Cumberland Opposed To Apartments

By Marcia M. Biddle, Staff Writer

CARMICHAELS — Members of the Cumberland Township Zoning Hearing Board voted 3-1 Tuesday night in favor of property owners opposing construction of Cedarwood Garden Apartments, a 31-unit development planned for the Fairdale section of the township.

The board's decision will become final in 30 days unless owners of the property, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vuknic, appeal the decision. A&R Building Co., of Pittsburgh, developers of the apartment complex planned to construct the units on the 3.3 acre site owned by Vuknic and located along the Nemacolin Road just east of its intersection with Route 88.

A hearing before the zoning board had been held on February 7, with arguments presented by attorneys for A&R Builders, the Vuknics, and a group of property owners with land adjoining the proposed development area.

Township Zoning Officer John Masuga issued a zoning permit for the project to A&R Builders on December 6. The neighboring property owners had appealed the decision to issue the permit for the development because it did not meet township zoning ordinance requirements.

The February hearing testimony centered on the technical questions of whether the project met all the requirements of the township zoning ordinance.

The zoning ordinance limits garden apartments to a maximum of 12 units in one building. The Cedarwood permit was issued for "31 garden apartment units in four buildings," eight each in three buildings and seven in another. The attorney for the property owners appealing the permit being issued argued that plans for the development called for only two buildings. The counter argument was that two of the four building sections were to be separated by a solid fire wall and were therefore considered to be separate buildings and in compliance with the zoning ordinance.

The protesting property owners contended that if the structures are separate, they should be divided by a side yard of five feet each, not by a fire wall.

Tuesday night's decision by the zoning hearing board overruled the zoning officer's decision to issue the permit for the project.

The three board members voting to overrule the decision to issue the permit for the project were Edward Commons, Mary Torok, and MaChelle Ream. Board member David Smith voted that the permit was properly issued.

In other business, the board approved the return of an application for a zoning variance because it contained insufficient fees, with a question being raised of whether or not the appeal came within the board's jurisdiction. The appeal came from Robert Bell and Joseph M. George for a variance from residential to commercial use for 25 acres of land located along Route 21 near Bailey's Crossroads. They asked that the land be rezoned to allow construction of a shopping plaza.

Board members said that a variance can only be given in a case of a proven hardship, meaning the land could not be used for another purpose. They also said the board cannot grant a variance if the proposed building is not a permitted use in the zoning ordinance and suggested that a change of zoning may be required in this case, not a variance.

A hearing date was set for April 4 on an appeal by KEPCO Inc. for a special use permit for extractive industry in an A-1 agricultural zone. KEPCO is asking for a permit to drill six gas wells on property owned by Franklin Hart and by George Wilbur.

Waynesburg Man Rustler Suspect

WAYNESBURG — Ralph E. Good, 18, of Waynesburg R.D.1 has been charged with the theft of a truck and six Holstein heifers in Washington Township last December.

Good was arrested in Waynesburg Borough on charges that he stole a truck owned by Raymond Stockdale of Waynesburg R.D.5 sometime Dec. 17 or 18 and then loaded the six cattle owned by Frederick Juskowich near Ruff Creek on Dec. 18.

The truck, valued at $3,500, was later recovered in Waynesburg. The cattle, valued at $3,000, were not recovered.

Following arraignment before Magistrate Ruth Hughes, Good was lodged in Greene County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Inspector Cracks Down On Old School's Owner

WAYNESBURG — The owner of the former South Ward school building at Waynesburg will be ordered to secure the building against intruders and board up all broken windows.

Borough Zoning Inspector David Gregg said that he will immediately notify owner John McNay of Sycamore to begin work within 10 days. If he does not do so, Gregg said, the borough will hire a contractor to do the job and will bill McNay for the work.

"This situation has already existed far too long," Gregg said Tuesday after he and Police Chief Timothy Hawfield inspected the building. "McNay was placed on notice last year to do something about it and he has not complied with the zoning board directive."

The zoning inspector said that 34 large windows are broken, many of them having shards of glass still jutting from the frames. He and Hawfield also found evidence where three small paper fires had at one time been started in the building, and he found large amounts of pigeon and human excrement.

Broken glass and other debris was found both inside the building and on the grounds; a grocery cart and parking meter head were hidden in a stairwell, and four openings were found which provide easy access to the building.

"It's obvious that people have been getting into the building and probably a lot of them are young boys," Gregg said. "There are a lot of ways in which they could get hurt."

Chief Hawfield said that on Friday of last week he found three boys inside when he went to investigate a complaint from neighbors about intruders. He took them to their parents and warned that they would be fined for illegal trespass if they were ever again caught.

The large stone structure was constructed in 1900 for use as a high school and was later converted to an elementary school. It was closed in 1976 by the Central Greene School District and has been standing empty since that time; but it is still considered to be structurally sound. McNay purchased the structure in 1978.

One of the problems, Gregg theorized, is the owner's uncertainty about the future of the building, with several proposals having been made for conversion of the structure for use as housing for the elderly.

Currently, a group of investors from Ohio, with the assistance of the Southwestern Pennsylvania Economic Development District (SPEDD) and the Greene County Housing Authority, are attempting to take advantage of a new federal program to finance renovation and conversion of the building.

The Waynesburg project is one of three which SPEDD has proposed to the Farmers Home Administration for financing under Act 515, a program which makes low interest mortgages available to investors who are willing to convert existing buildings into housing for people with limited income.

SPEDD estimates that 24 units of housing for the elderly and handicapped could be provided in the Waynesburg structure, renting, without government subsidy, at from $160 to $200 a month.

Fraternity House Arson Causes Injury To Two

WAYNESBURG — Arson is suspected in a Saturday morning fire at the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity house at 311 North Richhill Street which resulted in two men being hospitalized for injuries when they jumped from the second floor.

A state police fire marshal is expected to be on the scene Monday morning because of the circumstances involved in the 5:30 a.m. blaze.

John Miller, 19, of Pittsburgh, a student who lives in the fraternity house, was admitted to Greene County Memorial Hospital with a back injury and Tim Lewis, 19, of Johnstown, an overnight guest, was hospitalized in Johnstown later Saturday for treatment of an arm injury.

Both men told fire officials they were asleep on the second floor when they were awakened by a smoke detector alarm. Because the fire was concentrated in the front foyer of the three-story, brick house, they were forced to jump from the roof of the back porch.

The fire was contained to one room and the foyer.

According to Fire Chief Pete Walker, there is little doubt the fire was started intentionally. Walker said there was a strong smell of a flammable liquid and the trail of the fire would indicate an accelerant was used.

A broken glass jug was found at the scene.

The men told college officials Sunday they tried to extinguish the flames with a garden hose but were

HARRISBURG — As the result of audit reports for the years ended June 30, 1980 and 1981, state education secretary Robert Wilburn has commended the officials and personnel of Jefferson-Morgan School District for their outstanding jobs of managing the financial operations of their district in accordance with the Public School Code and sound accounting procedures.

County Man Receives Ear Implant Surgery

By Bob Dvorchak, AP Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A man who has been totally deaf for two years had an experimental device implanted into his ear Friday that doctors say will enable him to hear sounds again.

"This procedure doesn't restore normal hearing. But it puts the profoundly deaf in contact with their environment again by giving them sound," said Dr. Donald Kamerer, who performed the two-hour operation at Eye & Ear Hospital here.

"There has always been this group of profoundly deaf persons we couldn't do anything for. They were living in a silent world. It has been the dream of everyone who works with the deaf to someday help find a breakthrough," he added.

An electronic device about the size of a nickel was implanted inside the ear of William Crick, 34, a resident of Carmichaels in Greene County. He was listed in stable condition, hospital officials said.

Crick had partial hearing since birth until an ear disease robbed him of all hearing in 1981. He will be able to differentiate sounds after about six months of rehabilitation and training, Kamerer said.

It was the first operation of its kind in western Pennsylvania.

Nationwide, the device has been implanted into more than 200 adults and 43 children since it was developed 20 years ago by Dr. William House, director of the House Ear Institute in Los Angeles.

"It's still a pioneer program. It's for the profoundly deaf, people who can't be helped at all by conventional hearing aids," said Barbara Parrott, spokeswoman for the House Ear Institute.

The $3,000 electronic device is implanted in the cochlea, a small spiral tube resembling a snail shell. The cochlea, called the most essential organ for hearing, is filled with fluid and contains about 35,000 hair cells.

