Supervisors Vote To Close TR 674

CARMICHAELS — The Cumberland Township supervisors voted last Thursday night to close Township Route 674 so the area can be strip mined. Boyle Land and Fuel Co. had requested permission to mine to within 100 feet of both Route 674 and Route 662. The supervisors decided it would be better to close Route 674 so it could be included in the strip mining. The road is then to be rebuilt by the coal company to the supervisors' specifications.

Route 674 is a reddog road which extends from Route 662 to Route 587. It is not used by school buses or other public traffic and the home of James C. Hathaway is the only house on the road. The mining is to be done on land owned by Hathaway and by Doris and Felix Montury

Route 662 leads from the iron bridge in the Old Town section of Carmichaels to the Fern Cliff Road. It is reddog from Carmichaels to the Montury farm which is also known as the Old Webb Farm. The supervisors will grant permission for mining to within 100 feet of the road but it will remain open because it is used by school bues and heavy traffic. The school buses and heavy traffic. The only change in this road will be that, traveling from Carmichaels, the right turn on route 674 to the Hathaway house will be impossible.

The supervisors stated the Depart-ment of Environmental Resources permits mining to within 100 feet of a road, but permission to do so must be obtained from the local supervisors. They also said that Thursday's motion will be contingent on an agree-ment with Boyle that the company be and repair of any roads damaged in transporting coal. The supervisors said they will

He ruled that since the borough had awarded the franchise to the higher of two bidders without ade-quate justification for rejecting the lower bid, it must solicit new bids and award a new contract based on any bids received.

The action against the borough was brought by Robert Dugan of Waynesburg as a private citizen. He contended that the borough's action penalized residents because it forced them to pay higher refuse collection fees than they would have paid under a contract with Southern Allegheny Disposal Service, Inc.

The contract with Long, who was the collector at the time bids were taken in 1981, was awarded on the basis of a charge of $6 a month for curbside refuse collections and $6.50 per month for backyard pickups. Southern Allegheny had submitted a bid of $4.36 per month for curbside pickups and $5.90 per month for backyard pickups.

HARRISBURG - As the result of audit reports for the years ended June 30, 1980 and 1981, state education secretary Robert Wilburn has com-mended the officials and personnel of Jefferson-Morgan School District for their outstanding jobs of managing the financial operations of their dis-trict in accordance with the Public School Code and sound accounting procedures.

In a letter to Stanley Fowler, presi-dent of the school board, Wilburn said the report "did not contain any criticism or audit exceptions" and commended Fowler and the staff of the school district.

The letter also advised Fowler that it was the "fifth consecutive year that tices have undergone the scrutiny of the Office of the Auditor General without reproach."

PITTSBURGH — A Greene County man has been selected to undergo the first cochlear implant hope for those with profound senso-rinearal (nerve) deafness. Pioneered by Dr. William House in Los Angeles in the 1960's, the cochlear implant is an electronic instrument, part of which is surgically inserted into the temporal bone near the ear while part operation in western Pennsylvania at Eye and Ear Hospital of Pittsburgh. William Crick, 33, of Carmichaels R.D.1, will have the device implanted is worn outside the ear, like a hearing aid The transmission between these two portions of the cochlear implant will enable these patients to hear environmental sounds, such as doorbells and telephones ringing and distinguish familiar voices, according to Dr. Kamerer. Extensive rehabilitation follows the surgery to enable the patient to properly use the implant device to enhance his speech com-munication and lip reading skills. "There has always been this group of profoundly deaf persons we couldn't do anything for," Dr. Kamerer said. "Outside of signing and lip reading, they were really not in contact at all with sound. They were living in a silent world. "It has been the dream of every otologist (ear specialist) everyone

otologist (ear specialist), everyone who works with the deaf, to someday help find a breakthrough for these people

The cochlear implant does not yet provide for normal speech dis-crimination, but Dr. Kamerer sees further improvements in signal processing and transmission devices that may lead to achieving that goal. "We're still in the early stages with the cochlear implant," Dr. Kamerer said. "We're certainly not at the final answer.

the white page - but Daddy makes them sound very interesting

Later he will begin to read for himself and a vast new world will be opened. In it, however, other mysteries will appear - other things that seem as impossible as the black words against the white page. But gradually these will become clearer

One of these mysteries is religion. Understanding God's message, learning the meaning of faith — these vital subjects take a particular kind of educa-tion and special study. It will take the remainder of his lifetime, and yet more, to fully understand the spiritual universe.

