college gym, was begun during the summer and was almost completely finished by late fall. It cost $256,000 and included complete renovation of the men's and women's locker rooms and training areas. Major renovation work was also done to the lobby and offices in the existing gymnasium, including installation of new exterior doors.

Phase two, including construction of the exterior shell of the new facility, was launched with a ceremonial groundbreaking on Aug. 31, the first day of classes for the 1982-83 academic year. At year end, it was near completion at a cost of $802,000.

Approximately 51% of the operating costs for the system are met by monies from the Bowlby and Flenniken endowments. The remaining costs are met by monies from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, several school districts and municipalities within the county, United Way, Circle Foundation and funding from other groups and individuals. These funds enable Bowlby to be open 50 hours a week, Flenniken to be open 42 hours a week and Operation Outreach to be open 17 hours a week.

Of special note is the summer reading program for elementary age children held during July. Last summer's program featured reading, stories, crafts, films and games.

The original library building was opened in 1960 with funds left by Earl T. Flenniken in memory of his parents, William F. and Mary A. Flenniken.

Services provided by Flenniken Library are furnishing the Carmichaels area with a Social Security Outreach Office each Tuesday, a weekly pre-school storyhour for ages 3-5, special after school programs, field trips and bus tours open to persons in the community. A Red Cross Babysitting Course was also held in the fall and one is in the planning stage now.

Phase three, involving interior finishing in the new facility and purchase of equipment, will be undertaken when additional funds are secured. It will cost an estimated $400,000.

And, as the recreation center project progressed, Miller Hall also underwent extensive restoration. Under a matching grant from the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, the college replaced soffit and fascia on the 102-year-old structure, did needed caulking and painting, and repaired gutters and other roof areas.

The County Library System owns over 49,000 items. These books, magazines, newspapers and audio visual materials are available for use, free of charge, to county residents: individuals, agencies and groups. In 1982 97,614 items were borrowed from the Library System: 42,081 from Bowlby, 26,041 from Flenniken and 29,492 from the Bookmobile and Operation Outreach. In addition 369 programs with a total attendance of 6,874 were presented. These programs are directed to people of all ages. During National Library Week in April, approximately 160 people enjoyed a bus trip, sponsored by both libraries, to the Pittsburgh Zoo. Other programs included performances in conjunction Bowlby Library provides a variety of programs and services for other age groups. The library hosted a concert by the Waynesburg Brass Ensemble and made its meeting room available to the Greene County Council on the Arts to teach a six week Adult Calligraphy Course. In addition, Bowlby received a Library Services and Construction Art (LSCA) Title I grant which provided funding for a library at the new county jail and became the county distribution point for the Talking Books Program sponsored by the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. Numerous other programs were also provided to county residents by the Bookmobile and Operation Outreach.

This past year, as every year, the Flenniken Library and Carmichaels Women's Civic Club sponsored a Summer Reading Club for the school aged children of the small community.

With the opening of the new addition the library added hours. The library is now open: 1 to 5 and 6 to 8 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from 10 to 5 and 6 to 8 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday, and from 10 to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

Goal of the restoration work was to correct water leakage problems in the building and a major part of the work centered on replacement of damaged brick and repointing parts of the exterior where mortar had been washed away.

Nursing is not the only medical program being offered.

Not too much is apparent above ground yet, but work on Consolidation Coal Company's new mine at Enon in Richhill Township is on schedule. The first coal is expected to come from the mine the latter part of 1983.

Being Built At Enon

Baily Mine Construction Is On Schedule

WAYNESBURG — Construction of the new Baily mine in northwestern Greene County is almost exactly on schedule, according to a spokesman for Consol Pennsylvania Coal Company.

into production. No construction schedule has been prepared for the final three mines.

another Conoco subsidiary, is building at a port near Baltimore, Md. The port facility is expected to be completed by the middle of this year.

"We still anticipate that the first coal will be produced in approximately the third quarter of 1983," he said. When the mine reaches full production in 1986, it will produce an estimated 2.3 million tons per year.

"As might be expected, general conditions in the coal industry in the years ahead will have a lot to do with it," the spokesman said.

In conjunction with construction of the first mine, a new 15-mile long railroad line is being built from Enon to West Waynesburg, where it will tie into the Monongahela Railway line for transportation to the port. Construction of the railroad is also expected to be completed by the third quarter of this year.

The facility being constructed at Enon in Richhill Township is the first of five mines which the company, a subsidiary of Conoco Inc., plans to eventually develop.