In a functional ear, the nerves react to sound waves and generate an electric signal that the brain ultimately translates into hearing.

A person loses hearing if the nerves are damaged. The cochlear implant produces an electronic signal that replaces the nerve endings and creates a crude sound, something that

Man Sentenced For Wife's Murder

CURRITUCK, N.C. — The husband of a former Carmichaels woman has been sentenced to prison for her murder.

Superior Court Judge Henry Stevens III sentenced Davie D. Davidson, 44, Moyock, N.C., to serve nine years in the North Carolina Penitentiary, Raleigh.

The defendant had pleaded guilty Monday to second degree homicide for the death of his wife, Karen Broadwater Davidson, 40, formerly of Carmichaels R.D.1. Mrs. Davidson was fatally shot on Nov. 21, 1982, while she and her husband were sitting in a truck near their home.

The victim was a daughter of William E. and Dolly Hull Broadwater of Carmichaels R.D.1. She had resided in North Carolina for 10 years prior to her death and was employed by Virginia National Bank in Norfolk, Va.

In addition to her parents, a paternal grandmother and three brothers also reside in Greene County.

unsuccessful.

Several students normally live in the fraternity house but most were taking advantage of a mid-semester break and were not on campus. College officials said that although the house is inhabitable, fraternity members will be offered quarters in dormitories.

Saturday's fire was the second blaze at the home within the past year. A small fire in a bedroom last year was put out before firemen arrived.

In a letter to Stanley Fowler, president of the school board, Wilburn said the report "did not contain any criticism or audit exceptions" and commended Fowler and the district. The letter also advised Fowler that it was the "fifth consecutive year that your fiscal and management practices have undergone the scrutiny of the Office of the Auditor General without reproach."

the recipient has never heard before.

"It's akin to learning a foreign language. After you listen to somebody speaking a foreign language long enough, it begins to make sense to you. Gradually, with instruction and rehabilitation, they learn to distinguish one sound from another," said Kamerer.

"They use this device in conjunction with their lip reading skills. They get to the point where they can recognize most environmental sounds around them. They can hear the phone ringing, a knock at the door, music. They can even distinguish voices," he added.

After about a month for healing, doctors will attach a tiny microphone outside of Crick's ear. The device will translate sound into electric signals, triggering the implant in Crick's inner ear. He will experience a thud-like sensation of sound.

Renovation Bids At Grade School Fall In Limits

By Bob Eichenlaub, Greene Editor

WAYNESBURG — Bids for renovation of the East Franklin Elementary School were received by the Central Greene School Board Tuesday, with indications being that the total of the low bids will fall well within the estimated cost and the amount of money available in the capital reserve fund.

An apparent low bid of $83,641 was received for the basic project — replacement of the doors, windows, ventilators and ceilings in the old section of the building. It came from Fretts and Leeper Construction Co., Mt. Pleasant.

In addition, the board accepted bids for replacement of the doors, ceilings and windows in the newer part of the building, with the apparent low bid for all three projects coming in at a total of some $90,000 as submitted by General Industries, Pricedale.

Low bids for electrical work were submitted by Colussi Corp., Eighty Four, at $20,200 for the old section and by Robert Cowell and Sons, Waynesburg, at $17,725 for the new part of the structure.

District business manager said it will be impossible to determine the successful bidders until the submissions have all been reviewed by the architect, Foreman, Bashford and Wallace, since a number of alternates were also submitted for each phase of the work.

"It will depend on how much of the project the board decides to do, particularly in the new section," Stout said. "The bids seem to be very good in terms of the cost estimate made by the architect."

The apparent total of all of the base bids is some $217,000. Money for the project would come from the capital reserve fund, which currently contains $335,000.

In addition, the board accepted bids for replace of doors and glass blocks in the swimming pool area at the high school. The low bids received, from different contractors, were $17,725 for one type of replacement doors and $20,200 for another.

In other action, the board filled four vacancies on the district coaching staff.

Glenn Kyle, head basketball coach at Waynesburg Central High School, was appointed head baseball coach at a salary of $1,332. Tom Vent, head football coach, was named assistant boys' track coach at a salary of $987 and John Garber, assistant junior high basketball coach, was appointed assistant baseball coach at a salary of $942.

Three new high school course offerings were approved for the coming year. Due to success of the basic TV workshop program, an advanced course will be offered for students who wish to continue in the field. In the business department, an office work program and a course in personal law, dealing with commonly encountered legal problems will be established.

The Intermediate Unit I budget of $721,348 for the 1983-84 year was approved. While it is 13 percent lower than this year, allocations from the 25 participating school districts will be

Cumberland Twp. Is Not Interested

CARMICHAELS — Local officials were quick to respond to statements made Wednesday night, March 9, by Carmichaels Chamber of Commerce President John Brodak concerning the possible merger of Carmichaels Borough and Cumberland Township.

Brodak has announced that he planned to form a committee to study the idea and make recommendations about what he termed "the present duplication of municipal services."

The township supervisors issued the following statement Thursday:

"The Cumberland Township supervisors, Nick Maddich, William Schifko and William C. Groves, would like to address the statement made by Chamber of Commerce President John Brodak regarding a possible merger of street and police activities. "The township has 100 plus miles to maintain and the seven-man police force patrols our area of 7,000 plus people. We therefore feel that we can undertake no additional work and are not interested in merging our services with Carmichaels Borough."

Borough Council President Betty Morris, when contacted Thursday, said council had heard nothing about the idea.

"I don't know of any duplication of services," she said.

Mrs. Morris also said council has been working hard to make sure that no borough money is wasted and, "if I found any services being duplicated I'd be the first one to stop it."

She added that she would have no comment on any merger since no specifics had been given and council had received no information about such a proposal.

Victim Of Lightning Flown To Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH — Dave Convery, the resident hall director from Waynesburg College who was struck by lightning in an outdoor exploring program last week in North Carolina, was transferred to the West Penn Hospital burn unit in Pittsburgh Monday.

Convery was flown to Pittsburgh on a commercial airline and was accompanied by a nurse. He is expected to undergo skin grafts for burns on his ankles at the hospital and was reported in satisfactory condition last night.

Convery and several students from the college were taking part in a spring break outdoor exploring program in the Blue Ridge Mountains and were climbing Table Rock when they were caught in a sudden storm. College officials said three students who were with Convery and were treated for electrical shock — Al Incerpi, Thomas Yezbeck and Richard Ley — were back in school Monday.

Len Barish, an instructor at the college, also returned from the trip over the weekend. Barish was climbing with another group of students, many from Edinboro State College, about two miles away from the group with Convery when the storm hit.

Barish praised the students for their conduct after the accident. "For a group who, for the most part, had no medical training, they acted like a bunch of pros. Everyone remained calm, everyone pitched in to help," he said.

Waynesburg Sticks By Choice Of Refuse Hauler

By Bob Eichenlaub, Greene County Editor

WAYNESBURG — Waynesburg Borough Council voted Monday to appeal the Greene County Court order which directs the borough to re-advertise its refuse hauling franchise.

The state appellate court will be asked to review the local court order which voided a franchise the borough awarded Aug. 11, 1981, to Long Trucking Co., Waynesburg R.D.6. It was based on the grounds that council did not have adequate justification for rejecting a lower bid submitted by Southern Allegheny Disposal Service, Inc.

"I felt at the time (1981) that our decision to award the contract to Long was the correct one because I felt he was the lowest responsible bidder on the basis of having had prior experience in residential refuse collection," Council President Glenn Richards said. "I still think we did the right thing based on provisions of the borough code and feel the court decision is incorrect."

Councilwoman Beverly Krill agreed: "All of us were well aware of borough code guidelines at the time the contract was awarded and felt we were acting responsibly," she said.

Richards said the borough solicitor will be asked to file the appeal with the proper state court. Councilman Thomas Brown was the only member voting against the motion to appeal.

Council also discussed boarding up of three abandoned buildings, authorized Police Chief Timothy Hawfield to take steps to fill the vacant position of lieutenant on the police force, reported that it could cost as much as $64,000 to complete reclamation of the former dump, and authorized repairs for the street sweeper and tractor for the Park Commission.

Hawfield brought up the question of boarding up doors and windows of the former South Ward School building, stating that he has received numerous complaints about people being in the building.