But this little boy is lucky. Although he doesn't know it yet, his parents will see to it that he gets this "education" in the right place — in their house of worship.

County Couple Appeal To Keep $20,000 Bond

County couple whose son escaped from the county jail almost three years ago have appealed action taken by the county to collect the $20,000 property bond they posted when he

Attorney John Stets argued in court Friday that Mr. and Mrs. Nobel Wine cannot be held responsible as bondsmen for the fact that their son, William E. Wine, 32, Waynesburg R.D.5, escaped from custody since he was under the control of the commonwealth at the time

$20,000 bond on April 16, 1980, six weeks after their son was arrested on multiple charges of receiving stolen goods and dealing in vehicles with falsified registration numbers. Wine was out of jail until May 6, 1980, when he was re-arrested on a detainer from Ohio. He and three other prisoners broke out of the old county jail on May 26, a week before he was scheduled to go to trial. He has not been apprehended.

The county contends that the Wines, as bondsmen for their son, were responsible for his appearance Mr. and Mrs. Wine posted the at his trial and that the bond remained in effect even though he had been picked up and jailed.

Stets argued that they could not be held responsible for their son's action when he was in custody, and that the bond should automatically have been terminated and released when the defendant was arrested the second time

Judge Glenn Toothman asked both Stets and the district attorney to sub-mit briefs in support of their posi-tions, noting that the case could set a precedent for the handling of bonds by the county.

Waynesburg College currently offers a pre-nursing program and is awaiting approval from the Pennsylvania State Board of Nursing Ex-aminers for a proposed four-year baccalaureate degree in nursing. The pre-nursing program consists of general education requirements needed by all nursing students seeking fouryear degrees

During the first year, a student takes courses in biology, chemistry, English, psychology and sociology, as well as a course titled, "Nursing Ori-entation." "That course," Patton said, "helps students see what their options might be once they get a bachelor's degree in nursing. # Sentenced To West Pen

WAYNESBURG - "If there was ever a one-man crime wave, this was " Judge Glenn Toothman said Monday in sentencing a Waynesburg man to 5 to 20 years in the Western Peni-tentiary, Pittsburgh.

The sentence was imposed on David Wayne Ealy, 31, of 53 South East Street after he pleaded guilty to two counts of arson, multiple burglaries and thefts and a stabbing, committed over a period of two years. Toothman stipulated that he is to begin serving the sentence after he has completed any prison time im-posed for violation of state parole, which he said would probably add two years to his time in the penitentiary.

The arsons occurred on March 21. 1981, in Richhill Township. A barn owned by Conoco, Inc. was burned, with the loss estimated at $30,000, and a barn owned by Vergee A. Petitte of Morgantown, W.Va., was burned with loss estimated at $5,000.

County Library System Remains Vital Service

When the Greene County bookmobile was taken off the road in January, a lot of people who had come to depend on it for library services were understandably disappointed.

Over a period of some 10 years, it had brought books to thousands of people throughout Greene County who live many miles from the county's two libraries at Waynesburg and Carmichaels. The service had to be discontinued due to financial pressures brought about by a reduction in the Greene County Library System's annual appropriation from the county Fortunately, people at the Bowlby Library at Waynesburg who are responsible for administration of the county system have not backed off from their commitment to service all sections of the county.

Since the bookmobile was withdrawn, they have established book deposits in all of the schools previously visited by the mobile library and will rotate the volumes they contain on a regular basis. Other book deposits have been set up in several stores in rural areas and additional ones will be provided to serve the adult population.

In addition, the library is stepping up its efforts to recruit volunteers to serve as library aides and is attempting to interest additional organizations in the opportunities for service provided through becoming members of the Bowlby Public Library Association.

From small beginnings many years ago, both the Bowlby Library at Waynesburg and the Flenniken Library at Carmichaels have become important parts of their communities and, through the county system, of the entire county.

It is encouraging to see that members of the library boards, staff and supporting organizations are not being defeated by a financial setback but are seeking out alternative ways to continue a service which means a lot to many people.

