2 Arrested For Kidnapping

By Jim Moore, Staff Writer

WAYNESBURG — This community was shocked Tuesday by a bizarre story involving a Waynesburg doctor and another man who are accused of kidnapping and torturing a Mt. Lebanon stockbroker.

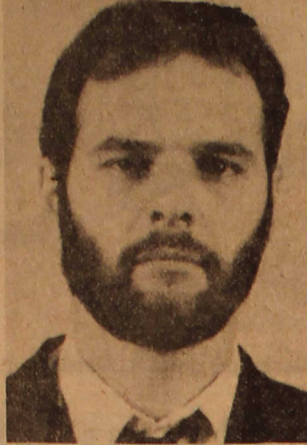

The victim was rescued Monday evening from a warehouse near Lake Lynn in Fayette County—12 days after he was abducted in Pittsburgh.

Free on $100,000 bond are Dr. Grover H. Phillippi, 46, of 618 East Greene Street, and Michael Conklin, 23, of Nazer Street.

The victim, Robert J. Haye, 49, an employee of the A.G. Edwards and Sons, was taken to Uniontown Hospital, where he was treated for a broken nose and frostbite on the toes of one foot.

Authorities said Phillippi and Haye knew each other but refused to discuss a possible motive for the kidnapping. It was also reported that Phillippi and Haye had had a disagreement in the past.

The incident apparently began on the evening of Dec. 21 at the Top of the Triangle, a restaurant on the top floor of the U.S. Steel Building in downtown Pittsburgh, where a Christmas party was being held.

MICHAEL CONKLIN

According to friends of Haye at the party, two men came to the party, one dressed as Santa Claus and the other man was wearing a chauffeur's uniform. It is now believed Phillippi was wearing the Santa suit and Conklin the chauffeur's uniform.

A witness who wished to remain anonymous said, "The Santa Claus started kidding around with one of the girls and had her introduce him around. He even told people that he was a surgeon."

At about 12:30 a.m. on Thursday, Phillippi and Conklin, along with Haye and a fourth man, believed to be a friend of Haye, left the party. They walked to Phillippi's rented truck on Grant Street and after a lengthy discussion, Haye and his friend accepted a ride to their respective homes.

According to police, the unidentified man who was not involved in the case, was dropped off at his Squirrel Hill home.

Haye was then apparently taken against his will to Waynesburg, where the man in the Santa Claus suit went inside a home and returned with a black medical bag. Haye was then taken to a large warehouse near Lake Lynn in a section known as Bunker Hill. He was then chained to a bed inside a small construction office trailer. The warehouse also contains several old cars and a second construction trailer.

In addition to the bed in the trailer, police found a six-foot pine box resembling a coffin and a chair designed to resemble an electric chair.

Police said Haye was beaten and tortured over the next 12 days. Lt. Leo O'Neil, a Pittsburgh detective, said Haye's nose was broken and he was placed in the chair at various times and interrogated. Exactly why he was being questioned was not clear.

Haye reportedly lives alone and was not reported missing until after Christmas. Relatives became concerned when he failed to report to work and did not visit his family over the holiday.

Mt. Lebanon detectives then began to interview those at the Christmas party and found someone who saw the four men getting into the rented truck. Police were able to get a description of the truck, and through the rental agency were able to trace it to Phillippi.

On Monday, police received information which led them to the Lake Lynn warehouse. Police broke a panel in a door of the warehouse and yelled for Haye. When the victim answered, police obtained a search warrant and then broke a panel in a large door to gain entry.

Haye was found on the bed wearing only a thermal shirt, trousers and one sock. One ankle was chained to the bed and he was under the covers, police said.

According to Gary Reynolds of the Point Marion police department, kerosene heaters were inside the building but the fuel had been exhausted. The heaters were the only source of heat in the building.

Haye told police he had not seen anyone since New Year's Eve and was fed junk food during his captivity.

After Haye was rescued, Waynesburg police, state police troopers and Allegheny County police surrounded the Phillippi home. Police called the home and warned the residents the place was surrounded. Phillippi told the police he would come out with his hands up in five minutes. The arrest was made without incident. Conklin turned himself in at the state police barracks a short time later.

peared before Magistrate John Watson for a bond hearing Monday night. Watson set bond at $100,000 and the suspects were then taken before Magistrate Joseph James in Allegheny County. James remanded both men to the Allegheny County Jail but jail officials said they apparently posted bond shortly after the arraignment because they were not inmates.

According to Detective O'Neil, both suspects have cooperated with police since their arrest. "We have recovered the rental truck, the Santa Claus suit and the chauffeur's uniform," O'Neil said.

Phillippi, a 1954 graduate of Waynesburg High School, obtained his medical degree from the University of Pittsburgh and at one time had offices in Point Marion and Carmichaels.

He has not had an active practice for several years. He was dropped from the staff at Greene County Memorial Hospital in 1975. A spokesman at Uniontown Hospital said Phillippi has not been on the staff there for many, many years.

Greene's Year: Tragedy, Transition, Triumph

The election of a new president and other developments at Waynesburg College; holding of what was billed as the first annual "Greene County Coal Miners' Jamboree" and the financial repercussions which followed; developments connected with a still-continuing strike of strip mine employees near Carmichaels, cleanup of radioactive materials at a coal boring site near Jollytown, and renaming of the lake at Ryerson Station State Park in honor of its superintendent, the late Ronald J. Duke, created some of the major news events in Greene County during 1983.

At the Waynesburg College commencement in May, it was announced that Dr. J. Thomas Mills, dean of financial and administrative services at Lord Fairfax Community College at Winchester, Va., had been named as the college's 14th president. He took over on July 1 from Dr. John P. Strange, who had been serving as interim president since the resignation of President Joseph Marsh, and was officially inaugurated with a ceremony in November.

Prior to the appointment of Mills, a number of staff changes were made at the college, with the one exciting the most comment being the forced resignation of athletic director and football coach Hayden Buckley. He was replaced by Rudy Marisa as athletic director and Bill Tornabene as head football coach.

The country music festival held near Mather in June and billed as the first annual Coal Miners' Jamboree was a success in many ways, but it failed to attract the 30,000 to 50,000 people who had been expected to attend. As a result, promoter Jack Litten found himself with financial problems which were reflected in lawsuits filed by declared creditors.

For the first time in a number of years, there were no teacher strikes in the county to mar the start of the 1983-84 school year. The major labor dispute began in July when people employed by the L&J Equipment Co. went on strike after voting for United Mine Worker representation.

The lengthy walkout at the strip mine site, located next to the Hatfield Ferry power plant in Monongahela Township, has generated charges and counter-charges of violence, as well as several court hearings, and at year end showed no sign of reaching a conclusion.

Consolidation Coal Co. announced in September that it was nearing the end of a year-long cleanup of a remote site near Jollytown where a capsule of Americium, a radioactive material, ruptured deep underground while test borings were being made into Pittsburgh Coal.