Much of the coal from the Baily mine and the others which will follow is scheduled for shipment overseas under an agreement with Rheinbraun, one of West Germany's largest mining companies. Under the agreement, Rheinbraun has a 24 percent equity participation in all five proposed mines.

Pittsburgh seam coal from the 26,000 acre Manor reserve field will be utilized by the Baily and by the second mine to be built. The other three mines are planned for development of Consolidation's Nineveh reserve field, which lies just west of the Manor field.

The company has not changed its plans to begin construction of a second mine during 1983, although no timetable has been set up for it to go

Greene County Memorial Revises Visitation Policies

WAYNESBURG — There is nothing that puts a smile on the face of John Spade Sr. quicker than a visit with his three-year-old granddaughter Erin.

In 1982, Greene County Memorial Hospital revised its visitation policies so that family separations, because of hospitalization, would be minimized. "We have found that a hospital stay can be as difficult on the family as it is on the patient," said Michael Flinn, hospital administrator.

"In inacting this new policy, we hope to speed the healing process for our patients by permitting brief visits with their children or grandchildren and, in addition, the children can be reassured that mommy or daddy or grandpa is getting better," he added.

The visitation policy, in addition to visiting hours for adults from noon to 8 p.m. daily, now provides for brief visits by children in patient rooms between the hours of 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. each evening. Children's visits are requested to be brief, 15 to 20 minutes, so as not to tire patients.

The revised visitation policy was indicative of the direction that GCMH took in 1982 to provide specialized services and programs for patients. "Continued specialization increases our ability to provide for the many needs of our patients as well as providing a greater degree of quality care," said Flinn.

The Cardiology Department was developed in July to provide special services to patients with heart problems. Electrocardiograms (EKGs) are performed in the department and show an electrical tracing of the patient's heart activities.

EKGs may also be performed in the emergency area on patients brought in with severe heart pain. Another service is the Holter Monitor which resembles a small tape recorder and is worn by patients for a 24-hour period. The tape is then "read" by a special machine. The report will reveal any abnormal heart activity over the 24-hour period and aids the physician in the prescription of treatment.

The echocardiogram is a type of ultrasound. A large microphone passes over the patient's heart area and the sounds produce a picture of the heart on a small screen. These diagnostic tests make a physician's work easier by providing critical information about a patient's condition.

A team approach to Intravenous (IV) Therapy was implemented through the hospital's nursing department in early 1982. The IV team mixes solutions (blood, medications, nourishments, etc.), starts the IVs on patients and monitors them. This service provides a greater measure of quality control through more consistent and skilled IV therapy for patients. In addition, patient discomfort is greatly reduced and staff nurses benefit by having more time to do direct patient care rather than monitoring the IVs.

The Patient Representative Program, begun in early 1982, was initiated to enhance the patient's stay at Greene County Memorial Hospital and to address the needs of patients as consumers.

The program provides an administrative representative to apprise patients of their rights and responsibilities and the services available to them while under the hospital's care. The representative is also available to answer any questions or concerns that arise during the patient's stay. This service is available to a patient's family as well.

The Family and Teen Health Program initiated a new and unique service for sufferers of Premenstrual Syndrome (PMS). Victims of the hormonal imbalance can be assessed through the PMS Treatment Program and receive treatment and follow-up care. The hospital program is the only program in the country to provide both assessment and treatment for this condition. The pharmacy compounds individual prescriptions of progesterone for PMS patients. This coordination among hospital departments and physicians provides the most effective and comprehensive way of serving patients.

Greene County Memorial Hospital's Home Health Program continued to expand to meet the demand for providing patient care in the homes and consequently reducing the number of hospital admissions. In addition to the main office at the hospital, Home Health located new offices in Uniontown and Marianna.

They also maintained offices and services in Brownsville and Dry Tavern. In the fall of 1982, Home Health was granted a certificate of need to provide services to residents in the Hundred-Burton areas of West Virginia. Plans are in progress to locate an office in Dilliner in 1983.

The worsening economy and a continued concern on behalf of the hospital to contain patient costs wherever possible led to the organization of materials management as a separate department in January 1982. This department contains hospital costs by providing an efficient method for ordering, procuring and controlling the hospital's supplies, equipment, and contracted services, while still maintaining a high quality of patient care.

Consolidation of ordering and built-in controls in the ordering process resulted in a compressed inventory and a savings of $17,000 to $20,000 in the first months of the department's operation.

