The state police fire marshal is investigating the fire which destroyed the Sonny Schrader residence near Ruff Creek.

Arson Suspected In Ruff Creek Fire

WAYNESBURG — Arson is suspected in a fire which destroyed a mobile home near Ruff Creek late Sunday and fire officials are attempting to clarify an apparent mixup in communications that delayed their response time.

Volunteer firemen were called to the scene at 10:24 p.m. when a neighbor reported a mobile home along LR 30033 near Ruff Creek was burning. The mobile home is owned by Edna Schrader and was occupied by Sonny Schrader and his family. There was no one at home at the time.

Schrader said he understood that neighbor Willie Phillips discovered the fire shortly after 10 p.m. and battled the flames with fire extinguishers. "He thought he had the fire out but it started again," Schrader said Monday.

Schrader said he had recently added an addition to the mobile home that contained a large living room, a "junk" room and two bedrooms. He felt the damages would be around $40,000.

Fire Chief Pete Walker said the state police fire marshal had been contacted to investigate on the basis of an accelerant found at the scene. Walker also said there were no empty extinguishers found at the fire scene.

There was still some confusion Monday as to when and how the fire company was contacted.

Diane Phillips, who lives near the scene of the fire, said she dialed "0" and apparently was connected with Mid-Penn's operator in Altoona. The operator connected Mrs. Phillips with someone whose identity she could not confirm Monday because, "I was excited."

"I gave the man directions to the fire and he asked for my name and phone number," Mrs. Phillips said. After several minutes with no sign of firemen, Mrs. Phillips' sister-in-law Barbara Phillips telephoned the fire company directly and asked why there was a delay. She apparently was told this was the first they knew of a fire.

According to firemen, their equipment was en route before the fire siren stopped.

Chief Walker said he later checked with the state police barracks and learned the initial alarm was received at 10:10 p.m. but the fire company was not called until 10:31 p.m. Fire company records indicate they received the alarm at 10:24, seven minutes before the state police dispatcher called.

Telephone company officials were asked if they had records of the calls but had made no response by late Monday afternoon.

Clerk's Request To Campaign Is Rejected

WAYNESBURG — A county employee's request for a leave of absence to campaign for a county office has been denied.

The Greene County commissioners, at their meeting Thursday, refused to overturn a decision by Treasurer Joseph Souders to deny a 60-day leave, without pay, for Karen Sabo of Mather. Mrs. Sabo is a Democratic candidate for clerk of courts.

Souders, who attended the meeting, said that while he had no objection to her running for office, he felt the request for the leave was unreasonable because it would leave his staff short-handed at a time of the year when the work load is heavy.

He said that even though he had denied her written request for the leave, Mrs. Sabo left on March 15 and has not returned to work.

"I have to assume that she has given up her position," he said.

The matter came before the commissioners because Mrs. Sabo wrote them asking for approval of the leave of absence. Under the county personnel policy manual, leaves must be approved both by the department head and by the commissioners.

The commissioners said that since Souders had made a decision in the matter based on the requirements of his office, they were not in a position to override that decision.

In other developments at the meeting, a contract was awarded to Strosnider Printing Co., Waynesburg, for preparation of ballots for the May 17 primary election. The company's bid of $7,150 was the only one received.

The contract was awarded by the Greene County Board of Elections, consisting of Commissioner Joseph Pawlowsky and two court-appointed members, William Nalitz of Waynesburg and Jeanne Waychoff of Waynesburg R.D.1. The three commissioners normally serve as members of the board, but Commissioners L. R. Santore and Richard Cowan cannot serve this year because they are candidates for re-election.

Richard Doody of 770 Sherman Avenue, Waynesburg, was appointed to the board of directors of the Greene County Conservation District. His appointment as an urban director fills a vacancy created by the resignation of Carl R. Carnheim of Waynesburg.

A letter was received from Carmichaels Borough Council recommending consolidation of the Greene County Police Communications Commission and the Greene County 911 Committee. The recommendation was made because the county police communications system will become part of the new county 1911 emergency telephone system when it is installed.

The commissioners indicated they will take the recommendation under advisement.

Waynesburg Woman Dies After Crash

A Waynesburg woman has died of injuries suffered in a highway accident near Du Bois at 4 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Lulu S. (Lou) Crumrine, 72, of 180 Bonar Avenue, died at 1:50 a.m. Friday in Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh. Her husband, R. Kenneth Crumrine, 74, is listed in stable condition in the trauma unit of the same hospital. He suffered multiple fractures.

According to state police at Du Bois, the couple were trapped in their station wagon for 45 minutes after it slammed into a tractor-trailer on Route 255, three miles northwest of Du Bois. Two other cars also were involved in the accident.

Police said Crumrine struck the rear of a car operated by Arthur Carney of Roscoe, and then veered across the two-lane highway into the large rig, which was operated by Charles J. Scheck Jr. of Johnstown. Carney's car was pushed into a car operated by Todd J. Seligman of Parkersburg, W. Va.

Carney and Seligman were treated for minor injuries at a Du Bois hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Crumrine were taken to the Allegheny General Hospital by its Life Flight helicopter after they were freed from their car by emergency medical technicians.

