Big Cuts In '83 Budget Paying Off For County

WAYNESBURG — Austerity measures which the Greene County commissioners imposed when they adopted the 1983 county budget in December are apparently working well.

A report submitted to the commissioners Thursday by Chief Clerk Herbert Cox and Budget Manager Anna Louise Cree indicates the county will wind up this year in sound financial condition.

"It's too early to tell if we'll have a closing surplus, but if things continue to go as they have been for the rest of the year, we know we'll at least break even," Cox said.

The turn-around includes elimination of a $500,000 deficit which the county experienced in 1982, due primarily to a reduction in federal Medical Assistance funds the county receives for residents at Curry Memorial Home.

"We drew up a balance budget in 1982 based on information we received from the state on what we could expect in MA payments," Commissioner Richard Cowan said. "The state projection proved to be incorrect, which gave us a very definite cash flow problem."

To overcome the deficit, the commissioners increased the property tax for 1983 by 4¼ mills, placed a six-month freeze on wages, eliminated or cut back several programs, and cut out grants which had customarily been made to several non-county agencies from the county's federal revenue sharing funds.

"We give a lot of credit to other officeholders and department heads and their staffs for their cooperation this year," Commissioner L. R. Santore said. "We had to make some difficult decisions and they have gone along with them."

The wage freeze, which eliminated the annual 8 percent salary increases county employees had received for many years, was accepted by both union and non-union employees. Through negotiations this spring, the commissioners subsequently granted raises of about 5 percent effective on July 1 for the final six months.

The report submitted by Cox and Miss Cree projects expenditures of $1.4 million for the final three months of this year. The 1983 budget totaled $7.7 million.

Cox pointed out that one of the signs of the improved fiscal condition was the fact that the county was able to pay off its annual tax anticipation loans of $1 million by May, with a savings of approximately $40,000 in interest as compared with 1982. Last year, the final $100,000 repayment was not made until Dec. 31.

In action at the meeting, the commissioners approved payment of $4,000 to the Waynesburg Volunteer Fire Co. to assist with the cost of maintenance and operation of the Emergency Management Service radio base station at the fire hall for the first eight months of this year, prior to initiation of the 1911 emergency telephone system on Sept. 1.

Celebrating Homecoming

WAYNESBURG — Students and alumni of Waynesburg College celebrated Homecoming Saturday with the annual parade down High Street, crowning of the Homecoming queen, and a 24-7 football victory over Emory and Henry College of Virginia.

The sororities and fraternities participated in the Homecoming Parade by constructing floats to the theme of "Disneyland."

First place winners with their "Tales of the Caribbean" float were the sisters of Sigma Kappa, for a $200 prize. The Alpha Delta Phi sorority took second place, for $150, with "It's a Small World." Taking third place was the Alpha Phi Delta fraternity's "Cinderella" float. They won $100.

Also participating in the parade were floats by Theta Chi, Delta Sigma Phi and Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternities, the Homecoming Court, members of the Kool Krackin' Klowns, Kazumi Takeda, the Rotary Exchange Student from Japan and high school bands from Jefferson-Morgan and Beth Center.

Senior Lori Barchhoff of Scottsdale was crowned 1983 Homecoming Queen at halftime by the president of the College, Dr. J. Thomas Mills Jr. Other members of the Homecoming Court were Seniors Juliet Corl and Carla Wheeler; Junior Linda Barnhart; Sophomore Julia Ochs and Freshman Paula Puskarich.

The Homecoming Dance was held in the Benedum Dining Hall Saturday night with music by "Sugarcane."

RAMP Funds Help

Three abandoned mine sites in Washington County will be reclaimed next year with $410,672 in Rural Abandoned Mines Program (RAMP) funds from the Department of Environmental Resources.

Two sites to be reclaimed are a 10-acre surface mine on the properties of Frank Allison and Duane Fowler, between Bulger and Raccoon, and a 1½-acre deep mine and refuse dump on the Kenneth Colteryahn property near Joffre. Both mines are in Smith Township.

The third project is the razing of five abandoned Pittsburgh Coal Co. buildings at the intersection of Routes 50 and 231 outside Avella in Independence Township.

The projects, which were developed in 1981, are among 27 mine site reclamation projects in the state. The DER was allocated $5.2 million in RAMP funds from the federal Office of Surface Mining.

Plans were drawn up by the federal Soil Conservation Service, which will award the contracts for the work through public bidding.

Clifton Peters, district conservationist for the SCS, estimated the Allison-Fowler project at $122,370. The area to be reclaimed is a combination of a surface mine and pits and two ponds.

Garbage was dumped there and later set on fire. Peters said the mine is a safety hazard, not only because of the fire, but also because children often swim in the ponds there.

He expects the project to be bid in February 1984, and the work, which will begin when the weather permits, to be completed in about two months. The debris from the mine will be pushed back into the cut area, subsurface drainage will be installed to eliminate the ponds and the area seeded and trees planted.

About four miles to the west is the Colteryahn project, which also involves burning garbage and refuse from the mine. The project, estimated at $24,450, will consist of moving the garbage and some of the coal refuse to another stripped area of Colteryahn's property, where it will be covered, the area seeded and trees planted.

The month-long project, to be bid in August 1984, came about after Smith Township supervisors tried unsuccessfully to divert water off a hillside into the burning area, a ravine along the road from Joffre to Route 22.