Specialization was key to the continued recruitment of physicians to the area. In spite of the retirement of doctors Grover C. Powell and D.P. Greenlee, the medical staff had an overall increase of 14 physicians in 1982.

The hospital's proposed expansion and renovation project to increase capacity in ancillary areas was given its final approval in late December by the Pennsylvania Department of Health.

"This approval and subsequent expansion of the hospital is a part of the planned growth that our hospital must experience in order to meet the specialized needs of our patients and community. Our commitment to the future and to quality health care for the residents of Greene County will always press us to strive for excellence," Flinn concluded.

MORE THAN $2 MILLION PAYROLL IN 1982 PAID TO APPROXIMATELY 350 EMPLOYEES!

First Federal Building Drive-In Facility

WAYNESBURG — First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Greene County is constructing a new drive-through center on an acre of land in the Morrisville section of Franklin Township.

The site, near the intersection of Routes 19 and 21, is two miles east of Waynesburg.

According to James L. Brewer, president of First Federal, the land and building have been designed to accommodate a modern drive-in facility. The proposed branch facility — opposite the Foodland Market — will provide easy access ways for vehicles traveling on Routes 19 and 21.

The site was purchased from Blaine A. and Wilma F. Beeghley of Washington.

Brewer said that increased business activity resulting in part from the rapid growth of First Federal's new interest-bearing checking accounts has accentuated the need for an easy access, customer-convenience, drive-in office.

He pointed out that, in just one year, the new NOW checking accounts had grown to some 550 with a year-end balance of nearly $1,350,000.

Brewer said that construction is scheduled for completion by early spring of this year. There will be four entry and four exit lanes with four teller stations, one of which will be fully automated.

Greene First Federal Cited By Publication

WAYNESBURG — Increases in both savings and reserves and approval of almost $12 million in mortgage loans during 1982 contributed to another successful year of operation by First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Greene County.

"In a year of many changes and new problems, First Federal successfully adjusted to changed circumstances and recorded substantial growth and sound progress to complete 1982 in strong financial position," President James L. Brewer reported to the institution's board of directors and shareholders at the annual meeting last month.

He noted that National Thrift News has again recognized the Greene County institution as being among the "High Performance Associations" in the United States.

Brewer reported that savings balances at year end stood at an all-time high of more than $168 million, a gain of almost $7.3 million during the past year.

"Our savers again had a good year in 1982 due to the continued high rates paid to some 33,694 account holders," he said.

JAMES L. BREWER

GCID To Continue Aggressive Program

WAYNESBURG — The importance of continuing an aggressive industrial development program during the present period of severe economic recession is reflected in activities of Greene County Industrial Developments Inc. during 1982, and in its outlook for 1983.

One of the principal tools for such development is the Industrial Revenue Bond program, which makes tax-exempt revenue bond and mortgage financing available to firms which plan industrial and commercial construction or expansion projects. It is administered in Greene County by GCID and the GCID Authority.

Through use of the IRB program over a period of years, the agencies have assisted in the financing of $48 million in construction and expansion projects which have resulted in the creation or retention of more than 1,000 jobs, creating an annual payroll of more than $10 million.

During 1982, capital investments of almost $7.7 million were approved, with closings having come during the year to create 37 new jobs. Closings on the others are anticipated early this year.

George K. Stennett, GCID executive director, foresees a slight improvement during the coming year, and notes that GCID is in a position of having a competitive edge over other areas in attracting new industry through having erected a shell building in its Paisley Industrial Park near Carmichaels.

The steel frame allows for construction of a 100-by-200 foot, expandable building with crane-support capability. It is located on a five-acre site in the park.

Stennett, who has been actively marketing the building since it was built last year, said the agency has three solid prospects for the building

During the year, First Federal added $320,995 to reserves and surplus, boosting total reserves to more than $17 million, amounting to 10.32 percent of total savings capital. "This figure exceeds Federal Insurance Reserve requirements of $5 million by more than $12 million, an extremely healthy development," he said.

In a continuing commitment to helping people buy homes, the association during 1982 approved almost $12 million in mortgage loans to bring its loan portfolio to more than $145 million.

Several new types of savings accounts were introduced during the past year. In May, the 91-day Money Market Certificate was established, followed in December by the new Money Market Deposit Account (Tri-Chek). "These, along with our existing savings programs, provide a wide choice for our savers," the president pointed out.

Sometime during the spring of this year, First Federal will open a new four-lane drive-through service center in Morrisville, east of Waynesburg. A 24-hour automatic teller machine will be a feature of the new convenience center.