According to family members, they were en route to Emporium to visit Crumrine's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Crumrine returned to Greene County in 1969 after residing much of their married life in Louisville, Ky., and Cincinnati, Ohio. Mr. Crumrine is a retired butcher who had worked at Shop 'n Save stores in Carmichaels and Waynesburg.

Highway Repair Plans Set Aside

By Bob Eichenlaub, Greene County Editor

WAYNESBURG — The Pennsylvania Department of Transportation has shelved plans, at least for this year, for improvement of a small section of highway between Interstate 79 and Route 19 in Mt. Morris.

County Planner Valerie Cole reported to the Greene County Planning Commission Monday that the project has been deferred because of a $150,000 increase in its estimated cost.

"Increase in right of way costs and easement costs necessitated by changes in the scope of work has increased the cost estimate from $250,000 to $400,000, and PennDOT does not have that amount of money available for the project in 1983," she said.

The matter had been scheduled for planning commission clearinghouse approval as one of the final steps before bidding. "The decision to put it aside was made just last week," Mrs. Cole said.

The job involved improvements and resurfacing of less than a half mile of Route 30099, an access road leading to the interstate highway. With the delay, the planning commission will recommend that a public hearing be held to give Mt. Morris area citizens an opportunity to comment prior to reactivation of the project.

Mrs. Cole and Assistant County Planner Linda Kolat reported that Greene County will have five bridge replacement projects under the state's new $1.5 billion bridge program.

The county bridges, all on rural township roads, span Owen's Run in Richhill Township, Bates Fork in Morris Township, Fish Creek in Freeport Township, Grinage Run in Center Township and Crayne's Run in Washington Township.

She explained that the bulk of the money will come from federal funds, with the county being obligated for a match of up to 20 percent of the cost.

"That's the maximum county share," Miss Kolat said. "If a bridge is in particularly bad shape, it would be possible that no county match would be required."

The program requires that work must begin within six years for funding under the program. Since the Greene County budget makes no provision for matching money in 1983, it will be at least 1984 before any of the county projects will be undertaken.

The planners also explained that the bridges selected for improvement were pinpointed in a federally-funded bridge inspection and inventory completed two years ago.

"In some cases we felt there were bridges which were in worse shape, but all of these bridges are on school bus routes and since they are specifically spelled out in the enabling state legislation it is not possible to make any substitutions," Mrs. Cole explained.

In action at the meeting, the planning commission gave preliminary approval to plans for development of a second section of the Country Club Estates subdivision on property in Morgan Township near the Greene County Country Club.

Final approval will be dependent on a satisfactory road construction agreement between the Morgan Township supervisors and the developer, Jacob Mankey of Waynesburg, and resolving of a question concerning the septic system capabilities of one of the lots.

The proposed development consists of eight lots covering a total of 6.9 acres.

Court Order Is Appealed

WAYNESBURG — The recent Greene County Court order directing Waynesburg Borough to readvertise its refuse hauling contract has been appealed to the state Superior Court.

The appeal, filed Wednesday, did not specify the basis for the action. It will, however, stay the local court order until the appellate court has reviewed the case.

The order voided a franchise the borough awarded Aug. 11, 1981 to Long Trucking Co., Waynesburg R.D.6. It held that borough council did not have sufficient justification for rejecting a lower bid submitted by Southern Allegheny Disposal Service of Allegheny County.

The action was brought against the borough by Robert Dugan of Waynesburg as a private citizen. He contended that council's action penalized residents because it forced them to pay higher refuse collection fees.

The Greene County Court ruled that the borough had not carried out an adequate investigation before deciding that Southern Allegheny did not qualify as the lowest responsible bidder.

W. Greene Reinstates Maintenance Foreman

ROGERSVILLE — Frank Farley, maintenance superintendent for the West Greene School District, withdrew his resignation at a recessed meeting of the board last night. Farley was reinstated to the position he has held for the last six years.

Farley submitted his resignation at the March 17 board meeting, citing lack of direction from the board as one reason for leaving. But in his letter withdrawing his resignation, he noted that several board members had asked him to reconsider his decision. With the exception of Rick Barnhart, the board voted to reinstate him.

The board voted to enter into an agreement with a Pittsburgh firm to monitor the money market for possible refinancing of the bond issue on the high school addition. The firm of Arthurs, Lestrangle and Short will monitor the market.

The state Department of Education has notified the district that it has received and approved the district's completed Long Range Plan. Acting Superintendent Paul Polink said in September 1984 the district will be required to do a mid-point evaluation for the Department of Education as part of its state-wide School Improvement program.

Added to the substitute teachers list were David Yoders of Holbrook, certified in elementary education, and Timothy Logan of Waynesburg R.D.5, certified in social studies.

Bill Ziefel, president of the board, was re-elected to another term on the Intermediate Unit 1 board.

Coroner's Jury Finds No Fault At Inquest Of Crash

By Stan Diamond, Staff Writer

JEFFERSON — A Greene County Coroner's jury found no criminal fault following an inquest Tuesday morning into a Nov. 15, 1982, automobile accident on Route 218 near Spraggs that claimed the life of James V. Jones of Spraggs.