I heard somebody on the radio the other day criticizing a certain newspaper columnist for not expressing strong opinions. The columnist in question was a sports writer, but I suppose the criticism could apply to any columnist. I started feeling guilty. Have I expressed any strong opinions lately? Well, I'm not sure. Which may be the kind of opinion I usually express, if any. So I decided to rectify any past omissions and express a strong opinion about something. I thought about it for a long time, against said government. I want to express the opinion that I'm against all this. I'm against con-tractors cheating and over-billing, and I'm against them charging the government for legal fees when caught and I'm for putting is a rule aught, and I'm for putting in a rule

I guess I won't win any stars for expressing that opinion, though, since any person not a defense contractor would say the same thing.

Would say the same thing. I think I'm also against using the word "only" in connection with the sum of $1.5 million. Then again, I suppose that's all relative, if you're thinking of $1.5 million as opposed to seven trillion, or whatever those defense contracts run, or over-run to. The newspaper also says that there is a chemical waste dump in the District of Columbia. That seems and found many things to think about. There was one story about a defense contractor billing the government for time the company's employees spent working on other, private, projects. The government complained, but set-tled out of court for "only" $1.5 mil-lion in redress from the contractor. Iton in redress from the contractor. But then the government discovered it was being billed for legal fees the contractor incurred in fighting the case. And, can you believe it, there seems to be no government rule against contractors billing the gov-ernment for the cost of fighting a case against said government

However, it seems the dump is owned by the Defense Department, the same one that pays legal fees for both sides of its cases, and so far the Environmental Protection Agency doesn't want to clean up the Defense Department's dump. I'm not sure why the EPA won't clean it up, but I can't say I blame them. Considering what might be in such a dump, I wouldn't want to touch it, either. Still, it is my strong opinion that somebody ought to clean up the dump.

Jefferson Native Reports Congress Flooded With Mail WASHINGTON, D.C. become the cheapest and easiest way for constituents to make their feelings

- Robert Rota, 48, a native of Jefferson, is House postmaster and during the course of a normal work day, watches 250,000 pieces of mail go through his office.

However, that was before the nation's legislators decided to levy a 10 percent withholding tax on interest and dividends

Because of this action, Rota's office is now receiving between 500,000 and 800,000 pieces of mail each day and the volume is continuing to grow according to the Jefferson High School graduate. "I don't think we've reached the brunt of it," he said recently.

The Waynesburg show is also a tribute, in a sense, to the Ross Long family that originally lived and trained nationally-famous horses at their Muddy Creek farm just west of Carmichaels In contrast to the early days, the Waynesburg show is now fully ac-credited by all national horse show associations. The local association is not only a non-provit organization, but annually donates all of its profits to a wide variety of local charities. more than a concept of a new type of nation when the first settlers of what is now Greene County made their way on foot and horseback across the Allegheny Mountains. They were a hearty, vigorous band of people that included some women as well as adverturous men who had the courage to risk their lives to get here. As purposeful as these pioneers may have been, their adventure would have had little chance of suc-cess had it not been for the horses they brought with them to carry their meager supplies of food, clothing and tools needed to fashion the rude cabins that would be their future homes. Without horses, in fact, their ventures would probably have ended a few miles from their start.

The horse continued to be the most important factor in transportation for many generations. Gradually it was replaced by trains, automobiles and airplanes, and today the horse has been long forgotten in many parts of the county

But in both Greene County and ajoining areas, the animal has re-tained a place in the hearts and lives of many people, with its expression coming each year af the annual horse show at Waynesburg.

The dates for this year's show at the county fairgrounds are May 27, 28, 29 and 30 (Memorial Day), with afternoon and evening shows each of the four days. Some 10 to 12 classes will be presented eah day. As usual, horses and riders from a half dozen or

Norse states are expected to take part. Visiting and local exhibitors, professional riders and judges always look forward to the Waynesburg show as one of the high mark of the annual circuit. It is known throughout the circuit. It is known throughout the Middle Atlantic area as one of the best staged and best management events of its kind — one which has grown bigger and better every year since the first one was held in a very informal style on the harness racing track just east of the grandstand. finishes were not to be had on this night or in this gym. And as a result basketball season has ended at Waynesburg College, two victories shy of a trip to the NAIA