During the annual meeting, three members of the board of directors were re-elected — Isaac Moredock of Rices Landing and Ewing B. Pollock and T. Sayers Baily, both of Waynesburg.

Moredock was re-elected board chairman, a position he has held for many years, and Brewer was elected to his 12th consecutive year as president.

Other officers, all of whom were re-elected, are Louis DeMay, first vice president; Kenneth C. Baily, vice president-secretary; Richard V. Morgan, vice president-treasurer; Edward S. Goodwin, vice president; Scott S. O'Neil, vice president-assistant secretary; John E. Mariner, assistant secretary-treasurer, and Thomas R. Scott, assistant secretary.

and predicts that it will be occupied by the end of the year.

"It will pretty much depend on the general economy," he said. "I am told by client prospects that they would like to expand and grow, but are waiting to act until the economy gets better."

Stennett said the advantages of constructing a shell building, in addition to the competitive edge, are its flexibility to meet the needs of a client and to provide usable space quickly.

He said that GCID can provide various financing arrangements and financing packages to a business or industry wanting to build, expand or relocate. Many involve a combination of public and private money and some are restricted, such as for use in the purchase of land only.

The GCID track record for the past 15 years is one Stennett is proud to recite. In addition to being responsible for the development of $50 million in capital investment and the creation or retention of 1,000 jobs, the agency has been instrumental in obtaining $15 million in development grants for various authorities and municipalities in the county, has developed two industrial parks, and has the land available for development of a third park if it should ever become necessary.

In 1983, due to the tightness of county financial resources, GCID will be working with a budget which is just half the size of its budgets in recent years. While this will restrict some of its activities, Stennett feels it will still be able to maintain its role as a key instrument in promoting the advantages of Greene County as a profitable location for new industry.

"Things should begin to open up again as soon as the economy turns around, and you can be sure we will be ready to take advantage of any opportunities which come our way," he said.

Baily Agency In Greene County Since The Turn Of Century

WAYNESBURG — Quoting from the 1906 publication of Waynesburg: Prosperous & Beautiful — "No one is more familiar with the resources, probable growth and developments to follow in the near future than the firm of Randolph & Baily."

Over the past 77 years, this successful partnership has grown into the Baily Agency Inc., with offices in Waynesburg and Washington.

Its long-term success is due to a highly-trained staff which in 1982 had more than 100 years' combined experience in the insurance field. Baily's management personnel including Charles R. Baily, John Blosser and Charles Baily Jr. in the Waynesburg office along with James Conn in the Washington office have more than 80 years' experience and training.

In 1982, Conn received the designation of Certified Property & Casualty Underwriter which is similar to a master's degree in the insurance business.

Even with such a wealth of experience and knowledge behind it, the agency continues to look toward the future. According to Charles Baily Jr., the agency's computer system will be extensively updated this year with the end result being a total link-up with some of the agency's major companies.

He explained this will provide the agency with such services as electronic mailing, instant quotation abilities, policy printouts and updates. Baily stressed that the most important feature of computerization is faster and more efficient service for customers.

Along with Baily's commitment to efficiency and progress in 1983 is the dedication to its independent agency status. By representing several different companies such as The Continental, Hartford, Travelers and Celina Mutual, the Baily Agency can tailor an insurance program to suit personal or business needs. This allows Baily customers to reduce their insurance costs which will be the agency's primary goal throughout 1983.

Baily Agency's realty division, Baily Real Estate Agency Inc., with offices in Waynesburg and Washington, is also prepared for further growth this year. Harland R. Headlee, broker and Karl Baily, associate broker, both look for increased activity in the housing market this year. Headlee noted that mortgage interest rates are at the lowest level in years which will result in an increased demand for housing in 1983.

Through its membership in West Penn Multi-List Inc., Baily Real Estate exposes a home, farm or commercial property to more than 400 real estate offices in southwestern Pennsylvania.

This affiliation, along with assistance from Baily's realty associates John Mosier and Ruth Bawell, provided the firm with a 1982 sales volume of $1.5 million. Despite the increased interest rates and uncertain economy, this record exceeded 1981 sales volume by 40 percent.

Baily's commitment to the future of the community is evidenced by its decades of service in the past. By being an active part of the community, the firm can keep abreast of changing needs and problems while working with customers to find the solutions.

The Russian republics were combined in 1922 as the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Despite Construction Slowdown, 1982 Busy Year For Greene County Planners

WAYNESBURG — Despite a slowdown in the number of residential subdivisions being presented for review, 1982 proved to be a busy year for the Greene County Planning Commission.