The community was shocked in March when Ronald J. Duke of Waynesburg, highly-regarded superintendent of Ryerson Station State Park near Wind Ridge, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at the age of 44. In November, the DER's Bureau of State Parks renamed the park lake in his honor in recognition of his many innovations at the park, including facilities for the handicapped and energy-saving measures.

Major headlines in the coal industry, which remained depressed during the year, centered on continuing construction by Consolidation Coal Co. of the Bailey Mine complex in Richhill Township, and the announcement in December that Consolidation had purchased the Dilworth mine at Rices Landing and the Robena Mine complex in eastern Greene County from U.S. Steel.

County Commissioners Adopt 'Solid' Budget

WAYNESBURG — A 1984 budget calling for total expenditures of $7.9 million was adopted by the Greene County commissioners at their final board meeting Thursday.

It calls for a 3/4 mill mill property tax increase, which raises the levy to the legal limit of 20 mills.

"The budget is a solid one which leaves some room for changes which the new board might want to make after the first of the year," Commission Chairman Joseph Pawlosky said.

Pawlosky and Commissioner Richard S. Cowan will be succeeded on Jan. 2 by Dan Bailey and John Gardner, with Commissioner L.R. Santore being the only holdover member.

Cowan expressed the hope that the new board will be able to review the budget and give consideration to a proposal to have the Pennsylvania Economy League make a comprehensive study of the need for the Route 21 bypass around Waynesburg.

State Highways Secretary Thomas Larson, at a meeting in Waynesburg two months ago, said that such a study could provide documentation required before the bypass and Route 21 improvement project could be returned to the state's 12-year highway construction program. He pledged Highway Department financial support for the study if other funding came from the county and industry.

Both Pawlosky, who served 12 years on the board, and Cowan, who served for eight years, expressed their gratitude to residents of the county.

"It has been an honor and a privilege to serve Greene County people for the past 12 years," Pawlosky said.

Cowan added that he feels that substantial progress has been made in county government and expressed the hope that it will continue. "We (the present board) haven't always agreed, but they have been honest differences of opinion, and that's the way government in a republic should work."

Sons Hear Of Mother's Estate

WAYNESBURG — Two children of a former Kirby man are expected to share in a recent $13 million settlement made by the U.S. government with the Santee Indian Tribes in Nebraska.

Mike and Harlan Fox, sons of Willis D. Fox of Bakersfield, Calif., and the late Phyllis C. Whipple Fox, learned recently through a letter to the editor published in the Observer-Reporter they were eligible for an undetermined amount of money in their late mother's estate.

Willis Fox, a graduate of Waynesburg High School and former resident of Kirby, married the former Phyllis Whipple in San Diego, Calif., in November 1957 while she was a nurse at the San Diego Navy Hospital. They had three sons before obtaining a divorce in 1963.

Mrs. Fox died on Nov. 17, 1980. Her family had lost track of Willis Fox and the children. When the government agreed to pay members of the Santee Sioux, of which Mrs. Fox was a member, a huge settlement the money went into Mrs. Fox's estate.

A sister of Mrs. Fox, Blanche Zem-bower of Littleton, Colo., began looking for the children to inform them of the settlement. She knew Mr. Fox was from the Waynesburg area and sent an open letter which was published earlier this month.

Friends and relatives contacted Fox in California and on Thursday of this week, one of the sons called the Observer-Reporter office. It was learned that Patrick, then 18, had been killed in a traffic accident in 1976. The two surviving sons, Harlan and Mike were given the necessary information to begin processing their claims for the money.

New Board Takes Over Greene County Reins

WAYNESBURG — The transition of Greene County government to a new board of commissioners was completed Tuesday.

At its organization meeting, the board elected Commissioner L.R. (Butch) Santore to serve as chairman. It came as no surprise since the position has traditionally gone to the member who received the highest number of votes in the election. Commissioner Daniel E. Bailey was elected board secretary. John R. Gardner is the third member.

As one of its first official acts, the board and Treasurer Joseph Souders, who comprise the county salary board, ratified the 5 percent pay increase for non-union county employees which was included in the 1984 county budget. The pay raise is comparable to increases which union employees will receive through negotiations conducted last year.

The commissioners said they have no intention of reopening the budget which the former board adopted last week. Although, as a new board, they have the right to make any revisions they believe to be necessary within 30 days. They pointed out that both Bailey and Gardner, the two new board members, sat in on all budget meetings with the former board and made suggestions about its preparation.

The board also said it has no plans to make personnel changes in any county department.

Attorney A.J. Marion was re-elected county solicitor, a position he has held for 28 years. His salary was set at $13,880; reflecting the same 5 percent increase received by other county employees.

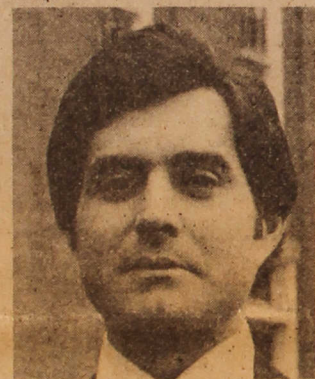

Herbert Cox was re-elected chief clerk, a position he has held since 1977.

Is Honored

Anthony L. Bocchini, an assistant professor of accounting at Waynesburg College, has been awarded the "Certificate in Management Accounting" by the National Association of Accountants (NAA).

The NAA, with more than 95,000 members, has awarded the certificate to fewer than 4,000 accountants, due to the rigorous examination and experience requirements, which includes a minimum of two years of experience in the field of management accounting.

Bocchini joined the Waynesburg College faculty in 1977 and teaches both undergraduate and graduate-level courses in accounting. He also is associated with the accounting firm of Paul V. Calise and Co. Bocchini earned his bachelor's degree at Waynesburg College and his master's degree at Duquesne University, where he was a graduate teaching assistant.

Winter Scenes

Winter's grip on the local area is shown in two scenes from both sides of the Homeville Road in Jefferson Township Thursday. While there is little snow left on the ground, there does remain plenty of ice, frozen into a hanging sculpture on rocks. Across the road, ice has softened just enough on the top of Ten Mile Creek to let the water emerge.

State Allocates Funds To Shelter Homeless

HARRISBURG — Washington County will receive an allocation of $94,257 and Greene County $14,675 out of an additional $6.1 million the state will make available for expanded shelter and care of homeless Pennsylvanians.

"As we enter the winter months, it is particularly important that we do all we can to provide refuge and care for those homeless among us," Gov. Dick Thornburgh said in announcing the plan, which was developed by the administration in cooperation with House Speaker K. Leroy Irvis of Allegheny County.