Chairman Vince Gianfrancesco said the supervisors notified DER and SCS of the problem.

Borough Gets Sewer Grant

WAYNESBURG — The borough has received a $117,600 grant from the Environmental Protection Agency for rehabilitation of the sewer system.

An earlier grant of $61,050 brings the total federal aid for the project to $178,650.

The bid for the construction phase of the project has been awarded to State Pipe Service of Evans City. Actual construction will cost $105,700 which will include $4,751 worth of work to a small section of sewer which serves 21 customers in Franklin Township.

The contract calls for rehabilitating 7,700 lineal feet of sanitary sewer ranging in size from eight-inch to 24-inch and approximately 440 lineal feet of 10-inch line in Franklin.

Also included in the project is television inspection, cleaning, man-hole parging and high-pressure chemical grouting.

The borough system serves some 1,600 customers.

Federal aid will pay for 75 percent of the construction with the remaining cost coming from local contribution.

Local Man Jailed

WAYNESBURG — A 19-year-old Waynesburg man has been lodged in Greene County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond for allegedly stealing an automobile owned by Judge Glenn Toothman.

Donald W. Davis of 76 East High Street, Apartment 3, was arrested by borough police Tuesday and charged with the theft of the 1970 Lincoln on June 18.

Davis was arraigned before Magistrate John Watson. A hearing has been set for Tuesday, Oct. 11.

The car was later recovered.

Cumberland Twp. Denies Lot Split For Cedarwood Project

By Marcia Biddle, Staff Writer

CARMICHAELS — Cumberland Township supervisors denied Thursday a lot split requested by A&R Builders for the proposed Cedarwood garden apartment project on recommendation of township zoning officer John Masuga.

The lot split had been given conditional approval by the Greene County Planning Commission last week, contingent on approval by the Cumberland Township Planning Commission.

The supervisors explained that their solicitor, William Hook, had advised them Thursday that since there were no roads involved in the project, the request should be handled by the supervisors rather than the township planning commission. Masuga, when asked for his opinion at the meeting, said plans for the Cedarwood project which were presented to the county planning commission do not comply with the township zoning ordinance density requirements.

He said the conditions of the lot split are different from those to him in May.

The supervisors also received a letter from the township zoning hearing board regarding the zoning permit given to A&R Builders. The permit was withdrawn because of the density requirements. The supervisors referred the matter to Masuga, who reported that the project could not be approved if zoning requirements are met.

The lot split involves an existing four-unit townhouse on the property which the owner, Joseph Vetric, wishes to retain. If that land is withdrawn through a lot split, Masuga said the lot would not meet the required 28,000 square feet of land for the older building nor the 128,000 square feet for the new building.

The township planning commission, the body which wrote the township comprehensive plan and zoning ordinance, met later in the evening and decided to hold a work session to review the county development ordinance in order to make a recommendation to the supervisors. Commission members expressed their belief that new buildings, especially major projects, should be submitted to the township planning commission before permits are issued by the zoning officer.

"Our review would help the zoning officer," said commission chairman William Harr.

It was explained the zoning ordinance does not contain regulations establishing standards for housing development. These are covered by the county ordinance. However, members agreed to study the county ordinance in preparation for making recommendations for changes in the township requirements which would cover such development.

In other developments at the supervisors' meeting, they entered into a contract with the state for the second year to remove snow from a few state roads. This year roads involved will be Route 30062, the Brown's Ferry Road; Route 30058, which runs from the Crucible union hall to Hewitt's Church; Route 30061, from the Nemaquin shaft along Greene Valley Road to Route 88, and the Stringtown road.

"We have to travel roads to get to the township roads anyway, so it's our contention that we might as well get paid for clearing them as we go," Supervisor William Groves said.

The township will receive $6,861 from the state under terms of the contract.

The supervisors accepted a performance bond for $20,000 from Boyle Land and Fuel Co. to guarantee that any damage to township Route 662 by strip mining and hauling will be repaired to township specifications. This road borders land owned by James Hathaway which Boyle plans to strip.

At the request of concerned parents, the bond agreement specifies that no hauling will be done during school bus hours.

Chairman Nick Maddich reported that repair work on Township Route

559 done by R.G. Johnson Co. had been inspected and the contractor released from his bond.

The supervisors approved the contract with Water Waste Systems Construction of Bethel Park for $215,389. The company will be the primary contractor for the Crucible sewage treatment to be built with federal funds received through a block grant.

A contract was also signed with Miller Electric Co. of Uniontown for $15,900 for electrical work on the plant.

Several Crucible residents requested an escort of township police for the town's Halloween parade which will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 30, beginning at the Crucible School. The supervisors said they favored the parade but could not afford to provide police for that purpose and suggested they contact their local fire company.

Waynesburg Council Hikes Cost Of Parking Meter Exemptions

By Bob Eichenlaub, Greene County Editor

WAYNESBURG — Tradesmen, contractors and others who purchase exemptions from parking meter regulations to work in the downtown area will pay more for the privilege in 1984 under a new policy adopted Monday by Waynesburg Borough Council.

Council also discussed ways to encourage the planting of trees in town, set the date for trick-or-treat Halloween visits, approved a method for having water shut off as a last-resort way to collect unpaid sewer bills and accepted a bid for purchase of a surplus dump truck.