He said when he and another officer went into the building one day last week, they found three juveniles in the building, traces of a paper fire, and large amounts of debris in the building. "There are at least three easy ways to get into the building and it constitutes both a safety and health hazard," Hawfield said. "Something should definitely be done before somebody gets hurt."

Council will direct the borough zoning officer to notify the owner that he must take steps as soon as possible to correct the situation or face possible prosecution.

During the discussion, it was brought out that similar conditions exist at an abandoned house on South Washington Street and at the former A.M.E. church on West Franklin Street. The zoning officer will be directed to contact the owners of both buildings with similar requirements for corrective measures.

Hawfield was authorized to initiate steps to fill the police force lieutenant vacancy vacated when Kyle Eddy resigned from the force six months ago. Members of the department with at least two years of experience will be entitled to apply for the post, which requires a civil service appointment.

Richards reported that council has been advised by Karl Niederwerfer, soil conservation technician, that it could cost between $54,000 and $64,000 to truck in silt from Ryerson Station State Park and apply it as fill on the remaining portion of the former borough dump which remains uncovered.

The borough has been given a chance to use silt which the state plans to dredge this spring from the lake at the park, but must absorb the cost of hauling it to Waynesburg and spreading it according to DER requirements.

Niederwerfer also estimates that it could cost less than $33,000 to use fill materials from borough-owned land at the site to do the job.

Council noted that it does not have funds for the project and will contact the DER to determine what can be done.

Council authorized the expenditure of $2,481 to make necessary repairs to the street sweeper and will arrange for a firm schedule for sweeping streets during the coming months. It was noted that Cumberland Township hires the sweeper for several days each spring, and that the rental fee will largely offset the cost of repairs.

Expenditure of $800 to repair the street roller was authorized so that the equipment will be ready for the street repair program this spring. Bids were received for stone and oil to be used in the street maintenance program, with the anticipated amounts to be used costing $25,915. Contracts were awarded to four companies for furnishing the materials.

Purchase of a Gravelly tractor at a cost of $2,100 was authorized. It will be used by the Park Commission for maintenance of the commons.

Action on purchase of a new copier for the borough office from Minolta for $2,495 was deferred until price quotations can be received from other companies.

The WIC program, a federal program involving feeding of underprivileged women, infants and children, will be asked to vacate its office on the second floor of the borough building within 30 days due to the disturbance it causes for other tenants. The program has had free use of an office, including all utilities.

Council said it has received frequent complaints about children

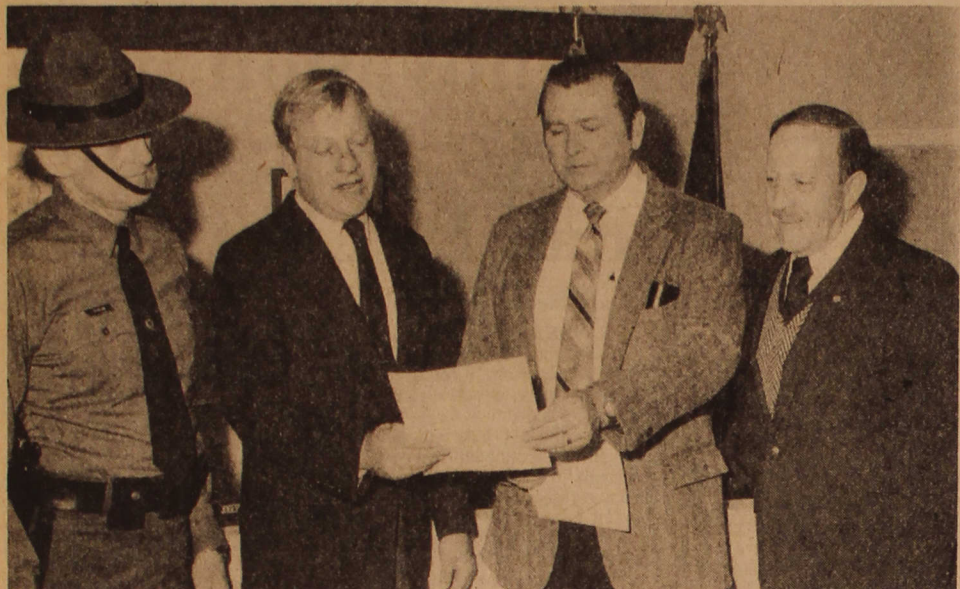

"running loose" and disturbing people in other offices and about the physical condition of the hallway. Council expressed reluctance about asking the agency to move, but said that it feels the office is incompatible with other occupants.

Council also: Authorized Hawfield to ask the solicitor to prepare an ordinance requiring that all second-hand dealers keep a record of all purchases and sales as a means of assisting police in tracking down stolen property.

Voted to file a complaint with the State Department of Agriculture over alleged failure of the state dog law officer assigned to Greene County to respond to complaints about stray dogs in the borough.

Authorized the purchase of a sewage flow meter and recorder at a cost of $4,500 to replace an obsolete and malfunctioning unit at the borough sewage treatment plant.

Executed an agreement with Franklin Township setting forth each municipality's responsibility for providing matching funds for a state grant received for a sewerage line cleaning project.

1911 Emergency System Joins Local, State Police

WAYNESBURG — The long-awaited 1911 emergency telephone system for Greene County is now scheduled to begin operations on June 1 following a contract signing Wednesday morning by the Greene County Commissioners and Pennsylvania State Police.

The system is the only one of its kind in Pennsylvania and the 1911 capability is the latest improvement to the local system which began in 1977.

Only in Greene County is the state police radio system tied in with local government emergency services. By dialing 1911, local residents can report fire, medical and police emergencies to a central dispatching point located at the state police barracks.

Although the more common 911 system has been used in the United States since 1968, the additional digit must be used in Greene County because it requires a toll call from most county communities to the barracks in Waynesburg. However, there will be no cost to the homeowner for this service. Costs are being absorbed by Mid-Penn Telephone Company.

The Greene County 911 Communications Board, which has been working on the project for many months, said Wednesday they are still attempting to work out details with the Mountain State Telephone Co. to serve some 200 persons in the Alleppo area.

The residents live in Greene County but many have a Cameron, W.Va., address and use the Mountain State phone system.

Local police officials wish to remind residents that all calls to the 1911 will be automatically recorded. This is to the advantage of the caller should an excited person hang up too quickly. Police will be able play back the tape and possibly obtain vital information about the source of the call.

Police caution all callers to be specific about the location of the emergency to assure quick response. They also noted that intentional misuse of the system may lead to criminal prosecution.

The local committee, under the direction of William Groves, is planning a public education program to include phone stickers and bumper stickers on public safety vehicles to remind residents of the new emergency number.

Special training classes are being scheduled for the five, civilian dispatchers at the state police barracks. Normally the dispatchers handle only police calls but with the expected increase of "stress emergency" calls, the dispatchers will take special training.

Cost of the new system is expected to be some $65,000 with the bulk of it being paid by the county. Municipalities with a police force have also been paying a share of the county-wide system.

Because the system will now aid citizens all over the county, the committee is studying means by which all townships and boroughs will pay a pro-rata share of the costs.

Bids Fall In Limits

The administration was authorized to conduct a testing program for students in grades two through 12 to determine academic achievement and aptitude, measured against national norms.

The board also: Approved attendance by high school students Tom Jackovic, Nathalie Cavoris and Fritz Grosse at the annual World Affairs Institute at Morgantown, under sponsorship of the Waynesburg Rotary Club.

Scheduled high school baccalaureate and graduation programs for Friday, June 3, at 6 p.m. and 7 p.m., respectively.

Approved a $250 college scholarship to be offered by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Waynesburg Volunteer Fire Company.

Authorized purchase of a new master clock unit at the high school at a cost of $3,161.

Sewer Authority Member Named

WAYNESBURG — The Franklin Township Supervisors Monday appointed a sewer authority member, opened bids for supplies and established new fees for septic system approvals.

John Albert of Waynesburg R.D.4 was named to the West Franklin Sewer Authority to serve through Dec. 31, 1987.

By resolution, the supervisors established a $100 fee for new septic system permits; $40 for a repair permit, and $50 for expired permits to be renewed. Sewage enforcement officer James Rogers would receive the fees with half being paid by the homeowner and half by the township. The township, however, would be reimbursed by the state for its share.

A first quarter payment of $8,500 to the Waynesburg Volunteer Fire Company was approved.