Three million dollars will be provided from existing block grants administered by the Commonwealth. The other $3.1 million is being allocated by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

The shelter grant program will be administered by the Department of Public Welfare. Funds will be distributed to counties under a formula developed with the assistance of an advisory board of representatives of statewide voluntary agencies, Thornburgh said.

They will be distributed through county governments to non-profit and voluntary agencies which operate large-scale and individual shelter programs, particularly in the urban areas where the need is felt to be greatest.

The governor added that the recent distribution of $8 million in state funds for food would enable local agencies to utilize the FEMA funds for shelter rather than for food.

"It is imperative that local government and voluntary agencies carefully coordinate their efforts to ensure that needy citizens get the fullest possible benefit in food and shelter from the more than $14 million that has been made available for those purposes this winter," he said.

Getting rid of snow and ice can be a problem to plants in your landscape.

Even if it's deep, snow is not usually a problem for your lawn and landscape plants. However, as you shovel or blow snow from walks and drive, watch where you throw it. Snow is heavy and too much piled over shrubs may cause injury.

The major concern this time of year is the type of melting materials some people use to remove ice and snow. Used incorrectly, these materials can injure lawns, shrubs and ground covers along walks and drive.

The most common melting salt is probably sodium chloride, sold as table salt, rock salt, ice cream salt or water softener salt. Calcium chloride, the salt generally used by the highway department, is also available commercially in some places. Applied at excessive rates, both of these melting materials can injure plants. The sodium in sodium chloride will also damage soil structure.

A safer alternative for melting ice might be to use garden fertilizer.

Run-off water mixed with fertilizer will help plants and lawn as long as you don't use too much. Excessive levels will harm plants in the growing season.

When you use a fertilizer like 5-10-10, the muriate or potash or KCl does most of the melting. Any superphosphate in the fertilizer probably adds traction and skid resistance rather than increasing melting.

Nitrogen fertilizer urea is a good melter at temperatures down to 11 degree fahrenheit and is best applied at temperatures between 25 and 30 degrees. Urea can be used at rates of 10 pounds per 100 square feet. If you make a mixture of urea and sand — 2 1/2 to 3 pounds of urea per 100 pounds of sand — you can melt ice and increase surface traction in the same process.

For a longer lasting control of ice on sidewalks, mix sawdust and calcium chloride. The sawdust absorbs some of the melter and slows its run-off rate. Mix at a rate of one part calcium chloride to three parts sawdust.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Heitzman of New Carlisle, Ohio, announce the engagement of their daughter, Luann, to Bruce Clelland Lemley, son of Francis M. (Lefty) Lemley of Waynesburg and the late Vnetta C. Lemley. The bride-elect is a graduate of Miami East High School and Clarke Technical College. Faces From The Past-Do You Recognize Them?

This was the office of the Waynesburg Republican some 20 years ago when the weekly was being published by the late Jim and Miriam Dent. The front was completely remodeled after the paper was purchased by the Observer Publishing Company.

Fact and Folklore
 John O'Hara

The following article was submitted to this column for publication in the Republican by Edna High Crittenden of Mansfield, Pa., a former resident of Waynesburg. Mrs. Crittenden is a daughter of the late Fred High, a well-known author and historian who is best known locally for his publication of "Waynesburg Prosperous and Beautiful" in the early part of this century.

What a joy to see, after 75 years, that Dr. Frederick A. Cook's story is once again being told. This time to the world of television viewers.

When I was a very young child this controversy was in full swing. Who reach the North Pole first — Cook or Admiral Robert E. Peary? My father, Fred High of Chicago and Waynesburg, was a personal friend of Dr. Cook's and for years my father wrote newspaper and magazine articles about this controversy.

Dr. Cook was a fine, dedicated man, a loyal friend and a man of high principles. He saved Peary's life more than once by his medical knowledge, and had been a loyal member of Peary's Greenland expedition in 1891.

My father died in 1931 at the age of 75, and to the end of his life he believed that Cook was the true discoverer of the North Pole, as, indeed, did many others.

The CBS television movie (Dec. 13, 1983) starring Richard Chamberlain as Dr. Cook and Rod Steiger as Adm. Peary gives Cook the credit (long overdue) for discovering the North Pole. The story follows Cook's account of what happened, and to those who believed in Cook the movie is like a breath of fresh air after a long period of turmoil.

Not much has been preserved in historical books and encyclopedias concerning Cook's side of the argument. Peary is listed in the Encyclopedia Britannica and given credit for many accomplishments, including discovery of the North Pole. Cook's name is mentioned only briefly in the account of Peary's life, noting that he was on the Greenland expedition and stating that his calm to have reached the pole a year before Peary "though generally discredited, marred the enjoyment of Peary's triumph."

This was a small discouragement compared to the harsh, cruel, defamatory treatment Cook received from Peary and his supporters in the early days of the twentieth century.

Tom Shales, in his column, "On the Air," writes that in the first decade of this century setting foot on the pole was like setting foot on the moon. He continues:

"I. C. Rapoport, who wrote the script (for the television program) says, 'I'm not surprised by the reaction from the National Geographic Society. It's entirely expected. They had a hand in destroying Dr. Cook. They have a lot to lose if Dr. Cook is shown to have been the first at the pole, in terms of their own credibility. The Geographic Society sponsored Peary's trip and then afterward reviewed the 'proofs' he submitted and declared him the winner.'"

"People ask me, 'Why do you believe Cook and not Peary?' says Rapoport. "Just from examining the character of the man, his integrity. It's mind-boggling to think this man with this incredible integrity has been attacked for being a liar."

"You know, 'cooking up something' is a phrase that didn't come from the kitchen. It came from Frederick A. Cook. His name became synonymous with lying. I find that tragically ironic."

Rapoport continues: "I am very touched and moved this finally got on the air because it is a story that had to be told."

Peary's grandson is quoted as saying: "I hate to see a major portion of the population of the United States misled about a major event in history."

The major event was the discovery of the North Pole. The discoverer, Dr. Frederick A. Cook or Adm. Robert E. Peary? Is "the major portion of the population being misled" in 1983? Or was it misled in 1911.

Perhaps Dr. Cook will never get the true recognition he so richly deserves. But is heartening to know that 75 years after this controversy there are new people who are willing to study the facts and take up the torch.

I salute CBS, I. C. Rapoport and all those who had a part in presenting this fine film.

My father thanks you, my mother thanks you, and I thank you!

Tools Stolen

WAYNESBURG — Despite the cold weather, thieves braved the weather in the past few days in Greene County.

While Ernest Aites of Waynesburg R.D.4 was inside the Church of God in West Waynesburg doing some furnace repair, someone stole a tool box from the back of his truck. The box and tools were valued at $111.

Sometime Tuesday and Wednesday, a thief took a gas barbecue grill from the patio of Reginald Dixon in Jefferson. The grill was valued at $180.

