Commissioners Set Bid Date

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County commissioners will accept bids Thursday, Aug. 25, for extension of a taxiway at the county airport to permit the erection of an additional block of T-hangers.

The project is expected to cost $85,500, with 90 percent of the money coming from a grant obtained from the Federal Aviation Administration. The state Bureau of Aviation and the county will each pay 5 percent, making the county's cost about $4,250.

County Development Director George K. Stennett presented plans for the construction to the commissioners at their meeting Thursday. They were prepared by the Michael Baker Engineering Co.

Stennett explained that a construction contract must be awarded by Sept. 30, which is the end of the federal fiscal year, if the grant is to be secured. Specifications, however, will provide that work does not start until next spring so that the job can be provided for in the county's 1984 budget.

It was brought out that rent from T-hangers is a major source of revenue at the airport, with the existing number being insufficient to meet demand.

In another matter involving the airport, the commissioners were notified by the state Department of Transportation that a state law which became effective July 1, 1981, requires the adoption of an airport zoning ordinance to protect airports from encroachment of noncompatible land uses that could jeopardize safe airport operation — particularly in terms of the height of buildings and other structures within the flight path.

"Your aid at the county level to enact airport zoning is needed. To date, little compliance has been made with the law," PennDOT Deputy Secretary Don Bryan wrote. He noted that the ordinance could be adopted by either the county or by the municipality in which the airport is located (Franklin Township).

The matter was referred to Stennett for his recommendation.

Michael Mulholland, a member of the county 1911 committee, was authorized to order two additional remote console units for installation at the state police barracks. He said that the cost of installing equipment is currently well within budget, and that the added cost of $1,232 for the consoles could probably be pretty much absorbed.

Mulholland also said work on the system is proceeding on schedule and should be completed within a short time. It will provide Greene County residents with one number — 1911 — to be called in the case of an emergency requiring fire, police or ambulance service.

Grand Champion Baby Beef Show At County Fair

WAYNESBURG — A 1,046-pound steer shown by Jamie Thistlethwaite, of Jefferson R.D.1, was selected grand champion during the 4-H Baby Beef Show Wednesday night at the Greene County Fair setting the stage for tonight's popular 4-H Market Lamb and Baby Beef Sale.

Auction of the 53 lambs from last night's 4-H Market Lamb Show and the animals from tonight's 4-H Baby Beef Show will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Thistlethwaite's steer had been chosen earlier as the champion in the middleweight division. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thistlethwaite. Show reserve champion was shown by Robin Amos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Amos, of West Finley R.D.2. The 1,242-pound steer, heaviest in the show, was selected the champion in the heavyweight division. Miss Amos also won the 4-H Rate of Gain Trophy with her steer which gained a total of 638 pounds in the 256-day judging period.

The animals were shown in three weight divisions with the champions from each division being judged for show grand and reserve champion. A large crowd filled the show ring area of the livestock barn for Wednesday night's show. Confirmation judge was Tom Turner, a professor of animal science at Ohio State University. Judging for fitting and showmanship was Kirk Barbieri, Westmoreland County agent.

Reserve champion in the heavy-weight division was shown Jamie Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Henry, of Sycamore R.D.1. His steer weighed 1,152 pounds. Reserve champion in the middleweight division was a 1,072-pound steer shown by Gary Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hopkins, of Nineveh.

In the lightweight division, the champion animal was a 980-pound steer shown by Kathy Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wagner, of Mt. Morris Star Route, Waynesburg. Reserve champion was shown by Shawn Shimek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Shimek, of Waynesburg R.D.1. It weighed 888 pounds.

Turnout Big For 'Fair' Weather

WAYNESBURG — An afternoon racing program which will include both harness and thoroughbred events, the annual 4-H Baby Beef and Market Lamb sale, and grandstand shows featuring all-star mud wrestling competition, will highlight today's program at the Greene County Fair. Wednesday night's crowd was estimated by Fair Manager Larry Marshall at 5,000 people, making it by far the largest turnout of the week.

Marshall also was enthusiastic about the response to a "Kid's Day" promotion Wednesday afternoon which featured a clown show, reduced price midway rides, and awarding of more than 75 prizes.

"All in all it was a good day, and we're looking for another one tomorrow," Marshall said. "We've been particularly fortunate with the weather this year and are hoping it will continue through Saturday."

The harness racing program, which was held during the evening on the first two fair days, will shift to the afternoon today. The program, starting at 1 p.m., will include a Quaker State trot and pace of two divisions each and free-for-all trots and paces.

The running race program, starting at 3:30 p.m., will be highlighted by the George L. Zimmerman Memorial Trophy Race for thoroughbreds, held each year as a testimonial to a Waynesburg resident who for many years coordinated the fair racing program.

The auction of 4-H steers and lambs which were judged on Tuesday and Thursday always fills the stands surrounding the show ring in the livestock building. It will get under way at 6:30 p.m.

The mud wrestling competition, which will be held on the grandstand stage, is scheduled for 7 and 9 p.m. Livestock judging will be completed today with sheep coming under the scrutiny of judges. Beef cattle were judged Wednesday.

In Shorthorn competition, the Eisminglers' Woodside Farm, Waynesburg R.D.3, swept the grand and reserve championships for both bulls and females.

William Renner of Waynesburg R.D.3 showed the grand champion Hereford bull. The reserve championship bull and the grand champion female were shown by Flatrone Lick Farms, Marianna. Keith Rooper of Uniontown had the reserve champion female.