In their annual report for the past year, County Planner Valerie Cole and Assistant Planner Linda A. Kolat note that just three residential subdivisions, containing a total of 11 lots, were begun during the year, a figure well below the norm of recent years. The only commercial subdivision presented under the county subdivision was a four-lot addition to the Greene Plaza shopping center in Franklin Township.

At the same time, however, there were eight land development projects submitted for review under the county subdivision and land development ordinance, which was an increase over the preceding year.

They included the 76-unit Autumn Ridge townhouse complex in Cumberland Township, plans for two fast food restaurants and two branch banks, for an addition to Greene County Memorial Hospital, for a large new nursing home in Franklin Township, and for a new church in Franklin Township.

In addition, the number of "lot splits" requested under the ordinance continued to increase, with 24 being reviewed and approved.

Continued activity in the field of public services was experienced during the past year, as the planning commission was called upon to provide clearinghouse approvals on several grant applications for expansion of sewerage and water services in the county.

They came from the Carmichaels-Cumberland Joint Sewer Authority for development of a site for a pump station, the Brave Sewer and Water Authority for construction of a small community sewerage system, from the Mt. Morris Water and Sewer Authority for extension of its water lines, and from the Southeast Franklin Water Authority for development of two wells as sources of public water.

Financial Plan Urged

WASHINGTON—Sen. John Heinz (R-Pa.) has urged railroad labor and management officials to develop and submit a sound financing plan for the railroad retirement system.

Stating that Congress "Stands ready to act," Heinz said that the lawmakers need a guide from retirement system's representatives.

grants to correct drainage and erosion problems in community parks in Center, Gilmore, Morris and Richhill Townships.

As is always the case, the Planning Commission was also involved in road improvement planning in 1983.

In conjunction with PennDOT, the planning commission identified high volume truck routes in the county as part of a study intended to pinpoint deficient bridges and roadways. The state's 12-year highway plan was revised as it applies to Greene County, and the planning commission was involved in exploring the most feasible way to eliminate the at-grade railroad crossing at the foot of Morgan Street in Waynesburg.

The agency also mounted a campaign to assist residents of Dunkard Township in their efforts to persuade PennDOT to move up its schedule for replacement of the Bobtown bridge on Route 30103 because of its limited weight-bearing capacity and the volume of traffic it carries.

The staff has also been very involved with the Small Communities grant program through assisting a Uniontown consulting firm in its efforts to secure grants for three municipalities in the county. Still pending are a request from the Borough of Clarksville for $623,000 to construct a storm sewer system, sidewalks and curbs and to rehabilitate streets; an application from Franklin Township for $1 million for a storm sewer and street rehabilitation program in West Waynesburg, and an application for $700,000 from Morgan Township for a new sewerage system for the Teagarden Homes Authority.

Planning Commission activities are directed by a nine-member board appointed by the Greene County commissioners to represent various sections of the county. Commissioner Joseph Pawlosky represents the commissioners on the board. Appointed members are Robert A. Long, H. Terry Grimes, H. B. Arrison, Floyd T. Hornick, Byron A. Hughes, Raymond L. Randolph, Marian C. Rush, Jon E. Titus and Michael Lucas Jr. Lucas was appointed just recently to replace J. Claude Smith, a charter member who died recently after more than 25 years of service on the commission.

Second Generation Heads Wayne Lumber

WAYNESBURG — Although the business has been in the family for many years, Wayne Lumber Co. in 1982 was operated for the first time by the second generation of the Shirl Headlee family.

Joe and Mark Headlee took over the business in January 1982, and little has changed in the service being offered to area customers.

During the past year, the brothers completed a re-merchandising of the familiar business located along Route 21 in West Waynesburg. Various departments have been relocated.

Tools now occupy over 100 feet of wall space in the rear of the store and there is a larger inventory of plumbing supplies, auto accessories, remodeling items and other building and supply materials.

The store now carries a complete line of hardware items and added emphasis will be placed on this phase of the business. The firm will continue to carry lumber and construction supplies and will remain active in commercial and residential building projects.

The firm was founded in 1950 by Shirl and Kenneth Headlee and was later purchased by Shirl and his wife, who operated the business since 1964.

Wayne Lumber serves as a center for retail building contractors and also handles general contracting work of its own, specializing in new home construction and major renovation projects.

Although there are currently 18 employees, the company payroll almost doubles during the building season.