Hit-Run Accident Penalty Needs To Be Stiffened

Waynesburg Borough police are concerned about an apparent loophole in the law which gives a knowledgeable and unscrupulous driver an opportunity to "get off easy" if he has an accident after having had too much to drink.

They feel that a high percentage of accidents in which a driver fails to stop after striking a parked car involves motorists of this type.

If he makes it home without being caught, he avoids the severe penalties which follow an arrest for driving while intoxicated, even if he later is apprehended or gives himself up to the police.

A hit-run accident involving an unattended vehicle is no more than a summary offense. It is prosecuted by citation and carries a $25 fine.

Waynesburg Police Chief Timothy Hawfield feels the law should be changed.

He points out that any driver who flees the scene of an accident — whether drunk or sober — is blatantly ignoring the responsibility which goes with the privilege of using the highways.

He feels that one good way to put a stop to it would be to subject every hit-run driver to an automatic and substantial license suspension — say six months or a year — regardless of the severity of the accident.

A person who is arrested for drunk driving for the first time can escape with a 30-day license suspension through accepting admittance to the Accelerated Rehabilitative Disposition (ARD) program — with the big incentive being the relative light license suspension.

If the motorist knew he was going to suffer a much longer suspension if caught as a hit-run driver, it might make him think twice about running away from his responsibilities.

Adopts Budget

WAYNESBURG — The Franklin Township board of supervisors Friday adopted a budget for 1984 which calls for taxes to remain at eight mills.

The $468,995 budget will require five mills for general purposes, two mills for fire protection and one mill for the machinery fund.

In addition, the township will levy a $5 per capita tax, a half-percent deed transfer and earned income tax and a $10 occupation privilege tax. Local taxes are expected to generate $271,546 in 1984.

Street light assessments were raised slightly because of the higher cost of electricity. Residents in Bonar Addition will pay 40 cents per front foot of improved property and 10 cents per front foot of vacant property. West Waynesburg residents will pay 36 and nine cents respectively while property owners in Blairtown will pay 32 and eight cents respectively.

Fire hydrant rates will be decreased slightly with Bonar Addition paying .01 mill; Morrisville-Airport, .01 mill; Morningside, .1 mill; Pickensville, 2 mills and Woodland Heights, .1 mill.

The Franklin Township Sewer Authority budget was also approved. The budget includes the recently merged West Waynesburg and Bonar sewer districts for the first time. It was noted there would be no increase of rates in any district.

DeWeese Makes Re-Election Bid

WAYNESBURG — State Rep. William DeWeese of Waynesburg formally announced Tuesday that he is a candidate for re-election to the General Assembly as representative from the 50th District.

The district, with approximately 59,000 people, consists of Greene County plus East Bethlehem Township and part of Centerville Borough in Washington County and Mason-town Borough and Luzerne and Nicholson townships in Fayette County.

DeWeese, a former Marine lieutenant, was first elected to the House of Representatives in a special election in April 1976 and has been re-elected for each successive term since then. He will be running for a sixth term.

His only announced opponent to date is former county Commissioner Joseph Pawlosky, who also will be seeking the Democratic nomination in April.

Currently, DeWeese serves on the House Appropriations Committee (fourth ranking out of 31 members) and chairs its Capital Budget Subcommittee (responsible for all commonwealth construction projects). He also is the second-ranking Democrat (out of 21 members) on both the Mines and Military and Veterans' committees.

"As a subcommittee chairman, I'm proud to be the first member from our district to have entered the ranks of the Democratic leadership since Steve McCann served as House majority leader in the late 1950s," DeWeese stated in his announcement.

He noted that he recently chaired Appropriations Committee hearings in Harrisburg and has been instrumental in bringing two state cabinet members and two House committees to the district this past fall.

DeWeese pointed out that he has had eight consecutive years of perfect attendance in the state capital and has never missed a single House voting session.

DeWeese said most recently he has worked with members on both sides of the aisle to obtain passage of a co-pay prescription plan for the elderly to be funded from the state lottery surplus.

Richard Trumka, international president of the United Mine Workers, will offer the keynote address at a DeWeese fund-raiser to be held Feb. 12 at Dolfi's Restaurant, Masontown. Pittsburgh Mayor Richard Caliguri will be a guest at the dinner.

Carmichaels Passes Budget; Game-Machine Tax Proposed

By Marcia M. Biddle, Staff Writer

CARMICHAELS — The 1984 Carmichaels Borough budget calling for expenditures of $117,890 was passed at council's reorganization meeting Tuesday night.

Dorothy Helmick, who was elected mayor on a write-in vote in November, was sworn into office by Magistrate Emil Bertugli. The mayor then gave the oath of office to newly-elected council members Joseph Baker, Patricia Frankenberg, Roger Honsaker, Betty Hudson and Betty Morris.

The mayor congratulated the new members and said she was looking forward to working with them. "Keep foremost in your minds that the people elected you and that is who you are working for," she said.

Mrs. Morris was re-elected council president and she reported the borough had ended the year in the black, with all bills paid.

She reported that $8,000 had been cut from the tentative budget in committee meetings. The budget shows a total income of $117,890 which includes $30,000 from insurance on the borough building which burned in 1978 and is earmarked for the new building now under construction.

The budgeted income includes: real estate taxes, $23,547; Act 511 taxes (per capita tax, reality transfer tax, earned income tax, occupational privilege and business privilege tax) $27,225; licenses and permits, $540; fines, $6,330; interests and rents, $4,600; state shared revenue, $1,100; charges for services including building permits and parking meters, $10,890; miscellaneous, $400; liquid fuel tax, $6,101; revenue sharing, $7,157. Cash balance at the end of 1983 is $2,378.

The expenditures budgeted are: general government, $2,375; auditing, $200; mayor's office, $200 (this item is for expenses only — meetings, conferences and memberships — since the mayor will serve without salary); tax collection expenses, $1,710; solicitor, $2,000; secretary, $7,825; government building operation, $5,318; police protection, $36,171; fire protection, $1,681; building code enforcement, $395; solid waste collection disposal, $300; highways, streets and roads, $950; highway maintenance, snow and ice removal, $13,480; parking meter repair and replacement, $2,500; Flenniken Library, $300; other contributions, $500; bank loan payment, $5,460; insurance, $3,796; employee fringe benefits, $6,285; miscellaneous, $150. Total expenditures are $91,516.

Discussion was held on the proposed game machine tax ordinance but the matter was tabled in order to investigate the results of this ordinance in other municipalities. There was some objection to this

Mine Safety Hearing Planned In Masontown

MASONTOWN — State Rep. Bill DeWeese will attend a hearing in Masontown to learn more about safety practices and accident rates in Pennsylvania's deep mines.

The special seminar is being sponsored jointly by Rep. Mark Cohen, chairman of the House Labor Committee and Rep. Joseph Petrarca, chairman of the House Mines Committee.