In the Limousin breed, Crystal Clutter of Prosperity had the grand champion female; Tom Garber of Waynesburg the reserve champion female and grand champion bull, and Fuller Brothers, Jefferson, the reserve champion bull.

Carla Clutter of Prosperity won grand champion rosettes with her Charolais bull and female, as well as the reserve champion female rosette. Joan Chambers of Claysville had the reserve champion bull.

Wayne Wagner of Waynesburg displayed the grand champion Angus female. Schaal Farm, St. Clairsville, Ohio, had the grand and reserve champion bull and the reserve champion female.

In the wool show, a medium wool fleece entered by Truman Calvert of Spraggs R.D.1 won the grand championship ram award. Robert Calvert of Spraggs R.D. showed the grand champion ewe fleece.

Judging of 4-H displays has also been completed.

In clothing club competition, first place went to the New Freeport Sewettes; second place to the Sycamore Stitches, and third place to the Spraggs Stitches.

Murphy Tours Lock

By Paul King, Staff Writer

GREENSBORO — U.S. Rep. Austin Murphy spent the first day of the House of Representatives' five-week summer recess on a pleasure boat with his family, motoring up the Monongahela River.

But when the "Irish Rover" reached Lock and Dam No. 7 late Monday afternoon, Murphy got off the boat to meet with officials from the Army Corps of Engineers for a tour of the deteriorating lock.

"Combining business with pleasure," the congressman joked as he began his hour-long tour. But Murphy was dead serious as he gathered information to take back to Washington, D.C., when Congress reconvenes in September.

The U.S. House Subcommittee on Water Resources two weeks ago approved a $12.4 billion waterways bill that includes the replacement of locks at both Greensboro and Point Marion.

Few Homeowners Participate In Repair Program

WAYNESBURG — The Franklin Township Supervisors Monday expressed concern over the apparent lack of interest in the West Franklin Rehabilitation project in which only three homeowners are participating.

Government money is made available to property owners to rehabilitate homes but only two homeowners have taken advantage thus far. A third is in the process of filing the necessary papers.

It was learned at Monday's meeting that unauthorized persons have been in the area soliciting money from homeowners. The supervisors issued a warning to local citizens that they should contact the township office at 852-1911 before entering into any agreements.

Supervisors also expressed concern that despite a no-parking ban along Route 21 near the Greene County Fairgrounds, drivers have been parking along the berm. However, they again stressed the township is not enforcing the ban but because it is a state parking ordinance, state police will be patrolling the area and issuing citations.

Solicitor William Hook informed the supervisors that an agreement merging the Bonar, West Waynesburg and Franklin Township sewer districts could be ready by Jan. 1, 1984.

The township has been pushing for such a merger for the past several months in an effort to consolidate the separate districts for administrative purposes.

The regularly scheduled meeting for Monday, Aug. 22 has been rescheduled for Monday, Aug. 15, at 4 p.m.

Murphy said he wanted to view the locks before the bill traveled any farther in Congress.

Murphy toured the lock with Col. John Richards, head of the Pittsburgh district of the Army Corps of Engineers, and George Cingle, the corps' chief planner. Both are involved in the study into the replacement of the two locks.

Richards explained that the corps could be ready for public hearings on the replacement projects by next spring. Although work at Lock 8 would only involve building new chambers at the present site, plans for Lock 7 call for the new lock and dam to be built at Gray's Landing.

The relocation will mean extending the lower, or deeper pool two more miles, and Richards said it may mean moving some bridges downriver.

"We're all a lot more confident than we were last year at this time," Murphy said. "The green light has been given to Col. Richards to finish his study. We're much farther along than we've been in the past six years."

Murphy said he feels Congress will pass the bill before it adjourns at the end of October.

It was the first time Murphy had toured Lock and Dam 7. He made a visit to Lock and Dam 8 at Point Marion about two years ago. But he said he has made his colleagues in Congress familiar with the problems at both facilities.

"There are a lot of Congressmen who don't know how to pronounce Monongahela, but they know 7 and 8," Murphy said, referring to the omnibus legislation being considered by the House.

Hospital Adjusts Visiting Policy

WAYNESBURG — A year ago, Greene County Memorial Hospital instituted one of the most progressive visitation policies for children 14 and under of any hospital in the region.

After six months, the policy was reviewed by employees, physicians and staff. The policy makes provisions for children's visits, but in a more controlled manner.

Effective Aug. 1, children 14 and under may visit patients between 6 and 8 p.m. each day. Visits will be limited to 15 minutes in the day rooms on each floor or to five minutes in a patient's room if the patient is non-ambulatory. Children must be accompanied by an adult during these visits.

All youth visits must be arranged in advance and receive approval from the patient representative. Pre-authorization forms indicating the dates and times of youth visits may be obtained by patients or children's parents by contacting the patient representative, Rita Barchiesi at 627-3010, extension 440.

Archaeologists Uncover Ancient Indian Village

By Peter Mattiace, AP Writer

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP) — Archaeologists digging on a remote farm are uncovering new clues about the unexplained disappearance some 350 years ago of the ancient Monongahela Indian tribe.

"It looks like they made a very hasty retreat," said field archaeologist James Herbstritt. "We're looking at some of the last Monongahela folk in western Pennsylvania."

