Phillippi's Prescriptions Questioned

WAYNESBURG — A Waynesburg doctor accused in the Christmastime kidnaping of a Pittsburgh investment broker may have practiced medicine without a license last year, authorities said Thursday.

Greene County District Attorney Charles Morris said Waynesburg police are investigating whether Dr. Grover Phillippi wrote medical prescriptions in 1983. Morris said Phillippi let his license expire in December 1982.

"It seems as though he might have written some prescriptions in 1983, but we don't know if it's enough to make a case," Morris said.

Just prior to the abduction, Phillippi was believed to have contacted a

Magistrates Ask The State To Decide Case

WAYNESBURG — An attorney representing two of Greene County's three district magistrates has asked the Commonwealth Court to intervene in their legal battle over a Greene County Court order which limits the number of secretaries they can employ in their offices.

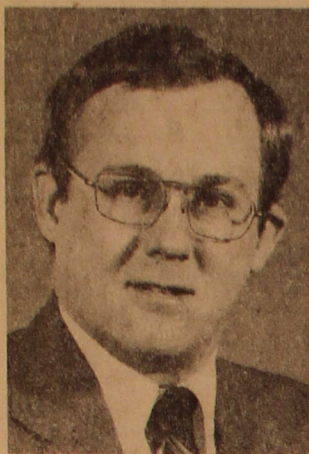

Mark E. Mascara of Washington confirmed Monday that he has asked the state court to intervene because a jurist assigned to adjudicate the issue has failed to take any action since last

The equity action was filed in Greene County Court at that time and Judge J. Quint Salmon of Beaver County was assigned to adjudicate the case.

"Our belief is that we are correct in our legal position, and Judge Salmon's lack of action fortifies that belief," Mascara said. "We have appealed to the Commonwealth Court because no hearing has been scheduled and we want the issue to be

A PLAYFUL KITTEN

The little ball of fluff that is a kitten amuses us as he chases a piece of string when it is pulled across the floor. Perhaps he stalks it warily or wiggles in anticipation as he waits for it to come near. Or maybe he tumbles over himself as he makes a mad dash when it moves erratically out of his reach. We can't help but laugh.

Sometimes it can be easy to get caught up in chasing a bit of string. It may be fun. It may be good exercise but that isn't enough. We sense there are larger values we need in our lives. The church can help us focus on what is really important as we strive for maturity. Life is more than a ball of fluff, no matter how charming.

Mon River Lock Project Necessary Improvement

The economic importance to the entire region of adequate navigational facilities on the Monongahela River has been emphasized once more in a feasibility study just completed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The report, which deals with alternatives for correcting the river bottleneck created by the antiquated locks and dams at Greensboro and Point Marion, reiterates the importance of good river transportation to industrial development throughout the length of the Mon Valley — something which is becoming increasingly important in the face of the crisis in heavy steel.