The jury of four men and two women deliberated only a few minutes following testimony.

Greene County Coroner Frank Behm of Jefferson said the inquest was held because it could not be satisfactorily determined from investigation of the accident how it occurred and under what circumstances.

The accident involved a Volkswagen sedan operated by Jones and a pickup truck operated by John M. Bell, 21, also of Spraggs. The collision actually occurred on the berm of the road along a straight stretch of highway and there were no witnesses other than those in the two vehicles involved.

Jones, 43, died of multiple injuries. Hospitalized were Barbara Jean Lee, 27, of Waynesburg R.D.4, and her 7-year-old son, Miles Lee, passengers in Jones' car. Lee is a cousin of Jones and testified Tuesday that Jones was taking her to a doctor's appointment in Morgantown, W. Va., when the accident occurred.

Passengers in the Bell pickup truck were his wife, Christine Louise Bell, 19, and her year-old daughter, Tracy. They were treated for facial injuries.

Testimony Tuesday of all those involved in the accident corresponded to the fact that Jones, for an undetermined reason, allowed his car to drift completely into the opposite lane of traffic.

Ms. Lee said she noticed the car drifting across the center line, then saw the truck approaching but that Jones didn't seem to notice. "All of a sudden he (Jones) jerked the car to the right, saw the truck and jerked to the right again," she testified. "That's all I remember."

When questioned by Behm if she said anything when she noticed the car drifting to the left, she said it happened so fast that she didn't have time to say anything.

The Bells, Jones and Ms. Lee were all acquainted with one another.

In her testimony, Christine Bell said that when they first saw the car approaching she recognized it and said, "Ah, there's Jim taking Barbara Jean to Morgantown."

She too testified that Jones' car was slowly drifting into the opposite lane until it finally was on the opposite road berm and that Bell drove his truck into the opposite lane to avoid a collision, but that Jones' car then came back across the highway.

"I went off the road on the opposite side to give him (Jones) both lanes to go through," Bell told the coroner's jury. "I wanted to get out of his way and let him get through. But he came back across and hit me."

Asked by Behm why he did not go off the road on his side to try and avoid the collision, Bell said there was a steep hill and culvert on that side and there was no room to pull over.

State police trooper John F. Rock testified the accident investigation did not indicate either vehicle was speeding. He said testimony at the inquest of those involved closely followed interviews he made following the accident and corroborated the accident investigation that the collision happened on the berm of the road. The accident occurred at about 9:35 a.m. on a sunny day at a point where there was 960 feet of clear dry roadway, Rock said.

Construction Of Nursing Home To Start Next Week

WAYNESBURG — Construction of a new 120-bed nursing home in Franklin Township, east of Waynesburg, is scheduled to begin no later than next week.

It will be located on 11 acres of land just east of Waynesburg Central High School which Greene Health Care Inc. has purchased from Bryan and Charles Blair of Waynesburg R.D.2. A road will be built from old Route 21 to provide access to the property.

George K. Stennett, executive director of Greene County Industrial Developments, Inc. said that all financial documents were signed Tuesday in Pittsburgh, paving the way for the start of construction. The project, requiring a $3,150,000 bond issue, is being financed through the GCID Authority.

Bond underwriters are Buchanan and Co., Jackson, Miss., with the South Trust Bank of Alabama being bond trustees.

Principals of Greene Health Care Associates include members of the Altman and Altman firm of architects in Uniontown and the Fairchance Lumber Co. Balto, Inc., a firm encompassing members of the partnership, will construct the facility.

Construction is expected to take about a year. The nursing home, when completed, will be operated by Southern Medical Services, Inc. It will offer both intermediate and long-term care and will provide about 106 jobs.

Deeds recorded Tuesday in Waynesburg show Greene Health Care purchased the 11 acres from the Blairs for $91,174.

PMS Pioneer To Conduct Seminar Here

WAYNESBURG — Dr. Katharine Dalton, pioneer in the diagnosis and treatment of Premenstrual Syndrome (PMS), will conduct a one-day seminar for health professionals on Thursday, April 14, under sponsorship of Greene County Memorial Hospital.

Because the seminar is expected to attract a large attendance from throughout the Pittsburgh area, it will be held at the South Hills Sheraton Inn, opposite the South Hills shopping center.

On Friday, April 15, Dr. Dalton will present a brief lecture to non-health professionals and the general public at Waynesburg Central High School. The lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m. and includes time for questions and answers.

The South Hills seminar, which will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m. and conclude at 5 p.m., is open to physicians, psychiatrists, psychologists, registered nurses, nurse practitioners, social workers and other health professionals. Seven hours of Category I Continuing Medical Education credits are available to physicians and psychiatrists.

Dr. Dalton, a resident of London, England, first diagnosed the hormonal condition known as Premenstrual Syndrome more than 30 years ago. Her work at that time culminated in the first paper on PMS in British medical literature, co-authored with Dr. Raymond Greene.