National Tournament in Kansas City, And the Jackets were two points And the Jackets were two points short of a victory in the NAIA District 18 semifinals Monday night at Metheny Field House, as Geneva edged Waynesburg 94-92 to advance to Wednesday's district title game. The Golden Tornadoes will meet Point Park, a 54-48 winner over West-minster in the first game of Monday.

minster in the first game of Monday night's semifinal doubleheader. The final score is actually a bit misleading, it wasn't the sort of the hold-your-breath encounter that had marked Waynesburg's thrilling quarterfinal overtime win over Pitt-Bradford Friday night. Instead Geneva, now 23-9 overall, jumped on the Jackets at the start of the second half after assuming a 39-34 advantage at intermission. The Golden Tornadoes outscored Waynesburg (28-8 overall) 10-4 in the first four minutes to grab a 49-38 lead. It would be an advantage that Waynesburg would work in vain to cut for the next 14 minutes before finding success in the final moments. "I'm not embarrassed at all by our performance," Waynesburg head coach Rudy Marisa said. "We were playing a talented team on their home court. I know a million coaches have said this before, but if the game goes on say 20 seconds more we might have been able to manage it."

Instead the Jackets were unable to pull off another repeat miracle finish. They outscored Geneva 10-1 over the last 1:17 of the game, cutting the margin to two points with an eight-foot jumper by Tim Tyler with eight seconds left in the game.

The Waynesburg timesout were exhausted and Geneva, unlike Pitt-Bradford last Friday, successfully executed an in-bounds pass.

'Rudy did a great job of coaching. He tried to take our depth away by drawing fouls and we did manage to get a lot of people out," Geneva coach Lee Erickson said. "And it's not too seldom that I go through a game without yelling at the officials, so it must have been a well-coached game.

"But our depth has been the key for us this year. We've been falling behind a lot in the first half of games, but then we've managed to keep com-ing back because we just wear people down. Depth comes to a team when you develop confidence in your people. And we have the confidence to play anybody on our team."

The familiar names led both teams. Junior transfer Lee Stephens scored 16 points and grabbed six rebounds before fouling out, while Ge-neva teammate Charles Hawthrone had 23 points, with an assortment of long range jumpers and twisting drives to the basket.

Waynesburg again received con-sistent offensive play from its senior co-captains, Tyler and Tim Walker, legiate careers. Tyler finished with a game-high 27 points and eight re-bounds while Walker added 20 points before fouling out.

But Geneva's supporting cast, as both coaches readily admitted, was the difference. Freshman center Lee Fausneaucht scored 14 points in a reserve role as did senior guard Jim Traficant. In fact, there were 10 Geneva players who managed to score. "Ironically I remember hearing

Lee (Erickson) on a post-game radio show earlier in the season saying that he doesn't mind getting into a fouling contest with any team," Marisa said. "He feels his depth is superior to anybody and everybody. I put that depth third in importance for this game though. The first is that we played on Geneva's home court and second, they played extremely well.

Waynesburg's junior point guard Ray Natili broke the 1,000 career point barrier, scoring 14 points to place his career scoring total at 1,011.

Geneva shot 61 percent from the field for the game while Waynesburg had a 49 percent average. And as Marisa noted, the Jackets never seized the opportunity to take control of the game's tempo.

"If there's one thing I'm dis-satisfied with it's that we never set the pace of the game. Our only chance came in the first half when we were a point or two ahead but we never seized the opportunity. This was not a tempo to my liking."

For that matter, neither were the end results.

NAMED BEST-HITTING SARASOTA, Fla. — Dr. Steve Korcheck, almost 25 years after his major league baseball career ended, is now being called the best-hitting college president in the land. A native of Nemacolin, Steve enjoyed a brilliant athletic career at Carmichaels High School by lettering in basketball, football and baseball He received a scholarship to George Washington University where he be-came the school's first All-American in football.