DeWeese said he and his colleagues hope that the success of this event will justify other subsequent seminars in the years ahead.

DeWeese is the second ranking member of the Mines Committee.

ordinance by council members because of a fear of hurting local businesses, but Mrs. Morris said the borough must either have revenue from this ordinance or increase some other borough tax. She said, "I do not want to increase taxes on residents because there are too many property owners in the borough living on fixed incomes."

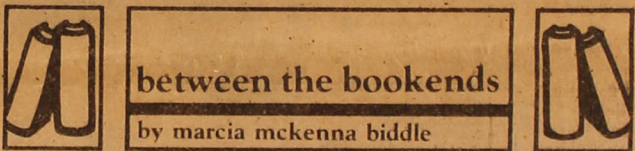

She said there are about 23 game machines in the borough which would be taxed at $50 each per year and which would make up the funds lost to the school district when the school district claimed its half-share of the occupational privilege tax.

Mrs. Morris also asked council members and committee chairmen to make no expenditures without checking with her or the borough secretary to make sure money is available. She also said she did not intend to call on the solicitor unless it was necessary as another cost-saving measure.

Council voted to change its meeting from twice a month to once a month, on the first Wednesday of each month at 7 p.m.

Also at the meeting, Mrs. Hudson was elected vice-president and Donna Weimer was retained as the borough secretary. Charles Morris was retained as borough solicitor at an hourly rate of $40. Council members decided to table the appointment of borough auditors since no letters of intent for those offices had been received.

Words For Murder Perhaps," by Edward Candy. Doubleday, $11.95.

When a professor of English decides to teach a night class called "Crime Fiction, Past and Present," he expects that his only problem will be to attract enough students to hold the class. He does not expect that a series of actual murders will ensue.

And, whether designed to do so or not, the murders have a startling literary aspect which leads the police to suspect someone who has a knowledge of poetry, like a professor of English.

This murderer has a habit of typing lines of poetry and leaving them near the scenes of the crimes. When a man named Arthur Hallam is murdered, for instance, two lines from Tennyson's "In Memoriam" are found. The professor blurts out his knowledge that the poem was written to commemorate the death of another Arthur Hallam. Quite a coincidence, and one that is repeated more often than is comfortable for the professor, let alone the victims.

The use of poetry in the crimes is an interesting way to construct the essential puzzle of a mystery. And the professor's students give the author a good chance to expound on the subject of mystery novels in general, with the class providing some comic relief. "Why do you think ordinary law-abiding men and women read books about violent crime?" he asked a man in the front row; but this unfortunate saw the direct question as an attack and shrank further into his collar and tie.

The class discussion proceeds "in a lively and not too disconnected manner. An hour passed, the iniquities of the labour Government came into view at the end of a long prospect of moral responsibility for crimes against the person, the value of retributive punishment, the role of the environment in shaping the criminal personality."

The professor, although grateful for any discussion at all from his rather motley collection of students, finally has to interrupt. "He had learned painfully over many years that only in the most academic and indeed most sterile of academic circles could any literary discussion be confined to literature, recognised that bounds were in danger of being exceeded, and that a firm lead must now be given."

Returning to his original question, he tells the class that since nobody "can read with any acknowledged pleasure accounts of actual crimes in newspapers, we turn thankfully to the writings of Dorothy Sayers or Ian Fleming, where we can attend, so to speak, the gladiatorial combat or the public execution with a clear conscience because it never really happened."

It's no wonder the professor loses the attention of class members and sets their minds wandering at times - he speaks in sentences so long that the tail is frequently lost from the head, "so to speak."

But the professor does reveal the secrets of enjoying mystery novels when he says, "We are not usually asked, in the classic detective story, to feel with the characters, to identify, only to perform a feat of the intellect. You open a detective story in the mood in which you might attend a sherry party - you expect enjoyment, interest, amusement, all at the level of your mind that tackles a crossword puzzle."

This novel illustrates that theory very well. It has witty dialogue, off characters, and a difficult puzzle. If you don't mind long sentences.

President Re-Elected

WAYNESBURG — Glenn Richards was elected to his fourth consecutive two-year term as president of Waynesburg Borough Council at the reorganization meeting Tuesday evening.

Prior to the election of officers, Richards swore in five council members who were elected in November. The only new member is Lonnie Dusenberry of 1st Ward, Charles A. Berryhill, 1st Ward, Paul Salosky, 2nd Ward, and Ken Fox and Charles Beiter, 3rd Ward, were re-elected and are starting new four-year terms.

In an unexpected development, council received and accepted with regret the resignation of Mary Louise McCollum as borough secretary and office manager, effective Jan. 17. Dreama Swanson, who has been on the office staff for more than six years, was elected secretary to succeed Mrs. McCollum. Mrs. McCollum had been with the borough for 10½ years and had been serving in her present capacity since the resignation two years ago of borough Manager James Ealy.

Ken Fox was elected council vice president; William P. Thomas of the law firm of Pollock, Pollock and Thomas was again retained as solicitor, and Millinovich and Co. was again appointed borough auditor. The Waynesburg office of the First National Bank and Trust Co. of Washington was again named treasurer.

Mary, Walters Capture California Titles

By Denise Bachman, O-R Sports Staff

CALIFORNIA — In a tournament filled with new names and new faces, there was at least one aspect that remained constant.

Chris Mary, Chartiers-Houston High School's feisty senior, stood above the rest once again, capturing the 132-pound championship here at the California University Christmas Wrestling Tournament Friday night.

The two-time champion handed Scott Buckiso of Thomas Jefferson in the finals, 13-3, to join West Greene's Rikk Walters (155) as the only winners from Washington-Greene counties. Walters tripped Connellsville's Mike Maruca, 5-2, for the title.

"This is getting a little old. This is the eighth time I've won it (including the midget tournament)," said Mary, who was voted the Most Valuable wrestler along with Hempfield's Rob Lindsay and Mt. Pleasant's Joe Yancosky.

"This is just a warmup. There's not a whole lot of pressure here. The big months are February and March. That's when the pressure's on."

And that's also when the stakes are higher, which should help Mary get in the right frame of mind.

"This (Friday) morning I was tired. I don't know if it was because I didn't eat or what," said Mary, who had to come back from a 3-2 deficit in the semifinals to beat Phil

DeAugustino of West Mifflin South, 9-6.

"The kid's good, but he's not 9-6 good. Some matches you can't get it together. It's so hard to get up for every match. I had a mental block this morning. Tonight I felt a lot better. I didn't get behind."

Mary's victory over Buckiso marked the second time this year he's beaten him. He recorded a 10-4 win over him last week at the Mt. Lebanon Tournament.

"I knew what he did and he knew what I did," Mary said. "It was a matter of who was ready."

Mary wasn't the only Buc to bring home honors. In the team race, Chartiers-Houston took fifth place with 109 points. Connellsville was the team champion with 132 points.