At the present time, tradesmen and others who work in the downtown area can purchase for $12 a cloth bag which, when placed on a parking meter, excuses them from putting coins in the meter.

Council said it feels the rate, which has been in effect for many years, is "far too low." Starting in January, the fee will be increased to $6 a month or $50 a year. There will be no change in the $13 deposit which is required for the bag.

Paper bags which are now issued to merchants without charge so that they can reserve meter spaces for delivery trucks will no longer be issued or honored after the first of the year. Merchants will be required to obtain "no parking" signs from the police department. Paper bags will be reserved for use of the police department to keep the streets free of parked cars when required for parades and other special occasions.

Councilman Frank VanCleve expressed concern over the number of trees which are being cut down throughout the town without being replaced. Research will be done on borough ordinances regulating the planting of trees in the space between the curb and sidewalk, and an effort will be made to encourage residents to plant types of trees which do not interfere with traffic, overhead utility lines or underground sewer lines.

Halloween trick-or-treat visits will be permitted in the borough from 4 to 6 p.m. Friday, Oct. 28. It will be limited to children through 12 years of age, with a responsible adult being required to accompany smaller children.

An agreement was approved with the Southwestern Pennsylvania Water Authority establishing a mechanism for having water service cut off when a resident becomes substantially delinquent in payment of a sewer service bill.

The authority acts as the borough agent in collecting the bills. It will be permitted to cut off service only when the action is approved by the borough and only after ample notice has been given to the property owner.

Council approved sale of a 1970 dump truck to Jack R. Beabout of Beabout's Service, Waynesburg. His bid of $1,525 was the highest of four received. The truck is no longer used by the borough.

Nemaquin Fire Company Selects Man Of The Year

NEMAQUIN — Matthew Voithofer III, 37, of Nemaquin, has been chosen by the Nemaquin Volunteer Fire Company as recipient of its fifth annual "Man of the Year" award.

He was named Sunday night at a meeting of the fire company. Assistant Chief Charles R. Plasko, chairman of the award committee, said Voithofer was selected because of his efforts with the little league, playground and various community activities.

During his tenure as manager of the Nemaquin Indians of the King Coal League, his players won 71 games while losing just 13. Additionally, his teams were champions four out of the seven years he managed.

Plasko said Voithofer was one of four nominees eligible for the honor. He added that a banquet and a roast by his friends and family will be scheduled and will probably be held at the Nemaquin union hall.

Previous winners were William Smearecheck Sr. in 1979, George Holupka in 1980, Robert Korcheck in 1981 and Richard L. Trumka, president of the United Mine Workers, in 1982.

Residents of the community had the opportunity to nominate anyone they felt had done a singular service for the community, or anyone who had performed outstandingly with the community in mind during the present year.

All entries were reviewed by the fire company.

Job Applicant Sues Coal Company

WAYNESBURG — A Carmichaels man who claims he was improperly denied employment at the Nemaquin mine because of a non-job related physical handicap has filed suit in Greene County Court against the Buckeye Coal Co., owner of the coal mine.

The complaint by Mark E. Simkovic of 518 East Greene Street asks for a judgement in excess of $10,000, credit for all benefits and other rights of employment, attorney fees and costs.

According to the complaint, Simkovic applied for a job at the mine in March of 1976 and took the required physical examination. He was informed on March 25 that he had failed the examination, with no explanation being given.

On May 10 of that year, Simkovic filed a complaint with the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission. The complaint states that the HRC, following an investigation, determined that Buckeye "had refused to hire the plaintiff because of a presumed back condition that was not present."

It states that the company has continued to refuse to hire him based upon the presumed handicap, and that the HRC, in January of this year, notified Simkovic that it was discontinuing proceedings on his behalf.

Carmichaels Council To Meet Twice Monthly

CARMICHAELS — Carmichaels Borough Council has voted to change its regular meeting dates to 7 p.m. on the first and third Wednesday of every month.

The action was taken because the once-a-month meetings made it difficult to handle the increasing amount of matters before council, council members said.

In a related development aimed at increasing efficiency, Solicitor Charles Morris has presented council members with petitions which would reduce the size of council from seven members to five members.

The petition must be signed by 5 percent of the registered voters in the borough and then be presented to the Greene County Court for action. Council decided on the move last April as a way to increase efficiency because of the increasing difficulty of finding seven people who are willing to serve as members.

Solicitor Charles Morris also has presented several borough ordinances for council's review and later action. He presented a deed to convey the former borough school property back to the Carmichaels Area School District. He explained that the property had automatically reverted to the school district after the borough stopped using it for a meeting place following the school's destruction by fire several years ago.

Picket Dispute Flares Up

WAYNESBURG — A three-month strike by employees of the L&J Equipment Co. of Carmichaels has flared into a renewed dispute over picketing, resulting in scheduling of a hearing in Greene County Court on Thursday, Oct. 13.

Lawrence Filiaggi, L&J vice president, has asked the court to hold District 4 of the United Mine Workers of America in contempt for alleged violation of its July 29 order limiting picket activities. The UMW has filed a counter-suit, asking the court to permit picketing on a section of a private road under the Masontown bridge which it claims is a public highway.