Carmichaels Bank Experienced Record Growth In 1982

CARMICHAELS — The First National Bank of Carmichaels experienced a year of record growth during 1982, with substantial increases in all areas of significance.

With a record one-year increase in deposits of $9,641,000, total assets of the financial institution reached $56,104,000, for a growth of 18 percent.

In a letter to the shareholders, Board Chairman John E. Baily and President Joseph E. Dell noted that earnings of $8.56 per share enabled the bank to increase its dividend payment for 1982 to $180,000 as compared with $160,000 in the two prior years, and also provided the bank with $505,000 to be added to the equity capital account.

"This addition to equity capital maintains a strong capital position which indicates significant strength and places us in a strong position to meet future needs and contingencies," they said.

During the past year, the bank substantially improved its facility at the Greensboro drive-in by adding two remote drive-up units and adding to the building to expand the capacity of the office and improving service to customers.

In December of 1982, ground was broken for a new branch in Franklin Township. It will be located at the Greene Plaza shopping center near the Waynesburg Interstate 79 interchange and will consist of drive-in units and a permanent office designed to more ably service customers in the Waynesburg area.

The bank is also planning the installation of three automatic teller machines. They will be located at the main office at Carmichaels, at the Waynesburg office, and at the new office in Franklin Township.

"These machines, in tandem with our association with the Cash Stream/Cirrus Network of ATM's, will assure our customers with maximum coverage of accessibility to their funds, not only in Greene County but throughout the United States," the bank officials said.

Greenway Vital Force In Economy

WAYNESBURG — Greenway Manufacturing Co., a subsidiary of Donmoor Corp., begins its 36th year of operation in Greene County in 1983 and, despite feeling the effects of the present economy, will continue to be a vital force in the local employment picture this year.

From humble beginnings in a rented building with a handful of workers in 1947, the company has expanded over the years to a point where it now has an annual payroll in excess of $3 million.

Over 400 local residents, most of them women, are employed in the manufacture of childrens' clothing with two plants in Waynesburg and one in Nemaocolin. Greenway also has an outlet store next to its original plant in the Morrisville section of Franklin Township.

Greenway came to Greene County as the result of an effort by the Greater Waynesburg Area Chamber of Commerce and several interested businessmen from the area.

After the firm outgrew its first building in Morrisville, it obtained a new plant in the industrial park east of Waynesburg near the county airport through the efforts of Greene County Industrial Development. The 28,500-square-foot building was erected in 1965.

Additional growth required the purchase of a 10,000-square-foot structure in Nemaocolin in 1969 and in 1974, the need for still more space resulted in the construction of a 15,000-square-foot addition to the plant at the industrial park.

James A. Rush, a Donmoor vice president, manages the Greenway operation with Al Reece being assistant manager for the industrial park plant and Paul Iams assistant manager at Nemaocolin.

Greenway has never lost a day's operation as the result of a labor-management dispute. Both the company and union have made substantial contributions to community projects. The company, for example, has contributed to various services at Greene County Memorial Hospital and has established a scholarship fund for county residents at Waynesburg College.

"OUR GOAL IN PLANNING GREENE COUNTY'S FUTURE IS TO PRESERVE ITS SCENIC BEAUTY WHILE ACCOMMODATING PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY."

GREENE COUNTY

- ★ Contains 577 sq. miles of hills and valleys rich in coal and other mineral wealth.
- ★ Although coal has traditionally dominated Greene County's economic development, manufacturing has made steady growth over the past two decades. Industrial parks have been established, major traffic routes improved, job training programs begun, and in relation to all these, community development and planning have been encouraged to keep pace with economic development. Diversification and increase in the manufacturing and trade components of the County's economy have raised the median income and standard of living.
- ★ The County's 40,000 people enjoy a seasonal climate, annual mean temperature of 52.4 degrees.
- ★ Agriculture remains as a contributor to the County's economy although not so prominently as in the past. There are a number of large and small farms operating successfully and there is still opportunity for both part-time and recreational farming. More sheep are raised here than anywhere else in the State.

West Penn Spent $3.4 Million In Jefferson Division In 1982

JEFFERSON — Expenditures of $3.4 million were made in 1982 to upgrade and add to electric service facilities serving the more than 33,600 customers in West Penn's Jefferson Division, according to division manager Frank Bogan.

Operating and maintenance expenditures totaled an additional $2.2 million.