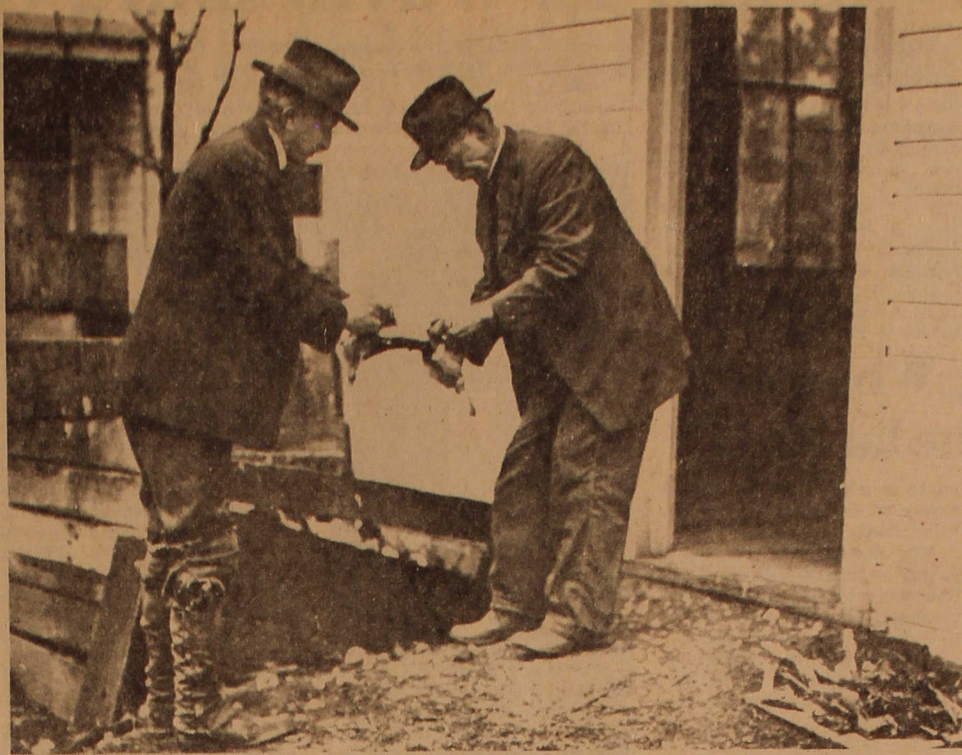

The report recommends replacement of the existing lock and dam at Greensboro with a larger facility three miles downstream at Grays Landing at a cost of $91.9 million. It also recommends that a new and larger lock be built at Point Marion at a cost of $70.7 million.

Both of the present structures were built in 1925 and are the only ones on the river between Fairmont, W. Va. and Pittsburgh which have not been replaced or updated. The problems they can cause was underscored last month when a malfunction at the Point Marion lock caused a loaded coal barge to sink in the lock chamber, closing the river to traffic for almost a week.

The Corps of Engineers study is currently being reviewed by the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors at Fort Belvoir, Va., which will receive written comments on it until Feb. 7. It will then go to the Corps headquarters at Washington, D.C. for action.

The report has received the endorsement of DINAMO.

Good old mother nature.

Just when you think you can't stand one more day of sub-freezing weather, along comes a day of sunshine such as we had on Monday.

Greene County, like every other area in eastern United States, has been suffering through several days of sub-zero weather since Christmas weekend. No one has been happy with the exception of tow truck operators, garage owners and plumbers.

Only this past Saturday, the official weather reporting station in Waynesburg noted it was 20 degrees below zero.

The local weather recorder said it was the coldest Christmas in Greene County in the past 60 years since records have been kept. Last Saturday's temperature was the second coldest on record and the lowest in the past 21 years.

For those who keep track of such things, the coldest temperature registered here officially was a 25 degrees below recorded on Jan. 29, 1963.

You might also note the first month of 1977 was the coldest month recorded here. The temperature got above freezing on only six of the 31 days. Below zero readings were recorded on 15 of the 31 days with the lowest being minus 16 on both Jan. 13 and 14. The average low temperature was 3.9 degrees above zero and the average high was 24.9.

Those who like to flee Greene County each winter in search of warmer climes did not escape the latest cold wave. Every state in the union, with the exception of Hawaii, had temperatures below freezing one day last week.

Crews from the Southwestern Pennsylvania Water Authority were the busiest people in the county the last week. The combination of

'Brave Little Tailor' Arriving

WAYNESBURG — Michael Flinn, administrator of Greene County Memorial Hospital, has announced the next performance in the series for child development will be "The Brave Little Tailor," to be presented at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 7 in the Waynesburg Central High School auditorium.

It marks the third production sponsored by the hospital this season. The shows are being presented by the Pittsburgh Playhouse Jr. under the direction of Point Park College. The play centers on a stage-struck girl who dreams she has been cast as a maid in her favorite fairytale. She wakes to find her prince charming—the tailor—ready, willing and able to defend her against giants who have been terrorizing the kingdom and its two flighty queens.