A center, he was twice named to southern Conference all-star team and was voted most valuable player in the league his senior year. He was twice named to the all-con-ference baseball team as a catcher and was also named most valuable player in that sport. He was a third round draft pick of the San Franciso 49ers but chose to sign with the Washington Senators. Following a brief career in what he called the "Yo Yo League," between the majors and the minors, he retired from baseball in 1959

He took a job with a large corpora-tion near Washington and later re-turned to George Washington to teach physical education after earning his master's and doctoral degrees there. He went to Manatee Junior College in 1971 as an instructor and assistant baseball coach. He moved up the ranks until he was named president of the school in 1980. Korcheck was talked into plaving one inning of the recent alumni game. Not only did Korcheck, 50, last the entire four innings of the rain-shortened game, he scored the game's only run after hitting a sharp single over third base and racing home on another single.

"I'm just happy to have been on this team and to have been a leader. I'm happy that this is a team, that the guys on it are as team-oriented as they were when I came here," Walker said. "I'm glad I left it that way, that I didn't mess anything up." Walker fouled out of Monday's game with 2:32 remaining, having contributed 20 points, seven rebounds and three assists.

Tyler, too, made hefty contribu-tions to the Yellow Jackets' cause against Geneva. He scored a game-high 27 points and grabbed eight rebounds.

"I expected a run-and-gun type of competitive basketball here at Waynesburg College, and it was ev-erything I thought it would be," Tyler said. "I loved playing here at Waynesburg. It was a nice four years.

"I hope they do well," Walker says of the team. "If they can stay strong and catch whatever it was that Tim and I cauch whatever it was that firm and I caught from the captains before us, they'll do good. Guys like K.C. # Deer Kills Tabulated

HARRISBURG - A total of 2,764 deer were killed in Greene County during the 1982 deer season, according to the Pennsylvania Game Commission. Of the total, 1,502 deer were antlered and 1,262 were antlerless.

The game commission reports 1982 was the seventh largest deer harvest on record for the state. The state's all-time record buck harvest was in 1967, followed by the harvest in 1977, third highest in 1981 and fourth highest in

Peter S. Duncan, executive director for the commission, said, means four of the five largest buck harvests have occurred in the last six years, an impressive indication our deer management program is working well."

Yellow Jackets Snubbed

The NAIA District 18 All-Stars have been announced and the results are not very flattering for Waynesburg College.

While the Yellow Jackets finished the season in a three-way tie for third place in the district, and the best overall record among all member schools at 20-7, they were shut out from first team consideration.

And junior point guard Ray Natili was the only Waynesburg player to be nominated to the All-District second team by the vote of the nine district head coaches.

"I've always told the kids there's no personal glory in it (all-star teams) and I guess this reaffirms my belief," Waynesburg head coach Rudy Marisa said in releasing the All-District team Thursday night. "There were no flyers or releases sent out, not at least to me, so it was just the impression coaches got from seeing the teams.

Obviously the coaches don't respect us as individuals or me as a coach, so that just leaves us as a team. We're just going to go out and try to prove ourselves as a team."

Pitt-Bradford, Waynesburg's first round playoff opponent Friday night, has two first team players in guard Randy Wade and forward Ken Barber. Alliance center Harold Mong, Point Park's Joe McMillan and St. Vincent point guard Tim Miller were the other first team selections.

Joining Natili on the second team are Fred Myrick of Point Park, Craig Randall of Westminster, Don Vaughn of Behrend and Geneva's Charles Hawthrone.

The District 18 Co-Coaches of the Year are Lee Erickson of Geneva and Jerry Conboy of Point Park.

WAYNESBURG - The most memorable four seconds in Paul Stanley's basketball career to date took place here Friday night. Stanley, a 6-5 sophomore forward with the toothless but friendly smile of a hockey goalie, unwittingly as-sumed the role of Walter Mitty for the Waynesburg College basketball team.

And because of his success, the Yellow Jackets' basketball season was fouled by Jones' substitute, Jerry Lawson

The clock read 0:00 and Stanley was faced with a one-and-one foul situation that meant cheers or tears for the Jackets.

"We tried everything we could do shake him up," Pitt-Bradford coach Dick Danielson would later say. "But he made them."

And there was little doubt about either free throw, as Stanley's heroics tied the game and sent it into ov-

Waynesburg advanced to Monday ht's (8 p.m.) NAIA District 18 night' semifinals with a heartstopping 65-62 overtime victory over Pitt-Bradford. And the game featured what could be the most amazing sequence of events the district has seen in quite some time

The Yellow Jackets trailed 61-57 after Pitt-Bradford's Randy Wade sank a pair of free throws with 13 seconds left in regulation. The Pan-thers' bench started a wild celebration and in the confusion their point guard Pat Jones committed his fifth personal foul. It seemed to matter little at the time, as Waynesburg was one shy of reaching the penalty situation.