Premenstrual Syndrome results from a lack of the hormone progesterone. In women suffering from PMS, physical and psychological symptoms such as severe bloating, cramps, headaches, breast tenderness, irritability and depression occur in cyclical fashion. Treatment can include the use of progesterone suppositories for the more severe cases, along with adjustments in diet and lifestyle.

Dr. Dalton will discuss symptomology, diagnosis and methods of treatment at the seminar, with time being provided for a question and answer session.

The English physician was recently in the United States to provide testimony before an FDA subcommittee on the use of progesterone in the treatment of PMS. In 35 years of treating more than 30,000 PMS patients, she has conducted blind studies on the use of progesterone and has followed the children of PMS patients, concluding there are no adverse side-effects with progesterone therapy either to the patients or their offspring.

Her visit is being sponsored by Greene County Memorial Hospital's Family and Teen Health Services. Bonita Roche, director of Family and Teen Health Services, also heads the PMS treatment program, one of the first in the nation to provide PMS assessment, treatment and on-going counseling services to PMS patients.

Those wishing more information about either the seminar or the public meeting can contact either Ms. Roche or Linda Mosier at Greene County Memorial Hospital, 627-3101.

W. Va. Man Hit By Tractor-Trailer

WAYNESBURG — A 43-year-old West Virginia man was seriously injured when he was struck by a tractor-trailer in Waynesburg Wednesday afternoon.

Donald P. Bell of Blacksburg, W. Va., was listed in critical condition Wednesday night at the West Virginia University Hospital in Morgantown, where he was rushed by ambulance following the accident at 3:45 p.m. at the corner of South Washington and Greene streets.

Personnel at the hospital said he is listed in serious condition in the intensive care unit, where he is being treated for a head injury and fractured ribs.

According to borough police, Bell ran through a line of cars stopped in traffic in the right lane of Greene Street and ran into the path of the large rig, which was operated by Jerry R. Minton, 39, of 43 Crawford Avenue, Cameron, W. Va.

According to one eye-witness, Carolyn Morris of Waynesburg, Bell was thrown some 50 feet through the air when he was hit. The tractor then passed over him as he lay on the street, coming to a stop with Bell under the rig, between the tractor and the trailer.

Mrs. Morris was one of the motorists in the line of traffic which was stopped a block west of the Waynesburg fire hall while fire equipment moved from the fire hall in response to a field fire alarm. The left lane was moving, however, and the tractor-trailer had just passed through the intersection at Washington Street when Bell ran between two of the stopped cars.

Other witnesses, who told much the same story, included Venie Bennett of Waynesburg, Craig Johnson of Waynesburg R.D. 4 and Helen Krier, address unknown.

Emergency crews from the fire hall were on hand with an ambulance within minutes and removed Bell from under the rig. They took him to Greene County Memorial Hospital and then on to the hospital at Morgantown.

The tractor-trailer is owned by R. Paul McKeen of Wheeling, W. Va. Minton told police he was enroute to Morgantown with a load of sand.

ARD No Longer A Haven For Drunk Drivers

WAYNESBURG — Persons who are arrested for the first time on a charge of driving while intoxicated can no longer avoid a license suspension by gaining admittance to the Accelerated Rehabilitative Disposition (ARD) program.

The change, which is mandated by Pennsylvania's new drunk driving law, came into play for the first time locally when the Greene County Court held hearings Thursday for defendants who had applied for the program.

ARD, which is open only to first-time offenders, is designed primarily to give those who are arrested an opportunity to avoid the stigma of a lifelong criminal record. After a defendant has paid court-imposed costs and satisfactorily completed a period of probation, all records of the arrest are erased.

In the case of those charged with driving under the influence, defendants must also attend a driver improvement school operated by the county probation office, which requires a tuition fee of $100. The major side benefit has been avoidance of the automatic license suspension which is imposed by the state when the motorist elects to plead guilty or is convicted in a jury trial.

For persons arrested after Jan. 15, the day on which the new state law went into effect, this is no longer true. The law requires that a judge, when accepting a person into the ARD program, impose a suspension of at least 30 days. He can make it for as long as one year if circumstances warrant.

Of eight drunk driving defendants who entered the program Thursday, six received 30 day suspensions. The seventh, who was arrested prior to Jan. 15, did not have his license suspended.

There is a new advantage to getting into the program, however. It enables a first-time offender to avoid the mandatory 48-hour jail sentence required by the new law, even for initial offenses, where a defendant pleads guilty or is convicted by a jury. Following Thursday's hearings, Judge Glenn Toothman said he is still uncertain about the effect of changes.

"I feel ARD has worked out very well for first-time offenders, particularly in cases of drunk driving," he said. "It drives home the message that it is a serious offense and in most cases the person does not repeat. Where he does, he knows he will go to jail."

Toothman has no particular difficulty in accepting the Legislature's imposition of mandatory jail time since he has always included a jail sentence after the first offense — and one which is substantially longer than 48 hours.

The new law will also result in increasing the cost of ARD for drunk drivers, since the court can no longer impose a fine in lieu of costs but must accurately assess the expense involved and pass those charges on to defendants.