Walters followed Mary's example as he never trailed in his match. And his win in the finals was an added bonus for the Pioneers, who only brought six wrestlers to the tournament.

"According to the tournament competition Rikk wrestled, he's come along a lot, a lot faster than I thought he would," said his father and West Greene head coach Buzz Walters. "I thought we'd come down here for the experience. We weren't figuring on doing anything."

But thanks to his son and Kurt Jones (138), who was defeated in the semifinals, all that changed.

"Rikk and Kurt both wrestled tough," Walters said. "Rikk's win was a little bit extra for us. I'm real happy with the results."

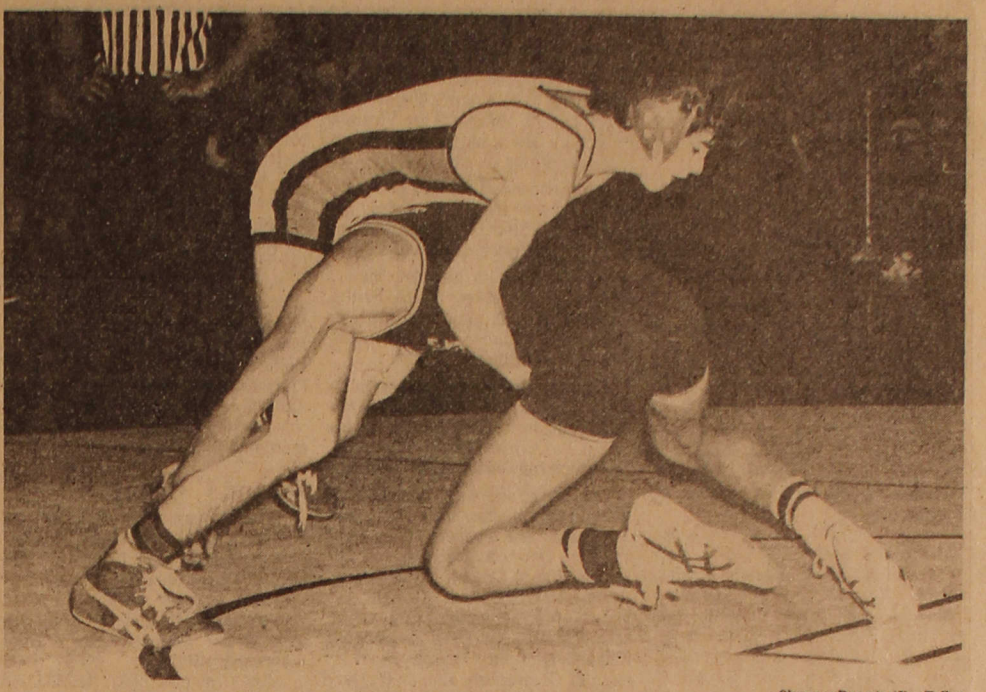

Three other local wrestlers also advanced to the finals but had to settle for runner-up finishes. They were Waynesburg's Dave McWilliams (105) and Dan Lemley (145) and Canon-McMillan's Paul Warchol (119).

Although a championship would have suited him better, Warchol, who lost a 6-2 decision to top-seeded Gary Hall of Chartiers Valley in the finals, felt his second-place finish was enough cause for celebration. After wrestling on the Big Macs' varsity squad, Warchol was forced to travel on C-M's B team when Rich Dami beat him in eliminations.

"This was a little revenge to prove myself," Warchol said. "The kid's (Hall) tough. I think I could beat him if we wrestled again. I couldn't show my best because he didn't do anything."

Meanwhile, McWilliams dropped a tough 5-4 decision to Greensburg-Salem's John Harte. McWilliams had knocked off No. 1 seed Joe Iagnemma of South Fayette, 8-5, in the semifinals.

Besides Jones, two other local wrestlers were eliminated in the semifinals. They were Peters Township's Bill Lewis (138) and Mapletown's Chris Homistek (185).

Unfamiliar Faces Fill California Tournament

By Joe Tuscano, O-R Sports Staff

CALIFORNIA — When they weren't working, the numerous high school wrestling coaches in Hamer Hall did a little snooping.

Wandering from mat to mat or just observing from the stands, the coaches tried to get a glimpse of a familiar wrestler or two and maybe pick up a few pointers in his style that his wrestler might use to an advantage someday.

But it wasn't that easy. There were a lot of different faces, unfamiliar faces, in the first round of the California University Christmas Wrestling Tournament Wednesday.

The 1983-84 season is in its infancy and the predominant characteristics of the year, thus far, are the unpredictability and inexperience of the wrestlers.

Waynesburg also enjoyed a fruitful round, advancing seven wrestlers, while West Greene had six, Canon-McMillan's B team five, Peters Township and Ringgold three apiece and Mapletown one.

The team leader after the initial round was Hempfield with 32 points. The Spartans were followed by North Allegheny, with 27, Chartiers-Houston (25), Connellsville (24), Penn Hills (22), Waynesburg (22), West Mifflin South (20) Greensburg Salem (20), Derry (19) and Hampton (18).

CH had two top-seeded wrestlers — Chris Mary at 126 pounds and Patsy Vulcano at 132 — advance to the second round. Both registered falls with Mary's coming at 1:26 over John Lesniakowski of Peters Township and Vulcano's coming at 5:21 over Rich Gusic of West Mifflin South.

Also showing signs of unified strength was Waynesburg, which had eight of 12 wrestlers stay alive for another round.

"There's some real tough wrestling here and there's a lot of tough competition," said Red Raider head coach Joe Ayersman. "That's why we come down here. All the weights are tough."

Jeff Lapping was one of the Red Raider casualties, dropping a 9-4 decision to Chris Taylor of Plum at 112 pounds. Lapping may still enter the wrestlebacks if Taylor manages to keep advancing.

"Lapping's legs just cramped up," Ayersman said. "I'm a little disappointed he didn't win but then that happens."

Among those who survived the first round for the Red Raiders were Chuck Shriver (138), Jeff Higgins (155), Dave McWilliams (105) and Dan Lemley (145).

"I think there are a lot of new wrestlers and inexperienced wrestlers here," Ayersman noted. "It (the title) is a little more up for grabs this year. I would think the traditional powers will do well."

West Greene's Scott Durbin (112), Scott Brewer (132), Kurt Jones (138) and Rob Stroppe (167) as well as three other Pioneers managed first-round wins. They will join Glen Teeter (98), Damon Skiles (145) and John Mizia (119) of Peters Township and Jeff Esper (119), Eric Nottingham (132) and Lonnie Seighman (145) of Ringgold and Mapletown's Chris Homistek (167) in today's action.

Quakers Win Coal Bowl

CARMICHAELS — Tournament MVP Willie Jordan scored a game-high 30 points and teammate Lamar Barnes added 19 Wednesday night as Quaker Valley High School won the 1983 Lions Club Coal Bowl Basketball Tournament with a 66-43 victory over Linsly Institute.