L&J operates a strip mine on land adjoining the West Penn Power Co. Hatfield Ferry plant on Route 21, at the Masontown bridge. Company employees voted last year to obtain union representation from the UMW and went on strike in July when negotiations failed to produce a contract agreement.

L&J mines coal for the power plant and also uses its trucks to haul fly ash from the plant to a disposal site. While the entrance road to the strip mine site is over the same private road leading from Route 21 to the West Penn Power plant, L&J personnel who are still working have been using a separate "gate" off Route 21 to get to their job site since Sept. 1.

Filiaggi claims that the union has violated the court order which limited to 10 the number of pickets at the Route 21 entrance road and which also prohibited pickets from being on a private road between his strip site and the entrance to the power company plant, located under the Masontown bridge.

He submitted photographs showing that approximately 15 pickets were on the private road Monday to block trucks which he claimed were going into the power plant to pick up fly ash. He claimed they did so in direct violation of the court order and asked that they be held in contempt.

He also claimed that on Monday his employees were blocked by pickets as they attempted to enter the other entrance road, and he has asked that the number of pickets permitted to be there be limited to four and that they also be enjoined from making threats of violence.

The United Mine Workers, on the other hand, contend that it has learned that the Department of Highways has an unrestricted right-of-way on the power company road under the bridge, which makes it, in effect, a public highway. It is asking the court to amend its July 29 order to permit peaceful picketing at that point.

The court took no action on either of the petitions pending results of the hearing which it scheduled for Thursday.

Band Dispute Occupies Board

MAPLETOWN — The main topic at an otherwise uneventful Southeastern Greene School Board meeting Tuesday night was a dispute between some residents of Greensboro and Bobtown concerning the high school band.

The matter was raised when band director Robert Meneer requested permission for the band to participate in competition in Pittsburgh. The board agreed to let the band participate, but only after first voting the request down.

The argument came when several board members questioned whether the band should be allowed to participate in the Kaufman's Holiday Parade in Pittsburgh Nov. 26 since so few band members showed up when the band performed at the Greensboro Fall Festival over the weekend.

"If they can't pay for their own taxpayers who are paying for them to be in the band then they shouldn't be going to Pittsburgh," board member Dave Bierer said.

But others quickly pointed out that the small attendance at the festival wasn't the fault of Meneer or the students. They said residents of Bobtown have been angry that the band didn't perform there on Memorial Day and therefore those parents wouldn't allow their children to play in Greensboro.

After several parents urged the board not to penalize the students because of the action of a few parents, the board approved the request. But it also asked Bill Guappone, high school principal, to check into it.

Assistant Superintendent Charles Wyda reported the kindergarten program, which gives parents a choice of enrolling their children in the alternate day or half-day program, is working well. He said there are 61 students enrolled in the alternate day program and 23 in the half-day program, making it the highest enrollment the district has ever had for kindergarten. Board President Jim Minor pointed out that since 79 students were registered in the summer, the choice of programs means five additional students are now in school.

In a related matter, Superintendent Gerald Marcinak noted he was following through with getting a one-year approval from the Department of Education for the change in the program.

Marcinak also reported that because of the overcrowding of special education classes, the board should consider the possibility of hiring another teacher or setting up a resource room where these students could get special help.

The Monongahela Township supervisors have informed the board they did not budget the money needed for an initial payment of $2,031 for operation of a signal light at Fieldson's Crossroads. The board agreed to make the payment to get the light operational, but noted the monthly payments will have to be made by the township.

Solicitor John Stets said the Travelers Insurance Co., the insurance carrier for Duquesne Light, has agreed to make an inspection of the high school where the district claims damage has been caused by mine subsidence.

Woman Injured In Head-On Crash

WAYNESBURG — Emma Jane Shaffer, 39, of Crucible was taken to West Virginia University Hospital, Morgantown, for treatment of injuries suffered in a head-on collision at 3:45 p.m. Monday.

The accident happened on Route 30051 two miles east of Clarksville. State police said Joseph George Cyr, 54, of Clarksville R.D.1 lost control of his car on a curve and crossed into the opposite lane and collided with the Shaffer vehicle. Police said Cyr was injured but refused treatment. Both cars were demolished.

There were no injuries in a two-car accident that occurred shortly after 5 p.m. Monday at the intersection of Route 21 and the road to Waynesburg Central High School.

State police identified the drivers as Mabel M. Rush of Waynesburg R.D.2 and Thomas A. Patton of Waynesburg. Damage was listed as moderate.

PTO Donates Computers

The Jefferson-Morgan Elementary PTO Tuesday night donated two Apple II computers, complete with motor drive, monitors and mobile stands, for use in the elementary grades. The equipment was purchased with funds raised during 1982 PTO projects. All the PTO funds are designated for educational equipment purchase. One computer was donated last year. The PTO's goal is to have one computer for each elementary grade level. The school has two computers purchased under a federal program. PTO ways and means committee co-chairmen are Pam Ozohonish, seated, and Pam Snyder, standing left. Other looking over the computers are Vicki Monas, elementary principal, and Chuck Braden, head teacher.

ASC Seeks Nominations

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) office in Waynesburg mailed nominating petitions Wednesday to 1,429 county farmers.

The 1983 ASC community election will be held Dec. 5, but nominating petitions must be filed by Oct. 31.