Evidence of 11 circular houses, each with a central hearth and many with attached storage sheds, along with human and animal bones, charred vegetables, pottery, stone tools and baubles, have been recovered about 12 inches below the surface in a half-acre excavation.

The Monongahelas lived in what is now western Pennsylvania for more than six centuries. They may have been ravaged by hunger, disease or warring Indians before abandoning the village and fleeing into the Allegheny foothills, according to archaeologists.

The excavation has yielded glass beads and Indian likenesses of lizards, otters and turtles cut from brass kettles made in Europe between 1590 and 1620. The artifacts, which probably reached the Monongahelas through trade with other tribes, date the village at a critical time in Indian history, said state Archaeologist Dr. Barry Kent.

"This was a very sensitive time. There were epidemics of vast proportions and these people may have been wiped out by diseases brought by the Europeans," Herbstritt said. "This village may give us a clue to a real gap in history. There are no Indian occupations (settlements) dating between 1630 and 1720."

The Monongahela tribe disappeared in the 1620s or 1630s when westward pressure of North America's first white settlers and the settlers' European diseases were dislodging and killing other Eastern tribes.

"This tribe was one of farmers. They never saw the white man," Kent said. "By the time the white settlers got there, these people were long gone. That's part of the mystery. What happened to them?"

The $7,500 project by five archaeologists is being sponsored by the Pennsylvania Historical Museum Commission and the Fort Pitt Museum Associates. Excavating began last fall after the funds became available.

The site is a narrow, picturesque valley of farms and woodland about 15 miles outside Waynesburg and a few miles from Pennsylvania's southwestern corner boundary. Archaeologists hope to keep its exact location undisclosed to prevent looting.

Herbstritt said archaeologists believe the Indian village was somewhat larger than the half-acre uncovered so far. Kent estimated about 150 Indians lived in the permanent village at its peak of prosperity.

Richard T. Foley, 77, a Pittsburgh insurance executive, discovered the village in 1971 while digging in the garden of his 500-acre farm. Foley said he alerted archaeologists after uncovering flint arrowheads, copper beads, deer antlers and broken pottery.

"I was surprised, but I recognized what I saw," Foley said. "I was digging in their trash heap."

The village was located on flatlands, perhaps in a meadow, at the confluence of two streams rich with fish and very near a hillside spring.

Archaeologists have uncovered the remains of walls and roof supports of 10 structures built about 18- to 20 feet in diameter from saplings in nearby woods. Many structures had elliptical storage areas next to them.

One larger structure, about 30 feet in diameter, was probably for communal use and has more than a dozen attached storage areas.

HARD HATS MAKES SENSE

They're not the most comfortable type of headgear, but they've become the badge of the construction industry. No good superintendent will let you step on his building site without one.

The idea of protecting ourselves against possible hazards is an ancient one. Through the centuries it has had its religious counterpart. The Bible urges us to put on the whole armor of God.

Each week in our churches and synagogues we can prepare ourselves spiritually for the challenges tomorrow will bring. We can strengthen our souls to meet and overcome whatever dangers might one day confront us.

Life Not So Tough For Fired Controller

WAYNESBURG — Two years ago Blair Albert of Waynesburg was an air traffic controller in Atlanta, Ga., but as the result of the PATCO strike, he lost his government position.

Since then he has had to be satisfied with being a charter boat captain in the Caribbean in addition to being a windsurfer, scuba diver, spearfisherman, sailboat racer, pilot, singer, songwriter and entertainer.

The son of George and Therese Albert of 144 West Wayne Street, he graduated from Waynesburg High School and West Virginia University where he was an outstanding athlete and wrestling champion.

Soon after graduating from WVU, Blair formed his own band and toured all over the Eastern United States while under contract to major motel chains.

It was during this period that Blair obtained his pilot's license and instrument rating. He often flew his band to engagements around the country and to the Bahama out-islands. However his interest in aviation caused a change in careers and he became an air traffic controller.

During his five-year career with the Federal Aviation Administration, he was stationed in Chicago and Atlanta and also acted as a military liaison security specialist for the FAA.

After being fired, along with most other government controllers, Blair sailed his 36-foot trimaran "Cat Sass" to St. Thomas and pondered his future.

Taking note of the crystal clear waters of the Caribbean, the gentle tradewinds and the unhurried life of the islands, Blair decided to remain where he was and enjoy the life of a sea captain.

He obtained his captain's license from the U.S. Coast Guard and began to charter his boat and others as well. In June, 1982 he received a commission on the 56-foot ketch

BLAIR ALBERT

"Anemone" and served as captain until the yacht was sold later that summer. He sailed the "Anemone" 1,300 miles from St. Thomas to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where the sale was completed.

While visiting here, Blair is awaiting his appointment to a new yacht which is currently tied up at Newport, R.I. for the summer. He will set sail for St. Thomas in the early fall and spend the winter months in the Caribbean. Blair hopes the yacht will be sent to the Mediterranean for next summer's season. His new assignment is a 65-foot ketch.

His usual charter consists of four to six persons who island-hop for a one or two week vacation. "It's an adventure of a lifetime. We sail, skin dive, water ski, windsurf, sun bathe and just have a good time," he said.

Blair said many of the islands are uninhabited and some are hangouts for sailors with native bands performing late into the night. "The tradewind blows nearly all the time, keeping the insects away and providing some of the best sailing conditions in the world," he added.

Man Sues For Injury At '81 Fair

WAYNESBURG — A Dunkard Township resident who was injured at the Greene County Fair two years ago has filed suit in Greene County Court asking for damages in excess of $10,000.