Marsolino Coolspring Quarry, Inc. of Uniontown was awarded the contract for four types of gravel and Marsolino Construction Co. of Uniontown, the only bidder, received the contract for furnishing hot and cold patch.

Bids for road oil were tabled until the contract prices could be verified. Golden Eagle Construction Co. of Uniontown submitted the apparent low bid of 63.85 cents per gallon but it was unclear whether the firm included an escalator clause in the bid document. Russell Standard of Bridgeville was the second lowest bidder at 65 cents but did not include an escalator clause.

Jacobs Petroleum Products Inc. of Waynesburg was awarded the gasoline and diesel contract for 84.8 cents and 98 cents respectively.

Only one salt bid was received. International Salt Co. of Clark Summit submitted a bid of $30.54 per ton; however, township officials said they have been purchasing the salt for only $28 per ton at the present time and would therefore reject the bid.

A.G. Higgins Contracting Co. of Waynesburg was awarded the contract for used, 16-inch pipe at $4.90 per foot.

Two bids were received for cinder supplies but both were tabled because no bid bond was submitted. Allegheny Power System offered cinders at $1 per ton at the Hatfield Ferry Power Station. L&J Equipment Co. of Maestown offered to deliver the cinders at $6.15 per ton.

Sheriff Sues To Get Raise

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Court is being asked to decide if a change in county classification which increases the pay scale for elected officials is subject to the same limitations on incumbent office holders as a pay increase provided by the state legislature.

An attorney representing Sheriff Remo Bertugli presented a brief to the court Wednesday in which he contends that the sheriff should be receiving an additional $1,500 a year because the county commissioners adopted a resolution which changed the county classification from seventh class to sixth class, effective Jan. 1, 1982.

Attorney Floyd King contends that while Bertugli was elected to a second term before the resolution was adopted on Dec. 31, 1981, he did not take office until Jan. 4, 1982 — three days after the effective date of the resolution. He argues the sheriff should therefore be receiving the $17,000 a year salary prescribed for a sixth class county rather than the $15,500 mandated for a seventh class county.

The case is before the court because Bertugli in December filed a mandamus action naming County Commissioners Joseph C. Pawlosky, Leonard R. Santore and Richard S. Cowan as defendants. It asks the court to order the defendants to pay him the higher salary, retroactive to January 1982.

16 Graduate

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Vocational-Technical School's Practical Nursing Program graduated a class of 16 students at exercises held Friday, March 4, at the Washington Street United Methodist Church.

Speakers were Miss Susie Wiltrout, administrative head nurse of orthopedic surgery at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville; Norman Waldman, administrator of the vo-tech school, and Mrs. Edith Wiltrout of Bobtown, president of the class.

Class members were introduced by Mrs. Sara Jacobs, R.N., coordinator of the school. Instructors, all registered nurses, are Marcella Watson, Joan Clites and Col. Louis Schneider.

Class officers, in addition to Mrs. Wiltrout, were Anna Phillips of Waynesburg, vice president; Mrs. Donna Brown of Jefferson, secretary-treasurer; Dee Leighton of Washington, co-treasurer, and Mrs. Carol Earline of Washington, historian.

Court Hears Coal Land Sale Dispute

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Court Wednesday dismissed the county's preliminary objections to a lawsuit brought by four men who are seeking to force acceptance of their offer to purchase 149.7 acres of county-owned coal for $91,050.

The action was brought against the county and its solicitor, A.J. Marion, last October. Plaintiffs are Thomas W. Russell of Carmichael, John Hoge of Kissimmee, Fla., J. Robert Goslin of Rices Landing R.D.1 and Forrest Cottle of Jefferson.

The situation which triggered the lawsuit occurred last fall when the county proposed to sell Pittsburgh Coal underlying the former county farm to the Henderson Mining Co., which was acting as agent for Emway Resources, owners of the Emerald Mine in Waynesburg. The county coal, located east of Waynesburg, is completely surrounded by Emway-owned coal.

On the day the sale with Henderson was to be completed, the plaintiffs submitted their proposal, which was $1,400 higher than the Henderson offer, to the county commissioners. As a result, the commissioners tabled action on the sale.

Mother, Daughter Keep Each Other Company In Hospital

WAYNESBURG — Room 420 in the Greene County Memorial Hospital was an extremely busy place this week. On several occasions the room would be occupied by a grandmother, two mothers, two sisters, two daughters, a grandchild, a son, an aunt and a nephew — but there were only four people in the room. Sound confusing?

It's easy to understand when you consider that a mother and daughter were both patients on the maternity floor having babies.

Mrs. Priscilla M. Morris, 44, was admitted last Saturday and delivered a baby daughter, Lexie Lucinda. It was the fifth child for Priscilla and her husband Albert (A.B.) who is employed at Emerald Mine.

They are the parents of Scott, 25; Ryan, 23; Mike, 13, and Lori Beth Rush, 20, who joined her mother in the hospital room on Wednesday to have her second child.

Ronald Luther Rush Jr. came into the world on Wednesday. He will go home on Saturday and be greeted by father Ronald and sister Autumn Lynn, age two.

Lexie's grandparents are Mrs. Helen Morris of Waynesburg and the Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd McCollum of Acosta. Ronald's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Rush of Waynesburg and of course Mr. and Mrs. A.B. Morris of Waynesburg and his great-grandparents are Luther and Elma Rogers of Waynesburg R.D.4.

Four More

Melodie Butler and Jeremy Stewart have their hands full with four lambs that were born to one ewe Thursday. The lambs are owned by Dr. and Mrs. Melvin Butler of Waynesburg R.D.2, Melodie's parents. Although the Butlers have been raising sheep for several years and have seen twin lambs and occasionally triplets born to one sheep, this is the first time they have seen quadruplet lambs. Jeremy is the son of John and Ruth Stewart.

Miss Schifko is a 1978 graduate of Waynesburg Central High School and a 1981 graduate of Washington Hospital School of Nursing and is presently employed as a team leader in neurosurgery in the operating room at West Virginia University Medical Center in Morgantown, W.Va. Her fiance is a 1982 graduate of W&J College and is employed by Pittsburgh Computer Store. They will wed Sept. 3, 1983.

Theme Selected For Coal Show

CARMICHAELS — Theme for the 30th State Bituminous Coal Show to be held August 20-27 in Carmichaels will be, "Proud of Our Miners."

Directors recently selected the theme from several suggestions submitted by local residents. The theme will also be used in connection with the annual coal show parade.

The third and final reading of revised by-laws was given and adopted by the coal show directors at a recent meeting. Copies will be distributed to all members of the association.

Connie Morris, chairman of the coal queen committee, reported that 1982 Coal Queen Debbie Tekavec and her parents will go to Harrisburg next month to meet the governor and be presented to the House and Senate before touring the capital.

Miss Tekavec will also be a guest of honor at the 38th annual Carmichaels Chamber of Commerce dinner-dance to be held Saturday, April 30, in the Carmichaels Fire Hall.

WINNER — Anita Marie McKean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam V. McKean of Carmichaels, has won the title of "J&L Steel Sweetheart Beauty" at a pageant held last month at the Pittsburgh Holiday Inn. Anita attends the Linda Butcho Dance Studio where she is an acrostudent of Katy Lyon Palumbo. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Wahula of Carmichaels and Agnes McKean of Miller and the late Vincent McKean.

she is a member of the National Honor Society and Sugar Grove Baptist Church.

She plans to attend Waynesburg College and major in business administration.

Day Care Program

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Day Care program will hold two special events next week.

On Tuesday, March 22, it will present a television documentary to acquaint the public with its services. On Thursday, March 24, it will celebrate its 14th year of continuous service to residents of the county with open house at the Baptist Church and the Presbyterian Church at Waynesburg.

The documentary will be televised on Telemedia channel 3 at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

One segment will be a panel presentation by Marie Simmons, assistant program manager of Washington and Greene County Day Cares, John Buchanan, center-home coordinator, and Pat Phillips, social services coordinator.

A second segment will consist of action shots of the staff and children in the centers.

The third segment will feature a parent, Barbara Kisner, who will speak of the ways in which Day Care has been far more than a babysitting service for her children.

Open houses at both the Baptist Church and Presbyterian Church

In March, the club honored Kimberly Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.H. Anderson of Carmichaels. She is a member of the French Club, Drama Club, yearbook staff, chorus, student council and National Honor Society.