In the past, drunk driving ARD usually involved the payment of a total of $325. For those accepted into the program Thursday, it will be closer to $500.

The bill will include county costs of $75, magistrate's costs of $20, $250 for ARD administration costs, $100 for six sessions of driver improvement school, and a $15 charge for the cost of checking state records for possible prior offenses.

It was also brought out during Thursday's hearings that a motorist who is stopped on suspicion of driving while intoxicated would do well to accept the requirement of taking an intoxilyzer test.

One defendant who refused to do so was told he would be subject to the state's 12-month license suspension, which is automatically imposed in such cases, as well as to the 30-day suspension ordered by the court.

Toothman noted that under the previous law, an alcohol reading of .01 percent was considered a presumption of intoxication, which could be rebutted by offsetting testimony. Under the new law, it is considered legal proof of intoxication.

"Intent of the legislation is obvious," he said. "It is meant to make a person think twice before driving after he has been drinking as a means of cutting down on the number of accidents which involve drunk drivers."

The eight persons charged with driving while intoxicated who were admitted to the ARD program Thursday were Steven Douglas Dulaney of Waynesburg, Vance Vernon DeBolt of Sprags, Roy Chalmers Davis of Waynesburg, Lamon Vitek of 490 Rolling Meadows Road, Waynesburg, Margaret Sue Ewing of 155 Woodland Avenue, Waynesburg, Kim S. Gillogly of Holbrook R.D.1, Dennis D. Radabaugh of Carmichaels and Paul Michael Medlock Jr. of Mather. Seven of them were arrested by Waynesburg Borough Police.

In addition to paying the costs, all eight were placed on probation for one year.

Others who were admitted to the ARD program, and the charges against them:

Robert L. Wise, New Freeport R.D.2, terroristic threats and simple assault, $150 in costs and one year's probation.

Ralph Regis Riggen, Carmichaels, indecent exposure, costs plus $100 and six months' probation.

Louis Ray King, Point Marion, theft by failure to make required disposition of funds received, costs plus $100, restitution and six months' probation.

Debra Kay Durbin, 148 1/2 East Elm Street, Waynesburg, receiving stolen property, restitution, costs and six months' probation.

Wayne Moore, Carmichaels, simple assault, costs plus $100 and three months' probation.

Sharon Crouse, Rogersville, simple assault, costs plus $100, medical expenses and three months' probation.

Melvin Lee Bittinger, Bobtown, burglary, costs plus $100 and three months' probation.

College Officials Pleased By Increase In Fall Enrollment

WAYNESBURG — Figures released Monday by the office of Admissions and Financial Aid at Waynesburg College show that the upward trend in applications and deposits for the fall 1983 term are continuing.

Ronald L. Shunk, dean of admissions and financial aid, said applications for the coming academic year are running 8.6 percent ahead of last year's pace. The number of deposits paid for the fall term is up 11.6 percent from a year ago.

Shunk said that new programs of visual communications and nursing, along with the new master of business administration program, are contributing to the increases.

"We are most encouraged by the results of the past several months," he said, "particularly in light of our mid-year increase in enrollment. We hope these upwards trends continue and that Waynesburg College again experiences increases in fall enrollments, as we did for several years in the late 1970s."

At that time, while enrollments at most independent colleges were dropping, enrollment at Waynesburg increased for five consecutive fall terms.

Shunk noted that the Nursing Information Day at the college on March 26 drew nearly 200 people.

"We also have many prospective students and parents arranging visits to the campus at this time of year to meet our students and faculty and talk about financial aid opportunities," he said.

2 Day Care Centers Open House

WAYNESBURG — An open house was held Thursday, March 24 at the two Day Care Centers for preschoolers operated by the Washington-Greene Community Action Corp., Waynesburg.

The centers are located at the First Baptist Church where 17 5- and 6-year-olds are enrolled in the program, and at the First Presbyterian Church where 30 3- and 4-year-olds are enrolled. In addition, the program includes homes located throughout Greene County that will provide day care for infants up to and including 12 year olds.

Both Waynesburg centers are open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. and provide the children with breakfast at 8:45 a.m., lunch at noon, and a snack at 3:30 p.m. The meals, following federal guidelines for nutrition, are prepared at the Baptist Church center and transported to the nearby Presbyterian Church center. They are served family style.

The preschool center programs are offered as either subsidized care or private care. To be eligible for subsidized care, family income requirements must be met and fees are based on a sliding scale ranging from $1 to $4 per day. Also, a parent must be working, in training, or be the spouse of a disabled parent in addition to being employed or in training.