Three ASC committee members and two alternate members will be chosen in each of the four "communities" into which the county is divided.

Community No. 1 is made up of Aleppo, Richhill, Gilmore, Freeport, Springhill and Jackson townships; Community No. 2 of Washington, Jefferson, Morgan and Morris townships; Community No. 3 of Center, Franklin, Wayne and Gray townships, and Community No. 4 of Cumberland, Dunkard, Monongahela, Greene, Whiteley and Perry townships.

The nominating petitions have been mailed to county residents who have participated in farm programs administered by the ASC county committee. One candidate can be nominated on each petition, which must be signed by three eligible voters in the community.

A slate of at least five nominees will be developed for each of the four communities. If five or more eligible candidates are nominated by proper petition, no further nominations will be made. If less than five are nominated by petition, the county ASC committee will add the number of nominees needed to complete the slate of five.

Once the nominating procedure is carried out, ballots will be prepared and will be mailed to voters some 10 days before the Dec. 5 election. Completed ballots must then be mailed or returned in person to the ASC office in Waynesburg not later than Dec. 5.

Beulah Church Observes Anniversary

NINEVEH — The Beulah Baptist Church near Nineveh will observe its 140th anniversary Sunday, Oct. 16.

A church was erected in 1843 on a piece of ground donated by Michael Rush. The original church was later moved and a new one erected on the site in 1904.

The day of celebration will begin with Sunday school at 10 a.m., followed by worship services at 11 a.m. with Pastor Joe Dec in charge of the service. A covered dish dinner will be served at noon with the church providing meat, beverage and rolls. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish.

The afternoon services will begin at 2 p.m. with special music, reading of the church history, and a guest speaker, the Rev. Richard Christ-elet.

Faces From The Past-Do You Recognize Them?

Little is known about this picture but it is thought to be the scene where a mass murder occurred many years ago. Authorities were digging for bodies despite the scores of on-lookers. Perhaps one of our readers can fill in more details.

Fact and Folklore
 John O'Hara

The Waynesburg College football team delighted a large homecoming crowd last Saturday (Oct. 8) at College Field with an impressive 24-7 victory of Emory & Henry.

The exciting win over the West Virginia school under new Yellow Jack Head Coach Bill Tornabene brought back memories for some of the older returning alumni of the spirit which one early college team had when it brought to Waynesburg its first national title in its class as well as local and district honors.

The team was the 1939 Waynesburg College team coached by Frank N. Wolf and was to play in New York against powerful Fordham University in the first football game ever to be televised even though it was a very limited audience. It certainly didn't have the sophistication of today's popular Monday night football telecasts but the two teams displayed every bit the spirit of the pro teams playing before millions of viewers. Although Wolf's Yellow Jackets scored the first touchdown of the game they were no match for Fordham's "Blocks of Granite" and lost the game 34-7.

Fordham has long since dropped by the wayside as far as football is concerned but Waynesburg has continued with their football schedule reflecting schools more in their enrollment class.

The mostly small college schedule Waynesburg now plays attracts players to the school from throughout the local tri-state area as well as New Jersey and New York state. Because of some many area players on the team, last Saturday's homecoming game seemed like a big family reunion because so many family members of players are able to attend home games.

The professional football and large university teams may be able to put on more elaborate halftime or pregame shows but they can never match the unity which predominates at small college schools like Waynesburg and they teams they play.

Waynesburg is one of the large group of small schools where townspeople share with the college community the fate of its sports teams and exchange hellos with the players and coaches when they meet on the streets of town or around the campus.

Waynesburg's 4-1-1 record so far this year has created as much excitement in town as it has on the college campus and for first year head coach Tornabene even though the homecoming game was only the second home game of the year with only four home games on this year's schedule. The team seems to continue to hold its local fans even though they get to see few of the games at College Field.

Mason-Dixon Park Buffs Whittle Away At Odds

Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon recognized the odds they faced when they decided to call off surveying of their famous boundary line while still 21.7 miles short of their goal.

It was back in 1767 and the famous English astronomers were many miles from civilization. It wasn't the time or the place to argue with Indians who didn't want the white man's line crossing the Catawba War Path along Dunkard Creek.

Following the confrontation at Brown's Hill, just west of what is now Mt. Morris, the survey crews packed up their instruments and went back east, leaving behind a final stone marker which still stands. It wasn't until 15 years later that the Mason-Dixon line was extended by another crew of surveyors for the full five degrees west from the Delaware River called for in the charter William Penn received from King Charles of England.

More than 200 years later, a small group of nature loving history buffs in Greene County and in Monongalia County, W.Va. face odds which are nearly as formidable. They want to turn the area around Brown's Hill into a park and woodland sanctuary, with the cairn left behind by the 18th century astronomers as its principal attraction.

They may have a long way to go, but the surprising thing is the amount they have managed to accomplish since 1976 with virtually no money or backing.

They persuaded the Consolidation Natural Gas Co. to donate 270 acres of land to the two counties, organized themselves into the Mason-Dixon Historical Park, Inc., and inveigled West Virginia University into assigning architectural landscaping students to the task of preparing plans for an ambitious park development. The plans, completed last spring, include a tower overlook, hiking and botanical trails, campgrounds, recreational area, amphitheater, headquarters building and other facilities.