She plans to attend Uniontown Hospital School of Nursing.

Jail Prisoner Charges Subject For Challenge

The Greene County public defender's office has apparently created quite a stir in local law enforcement circles by indicating that it plans to challenge the practice of charging work-release and weekend prisoners room and board for time they spend in jail.

Attorney John Stets, who heads the office, has said he is concerned about the constitutionality of the system, which is authorized under Pennsylvania's 1963 work release legislation. He says it smacks of debtor's prison and he questions the ethics of ordering a person to jail and then charging him for being there.

Stets does not want to jeopardize the work release program itself, since it enables defendants charged with relatively minor offenses to continue to hold jobs while they work off jail time. But he feels that an indigent defendant already saddled with the payment of a fine and costs should not face a further drain on limited resources which are usually needed for the maintenance of a family.

While Stets' is concerned primarily with challenging the system in Greene County, a local court ruling in his favor could bring the program to question statewide.

Cost of room and board at the Greene County jail is $49 per week for inmates who work during the day and sleep and eat at the jail. It is $12 a day for weekenders. Washington County charges its daily work release prisoners $15 per week and weekenders $10. Most of the state's 67 counties utilize the system, and many charge much more than Greene and Washington Counties.

County and law enforcement officials argue that the system is an acceptable way to teach prisoners responsibility and to ease the burden which taxpayers bear for operation of the jails.

Andy Bystry, warden at the Greene County jail, pretty well summed up the position of these officials.

"If a prisoner doesn't want to pay $12 a day for serving a weekend sentence he should ask for a full-time sentence," he said. "The judge is giving them a break and they shouldn't gripe about it."

It's an issue which has compelling arguments on both sides, and as such it seems worthy of court review.

AROUND TOWN

By THE STAFF

It was "old home week" in Florida earlier this month as over 100 present and former residents of Greene County held another reunion. The reunion was the brain child of Marshall and Alfretha Blair of Zephyrhill, Fla. and the former operators of a grocery store at the corner of Washington and Greene Streets in Waynesburg.

G. William Hogue, national sales manager of Lantz and a former resident of Waynesburg, was a recent visitor to his hometown en route to a sales meeting in Pittsburgh. Bill and his family now make their home in Charlottesville, N.C., the home office of the famous cracker firm.

Larry and Sherry L. Wise of Pine Bank are announcing the birth of a son, Nicholas Daniel on Feb. 21 in Greene County Memorial Hospital. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Main of Sycamore and maternal great-grandmother is Ruth Eisiminger of Sycamore. Paternal grandmother is Grace Wise of Jollytown.

Judy Loar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Loar of Waynesburg R.D.2, has been named director of education for the Anne Arundel-Southern Maryland Chapter of the Associated Builders and Contractors in Annapolis, Md. She is a graduate of Waynesburg High School and California State College. She later earned her master's degree from Millersville State College.

Donald Chaney of Carmichaels has been appointed by the Greene County Court to serve as constable in Cumberland Township. The appointment fills a vacancy created by the death of Albert Lasko.

State police are investigating the theft of some $2,000 worth of jewelry from the home of Isaac Lohr of Sprags. The burglary occurred last Tuesday.

Dave Werminger, Butch Levine and George Gregg of Waynesburg have returned home following a golf outing to North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rohanna of Waynesburg recently returned from a week's vacation to a Mexico resort.

Trustees Elect Board Officers

WAYNESBURG — The Bowlby Library Board of Trustees re-elected Thomas Gerace as board chairman Monday night. Lloyd Craft was re-elected vice chairman and Millie Wonderling was re-appointed secretary-treasurer. Board members stated that since both the library and the County Library System are in the midst of making major policy changes and decisions, it was important to keep the same leadership for another year.

Three new board members were introduced at the meeting. The Rev. J.E. Victor Carlson, Diane Morton and Lola Tornabene were elected to the board by the Bowlby Library Association last week, with Diane Morton also being named as vice president of the association.

Audrey Huffman, president of the Bowlby Library Association, announced that an association membership drive is continuing. Any individual or group may join the association for a membership fee of $5 per year. These fees are used to help the library, and membership includes the right to vote for members of the board of trustees.

Bowlby librarian Marjory Johnston announced plans for many library programs, including a bus trip to Pittsburgh and a joint program with Flenniken Library for National Library Week, April 17-23. Other programs include after school specials for children, and plans for a monthly guest speaker. Program details will be announced later.

Johnston also announced that response to the new deposit collections in location around the county have been very positive and studies are still being made to determine the most effective methods of bringing improved library service to all areas of the county. She said that circulation in this "Outreach for Books" program was 1,828 in the first month after the bookmobile stopped making its routes. This is down from the usual bookmobile circulation of about 2,400, but it is hoped that as the book deposit collections grow, the circulation will increase rapidly.

The two libraries which make up the County Library System — Bowlby and the Flenniken Library in Carmichaels — are beginning a study of the organization of the system, with the idea of forming a new county board. This board would not supersede the authority of either board over its own library, but would be organized in the attempt to make the county organization more efficient and to promote wider representation.

Faces From The Past—Do You Recognize Them?

Fact and Folklore
John O'Hara

At one time, the area now designated as Greene County was populated entirely by various tribes of Indians.

Eventually, they were gradually displaced by white men who left their comfortable homes in Europe, principally in England and northern Europe, to settle in America, fired by stories of untold wealth, opportunities to own land, and vast areas of forests and rivers waiting to be explored by those courageous and hearty enough to accept the challenge.

The initial large migrations were to the northeastern part of the nation, where over a period of many years many types of industry and manufacturing grew to form a new type of culture. They enabled men to transform raw materials into useful products to enrich their life experience.

In western Pennsylvania and nearby parts of West Virginia and Ohio, this type of advancement was tied to growth of the steel industry in Pittsburgh, which created a demand for the rich veins of coal which lie deep below the surface. Little by little, adventurous men with great resourcefulness gradually invented equipment to make coal mining an efficient and lucrative process. These men and companies built on mining experience that originated in Europe.

The early mining industry was a stern schoolmaster. Thousands of men in its early days lost their lives or were injured for life before safety techniques could be gradually developed.

Greene County's large scale deep mining dates back to opening of the first mine by Crucible Steel, for which the town of Crucible was created. It was followed by the Buckeye Coal Company mine, resulting in the community of Nemaquin (named for an Indian Chief); by Jones & Laughlin whose Shannopin mine created Bobtown, and by Pickand-Mather, a Canadian firm, which resulted in the village of Mather in Morgan Township.

In more recent years, the Waynesburg area saw its first deep mine opened on the former Sayers Dairy Farm just across Ten Mile Creek from the borough of Waynesburg. Others were opened by U.S. Steel near Carmichaels, at Rices Landing and at Kirby. Others on the Consolidation Coal Company drawing board for Richhilla and Morris Townships will make Greene County one of the most heavily mined counties in Pennsylvania.

In the days before modern mining methods were developed, that many large mines would have required a far larger work force than is now the case, which would have meant a much larger population growth than is now needed.

The industrial revolution had a tremendous impact on the history of the world, and in a smaller way opening of new mines in Greene County will have impacts yet to be determined.

None can deny the impact which mining has already had on the county in general, and on the eastern part of the county in particular. As far back as 1923, Warren Brock, a home-town English history teacher, was drawing parallels between the industrial history of England with the industrialization of this part of America in terms of its impact on the arts, cultural and educational advances which have been made — predicting that it would be further accelerated when "the coal fields were opened up."

Brock went on to become a very capable attorney in Philadelphia, but the foresight he displayed 60 years ago is still a valid guide to the future of Greene County in 1983.

Anonymous Gift Goes Long Way

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Food Bank has parlayed an anonymous contribution of $2,000 into 5,000 cans of food and cartons of dried foods for distribution to needy families in the county.

"We don't know who the gift came from, but we would certainly like to thank him or her," Food Bank coordinator Barbara Coccaro said Tuesday.

Program officials decided to use the money to obtain items of food which cannot usually be made available to the 34 churches and organizations which participate in the county program. They did so by taking advantage of a public sale held at Pittsburgh to dispose of the stock of a bankrupt grocery store, buying the 5,000 items of food at a substantially reduced price.

"Verne Smith and Mary Parkinson (two members of the program) attended the sale and bid for the items, and the county provided the truck and men to transport it to Waynesburg," Mrs. Coccaro said.