The legal action was instituted Wednesday by Gary A. Cole of Dilliner R.D.1. Named as defendants are the county, Greene County Fair Board, Greene County 4-H Club, Greene County Extension Service and Terri Rush and Edward Thistlethwaite of Waynesburg R.D.1.

According to the complaint, Cole attended the 4-H Baby Beef sale held at the fair Aug. 13, 1981. It states that a steer owned by Terri Rush and being led by Thistlethwaite broke loose from his control and struck him in the back, knocking him against a stall, inflicting multiple injuries.

Pony Club and Weed and Seed Club placed first through third in the agricultural club division.

The Carmichaels Pins and Needles Club won a first-place blue ribbon for its display in the "miscellaneous" division.

Officials of the Home and Garden Department said that a bake sale held Tuesday evening netted more than $75 for the Heart Association. With the approval of exhibitors, items entered in baked goods competition were sold to the highest bidder, after a sample of each item was retained for continued display.

"For a first effort, we felt it was very successful," Mrs. Helen Dinsmore, co-chairman of the Home and Garden Department said. "Next year we hope to do even better for another charitable cause."

Results of the horse pulling contests held Tuesday evening were also announced.

A team entered by Jerry Riggs of Cameron R.D.3 pulled 9,500 pounds 18½ feet to win the lightweight contest. Placing behind him, in order, were Arnold and Dickerson, Ulerchville, Ohio; Larry Sharp and Jennings Michael, both of Rivesville, W.Va., and Dave Snyder of Moundsville, W.Va.

The heavyweight contest was won by a team entered by Riggs and Yoho of Cameron, W.Va. which pulled 9,500 pounds the full distance of 26 feet. Larry Rearick of Home placed second; Harry Cotton of Scottdale was third, and John Holt of Fairmont, W.Va. placed fourth.

Lightning, Rain Felt In County

WAYNESBURG — A severe lightning and rain storm passed through the northern part of Greene County Friday afternoon but apparently caused little damage other than electric interruptions.

Howard Swarm, a spokesman for West Penn Power Company, said some 2,500 customers were without power for a short time in Franklin Township when lightning apparently struck the Lantz Sub-Station near Waynesburg.

Operations at U.S. Steel facilities in the eastern part of the county were disrupted for a time because lightning struck a pole near Clarksville.

Swarm said 2,500 customers in the Brownsville were still without power late Friday afternoon.

A huge apple tree in the back yard of the Willis Hawkins home near Lippencott was blown down. Mrs. Hawkins said the trees were blowing one way in the front yard and the opposite way in the back yard.

Jail Board Plans Cemetery Cleanup

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Jail Board approved Thursday a plan that uses volunteer, inmate labor to clean up a long-abandoned county cemetery on the hill overlooking the jail.

Apparently there has been no burials at the cemetery for the past 30 years and the condition of the land has deteriorated considerably. Most, if not all of those buried there, were residents of the county's poor farm.

Only those prisoners who have volunteered will be used on the project.

Borough Work For Pay Is Unfair Competition

It's not difficult to understand the reasoning of Waynesburg Borough officials who agreed to tar and chip an automobile dealer's parking lot in the borough recently.

It was a good deal for both parties. The borough maintenance men were working on streets in the area and could do the job with no difficulty in a few hours. The dealer agreed to pay for the men, equipment and materials, plus a fair profit.

"With the money we made, we were probably able to pave a section of an additional street at no cost to the taxpayers," Council President Glenn Richards explained.

A spokesman for the state Department of Community Affairs, when asked if a municipality could properly engage in such work, questioned the legality of the practice since the borough code does not provide for it. The DCA opinion was sought after a borough resident voiced a complaint, probably with the mistaken idea that the work was being done as a favor without any charge.

In the face of the DCA opinion, the borough would be well advised not to take on any more projects of that kind until the legal ramifications have been completely checked out. One question which comes to mind is whether the borough insurance coverage would apply if an accident should happen while work was being done on private property.

Over and above that is the question of whether it is proper for a municipality to compete with private enterprise. Regardless of the legalities of the matter, we don't think they should.

Getting Ready For Coal Show

CARMICHAELS — Bright banners, flags and pennants will be hung and strung throughout Carmichaels as well as across all entry roads this week in preparation for the 30th anniversary of the Pennsylvania State Bituminous Coal Show held here each year.

The week of activities begins Saturday, Aug. 20, and will conclude Aug. 27 with the large Coal Show Parade.

The King Coal Association, which plans, promotes and operates the event, has purchased $1,561 worth of new three-by-five-foot banners, and 50 new strings of 100-foot-long pennants to decorate the town square. In addition to the efforts of the KCA, Jim Clovis, a member of the organization, has personally contacted town merchants and many have agreed to purchase individual decorations for their businesses.

The KCA and the Carmichaels Area Chamber of Commerce are asking merchants to decorate their buildings before Aug. 13 when the South-west Regional Mine Rescue Contest is held at the Carmichaels Area High School football field. It is the preliminary to the State Mine Rescue Contest.

The State Mine Rescue Contest for several years has kicked off the week-long list of activities and will do so again this year. It will begin at 9:15 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 20, at the Carmichaels Area High School football field following opening ceremonies.

International UMW President Richard Trumka, a native of nearby Nemaquin, has accepted an invitation to deliver the principal address at the opening ceremonies. Trumka served as a director of the King Coal Association prior to being elected UMW president last year.