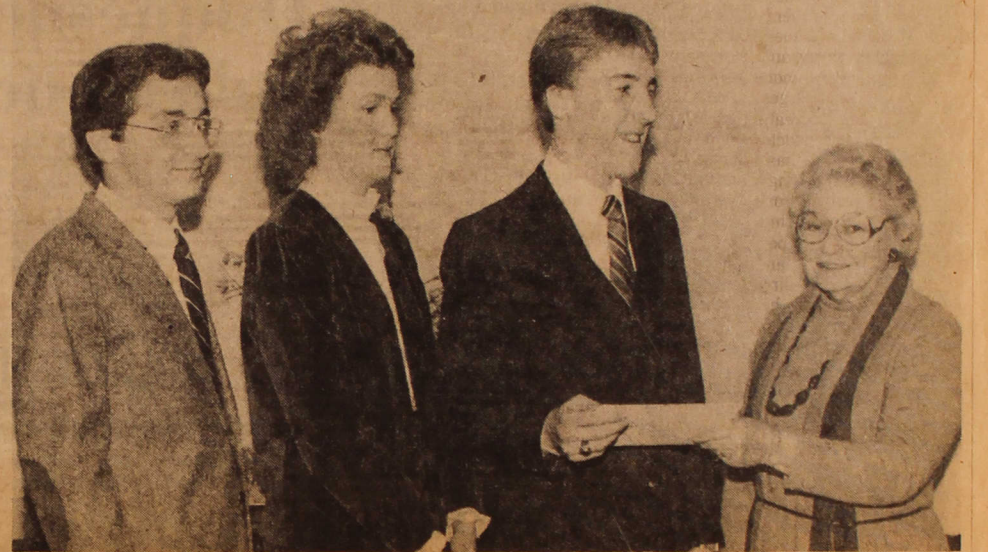

There are no family income or work/training regulations for the private day care program. Fees range from $7 to $10 per day based on a family's income. Parents pay only when their children are present at the center. If care is needed for less than five hours, only a half fee is charged.

Faces From The Past-Do You Recognize Them?

In the summer of 1907, Mr. and Mrs. E.B. Throckmorton, along with several friends, planned a trip to Hamilton, Canada to visit their daughter Mrs. Ed (Bertha) Nesbitt and her family. The group was cited in London, Canada for blowing their horns on Sunday. E.B. Throckmorton is driving the car on the right. In the back seat are his wife Fannie, his daughter Kathryn Skelton and grandson Kenneth. Driver of the middle car is Tom Skelton and one of the men in the back seat of the car on the left is Throckmorton's brother Jim.

Fact and Folklore

WAYNESBURG — The final chapter in a picturesque story of rural history in Greene County will be enacted this month when the last structure at Reese's Mill will be razed to make way for the new railroad.

The mill dates back to the early 1900s when area farmers hauled their grain to the mill to be ground into flour for home consumption and sale to local stores and restaurants.

Gradually, the housewives began to purchase flour and cornmeal from the hucksters or at the county seat stores.

Even though the mill was dismantled by a Fayette County man several months ago, the stony, three-story brick homestead remained. Three generations of the Reese family lived in the stately home and operated the mill.

Within a few weeks the bulldozers will forever erase any evidence of the once popular mill and the Reese farm. A new generation will be counting the coal coals going by instead of the horse-drawn wagons loaded with grain.

At first it was thought the home would not have to be razed to make room for the new track; however, plans were changed and it was decided to level the brick structure.

Nice to hear from a former resident now living in Bloomington, Calif.

Al Marchio, who the old timers will remember as a clerk in the Ullom & Baily Drug Store and manager of the Mike Russo Recreation Room; dropped a note about his son William Alan.

William will graduate from the University of California Medical School in June and will then intern at the University of Florida Medical Center as anesthesiologist.

His proud relatives include his aunt Grace Marchio and his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Booth, all of Waynesburg and also aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cesarone of Somerset.

Al, 70, spent 42 years working in the steel mills at Martins Ferry, Ohio; Weirton, W. Va.; Gary, Ind. and Fontana, Calif. with timeout for service during World War II.

Fire Number Announced

WAYNESBURG — Residents in the Waynesburg area are reminded that to report a fire they should dial 852-2111.

There have been two or three instances in the past few weeks, when homeowners have dialed "0" or "1911" which connects the caller with a telephone operator in Altoona or some other city.

This only delays a response to an emergency. The new "1911" emergency system will be operable by June 1 but until then, residents should use the 852-2111 number for fires, the 852-2911 number for police and 852-1600 for an ambulance.

There are no longer local operators in Waynesburg. When an operator is dialed direct, the call is answered in Altoona or possibly in Atlanta if the Altoona switchboard is busy. Although the Altoona operator has a list of emergency numbers at hand, an excited caller can give incomplete information or possibly disconnect too quickly before full information is received.

Bitter Election Issues In Southeastern Greene

One of the more bitter school board elections in Greene County this year has shaped up in the Southeastern Greene School District, fired by a battle over a school building program which has stretched out over more than six years and an acrimonious teachers' strike which-racked the district last fall.

Terms of six of the nine directors expire this year, and there are 14 candidates in the field.

Three of them were on the board in 1977, when a Concerned Citizens organization successfully blocked plans for a new centralized elementary school to replace three old buildings on the grounds that taxpayers could not afford the $3.1 million price tag it carried, contending that it would be cheaper and more practical to renovate the existing buildings.

The issue cost them their seats on the board, and they are bitter about the fact that leaders of the group which fought the project, after being elected to the board, proceeded to award a contract for an addition to the Penn Pitt elementary school at a cost of $2.7 million, and just recently received a bid of almost $2.8 million for badly-needed renovation of the Bobtown elementary school.