Participating organizations were then given the opportunity to purchase the food at half of the price listed on the can or box. They, in turn, will distribute it without cost to needed families they service.

"We spent about $1,000 more than the $2,000 gift to acquire the food, so that the charge to the organizations will offset this cost and also leave a little left over for future purchases," the coordinator explained.

"The nice part about it is that the needy families, who usually receive no more than staples, will be able to get some canned vegetables and other items which normally aren't available."

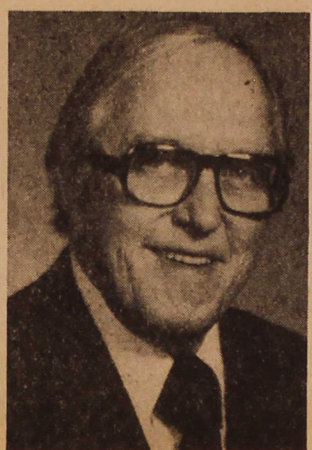

155 Furloughed

MIRACLE RUN, W.Va. — Eastern Associated Coal Co. Friday announced immediate furloughs for 155 salaried and United Mine Worker employees at its Federal No. 2 mine at Miracle Run.

The mine normally employs about 400.

A spokesman for the company said Friday, "We hope to improve our efficiency to the point where we will be more competitive in the market place."

Founder Of Hospice Honored With Dinner

DR. CARLSON

CARMICHAELS — Over 100 friends of the Rev. Dr. J.E. Victor Carlson gathered at the Carmichaels Fire Hall last Saturday night for a testimonial honoring the founder of Hospice of Greene County — the first chapter of the international organization in the state.

Dr. Carlson received special commendations from the state House of Representatives and the state Senate. Rep. H. William DeWeese presented the House proclamation and James Harris, representing Sen. Barry Stout, presented the Senate document.

A special award was also presented to Carlson by Theo A. Kotjarapoglous, executive vice president of the Southwestern Pennsylvania Heart Association. Carlson, in addition to his hospice work, has also been active with the Heart Association for the past decade having served two terms as chairman of the board.

Harry Anderson, a long-time friend and state officer in the Heart Association, served as master of ceremonies. Remarks were offered by Denise Harris, executive director of Hospice of Greene County; Ewing B. Pollock, president of the board of trustees of Waynesburg College; the Rev. Robert Borland, representing the Washington Presbytery; George H. Rhodes, representing the Waynesburg College Alumni Association and Jean Rich, board of directors of Hospice of Greene County, Inc.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Jack Carlson, son of the honored guest.

Carlson, a native of Greensburg, founded the local hospice program in 1977 shortly after the death of his wife Ruby. Touched by the volunteer care offered during his wife's terminal illness, Dr. Carlson saw the need of such services for other families.

During his response, Dr. Carlson praised the efforts of local volunteers and especially cited Mrs. Pete Stoy and Mrs. Jean Rich, the first to offer help during his wife's illness. He also praised the professional nursing care offered by Mrs. Katie Marx, Mrs. Lois Espenshade and Mrs. Vera Patterson.

Carlson graduated from Waynesburg College in 1940 and received his bachelor of Theology and a Master of Theology degree from Pittsburgh Theological Seminary.

He came to Waynesburg College in 1950 following service in the U.S. Navy Reserve during World War II and a pastorate in Pittsburgh. During his career at Waynesburg College he has served in many capacities including the college's first director of admissions.

Active in the Washington Presbytery, he has twice served as moderator.

Arson Charge Dropped Against Graysville Man

WAYNESBURG — Trial of a Graysville area man on charges of arson was canceled last Friday in Greene County Court when a key witness for the Commonwealth backed down from statements he had previously made to police.

The defendant, George Dennis Ealy, 26, Graysville R.D.1, was charged in the burning of two barns in Richhill Township and with two burglaries of a summer home in the same township.

The court approved dismissal of charges when Assistant District Attorney Mary Pruss reported that the defendant's brother, David Wayne Ealy of Waynesburg, had recanted previous statements made to police and was expected to testify his brother was not involved.

The older brother pleaded guilty to those and other charges last week and was sentenced to serve five to 20 years in prison.

Barns destroyed by fire on March 26, 1981, were owned by Conoco, Inc., with loss estimated at $30,000, and by Vergee A. Pettie of Morgantown, W.Va., with loss estimated at $5,000.

Another co-defendant of David Wayne Ealy's pleaded guilty Friday to attempted theft of a van from Mid-Town Auto Sales, Waynesburg, and to burglaries on Dec. 18, 1981, and Jan. 27, 1982, of a summer home in Richhill Township owned by Rose Marie Arceri of Canonsburg.

The plea was entered by Richard Allen Morris, 22, Waynesburg R.D.4. He was sentenced to serve from 11½ to 23 months in the regional jail in Greensburg.

Students Will Tour Puerto Rico

JEFFERSON — Three students from Jefferson-Morgan High School will have a chance to put their Spanish to practical use when they leave for a nine-day tour of Puerto Rico on Saturday, March 26.

The students will be accompanied by Miss Carol Janine Skirchak, of Scenery Hill, Spanish teacher at Jefferson-Morgan and sponsor of the Spanish Club, and Linda Barchiesi, of Jefferson.

The three students taking the tour are Charlotte Adamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adamson, of Clarksville, Cynthia Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Davis, also of Clarksville, and Noreen McCartney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCartney, of Rices Landing.

Places to be toured in Puerto Rico will include San Juan, El Morro Castle, El Yunque Rain Forest, and Luguillo Beach. A side excursion to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands will enable the students to do duty free shopping along the streets of Charlotte Amalie and tour the only underwater observatory in the western hemisphere.

Throckmorton Fires Off Title

By Joe Tuscano, O-R Sports Staff

HEIDELBERG — Coaches call it catching fire.

And the path forged by John Throckmorton the past two weeks left a number of wrestlers burned.

Throckmorton, a 126-pound senior from Waynesburg High School, stood out as the exception in a very predictable WPIAL (District 7) Class AAA Tournament at Chartiers Valley High School this weekend.

He was the only WPIAL champion who was not a section champion. In fact, Throckmorton's grave was already dug and his body nearly set to rest in last week's Section 7 Tournament in Waynesburg.

But something happened. He caught fire.

"The Hartman win was the turning point," said Throckmorton, referring to his third-place consolation victory over Canon-McMillan's Ed Hartman which earned him a spot in the regional tournament.

Throckmorton trailed Hartman, 12-3, midway through the match before coming away with a 15-12 decision and raising his hopes from the dead.

"Once I beat Hartman, I knew I could beat anyone... even (Trinity's Sam) Romano if I had a good day," he said.

And true to fate, Romano became the final victim for Throckmorton Saturday night, 2-0, in overtime. The victory not only gave Throckmorton a second WPIAL title but completed one of the more remarkable come-backs this year.

In Thursday's opening round of the regional tournament, Throckmorton upset second-seeded Jim Johns of North Allegheny, 15-4. He eliminated another road block, Hempfield's Dayle Kemerer, by the same score in the quarterfinals.

To reach the finals, however, Throckmorton would have to face Chartiers-Houston's Tim Gump and then Romano. Both wrestlers had beaten the Waynesburg senior twice this year.

"The way I figured it, Romano and Gump were the two toughest wrestlers in that weight class," Throckmorton said. "I was just looking out for them."

Gump fell rather easily, 9-0, and Romano was trailing, 4-2, in the waning moments of the finals. But Throckmorton made a mistake, one of the few in the tournament. He lost a hold and was reversed by Romano with just two seconds left in the bout, tying the match, 4-4, and sending it into overtime.

"I thought I still had the match," Throckmorton said. "I had a hold of his leg and I thought I won the match but the referee said, 'Two points.'"

The first two overtime periods ended scoreless but with just 32 seconds left in the bout, Throckmorton reversed Romano for the win.

"I knew I had to score in the overtime to win because I was down in criteria," Throckmorton said.

"It was a hard-fought battle," said Red Raider head coach Joe Ayersman. "He just never quits and he works hard all the time."

Winning is not new in the Throckmorton family. In his sophomore season, he won a WPIAL title at 105 pounds but was eliminated in last year's regional tournament by Avella's Rich Harris.