There will be 23 rescue teams competing for trophies in the day-long State Mine Rescue Contest which attracts a large number of visitors in addition to the 500 participants.

To further enhance the town for the show, Carmichaels Borough Council has designated Friday, Aug. 19, as cleanup day throughout the borough.

Office Burgled

WAYNESBURG — State police are investigating a burglary which took place sometime during the week-end at the office of the Levine Iron and Metal Co. in West Waynesburg.

Police said while the office was ransacked, nothing was taken.

Rescue Contest Planned

CARMICHAELS — The South-western Pennsylvania Safety Association will sponsor the annual regional mine rescue contest at the Carmichaels Area High School athletic field Saturday, Aug. 13.

The regional meet is a forerunner for the state mine rescue contest scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 20, at the same location, which will be first event of the 1983 Pennsylvania Bituminous Coal Show.

The regional event, which will begin at 9 a.m., will feature 17 teams from 10 coal companies in Greene, Fayette, Washington, Allegheny and Butler counties.

The regional safety association is made up of representatives of coal companies in the five counties, along with representatives of the Pennsylvania Office of Deep Mine Safety, the Federal Mine Safety and Health Administration, United Mine Workers of America, and area manufacturing companies which furnish equipment and supplies to the mining industry.

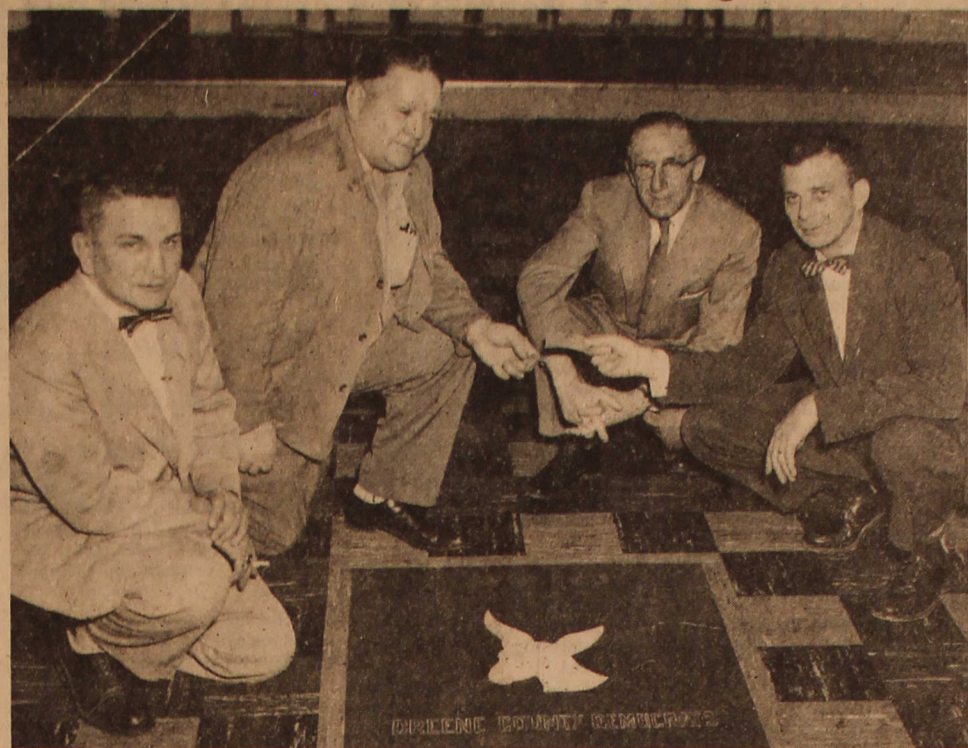

Trophies will be presented to the teams winning the four top places. Field positions in the contest will be in the following order:

West Penn Asks Stiffer Rules Against Pickets

WAYNESBURG — West Penn Power Co. has asked Greene County Court to stiffen its injunction on picketing at the entrance to its Hatfield Ferry power plant near Masontown, because a United Mine Workers strike against one of its contractors has escalated to the point where continued operation of the power plant is endangered.

In an equity action filed Tuesday, West Penn claims the strike-bound contractor, L&J Equipment Co. of Carmichaels, has given up its fly ash hauling contract because its trucks have been shot at and stoned and one of its drivers physically assaulted. Also, drivers for a company which was hired to replace L&J are refusing to cross the picket line because they have been threatened with violence.

As a result, the utility claims, it has been forced to curtail operation of the power plant, which is a vital part of the Allegheny Power System's network of electricity-generating plants.

The equity action filed Tuesday names as defendants the United Mine Workers of America and three of its District 4 officers — President James Kelly, Secretary-Treasurer Edward Bytner and International Board Member Thomas Rabbitt.

It asks the court to amend its July 29 injunction which limited picketing of L&J to no more than 10 people near the power plant, and also enjoined the union from going on West Penn property or from harassing any of its employees. That injunction was issued after an equity action was filed by L&J.

While West Penn is not involved in the labor dispute, the entrance road to the power plant off Route 21, just west of the Masontown bridge, also provides access to a strip mine site which L&J Equipment operates on adjoining property. In addition to providing some of the coal used by the power plant, L&J also was responsible for removing fly ash and bottom ash generated by the plant, doing so with large trucks which never leave West Penn property.