Quaker Valley reached the finals by defeating Mapletown Tuesday.

The Quakers held just a six-point lead at the end of the third quarter but outscored the Cadets, 22-5, in the fourth.

In the consolation game, J.L. Lechner scored 24 points and teammate Jamie Yarish added 14 to help Carmichaels to a 68-51 victory over the Maples.

Brian Cree and Roger Waters each added 10 points for the Mikes (7-1). Terry Mason scored 14 points and Bruce Clites 23 for Mapletown.

Jordan, who won the John Michael Shlosky Award as the MVP, was joined on the all-tournament team by Lechner, Clites, Dodd, Stephens and Barnes.

Five Yellow Jackets Receive Honors

WAYNESBURG — Five Waynesburg College athletes have received Honorable Mention on the 1983 All-America football team announced by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA).

The five include tailback Otto Birkhead, offensive lineman Phil Magdic, defensive lineman Scott Schifko, linebacker Kevin Jozwiakowski and defensive back Craig Harris. All five had been selected earlier to the NAIA District 18 first team, and Yellow Jacket head coach Bill Tornabene was named Coach of the Year in District 18.

Birkhead, a junior, led the Jackets in rushing in 1983, gaining 520 yards despite missing part of the season due to injuries. He also caught 32 passes, which tied him for second place in receiving on the team, for an additional 442 yards.

Magdic, who started all 10 games at center this year, was one of the leaders on the offensive line for Waynesburg. He showed versatility during his career by starting at several positions on the offensive line.

Schifko was another versatile player last season. Originally an offensive lineman, he was moved to the defensive line early in the season when the team was struggling. He responded with several outstanding performances.

After earning a starting berth a year ago, junior linebacker Kevin Jozwiakowski established himself as a defensive leader this season. In addition to being among the leaders in tackles and assists, he intercepted two passes.

Harris, who played basketball for the Yellow Jackets a year ago, made the transition to football in 1983 and led the team in interceptions with six.

B-C Advances Four To Finals

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. — Beth-Center High School's wrestling team advanced four wrestlers to the finals of today's Holiday Wrestling Tournament here at Nova High School.

In the 15-team tournament, Beth-Center is in third place, trailing first-place Miami Southridge by 25 points, 149-124. Miami, the defending Quad-A champion in Florida, is coached by Waynesburg High School graduate Jim Husk, a former WPIAL champion at 165 pounds.

California High School to a 49-48 Section 19-A victory over Mapletown in boys basketball action.

Zandarelli only scored four points in the game but his jump shot in the late stages of the game held up for the Trojans, now 1-1 in league play and 3-6 overall.

Don Martin led California with 12 points while Alan Husrachik added 10 points while Willie Tyler scored eight points and grabbed 13 rebounds.

Bruce Clites led Mapletown, now 2-9 overall and 0-2 in the section, with 21 points while Bruce Johnston added 10.

The Red Raiders led California with 12 points while Alan Husrachik added 10 points while Willie Tyler scored eight points and grabbed 13 rebounds.

Bruce Clites led Mapletown, now 2-9 overall and 0-2 in the section, with 21 points while Bruce Johnston added 10.

Ironmen 66, Raiders 63

McKEES ROCKS — Steel Valley High School's boys basketball team ran into foul trouble in the fourth quarter, but hung on to beat Waynesburg, 66-63, in the consolation game of the Sto-Rox Holiday Tournament.

The Red Raiders, who trailed 39-21 at the half, were led by Steve Stuck's 17 points. Mark Duke and Pete Walker each added 13 points, while Terry Jackovic had 11.

Waynesburg began to stage a comeback in the middle of the third quarter, and held the Ironmen to just six points in the fourth.

A total of 63 foul shots were taken in the game — 27 by Steel Valley and 36 by Waynesburg. The Red Raiders connected on just 17 attempts.

Pioneers Blaze Path

CALIFORNIA — When John Walters named his son, Rikk, and Kurt Jones as two of West Greene's wrestling captains this season, there was an understanding between them that more was needed than patting people on the back and shouting encouragement.

The two high school seniors would have to lead on the mat, as well.

And while there is still a great deal of time left in the season, Jones and the younger Walters will not be disappointed. The two, Thursday night, advanced to the semifinals of the California University Christmas Wrestling Tournament at Hamer Hall.

"Kurt and Rikk are two of the team's tri-captains," said the Pioneer head coach. "Both of them are leaders on this team."

The two were part of eight local wrestlers to keep their hopes for a championship alive. Also advancing to this afternoon's (1 p.m.) semifinals are Dave McWilliams (105) and Dan Lemley (145) from Waynesburg; Paul Warchol (119) of Canon-

McMillan's B team; Chartiers-Houston's Chris Mary (132); Chris Homistek (185) of Mapletown and Peters Township's Bill Lewis (138).

"Kurt has really been looking tough the whole tournament," said the older Walters. "He came to wrestle and he's done some good wrestling here."

McWilliams Still On Top Of Pack

By Denise Bachman, O-R Sports Staff

CALIFORNIA — Don't let his size fool you.

Although Dave McWilliams is all of just 105 pounds, he carries a lot more weight on the Waynesburg Central High School wrestling team.

"I'm real happy to have him," said Waynesburg head coach Joe Ayersman of his new addition. "He's a real hard worker and has a real good attitude. I wish more guys like him would move in."

McWilliams moved into the Waynesburg School District this year from Carmichaels, where he was sensational as a sophomore last season in compiling a 26-2-1 record.

And he brought his winning ways along with him. In the first round of the California University Christmas Wrestling Tournament Wednesday night, McWilliams pinned Ron Gillian of Penn Hills in a mere 15 seconds. It was the quickest fall in a tournament abundant in first-round pins.

"I'm working a lot harder and practice is harder at Waynesburg," McWilliams said. "It's been easy to adapt here because I knew a bunch of people. I'm learning a lot more moves, but I don't know if I've improved yet."

At least he's headed in the right direction. With last night's victory, McWilliams extended his record to a perfect 3-0.

That record will definitely be put to the test when the Red Raiders get into the heart of their section (7-AAA) schedule. McWilliams realizes that when he switched schools, he also switched section classifications, going from Double-A competition at Carmichaels to Triple-A at Waynesburg.

And he's the first to admit that trying to equal last year's performance will be no easy task.

"I'm going to have to work harder," McWilliams said. "Triple-A will be tough this year, but I'm looking forward to the challenge."

According to Ayersman, McWilliams has the formula necessary to reap his fair share of accolades.

"He's going to have to adjust (to Triple-A). But he knows there's a big difference, mentally and physically he has to adapt," Ayersman said. "He knows what he can't and can do."