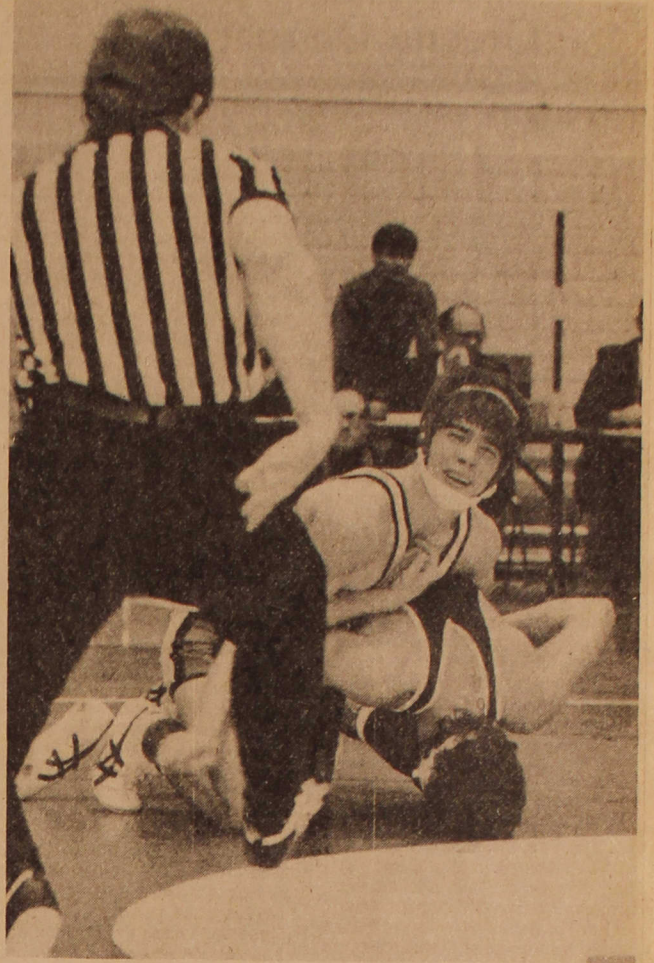

Throckmorton's brother, Joe, won a state title in 1979 and is now a stand-out on the University of Pittsburgh's wrestling team.

"The driving force behind me has been my coaches and my brother," Throckmorton said. "Joe's been working with me and telling me what to do."

And the results have shown.

"John's been working with Joey and I know that helped them," Ayersman said. "He caught fire and was just super. Some guys die at the end of the season but he's caught fire."

"If he keeps wrestling the way he has, he'll have a real good shot at states."

WPIAL AAA Finals

HEIDELBERG — He is in an elite class, one of 12 wrestlers who earned the right to be called a WPIAL champion.

But for Craig Dellorso, this title had a little more meaning than for the other 11. For winning this championship joined him with another wrestler he loves very much.

His father.

Dellorso, a 132-pound senior from Canon-McMillan High School, captured his title Saturday night at the Class AAA District 7 Tournament at Chartiers Valley High School, 20 years after Frank Dellorso won his at 112 pounds.

"My dad never really asked me for anything but today (Saturday) he asked me to win it for him," said Dellorso after his 5-1 decision over Trinity's Tom Haught in the finals. "He didn't say much after the match but I know he was real happy."

Dellorso was one of 15 wrestlers from Section 7 who secured berths in this week's PIAA Championships in Hershey. Canon-McMillan and Chartiers-Houston advanced five wrestlers while Trinity had three and Waynesburg two. The top four wrestlers in each weight class advanced to the state tournament.

The Big Macs' Richie McClain (105) joined Dellorso with first-place finishes as did Chartiers-Houston's two-time state champion Phil Mary (112) and his brother Chris (119) and Waynesburg's John Throckmorton (126).

Other champions included Moon's Dan Buzza at 98 pounds; Greg Zimmerman (138) of Shaler; Penn Hills'

Ken Haselrig (145); Steve Risnear (155) of Hampton; Connellsville's Steve Peperak (167); Chris Leon (185) of North Allegheny and heavyweight Mike Kirkling of Hempfield. Buzza, Zimmerman and Chris Mary are all defending WPIAL champions.

"My father doesn't tell me what to do because he knows I have a lot of good coaching," Dellorso said. "But every once in a while he gives me a little bit of advice. He feels the coaches know what they're doing."

And rightly so as the Big Macs were the WPIAL Class AAA team champions and dominated the Section 7 Tournament by sending 10 wrestlers to the regional tournament.

Still Dellorso would like to better his father in one aspect.

"He finished runnerup at states that year," he said. "I hope I can get a little further than he did at states."

Ed Brown (112), with a second-place finish, John Mansfield (145), with a third, and Rob Benjamin (185), with a fourth, also qualified for the state tournament from Canon-McMillan.

"I thought we could've taken a couple more but I'm pleased with the kids," said C-M head coach Dave Cook. "Adjustments can be made but we don't want to change our style now."

Chartiers-Houston's Tim Gump (126) and Patsy Vulcano (132) garnered third-place finishes while Rob Castelli (167) took a fourth.

"I'm thrilled to death with Patsy," said Buc head coach Tim Moussetis. "He wrestled so tough and was so sure of himself that he won on guts. When you get rolling like that, you have a good tournament and anything can happen. He got tough at the right time of the year."

Phil Mary breezed through the tournament, taking a 9-1 decision over C-M's Ed Brown in the finals. Chris Mary had a tougher road, winning a 5-4 decision over Connellsville's Tom Dolde in the semi-finals and a 4-3 victory over Buddy Blaha of Valley in the finals.

Blaha upset Phil Mary 3-1 in last year's finals but Moussetis said there was no revenge factor in Chris Mary's win.

"What happened last year we don't even think about," he said. "That was last year. He's just another wrestler for Chris."

"I think we have peaked. We have a few technical things to sharpen but there's not a whole lot you can do with just two days of practice."

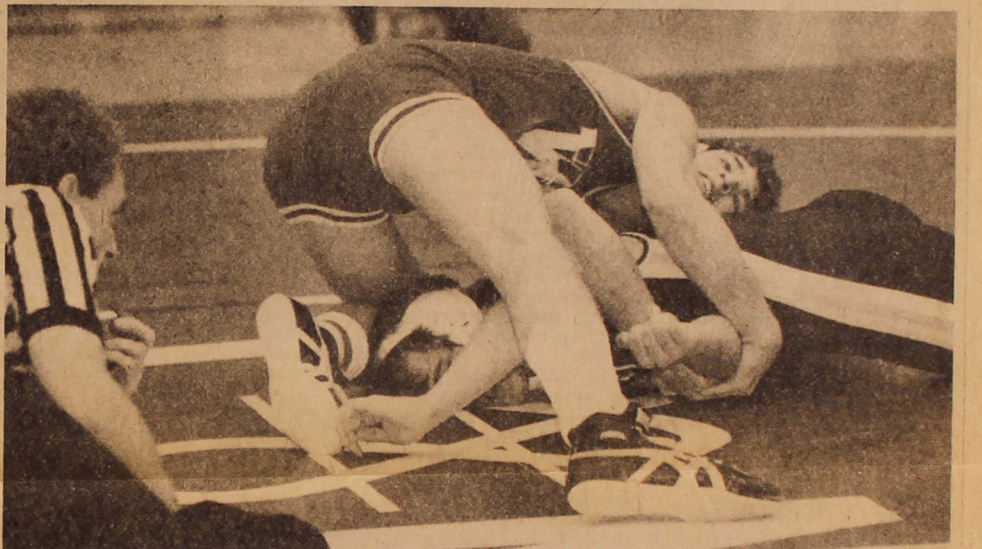

Waynesburg's Kevin Durkin (167) and Trinity's Haught, Sam Romano (126) and heavyweight Kevin Holley each captured second-place finishes. Hiller head coach John Abajace felt all three could have been champions.

"Anytime you lose in the finals you're disappointed," he said. "Holley wasn't finishing his shots and he seemed to hold back a little. It seemed like all three of our kids wrestled hard and didn't let up but they weren't finishing things up."

Holley dropped a 7-2 overtime decision to Hempfield's Mike Kirkling, whose 130th career win broke a WPIAL record. Kirkling also avenged an earlier pin by Holley which gave Trinity a quarterfinal victory in the WPIAL Team Tournament.