The complaint charges that on Aug. 1 one of the L&J drivers was physically assaulted while driving on West Penn property. On Aug. 4, also while on West Penn property, two of the L&J trucks were struck by gunfire, and other trucks were struck by rocks on numerous occasions.

"These incidents were reported to state police, but other than noting the incidents, no additional steps have been taken by state police to enforce the court's earlier order or to increase the level of security ... at and around the Hatfield Ferry power station," the complaint states.

As a result of the violence, it states, L&J notified West Penn on Aug. 5 that it would no longer haul fly ash from the plant. The utility then made arrangements with the Baily Trucking Co., Carmichaels, to take over the contract. But on Aug. 7 and Aug. 8, two of its drivers refused to cross the picket line at the plant entrance after being threatened by pickets.

If fly ash is not removed regularly, the plant cannot operate, the complaint states. By law, fly ash must be disposed of in an environmentally safe manner, which can only be done at a licensed disposal site.

A West Penn spokesman said Tuesday that the plant is operating at half-capacity to reduce the fly ash output.

In response to Tuesday's petition, Judge Glenn Toothman issued a preliminary injunction enjoining the union from interfering in any way with West Penn's operation.

Jamboree Promoters Face Another Suit

WAYNESBURG — Trouble continued to pile up Thursday for promoters of the Greene County Coal Miners Jamboree — a country music festival held in Morgan Township on June 26.

H&K Security Ltd. of California, the firm that supplied security personnel for the festival, filed suit Thursday in Greene County Court for non-payment of a $17,488 bill for its services. Jack Litten of Jefferson R.D.1 and Kathy Davis of Clarksville R.D.1 were named as defendants.

According to the complaint, the bill included payment for security guards at $7 an hour and supervisory personnel at $10 an hour covering a five-day period from June 23 through 27, as well as $1,000 for a helicopter.

Earlier this week, Litten and Barbara Kotarsky of Cleveland, Ohio, were sued for $23,000 by the owners of the farm on which the festival was held, Ronald and Sandra Chidester of Jefferson R.D.1. They claimed that they had not been paid for use of their property.

Fact and Folklore
 John O'Hara

The 1983 Greene County Fair being held this week recalls memories for many of the older patrons who attended the local fairs prior to World War I when it was a "dress-up" affair.

That meant coats for the men and yards of cloth for the women.

The fair was one of the "dress-up" affairs of the year for both men and women and even the dancing girls who performed in the "For Men Only Shows." These girls wore more clothes than most women and girls now wear on any given day during the summer.

What a relief it must have been for them to get home and shed all of the clothing that most of them wore tramping around the dusty fairgrounds. They had to be dusted when they got home after riding over the unpaved roads. Unless of course they lived near the "affluent" Gordon Hill section or along the first three miles of Smith Creek (Route 218) where the only two paved roads existed for years.

There was a short distance of macadam between Waynesburg and Rogersville and a short stretch near Mapletown. The rest of the highways were dusty all summer and frozen ruts through the winter.

Ah, those good old days. Thank goodness they were here only once.

Fair week was a great one to all of those who went through it and even greater for those who were lucky enough to have seen Dutch Thompson fly his airplane around the field.

It was a joy to eat one of those delicious sandwiches prepared by Billy Call and his wife at their concession under the grandstand, or to hear John Koebert yelling at George Reynolds for slowing up the start of the harness races time after time.

Thank goodness for starting gates, dresses and ice-cold drinks.

Trumka Asks Pensioners To Help

CLARKSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — United Mine Workers President Richard Trumka on Tuesday urged retired miners to help with the union's organizing drives.

"We were strong whenever you were building the union because each one of you was actively involved in it," Trumka told about 100 pensioners gathered at the Harrison County Correctional Center.

"You were willing to come out to the union halls, willing to demonstrate time and time again you cared about things. And I want to be able to draw on that experience and transplant that from you to our working miners today," Trumka said. "And I'd like to be able to use each and every one of you to help me do this."

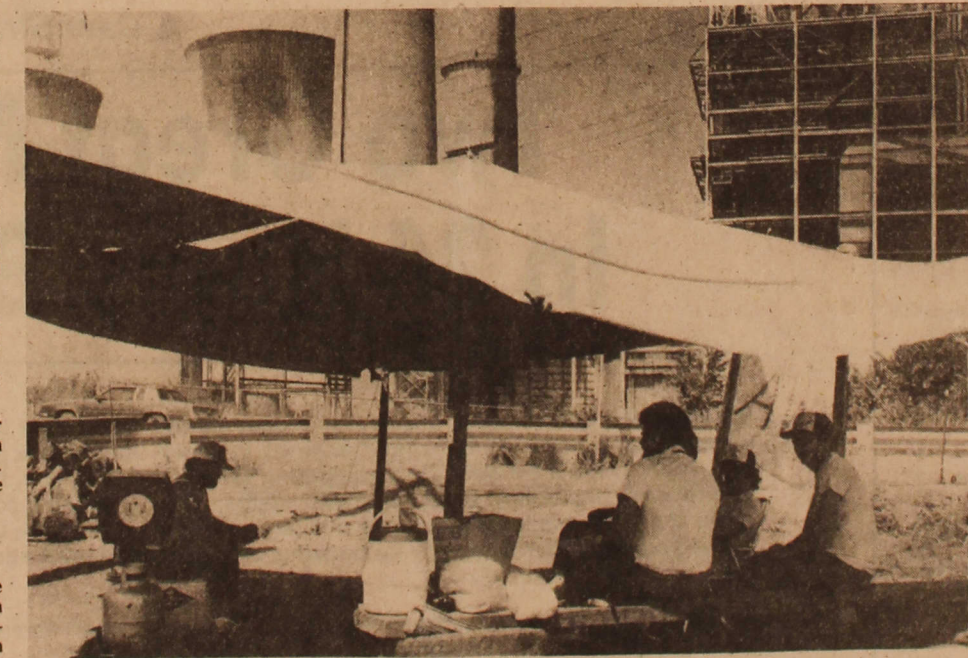

Trumka, speaking to District 31 miners who retired under the 1950 pension program, also promised to reject concessions when the union begins negotiating a national contract in next year.