But it would come back to haunt Pitt-Bradford dearly.

With nine seconds left the Jackets tried to work for a quick shot, but senior guard Tim Tyler had the ball dribble off his foot. He recovered and shoveled a pass to Stanley, who was standing approximately 22 feet from the basket.

"I got a chance to square up and face the hoop, but my form sure wasn't pretty," Stanley would later say. It didn't matter, the ball went straight into the basket, cutting UPB's lead to 61-59.

Enter Jones' costly fifth foul. With Waynesburg exhausting its allotted timesout, the Panthers didn't need to inbound the ball to win the game. But they did, and Stanley somehow intercepted the pass.

ertime. The intense finish to the extra-period, highlighted by a game-saving steal by Waynesburg point guard Ray Natili, seemed pale to what Stanley had just endured.

"Sure, I was nervous but I just tried to block everything else out," Stanley said.

The loss understandably left Danielson distraught. He watched UPB rally from a five-point halftime deficit which saw Wade sitting out the final 13 minutes due to foul trouble. And he watched the Panthers lose their championship hopes twice, at the end of regulation time and in the final 11 seconds of overtime.

"Why (Lorenzo) Newsome would take the ball out of bounds is beyond me," Danielson said. "He never does me," Danielson said. "He never does but instead he went after the ball like the score was tied. All we have to do is hold the ball out of bounds and the game is over. "And at the end there (overtime)

Keith Rolick was hacked from two sides, their coaches were up yelling for them to foul and they did. But it wasn't called. Instead they (Natili) got the steal."

Natili, who finished with seven points in the game, sank a pair of free throws with five seconds remaining for the final score.

Tyler and teammate Tim Walker led Waynesburg (now 21-7) with 19 points each while Stanley added 18. Wade, with a brilliant second half before fouling out in overtime, led Pitt-Bradford with 23.

Pitt-Bradford' Ken Barber (52) tries to block a shot by Waynesburg's Tim Walker.

WAYNESBURG - Last week Canon-McMillan High School's wrestling team was enjoying the fruits of a WPIAL team championship and an undefeated season.

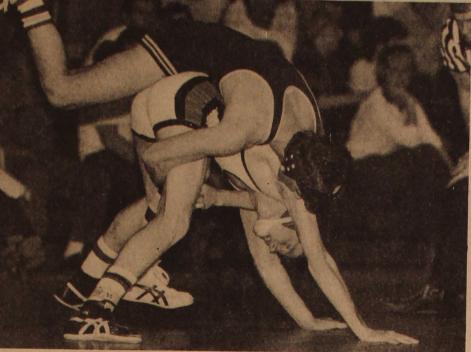

Ah, but the critics said, maybe they are the best team in wrestling but how will they do in the Section 7-AAA tournament, where the emphasis is on the individual and not the team?

Quite well, thank you. The Big Macs went through the sectional tournament at Waynesburg High School Saturday, advancing all but one wrestler to this weekend's WPIAL-District 7 Regionals at Chartiers Valley High School. The top three wrestlers in each weight class

"We would have liked to have more champions," said Trinity head coach John Abajace. "We would have liked to have had six champions. Not really anything happened we didn't think could happen. Donny Brookman was probably the one whowon who most people didn't expect could."

For Phil Mary, a two-time state champion, this tournament was something special as the senior stand-out won his 100th career match with a pin of Trinity's Jim Cappelli in the semifinals Saturday afternoon. Mary's 8-2 victory over Canon-McMillan's Ed Brown in the finals ran his overall record to 101-5-1 ran his overall record to 101-5-1.

Kevin Durkin, who spent last season in Germany, capped a triumphant return with a 10-3 decision over Chartiers-Houston's Rob Castelli at 167 pounds. Castelli, who was coming off a knee injury, was the only defend ing champion to be toppled.

First-round action in the regionals begins Thursday while quarterfinals are set for Friday and semifinals and finals Saturday. The top four wrestlers from regionals qualify for the PIAA Championships, March 16-19 at Hersheypark Arena in Hershey Pa Hershey, Pa.