No Rookie Mistakes Here

Joe Iagnemma of South Fayette presented McWilliams with some problems early in the finals, jumping out to a 4-1 first-period lead. McWilliams, however, began to chip away at that lead, closing the gap to 4-3 with two backpoints in the second period.

McWilliams put on the finishing touches in the final 1:20, picking up a reversal and three backpoints, en route to a 9-6 victory.

"A lot of people wrote him off against this kid (Iagnemma), but I never wrote him off," Carmichaels head coach Gary White said. "With 10 seconds left to go, I thought he had a good shot to win. But I never clapped until about three seconds were left."

McWilliams, who extended his record to 26-1-1, is the first wrestler from Carmichaels to garner a WPIAL title since his cousin Mike McWilliams won it in 1979 at 145 pounds.

"Dave's the machine of this team," White said. "He keeps pumping. He's the best we've ever had. He shows nothing but hard work and dedication."

That hard work began four years ago.

"Dave probably has more wrestling under his belt in the last four years than most of the other wrestlers," White said. "He's wrestled over 300 matches in four years."

"He has a lot of family support. His dad takes him to a lot of tournaments, watches his diet and keeps him training. Anybody who wants to be a champion has to have family support."

And McWilliams is fortunate. Not only does he have the support of his family, but also his coaches and teammates.

"If he gets there, he's good enough to win," White said. "He could go up and lose his first match or he could go up and win the state title. I just want him to see it and enjoy himself. There's not that much pressure on a sophomore."

"And I don't think he'll wrestle anybody tougher in the state than Iagnemma."

WPIAL AA Finals

Only a select few are ever able to hit the jackpot in the WPIAL championships.

But for Washington-Greene County teams, the payoff came 10 times in the WPIAL (District 7) Class AA Tournament at Washington & Jefferson College Saturday night.

Avella and West Greene high schools each produced two champions, while six other teams shared in the wealth once. And although Washington crowned just one champion, the Little Presidents qualified four — more than any other team — for the PIAA Championships in Hershey later this week.

Rich Harris and Dean Simonelli, both seeded second at 112 and 138 pounds, respectively, took home titles for the Eagles with impressive victories. Harris beat Mike D'Alessandro, 12-2, while Simonelli handled Randy Chambers, 10-1.

"The boys really did a super job," first-year Avella head coach Ed Vorhes said. "They really wanted it and had the desire to win. They were very offensively minded... they took the match to their opponents."

"We only have two going to states, but there's only one other school with two champs. They have a good attitude right now, and we had no injuries so to speak, so we'll see if we can't make a dent in the state tournament."

Pioneer hopefuls Rikk Walters (145) and Arleigh Closser (167) didn't have as easy a time as both barely survived the pressures of being seeded No. 1. Walters notched a third-period escape to take a slim 1-0 decision over Avonworth's Sean Carmody, while Closser was awarded three backpoints in the final 10 seconds to capture an 8-6 victory over Bentworth's Kevin Myers.

"The hard work that both our wrestlers exhibited all through the year has paid off," West Greene head coach Buzz Walters said. "I'm proud of both of them. They had their minds set and followed up all through the tournament. Considering we brought three up here, it feels good to take two to states."

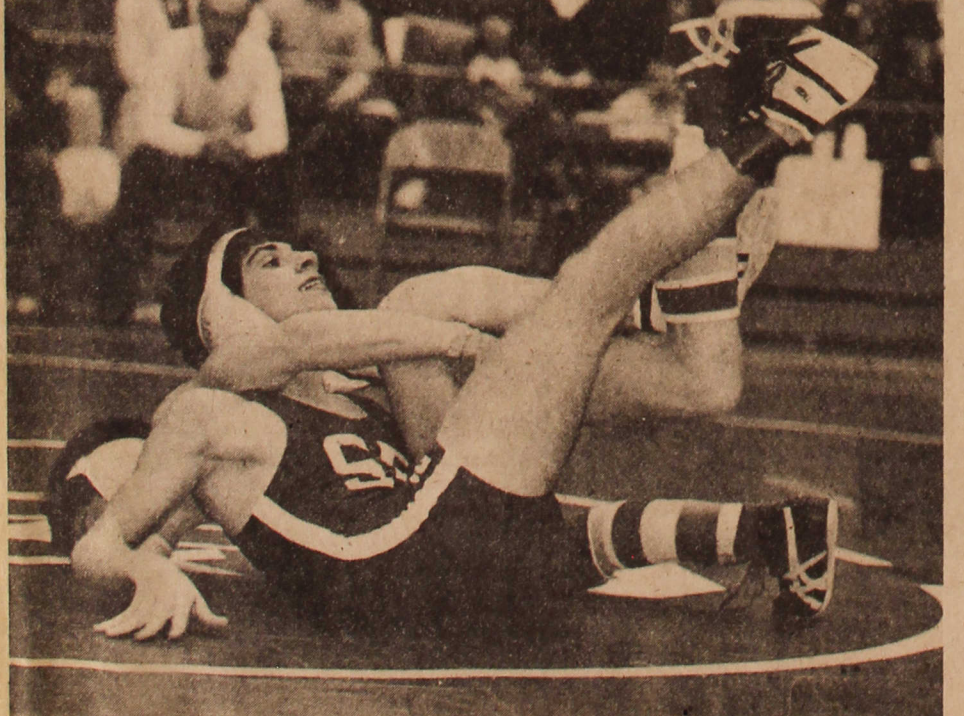

Jeff Frazier (132) leads the list of Little Presidents headed to Hershey after he came back from an early 2-0 deficit to knock off Burgettstown's Adrian Turner, 13-7. Frazier, who coasted to the finals with a pin and a 12-0 victory, was seeded first.

Bentworth's Tom Lapevick (155) made a spectacular return after a one-year absence, extending his perfect record to 16-0-0 with a 2-0 win over Carlynton's Mark Sutton. For Lapevick, this championship took on a special meaning. He dedicated this match to his mother, who died unexpectedly of a heart attack late last year.

Chris Homistek (185) of Mapletown upset top-seeded Steve Brown of Aliquippa, pinning him at 2:57 with the score knotted 5-5. Homistek was a runnerup last year in the tournament.

Other local champions were sophomores Dave McWilliams (98) of Carmichaels and Warren Terhorst (126) of Fort Cherry. McWilliams tripped South Fayette's Joe Iagnemma, 9-6, while Terhorst knocked off No. 1 seeded, unbeaten Phil DeAugustino of West Mifflin South, 7-6.

Central Greene District Announces Registration

WAYNESBURG — The Central Greene School District will conduct registration for kindergarten and first grade students during the week of April 18.

Any child who will be five years of age before Oct. 1, 1983, may attend kindergarten and any child six years of age before Oct. 1, 1983, may attend first grade. A child now attending kindergarten is already registered for first grade and need not register again.

School officials say it is important to register the child for kindergarten or first grade even if they are not certain that the child will be attending next year.

The state requires that you present your child's birth certificate and immunization records at the time of registration. Children can not be registered without the records.

The required immunizations for registrations are as follows: three DPTs (baby shots), three polio shots, a Rubella (3-day measles) shot, a regular measles (10-day variety) shot and a mumps shot.

Parents who have an eligible child are asked to take their child to the nearest registration point. In an attempt to avoid the long waiting lines of previous years, the East Franklin and East Ward parents will be scheduled to register at Waynesburg Central High School.

Those with a last name starting with A through M at Waynesburg Central High School from 8:30 a.m. to noon on Monday, April 18 and from noon to 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 19; those with last names beginning with N through Z from noon to 3:30 p.m. on Monday, April 18 and from 8:30 a.m. to noon on Tuesday, April 19; Whiteley students from 1 to 3 p.m. on Wednesday, April 20; Perry Township students from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. on Wednesday, April 20 and Spraggs students from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. on Thursday, April 21.

Questions should be directed to Ms. Boyle at 627-3294.

During the registrations, a school nurse will first check all immunization records and give guidance on physical problems; the second stop will be registration and checks of hospital records, birth certificates or baptismal records.

The building principal will be available to talk to parents who feel their child might have emotional or learning problems. There will be material available on entering school, the child's emotional health and potential to learn.

"Overall, the 1982 tax package does a lot more for the middle-income and lower-income citizen, as well as the small business, than appears on the surface," he commented. "They warrant a close look by everyone filing an income tax form this year."

Millinovich, a certified public accountant, is governor-elect of Rotary District 733, which encompasses four counties in southwestern Pennsylvania.