Among the year's major projects were:

Completion of the $1.5 million expansion and modernization of the Franklin electrical distribution substation, doubling this facility's capacity, providing increased electric service reliability and greater electrical capacity for customers in the Franklin Township and Waynesburg areas.

Initiation of a two-year, $1 million project to upgrade the Luzerne electric service distribution substation near Brownsville providing increased electrical capacity for customers in the Brownsville, Hiller and West Brownsville areas.

Construction of new high-voltage electrical distribution facilities to serve the growing electrical demands of the coal industry in Greene County, totaling $225,000.

Electric service line construction to serve new customers in various areas of Jefferson division totaled $512,000.

For 1983, Bogan reports planned electric service improvement projects and additions to electric service distribution facilities will total $5.7 million. Among major projects for 1983 are:

Construction of electric service facilities to serve new coal mining interests in Greene County, totaling $4.3 million.

Construction of a new electric service distribution facilities near Marianna at a cost of $450,000 to provide improved electric service for customers in that area of Washington County.

Expansion and upgrading of the Lantz electric service distribution substation near Waynesburg, including new distribution lines to provide greater electrical capacity and improved service reliability for customers in the Waynesburg area at a cost of $200,000.

Rewiring of electric service distribution lines near Republic.

Agway Has Served Greene County For More Than Four Decades

WAYNESBURG — The Waynesburg Agway store has been serving Greene County farmers and other customers for more than 40 years with a full line of agriculture products.

The farmers' cooperative, which became Agway Inc. in 1964 through the merger of three such groups with a cumulative record of 120 years of service, has had a store at its present location on First Street for 18 years.

The local store is managed by Mildred Taylor of Waynesburg and also employs five other persons. Its trading area includes Greene County, southern Washington County and West Virginia.

Sales have increased steadily under policies established by a local committee of six farmers working within the framework of policies set by a board of directors made up of 18 farmers elected by Agway members.

Among the services provided to farmers are plant-to-farm feed and fertilizer delivery, local grain grinding and feed mixing, fertilizer application and lime spreading, pesticides spraying, farm building construction and an insurance program and a buildings and equipment leasing plan.

Agway offers a wide range of products.

Although membership is limited to farmers, non-farm customers are also welcome at Agway stores since they deal in home and garden products as well as farm supplies.

The farm supply and food marketing cooperative is owned by 122,000 member stockholders, with the organization serving 12 states in the northeastern part of the nation.

Policies of the local store and evaluation of service to patrons is the responsibility of the six-member local Agway committee. Its members are James Hildreth, Sycamore, chairman; Earl Cole, Pine Bank, vice chairman; Harold VanDruff, Waynesburg; Bradley Eisiminger, Waynesburg; William Cree, Carmichaels and Dennis Householder, Holbrook.

Hoy's Redi-Mix Predicting Growth

WAYNESBURG — Because of new mine construction in western Greene County which is expected to continue for the next four years, Hoy's Redi-Mix is predicting company growth.

The firm, in cooperation with Belot Concrete of Tiltonsville, Ohio, has erected a batch plant near the new mine site to better serve the contractors involved.

The Waynesburg firm is owned by Bob and Nelson Hoy and is headquartered along old Route 21, east of Waynesburg.

Hoy's also supplies various building and contracting supplies including sand, gravel, plastic pipe and fittings, etc.

Hoy's has expanded its business each year and could have a major announcement within the next few weeks that would expand the business to a greater degree.

If Expenditures Mean Good Year, Then Mid-Penn Telephone Had It

WAYNESBURG — If a good year can be measured in terms of expenditures, the Mid Penn Telephone Corp. had an exceptionally good year in 1982 in the South Penn District.

An expenditure of more than $3.5 million was made in one major project and several smaller ones. Gordon Curry, service manager/vice president of Mid Penn said, "We've come a long way in improvements in this area. We are not yet where we want to be, but as economic conditions permit, we will continue to improve our product."

The most extensive project was the arrival and installation of a new computerized, digital switch. This equipment arrived in March 1982 and an open house was held a month later to explain the new equipment to business and civic leaders. The new switch and related projects were planned four years ago.

Built by Northern Telcom, the switch is electronic rather than mechanical. This inhibits mechanical breakdowns in the switching process that result in telephone outages.

The switch has a built-in computer which tells the operator where and what trouble is occurring at any given time. This feature results in faster diagnosis and repair. The switch was selected because of its proven reliability.

During the recent open house Curry said, "During the past several years Mid Penn has spent over $27 million in capital improvements in this area. Much of the improvement has been made in low-visibility areas not noticeable to the consumer. That is why we are so pleased with the public's response to our open house. It tells us they are interested."