Two Magistrates Protest Hiring Order At Hearing

WAYNESBURG — Pre-trial motions were heard in Greene County Court Tuesday on preliminary objections to an equity action filed by two Greene County magistrates protesting hiring policies.

Presiding Judge J. Quent Salmon of Beaver County heard arguments presented by Attorney Mark E. Mascara who represents the local magistrates and Attorney Paul Gelman, representing the Administrative Office of the Pennsylvania

Courts. At issue is an administrative order by Greene County Judge Glenn Toothman handed down Jan. 27, 1983, in which each magistrate was limited to one secretary. The order was based on a study made by the Administrative Office of the Pennsylvania Court.

Magistrates complied with the order which went into effect March 1. They protested, however, saying, "The court does not have jurisdiction over the appointment, dismissal and duties of necessary personal staffs."

Magistrates John Watson and Ruth Hughes filed a petition with the Pennsylvania Supreme Court asking the order be set aside. The high court dismissed the petition without ruling on the merits of the issue.

The magistrates claim the reduction of staff has resulted in a backlog of cases, slower and possible inaccurate reporting and a slower processing of claims, thereby resulting in "a great disservice to the citizens."

Mascara argued Tuesday the case should be sent to the Commonwealth Court because the Supreme Court did not rule on the merits of the case. Gelman countered that the Supreme Court ruling no doubt took into consideration all merits of the case although it was not spelled out in the ruling.

Salmon, who will consider the briefs and submit his decision at a later date, said Tuesday he believed the president judge of Common Pleas Court should have such authority over local magistrates. However, Mascara questioned if the judges have "divine" authority in such matters.

While the court order of Jan. 27 also affected staffing in the office of Magistrate Emil Bertugli of Carmichaels, he has not joined the legal efforts to have the ruling set aside.

Mascara said the ruling is particularly affecting Watson's office at this time because the one secretary is on vacation. "Mr. Watson has no one to type letters, answer phones or do any office work."

Salmon said the problem should be handled by the judge of Common Pleas and was relevant to the question in court.

Local magistrates have already made it known they will appeal to Commonwealth Court should Salmon rule against them.

Following imposition of the sentence, District Attorney Charles Morris petitioned the court to revoke the earlier ARD probation and schedule McCollum for trial on the earlier charge.

At a court hearing Wednesday, McCollum's attorney, Roger J. Ecker, argued that the motion was improper because McCollum had already completed the one-year ARD probation before the motion to revoke was filed. He contended that the Commonwealth was aware of the second arrest seven months earlier and could have sought revocation in a timely manner.

"This simply a case of delay or neglect on the part of the Commonwealth," he argued.

Ecker also contended that prosecution on the first arrest at this time would constitute double jeopardy since he had already paid his fine and served the required probation.

"Why should this man who is down and out be kicked any further," he asked.

District Attorney Morris, on the other hand, argued that ARD probation is different from ordinary probation in very important ways.

ARD (Accelerated Rehabilitative Disposition) is available only to first offenders. It provides the defendant with an opportunity to have the charge dropped and the record expunged upon satisfactory completion of a period of probation and payments of costs.

Craig Wise, county adult probation officer, testified that one of the requirements is that a defendant not be convicted of any further crime during the period of probation. If he does, he is subject to revocation of ARD probation and to prosecution.

Morris argued there is no double jeopardy involved because there has never been an adjudication of guilt, merely a suspension of adjudication. He also said he had not made the motion for revocation of probation until after McCollum had been sentenced on the second charge because there was no conviction of a subsequent crime until that time.

The court agreed with Morris' position and directed that the earlier case be scheduled for trial.

Employees Raise Roof For Cause

WAYNESBURG — Employees at the Curry Memorial Home are "raising the roof" but it's all for a good cause.

The facility has a spacious cement patio and wheelchair paths leading to it but the patients have had little opportunity to use it this summer. There is no roof over the patio and therefore there is no protection from the hot sun.

Employees have taken it upon themselves to raise money for the roof and have already collected more than $1,000. However, more money is needed and the employees are asking for public donations.

Should the donations exceed the cost of the roof, the additional money will be used to purchase picnic tables and other outside furniture. For additional information, contact Mrs. Ruth McCollum or Mrs. Diane Piatt at 627-3153.

Donations may be sent to: Curry Home Activity Fund, %Recreation Committee, R.D. 2, Box 60; Waynesburg, Pa. 15370. Checks should be made payable to the Curry Home Activity Fund.

The Suffolk lamb had earlier been selected the heavyweight division champion. Show reserve champion was a 117-pound lamb shown by Scott Adamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Adamson, of Brave Star Route, Waynesburg. It had been selected as the reserve heavyweight lamb.