When Consolidation Coal Co. wanted permission to plug eight abandoned oil and gas wells within the 270-acre site, they agreed to go along with the idea provided that roads built to reach the well sites confirmed to the development plan so they can eventually be used as park roads. They also obtained a $5,000 contribution to their non-profit corporation.

To date, though, they have been unable to persuade either the Department of the Interior that the site would make a viable national park, or Pennsylvania and West Virginia state governments to seriously consider the possibility of an interstate park.

Don't bet that they won't get the job done, though. Bureaucracies may be tough, but so were those early Indians. And, after all, the Mason-Dixon line was eventually completed.

Municipalities Benefit

HARRISBURG — State Auditor General Al Benedict announced Wednesday that Greene County communities will receive $51,294 of the $21.9 million being distributed statewide by the Department of the Auditor General for volunteer firemen's relief associations and paid firefighters' pension funds.

Volunteer firemen's relief associations use the state funds to provide financial help to firefighters if they are injured during fire service, to purchase safety equipment, and to pay for fire safety training, among other benefits.

The state contribution comes from a two percent gross premiums tax on foreign fire insurance companies and from surplus money in the Fire Insurance Tax Fund. "Foreign" refers to a company which is incorporated outside Pennsylvania.

Each municipality's payment is based on the amount of premiums written by foreign fire insurance companies for that community's residents and businesses. The state allocations are paid to the municipalities which distribute the money to their firemen's relief associations.

The amounts being distributed to county municipalities:

Boroughs — Carmichaels, $3,712; Clarksville, $2,491; Greensboro, $1,457; Jefferson, $1,141; Rices Landing, $1,349; Waynesburg, $19,795.

Townships — Aleppo, $329; Center, $396; Cumberland, $4,420; Dunkard, $1,572; Franklin, $1,896; Freeport, $198; Gilmore, $144; Gray, $149; Greene, $342; Jackson, $112; Jefferson, $1,123; Monongahela, $2,818; Morgan, $1,742; Morris, $353; Perry, $1,763; Richhill, $342; Springhill, $348; Washington, $841; Wayne, $308; Whiteley, $2,199.

Carmichaels Council Ready

CARMICHAELS — The Carmichaels Borough Council has started work on its 1984 budget with a warning from Council President Betty Morris that drastic cuts must be made in order to prevent a tax increase.

The first budget item to be officially eliminated was the $25 monthly salary of Mayor Luella Galatic. Morris proposed the cut saying, "I'm not picking on the mayor, I'm picking on the budget. This won't be the only cut, believe me."

Morris said that unless federal revenue sharing is renewed, 1984 borough income will be $7,000 to $9,000 under 1983. It was also suggested cuts will be in legal expenses also. She said the borough is not required to pay a salary to the mayor, since the borough code refers to the salary only in terms such as "if the mayor is to be paid."

Solicitor Charles Morris stated his opinion that the borough is required to pay only the mayor's dues to the Mayor's Association and expenses to its annual meeting. When Betty Morris asked for a motion on whether to pay the mayor's salary or not, council member Chris Watson made a motion to continue it. Watson's motion died for lack of a second.

Betty Hudson then moved that the salary be eliminated and this motion passed with Watson casting the only negative vote.

Mayor Galatic, who was not present until later in the meeting, explained that she cannot always be on time for the meetings because she is attending graduate school. She said that she had not been notified in advance of the intention of council to vote on her salary and expressed her belief that the borough code requires payment of a mayor's salary, however small. She explained that she works on borough business during morning hours and has many expenses in her duties as mayor.

She said, "I believe I'm doing a good job. I'm the executive head of the police department. I take complaints and I performed my first marriage last week. My functions are different from those of council. Council functions are important, but so are mine. I think it's important to retain the balance of power between the mayor and council and it's important that the people are able to come and talk to me and that I bring their voice to the council."

Council approved the attendance of Mrs. Morris and borough secretary Donna Weimer at two budget planning and bookkeeping seminars at a cost of $20 each. Morris said, "I hope we'll learn to cut more from the budget. This training to budget and keep the books correctly will save money."

Morris gave an update on the progress of construction of a new borough building. She said the building plans had been approved by the State Department of Labor and Industry. The plans were rejected, however, by the Pennsylvania Art Commission which did not like the shed-type roof for one end of the building. The plans are being revamped to show a hip roof over the entire building and are expected to receive approval soon. Preparation of the site will begin as soon as final approval for the building is received.

Morris announced a new plan to form a borough street department to take care of such matters. She said that workers are available through the state's Workfare and that she has received permission from the Welfare Department to apply for a street crew. These workers would repair streets and parking meters, clean streets, help with snow removal and other jobs.

Street committee chairman Thomas Maken will be the supervisor for the street crew with Mrs. Morris as coordinator. The new crew is expected to begin work as soon as the applications are completed. Morris expressed the wish that a permanent borough street department could be started in the future but "there is no other way to fund it at this time," she said. The Workfare program involves no expense to the borough except for a small amount of mileage.

Birkhead Runs Jackets To Win

WAYNESBURG — Speed. It's a desired commodity on a football field. Speed creates excitement, and more importantly, relentless pressure on an opposing team because of its enormous potential.

In this tale of two college football teams, one had that speed and one didn't.

Actually, Waynesburg College had Otto Birkhead.