Whether or not the bid will be accepted remains to be seen, but whatever happens is sure to fuel their argument that residents were badly served by those who scuttled plans for the new school six years ago.

Others in the field of candidates are unhappy about the way the board handled the long teachers' strike which the district struggled through last fall. They will be trying to unseat present members for that reason.

It's interesting to note that Board President James Minor, who was a central figure in both issues, is not running for re-election.

It will also be interesting to see what happens to the four incumbents who have filed for re-election. Their vote on the Bobtown project, which could come before the May 17 primary election, may well be pivotal in a district in which school taxes are already the second highest in Greene County.

Jobs Bill Should Bring Plenty Here

It is not known at this early stage what impact the new anti-recession legislation signed into law by President Reagan late Thursday night will have on Washington and Greene counties, but officials are confident that a substantial amount of money will be earmarked for the bi-county area.

For one thing, about $2 billion of the $4.6 billion authorized by the Congress will go directly to areas hardest hit by the recession.

The unemployment rate in Washington County in January was 19.4 percent, meaning that nearly one of every five people in the job market were without work.

In Greene County, meanwhile, the jobless rate soared to 24.8 percent in January, a jump of more than one-third from the 18.1 percent of December.

Secondly, officials' spirits are buoyed by the fact that the law provides money for many projects that are already in place here, but have been slowed by a lack of funding.

"I think we'll see a lot of money come into our district," said Luther Sheets, press secretary for 22nd District Congressman Austin J. Murphy. "What is happening is that a lot of projects already in the works will be accelerated."

Possible programs locally that could benefit, Sheets said, are rural water and waste disposal, surplus food, mine reclamation, community service employment for the elderly, summer youth employment and Women, Infants and Children (WIC).

Robert M. Umstead, assistant executive director of the Washington County Redevelopment Authority, said the county should be receiving additional Community Development funds for public works or other job-generating projects.

The bill sets aside $500 million for Community Development block grants and an identical amount for Community Development loan authority.

Umstead said the jobs programs would probably be launched and wrapped up within a six-month period.

"Although we don't know all the details at this point," Umstead said, "we'll try to take advantage of everything available."

Sheets said the original proposal called for the projects covered in the law to be started within 90 days. Of course, the funds to bail out states who have depleted or are close to depleting unemployment compensation accounts are available immediately.

"This is the most important thing," Sheets said. "It does not create any new jobs, but it gives hope to a lot of people who are unemployed."

Duquesne Light Co. Denies Subsidence Responsibility

WAYNESBURG — Duquesne Light Co. denied Tuesday any liability for alleged mine subsidence damage to Mapletown High School.

The denial was contained in an answer filed Tuesday in Greene County Court in response to a lawsuit in which the Southeastern Greene School District asked for compensation in excess of $10,000.

The school district complaint was filed in January. It claimed that Duquesne Light, which operates the Warwick Mine in Greensboro, mined Sewickley seam coal from under the building starting in 1945, and Pittsburgh seam coal starting in 1975. Resultant surface subsidence, it states, has damaged both the exterior and interior walls of the gymnasium, caused stairwells to separate from walls, and caused the ceiling of the lower locker room to separate from the walls.

In its answer, Duquesne Light denied it ever mined Sewickley seam coal located under the school since it did not own that coal.

"If the Sewickley coal was mined, it was done by others long before passage of the Bituminous Mine Subsidence and Land Conservation Act of 1966," the answer states.

With regard to mining of the Pittsburgh coal, the company said that when property for construction of the high school was sold in 1939, Pittsburgh Coal was specifically reserved, along with the right to mine the coal without providing the required surface support.

The defendant also denies that it entered into an agreement with the school district's building authority in 1969 to mine Pittsburgh coal from under the school property — an agreement which the school district contends provided specific responsibility for any mine subsidence damage. Duquesne Light contends the agreement was never consummated.

The answer asks the court to dismiss the complaint on the grounds there is no basis for holding the defendant liable for building damages.

Considers Ordinance

WAYNESBURG — The Franklin Township Supervisors Monday indicated they would look favorably upon an anti-pornography ordinance — a model of which will be presented at the next meeting on Monday, April 11.

However, township officials made it clear they have no desire to be inundated with "nit-picking" complaints should the ordinance be approved.

200 Hospital Employees Scheduled To Walk Out

WAYNESBURG — Some 200 employees at Greene County Memorial Hospital are scheduled to go on strike at midnight tonight.

At a meeting Wednesday, members of Local 585, Service Employees International Union, "voted overwhelmingly" to reject the hospital's latest offer, according to Mark Kesner, president of the SEIU chapter at the hospital. Membership includes licensed practical nurses, nurses aides, maintenance personnel, housekeeping staff, clerical staff, dietary staff and others.

The present two-year contract, which was negotiated following a two-week strike in 1981, expires today. The hospital proposed, in essence, that it remain in effect, with wages being frozen at their present levels. The hospital proposed a wage reopener after six months for further negotiations on wages.