A total of 53 market lambs were shown in three weight divisions, with the champion and reserve champion animals from each of the divisions returning for grand and reserve show champions.

Prior to the lamb judging, a Ladies Leadline contest and the selection of Greene County Wool and Lamb Queen was held. Lorna Varner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Varner, of Waynesburg R.D.3, was chosen the 1983 Wool and Lamb Queen. She was crowned by Lauren Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Patterson, of Waynesburg R.D. 4, 1982 title holder.

Winners in the senior division of the Ladies Leadline in the order of their placing were Lauren Patterson, Waynesburg R.D. 4; Michelle Blank, of Scenery Hill; Pam Kerr, of Carmichaels; and Tracy Brookover, of Mt. Morris R.D.1. Man Injured During Fair Race

WAYNESBURG — A 19-year-old Waynesburg man was injured Tuesday afternoon when a horse crashed one of the gates during a running race at the Greene County Fair.

Tim Winters, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Winters of Waynesburg, was treated at Greene County Memorial Hospital for a severe laceration on his abdomen and chest and for multiple bruises.

The horse, which had thrown its rider at the start of the second race on the afternoon card, ran around the half-mile track and went into the gate on the western end of the track, near the horse barns.

Winters, who has a summer job with the county, was a watchman at the gate. When the horse crashed it, the iron gate flew open and caught Winters, knocking him into and through the wooden rail fence next to the gate and out onto the track.

The horse then ran off the fairgrounds and was eventually captured on Route 21, in Morrisville.

The father of the youth, who is a sophomore at Garrett Community College in McHenry, Md., said he had suffered severe bruises on his legs where the gate slammed into him.

"He has 25 or 30 stitches in the cut on his abdomen, but he's lucky he has no fractures," he said. "The fence he went through was shattered, and it had a board on top which was like a two-by-four."

Last year, the same type of accident happened at the same place when a horse slammed into the gate and went over the top of it to land on a car. The jockey was seriously injured and a spectator, Thomas Lemley of Waynesburg R.D.3, suffered a crushed ankle when the horse struck him as he pulled a small child from its path.

County Maintenance Superintendent John Higgins said that the gate is the one which horses use to enter the track, which is probably why they head for it when they are excited.

In the same second race Tuesday, a horse owned by Tom King fractured its leg in a fall and had to be destroyed.

NOTICE OF 1983 PUBLIC DELINQUENT TAX SALE

To the owners of properties described in this notice, and to all persons of taxing authority, having such liens, tax judgments or municipal claims against such properties:

In accordance with the provisions of the Act of 1947, P.L. 1368 and its amendments, known as the Real Estate Tax Sale Law, the following described properties will be offered by the Tax Claim Bureau of Greene County, Pennsylvania, at public sale, the delinquent taxes in front of the Court House in Waynesburg, Greene County, Pennsylvania, on MONDAY, August 15, 1983, at 10:00 A.M., Daylight Savings Time, and continuing thereafter with adjournments and re-adjudgments to such other days and times as may be announced at the sale or subsequently advertised.

The purpose of said sale is to dispose of properties against which delinquent taxes remain unpaid; the tax claims have become liens against the legal property of redemption expiring on July 1, 1983. The terms of sale shall be as follows: No sale of property shall be made unless a bid equal to the final upset price is made. The approximate upset price is hereinafter set out after the description of each property and includes all taxes, penalties, returning fees, interest and costs as recorded in the County Office. The approximate cost of this sale pro-rated. The final upset price will be announced at the time of sale.

The purchaser of any property shall, as soon as the property is struck down, pay the entire purchase money to the Bureau. In case said amount is not paid, the sale shall be voided and the property put up again for sale.

As to the properties having municipal claims against any property herein advertised, shall certify the amount thereof to the Tax Claim Bureau before sale in order to include the same in the final upset price.

The sale of any property herein advertised may, at the option of the Tax Claim Bureau, be stayed if the owner thereof or the owner of the property, before the date of sale, enters into an Agreement with the Tax Claim Bureau to pay the taxes in installments in the manner provided by the Act of Assembly, and the Agreement entered into.

The Real Estate Tax Sale Law provides that there shall be no period of redemption after such sale and the sale shall be deemed to pass a good and valid title to the purchaser free from any liens and encumbrances whatsoever, except such liens as are hereafter specifically saved and in all respects as valid and effective as if acquired by Sheriff's deed. Every such sale shall discharge the lien of any obligation, claim, lien or estate with which said property may have or shall become charged for or which it may become liable, except no such sale shall discharge the lien of any ground rent or mortgage which shall have been recorded before such sale became liens, and which is or shall be prior to all other liens except other mortgages and ground rents.

It is strongly urged that prospective purchasers have examinations made of the title to any tract of land which may be interested. Every reasonable effort has been made to keep these proceedings free from error. However, in any case, the property is offered for sale by the Tax Claim Bureau without any guarantee or warranty whatsoever as to existence, correctness of ownership, size, boundaries, locations, structures or lack of structures upon the land and title or any other matter or thing whatever. No adjustment will be made after the property is struck down.

The properties offered for sale are hereinafter set out by Township or taxing districts and the name first appearing in each item is that of the owner or reputed owner of whose name the property was assessed for the taxes returned delinquent to the Tax Claim Bureau.

The 1983 Accrued Taxes will be included in the upset price, on the date of the sale, if a record of such tax is furnished to the Bureau by the Tax Collectors.