And that was the difference. The lightning-quick tailback averaged 9.6 yards each time he ran the ball and five each time he caught it. He exploded for one touchdown run of 37 yards in the first quarter and generally sparked Waynesburg to its fourth consecutive win.

The Yellow Jackets defeated Emory & Henry, 24-7, at College Field Saturday and it marked Birkhead's return as well as the college's Homecoming.

The oft-injured junior rushed for a total of 96 yards and caught four passes for another 20. But it was his presence, even when he didn't have the ball, that made the difference against the Wasps (2-3).

"We knew that he (Birkhead) was the biggest threat they have running the ball, but quite frankly we thought the passing game was what we had to stop to win. As it turned out, he just ran over and around us," said Emory & Henry head coach Lou Wacker.

"We just couldn't get a clean shot at him. He's easily the best back we've faced so far this season and nobody has his shiftiness and moves. Nobody we've faced has more finesse; he was the difference."

For Birkhead, the game was a welcomed relief. He has struggled all season with a pulled hamstring and had managed only 187 yards rushing in five games.

As a freshman, Birkhead (5-8, 190 pounds) sparked the Jackets with 854 yards rushing but he dropped off to 483 last season. He did manage to return two punts and a kickoff for touchdowns last year but he wasn't the same.

"I'm not back 100 percent just yet but I feel good and I think things are getting better for me and I can help the team," said Birkhead. "I was concerned about my leg, but I have most of my speed back and it gave us an added dimension."

"He's coming along when we're going into a heavy part of our schedule," said Waynesburg head coach Bill Tornabene, whose team is now 4-1-1. "Today reminded me a little bit of his freshman season and he shocked a lot of people. He was all over the field today."

"He's such an excitable type of runner that he can excite the crowd and he has the ability to excite our team. He has the ability to score big and he's been working hard at it."

But Birkhead wasn't the only threat against the Wasps.

Senior quarterback Tim Garry completed eight of 11 passes for 128 yards and a touchdown. His four-yard scoring pass went to tight end Dave Tucci in the second quarter and gave the Yellow Jackets a 14-0 lead.

Waynesburg's defense set up its other touchdown when linebacker Fremont Catlin intercepted a pass from Wasp quarterback Chip Thayer and returned it to the Emory & Henry 27. After a 13-yard run by Birkhead and a 12-yarder by Sherley Hairston, fullback Pete Long rammed in from one yard and Waynesburg led 21-0.

Emory and Henry sputtered on offense much of the game, suffering from two interceptions and a fumble. They missed an opportunity to score in the second quarter when Jack Ginn shanked a 29-yard field goal attempt. And after driving 79 yards in the second quarter, the Wasps were stopped at the Waynesburg one on a fourth-and-goal pass when cornerback Richie Barnes made a touchdown-saving tackle.

Cyclists Ashley Lasbury and Scott Dow

Peddalling For Leukemia Cure

WAYNESBURG — Two 22-year-old cyclists from West Hartford, Conn., are scheduled to pass through Greene County next week on the homeward leg of a bicycle trip which began Aug. 8 in Vancouver, B.C.

Scott Dow and Ashley Lasbury, both 1983 graduates of Colby College in Maine, are making the "Cycle For Life" to inform Americans of the urgency to find a cure for leukemia, and to ask for their help in the form of contributions to the National Leukemia Association.

Roughing it all the way — with sleeping bags, tents, stove, gas tanks and other camping equipment hooked onto their bicycles — they will have traveled through 96 cities in 15 states by the time they complete their trek the end of October.

They are making the trip because each of them has experienced a loss due to leukemia. In Dow's case it was his best friend. In Miss Lasbury's, it was her sister, Katherine, who died at the age of five.

Their trip plan will bring them into Greene County on Wednesday or Thursday, Oct. 12 or 13. They will be coming out of West Virginia on Route 18 and plan to cycle through Waynesburg en route to Pittsburgh.

They are not collecting money on the trip, but are distributing National Leukemia Association literature and envelopes to people they encounter in the hope of generating contributions of at least $50,000.

Jackets Placed On Probation

WAYNESBURG — The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) has placed all men's sports programs at Waynesburg College on probation for the current school year as the result of two violations of NAIA rules.

The 1983-84 probation neither prevents participation in post-season games nor prohibits participation in NAIA awards programs or statistical services.

According to Wallace Schwartz, associate executive director of the NAIA, the probation serves primarily as a "stern warning" to the college.

Both infractions cited by the NAIA involve a coach no longer working at the college. The incidents, according to a college statement released Wednesday, were brought to the attention of the NAIA by a former student-athlete who was not identified.

In one case, a student received financial assistance from the coach to meet travel expenses returning to the campus after a scheduled vacation period.

According to Athletic Director Rudy Marisa, "the college helps students who find themselves in extreme and unusual circumstances; however, in this case proper channels apparently were not used to assist the student."

In the second case, a television set and a chair, both more than 15 years old and ready to be discarded, were used by a student rather than taken to the dump. The items were allegedly owned by former head football coach and athletic director Hayden Buckley.

Marisa, in a prepared statement said, "These are minor infractions, and we are surprised to find that these actions were, in fact, violations."

NAIA rules state, "Any assistance must come from members of the immediate family or be administered by the college under policies and procedures established by the institution."

Marisa said, "This, apparently was not complied with."