Kesner said members were unwilling to accept the proposal, feeling that there should be a wage increase at this time.

Hospital Administrator Michael Flinn said that the wage freeze was dictated by present economic conditions.

"The past fiscal year has been a very difficult one for the hospital, as it has been for all of Greene County," he said. "We just don't have the money available for pay increases at this time. Hopefully it will turn around in the next fiscal year." The hospital operates on a July 1 to June 30 fiscal year.

Kesner, on the other hand, said that SEIU members know that registered nurses were given raises last summer and then were granted a 10 percent increase when their contract was up for renewal, and that the hospital is continuing with plans to build a new addition. "It seems that money is available for everything but our members," he said, adding that members voted by a majority of about four-to-one for the strike.

Flinn said that patient services will be maintained during the walkout through use of personnel who are not members of the union — registered nurses, health professionals and members of the administrative staff.

As of Wednesday, there were 70 patients in the hospital. Flinn said the census will be reduced as far as possible through the discharge and transfer of patients who are able to leave. No scheduled admissions will be accepted for the duration of the strike, although the hospital will continue to accept emergency cases.

Although the union requested that negotiations be resumed as quickly as possible, Flinn said there are no further meetings scheduled at this time.

Family Homeless After House Fire

GREENSBORO — A Greensboro area family were left homeless when fire destroyed their home at Fieldson's Crossroads Monday night.

Rocky Lee and Rita King of Greensboro R.D.1 and their 2-year-old daughter, Anglia, were visiting friends in Point Marion when the blaze broke out.

Greensboro Fire Chief Edward Helmeck said the neighbors on both sides also were away, so the fire had a good start by the time it was spotted. The alarm was called in at 8:30 p.m.

"Flames were coming out the windows and through the roof when we got there," Helmeck said. "The house was pretty much fully involved."

The six-room frame house, which was purchased by the couple about a year ago, was gutted and everything inside was destroyed.

WAYNESBURG — A fire in an unoccupied apartment house on Waynesburg's South Side was spotted in its early stages by a late-night jogger, enabling firemen to bring the blaze under control with a minimum of damage.

"I was jogging down the alley (Cherry Street) when flames burst through the basement window," Chuck White said. "I went to the next house and had them call in the alarm."

The fire, which occurred shortly before midnight Thursday, was confined to one corner of the basement, where the electrical entrance came into the 12-room, two-story dwelling

Central Greene Fulfilling Goal

WAYNESBURG — Dr. Ronald J. Ferrari, Central Greene School District superintendent, presented a series of illustrated programs on the district's Student Evaluation Program to the Waynesburg Rotary Club.

At a meeting Monday, Ferrari, now in his fourth year as chief school administrator, completed his presentation on the program.

The program serves three purposes, Ferrari said.

Foremost, it provides information to the district on how well the school system has accomplishing its instructional goals. Secondly, it provides the faculty with information on a student's aptitude and achievement so realistic academic expectations can be established for each student.

And, finally, it provides feedback to parents on how well their child is performing in school so that parents can set realistic expectations for their child's future.

Last spring, the Central Greene School District conducted achievement, aptitude and attitudinal evaluations with the student body. The instruments used were the Educational Quality Assessment Test, the Test of Cognitive Skills and the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills.

The Educational Quality Assessment Test attempts to measure the student's mastery of the 12 goals of quality education as adopted by the Pennsylvania Department of Education, as described by Ferrari, "deal primarily with the ability of our students to become useful, productive, contributing members of our society."

He listed the goals as: communication skills, mathematics, self-esteem, analytical thinking, understanding others, citizenship, arts and the humanities, science and technology, work, family living/health and, finally, the environment.

"This evaluation instrument is not a test in the sense of pass or fail," Ferrari said, "its sole function is to let us in the district know if we are, in fact, meeting the goals or, as the case may be, not meeting them."

"In this way," he concluded, "we have pre-computed by state education specialists who establish the scores from factors known about the students and the district's course offerings. By comparing the "actual scores," which are the results of the students' responses in each "goal area," to the "predicted scores range," the district is able to verify strengths and weaknesses in its educational practices.

Officials Explain Mix-Up On Fire Call

WAYNESBURG — Confusion about communications in reporting a fire near Ruff Creek late Sunday has been clarified following an informal meeting Wednesday attended by state police, Waynesburg Volunteer Fire Company officials and a representative of Mid-Penn Telephone Company.

Despite the earlier confusion, all parties involved acted in a responsible manner and there was no delay in answering the alarm.

Fire destroyed a mobile home owned by Edna Schrader and occupied by Sonny Schrader and his family. There was no one at home at the time and the fire was reported by neighbors.

Instead of calling 852-2911, the switchboard at the state police barracks, or 852-211, the fire company number, neighbors dialed "0" which connected them to the Altoona phone exchange. The Altoona operator, prepared for such emergencies, immediately transferred the call to the local fire department.

The local fire company received the call at 10:23 p.m. and immediately dispatched equipment.

Persons at the fire scene apparently felt firemen should have arrived and again called. Again dialing "0" the call was transferred to the state police barracks where a dis-