"But he's real conscientious. He's religious about wrestling. He loves to swim, and sometimes after practice he'll go swimming which helps."

Last year as a sophomore, McWilliams stunned his opponents by capturing both the Section 8-AA and WPIAL Class AA championships at 98 pounds to advance to the PIAA Tournament in Hershey. However, he was met with defeat in the first round.

Although McWilliams has his sights set on a return trip to Hershey, his first priority is coming out of the California Tournament, where he was eliminated in the quarterfinals last year, a winner.

"I hope to win it," McWilliams said. "The way I wrestled tonight isn't good enough to carry me through the tournament. I have to improve my moves."

Ayersman, however, has no doubts that McWilliams will do just that.

"He has to improve working on bottom," Ayersman said. "I'm sure he'll overcome that."

"He just amazes me. He'll end up on top and have you in a pinning combination before you realize what's happened to you. I don't know if it's slickness, smoothness or what."

By whatever name you call it, it's certainly been working in McWilliams' favor.

Monessen Trips Raiders

WAYNESBURG — Darrin Whitlock scored 26 points and teammate Dave Sarra added 14 Tuesday night to help Monessen claim a 57-53 victory over Waynesburg Central High School, which scored just 13 points in the second and third quarters.

The WPIAL Section 11-AAA loss leaves the Red Raiders 4-8 overall and 1-4 in section play. Monessen is 6-5 overall and 5-0 in the section.

Senior center Roger Fox scored 18 points for Waynesburg, which trailed by only one point, 17-16, after one quarter of play. But the Greyhounds outscored Waynesburg, 20-13, over the next two quarters to take an eight-point lead into the fourth quarter.

Gators 83, Rockets 27

JEFFERSON — Talk about discouraging. Jefferson-Morgan High School's boys basketball team fell behind, 37-3, after one quarter Tuesday night and things didn't get much better.

The Rockets, now 0-9 overall, lost to Geibel in a Section 19-A game, 83-27.

The Gators outscored Jeff-Morgan each quarter and led 53-11 at halftime and 65-18 after three quarters.

Greg Yorko was the only Rocket in double figures, he had 10.

Mikes 95, Pioneers 52

CARMICHAELS — J.L. Lechner scored 26 points Tuesday night for Carmichaels' high school boys basketball team as the Mikes crushed West Greene, 95-52, in a Section 19-A game.

Brian Cree added 18 for Carmichaels, now 7-1 overall and 2-0 in the section, while Jamie Yarish scored 14.

Nick Pablonis led West Greene, now 1-8 overall and 0-2 in the section, with 14 points while Pat Jones had 13.

The Mikes led 27-8 after the first quarter and 49-19 at the half.

The Comets are now 6-5 overall while West Greene drops to 1-5.

Bucs 74, Rockets 38

ROGERSVILLE — Four players finished in double figures here Friday night for Chartiers-Houston High School as the Bucs plumped winless Jefferson-Morgan, 74-38, in the consolation game of the Pioneer Basketball Tourney.

Pat Smith led Chartiers-Houston, now 5-4 overall, with 18 points while Tim Oakley added 17. Jeff Gillespie and Saint Gratz scored 11 points each for the Bucs.

Greg Yorko led Jeff-Morgan, now 0-8, with 18. Oakley and Yorko were also named to the All-Tourney team.

Workman attaches cable to floating section of barge in Monongahela River near Pt. Marion.

'Freak Accident' Sinks Barge.

POINT MARION, Pa. (AP) — Workers began removing 900 tons of coal from a barge that sank in a "freak accident" at a lock in the Monongahela River near the West Virginia border, officials said Wednesday.

No injuries were reported. "It was just a freak accident caused by the weather," said John Reed, spokesman for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Pittsburgh.

A valve frozen in an open position flooded the loaded barge with water while four barges were in the lock chamber about 2:30 a.m. Tuesday, Reed said. Officials said workers at the lock didn't realize the barge was taking on water until it began to sink. "The water just started going into one of the barges," Reed said.

Maj. Terry Ricer, deputy Pittsburgh engineer, said the barge was one of six being brought from Morgantown, W.Va., by Mon River Towing of Charleroi. The lock is too small to fit all six barges, he said.

The three remaining barges were removed without incident after the sinking barge's coupling broke, Reed said.

An official of Mon River Towing, which owns the barge, said the loss of the coal and salvage operations will cost the company about $100,000.

Reed said a crane was moved to the site near this Fayette County town Wednesday to remove the cargo from the submerged barge.

Operations to raise the barge are scheduled to begin Thursday, Reed said. He expects the operation to be completed by Friday, reopening the river to traffic.

The coal was on its way to Duquesne Light Co. in Pittsburgh, officials said.

Albert Zadroga of Mon River Towing said between 400 and 500 barges pass through the lock weekly.

Sold By U.S. Steel

Completes Coal Purchase

PITTSBURGH — Sale by U.S. Steel of a major part of its Greene County coal holdings to Consolidation Coal Co. was completed in Pittsburgh Tuesday.

U.S. Steel Corp., a fully-owned subsidiary of U.S. Steel Mining Co., Inc., reported the transaction, which was first announced early last month. It involved sale of the Dilworth Mine in Rices Landing, the Robena mines and preparation plant in the Carmichaels area, and associated reserves of Pittsburgh seam coal.

Some 61 million tons of coal are involved, representing about 3.5 percent of U.S. Steel's coal reserves in the United States.

Consolidation has announced that it plans to continue operation of the Dilworth mine, which was opened in 1974, and the Robena preparation plant. The Robena mine, which dates back to 1942, will be shut down completely, however.

"It has been determined that it would not be commercially feasible to operate the Robena mine," Consolidation spokesman Paul Kvederis said.

Robena at one time was the largest bituminous coal mine complex in the world, but most of its remaining employees have been laid off since last spring. The mine closing will affect some 65 active employees, including 32 who are members of the United Mine Workers.

At the same time the sale was being announced, members of Robena Local 6290, with headquarters at Masontown, were holding a rally at Sugar Grove in an effort to persuade Consolidation to change its decision to close the mine.

"There's enough coal left for 10 more years of profitable mining," local member Emil Buchtan said.

Dilworth currently employs about 325 miners and 62 work at the Robena preparation plant. More than 900 employees are involved, including those on layoff status.

The purchase price has not been announced and deeds covering the transaction have not been recorded as yet.

With sale of the Robena facilities, U.S. Steel's once dominant Frick District operation has been reduced to the Maple Creek No. 1 and No. 2 mines and the Maple Creek preparation plant in Washington County. Operations in Greene County will be reduced to the Cumberland mine in Kirby, which produces coal for use by a Canadian utility.

Consolidation already operates the Humphrey mine and Blacksville mines on the Greene County-West Virginia border. It also is in the process of constructing the Bailey mine in northwestern Greene County as the first of a planned complex of mines in that part of the county.