The prepared statement went on to say, "Waynesburg College is concerned about this situation and steps have been taken to insure these minor technical violations are not repeated. The college wishes to adhere to both the spirit and the letter of the NAIA rules."

Schwartz, in a telephone conversation Wednesday, admitted the violations were minor but added, "If it's a nickel or a dime it is still in violation of the rules."

A graduate of Duquesne University in 1951, Manning was named an assistant basketball coach at the university in 1953. He was to serve the school for the next 21 years in various capacities, including coach and athletic director.

During his coaching career Manning's teams collected 240 wins. His teams were involved in nine post-season tournaments.

Rejects Sewage Bill

WAYNESBURG — The Franklin Township supervisors Monday again refused to pay a bill from Waynesburg Borough for treatment of sewage at the borough's plant.

Township sewage from West Waynesburg and Bonar Addition is processed through the borough's plant, and the township — under an agreement signed more than 25 years ago — is charged a set amount determined by the amount of water used.

This year, however, the borough decided to include a pro-rata share of payroll taxes, general administration and insurance in the bill, although the agreement does not cover such expenses.

Should the township agree to the added expenses, it would in effect amend the earlier agreement. The added expenses would increase the township's bill from $19,000 to $35,000.

The supervisors agreed they should pay some of the added expense but felt the borough should submit additional data.

Annual Shorthorn Cattle Sale

WAYNESBURG — The third annual Keystone Autumn Classic, one of the most popular shorthorn cattle sales in the Eastern United States, will be held at 12:30 p.m. Saturday at Woodside Farm near Waynesburg.

Woodside, owned by Bradley and Shirley Eisiminger, has been registering prize-winning shorthorn cattle for more than 100 years.

Auctioneer Charles (Bud) Behm of Wind Ridge will wield the hammer.

In only three years, the sale has become one of the most successful in the east and annually attracts consignors and buyers from several states.

Among this year's consignors are Charles Arbaugh of Alderson, W.Va., Patrick McLaughlin of Woodfield, Ohio, J&J Humphreys of Wolcott, Ind., Mooreland of Decatur, Ohio, and from Pennsylvania, Armstrong Farms of Saxonburg, George Six of New Freeport, George Hunter of Stoneboro and Sheila Six of New Freeport.

State Offers Scholarship For Teachers

WAYNESBURG — Students at Waynesburg College majoring in mathematics and computer science or English, who plan to teach at the secondary level, may be eligible for scholarship awards under the new "Scholars in Education Awards Program."

The program is administered by the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA) and is open to residents of the state who are enrolled at college and universities in the state which have accredited teacher-education programs.

Waynesburg College has both an elementary education program and a secondary education program leading to certification in biology, chemistry, English, general science, mathematics and social science.

The awards are in the amount of 50 percent of annual tuition costs. In order to qualify, a student must have a combined S.A.T. score of 1,000, with a minimum mathematics score of 550, or an A.C.T. score of 22 for the English portion and at least 27 on the mathematics test.

Additionally, nominees for the program must maintain a least a "B" average in science and/or mathematics courses during high school, and must rank in the top one-fifth of their high school graduating class.

Those eligible for the scholarship grant must sign a commitment form to teach either mathematics or science in a Pennsylvania secondary school for each year they receive the award. For example, student receiving a grant over three years would commit themselves to teaching for the same number of years.

Beginning next fall, nominations for the program will be made at the high school level.

Rep. Elinor Z. Taylor, who introduced legislation last February setting up the program, said the intent of the legislation "was to develop a scholarship program which would attract the most outstanding scholars with an interest in taking their abilities into the mathematics and science classrooms of Pennsylvania's secondary schools."

The Eisiminger also showed the reserve calf champion (female) and reserve junior champion bull at the Eastern National Livestock Show.

The sale will be preceded by a social gathering Friday night at the Eisiminger farm for buyers and consignors.

Money Is Approved For Mon River Locks, Dams

By Paul King, Staff Writer

Money for the start of construction of new locks and dams at Gray's Landing and Point Marion on the Monongahela River was approved Thursday by the U.S. House of Representatives.

Although the bill eventually passed by acclamation, the appropriations for Lock and Dam 7 and 8, as well as several other projects, were challenged by a Philadelphia area congressman.

Rep. Robert Edger, a Democrat, proposed an amendment that would have deleted 20 projects, totaling $114 million in appropriations, because they have not been authorized.

Edger's amendment was defeated, 271-133. "The rationale of my fellow congressman amazes me, since western Pennsylvania's very life depends on this system," Murphy said in addressing the House.

But a spokesman for Edger's office said the congressman was not opposed to the project.

Karen Kinard said Edger, a member of the House Public Works and Transportation Committee, is a "strong supporter of those projects." She said the congressman's amendment was a "protest" against funding projects before they have been approved by Congress.

The bill, which now must be approved by the Senate, appropriates $2.3 million in first-year costs for Lock and Dam 7, and $3.4 million for Lock and Dam 8.

Under an omnibus waterways projects bill proposed by Rep. Robert

A. Roe, D-N.J., the lock at Point Marion would be replaced, while a new lock and dam would be built at Gray's Landing, a few miles downriver from the present Lock and Dam 7 and Greensboro. The appropriations measure would allow engineering, design and legal work to begin on those projects.