New options are available to private-line customers because of the computerized switch. Push-button dial telephones are now a reality along with such options as call forwarding, three-way conference calling, automatic dialing and call waiting. These options are available to residential and business customers with private lines.

Telephone and security systems for home and business are sold at the conversation station at the local office. Customers may bring their phones directly to the center for repairs. This saves a service call charge and the customer also receives a $5 discount on the next phone bill.

Customers also played an important part in the progress of the utility during the past year. Curry said, "On behalf of Mid Penn, I would like to personally thank everyone in the Waynesburg area for their cooperation and understanding this past year. We needed it, asked for it, and received it. We hope you agree it was worth any inconvenience. The improvement in service is very noticeable."

Curry added that unsolicited comments are received every day and, "Mid Penn pledges to bring telecommunications progress to the local area."

"We, like you, believe this area is a great place for business, industry, and raising a family. We want to be able to provide you with the best in telephone service at a fair and equitable cost," Curry added.

He said in conclusion, "Efficiency saves money and we are becoming more efficient with each new improvement to our system. We hope to prosper and grow with you and to continue to be a part in the stimulus of that growth."

Ellwood Federal To Open Branch In Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG — Ellwood Federal Savings and Loan Association, one of the few southwestern Pennsylvania S&Ls to make money last year, will open a Waynesburg branch office at 51 West High Street this spring.

It will be the third branch office for Ellwood Federal, which is headquartered in Ellwood City, Lawrence County.

"In establishing this branch office,

Westmoreland Coal Reports Turnaround

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Westmoreland Coal Co., which lost $14.7 million in 1981, staged a significant turnaround last year, with net earnings of $8.4 million.

The 1982 net earnings per share were $1.14, up from a loss of $2.17 in 1981.

Coal sales for 1982 set a record at $548 million on 15.7 million tons sold, compared with 1981 sales of $480 million on 15.4 million tons, said Westmoreland, the nation's oldest independent coal company.

Westmoreland's fourth quarter sales, tons sold and earnings were down compared with the same period in 1981, primarily because of the effect on coal prices of the worldwide economic recession.

we are demonstrating our confidence in Waynesburg and Greene County, and in the future," said Thomas L. Martz, president of Ellwood Federal. "Yes, the nation's economy is sluggish. But it will recover — soon, all Americans hope. We are looking forward to that day and we expect to be part of it."

Ellwood Federal will be housed in the offices of the former Walton Consumer Discount Co. Dick T. Walton will be the manager of the new branch. Lisa Haines and Beverly Hamilton will form Walton's staff.

Ellwood Federal's other branches are in Zelenople, Butler County, and in New Castle, Lawrence County. Another branch is being planned for Sharon, Mercer County.

According to figures released by the Federal Home Loan Bank and published in several newspapers, Ellwood Federal was one of only five out of 50 S&Ls in southwestern Pennsylvania to make money in the first six months of last year. In 1982, Ellwood Federal moved $11.8 million into its service area in the form of total dividends, an increase of $1.3 million over 1981, Martz said.

"This shows we generate savings, and we generate savings because people have confidence in us," Martz said.

At the end of 1982, Ellwood Federal had savings deposits totaling $125.6 million, an increase of $16.4 million (15 percent) over 1981. Total mortgage, educational, home-improvement and consumer loans amounted to $82.7 million, up from $81.6 million in a portfolio of 4,399 loans.

The Waynesburg branch will offer a full range of savings and loans services, including the new money market deposit accounts that became available under federal law last Dec. 14. This new service attracted $4.5 million in savings to Ellwood Federal through the end of the year, or in just the first 16 days it was available. It requires a minimum deposit of $2,500. The interest rate varies.

Other Ellwood Federal services are:

- A regular passbook savings account at 5 1/2 percent interest, with no minimum deposit required, and a 90-day passbook account offering 6 percent, with a $500 minimum deposit.

- A variety of savings certificates running from one to eight years. Rates are based on time of maturity.

- Money Market certificates at 182 days on a $10,000 minimum.

- Negotiable Order of Withdrawal (N.O.W.) checking account, requiring no minimum balance, paying 5 1/4 percent.

Ellwood Federal also offers loans for home purchases, home construction, home improvement, consumer purchases, Christmas clubs, money orders, U.S. bonds, travelers checks, Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) and Keogh plans, vacation clubs, and direct deposit.