The tailor's brilliant plans move him through contests of bravery, wrestling matches, high-speed chases and overall riotous actions. Tickets are on sale at the hospital administration office or they may be reserved at the door on the evening of the performance by calling 627-3101, extension 300.

Cost of the tickets is $3 for adults and $2 for each child.

Any questions regarding the performances may be addressed to Mrs. Linda Mosier, Greene County Memorial Hospital, Bonar Avenue and 7th Street, Waynesburg, Pa. 15370.

Central And West Greene Districts Cancel Classes

WAYNESBURG — Classes were canceled Tuesday in two of Greene County's three school districts as freezing rain during the night created extremely hazardous conditions during the morning hours.

Officials in the Central Greene and West Greene school districts said they did not want to run the risk of school bus accidents on ice-glazed secondary roads.

The Southeastern Greene School District went with a two-hour delay for the same reason. Only in the Carmichaels Area and Jefferson-

Morgan school districts, where there is less pupil transportation involved, were classes held on their normal schedules.

Although there were no reports of any serious accidents, a Department of Highways official said that rural roads, both state and township, were extremely slick.

"We had put enough salt on the main highways during the past week or so that they weren't too bad, but the back roads, where anti-skid materials are used, were pretty bad," he said.

West Greene Obeying Curriculum Rules

By Christie Molzon, Staff Writer

ROGERSVILLE — The West Greene School District is complying with new state curriculum requirements, it was reported at a short meeting of the board Thursday night. The meeting was recessed until Thursday, Jan. 26, at 7:30 p.m.

Superintendent Paul Polink informed the board that at a Dec. 14 meeting of the state Board of Education new curriculum regulations (Chapter 5) were approved. They will become effective in September 1985 and will be phased into the educational program over a four-year period. Therefore, the 1989 graduating class will be the first class affected by the changes which, among other requirements, call for an increase in math and science subjects.

Polink said the district is currently rewriting graduation requirements for its students and will make them public at a later date.

For the second time, the board failed to approve adding a former teacher in the district to its substitute teachers' list.

By a 5-4 vote, the board failed to add Karen Lees to the list. Mrs. Lees, who had been a full-time substitute English teacher in the high school, had later applied for the position but was not hired.

The vote brought a few harsh words from a couple of board members who urged that the woman's competence as a teacher be considered above all else. However, board President Rick Barnhart said, "She came to the board meeting one night and I don't think she conducted herself properly."

"There's not enough good teachers available, so eliminating them for reasons not having to do with their teaching ability is a shame," Anne Bower said.

Approved to the list were John Coss of Waynesburg, certified in industrial arts; Walter Atalski of Carmichaels, chemistry and math; and Barbara Sligar of Cameron Star Route, elementary education.

By a narrow vote the board approved a three-day unpaid leave of absence for Merriam Ankrum to take a trip. The board approved the leave on Polink's recommendation that the trip had educational merit and was the first the woman had requested in 10 years of teaching.

The board failed to approve a colorguard sponsor and it was suggested that Band Director Ron Jesso make a recommendation on the matter.

In response to a question from Arden Melzer, elementary school Principal Bill Throckmorton noted it is left to the individual bus driver to decide which bus route should be taken when the roads are snow covered. Any problems, he noted, should be reported to the superintendent who would then inform the bus contractors. It was noted that a car collided with a school bus last Friday, but Polink said there was little damage.

Milinoich and Co. were retained to examine cash transactions of the Central Tax Bureau for the past year with the district's share to be $642.

Field trips approved were:
 ✓ To allow 12 students to attend the Pennsylvania Junior Academy of Science at California University Jan. 28;
 ✓ For 101 students, in grades k-3 to visit the Pittsburgh Zoo in May;
 ✓ For grades four and five to go to Oglebay Park in Wheeling in May;
 ✓ For the varsity cheerleaders to attend competition at the Century III Mall on Jan. 21.

Waynesburg Finds Spark To Dump LaRoche

WAYNESBURG — Intensity is one intangible coaches just can't teach. It wins games and loses them but its sometimes magical powers aren't easy to harness.

It was never more evident than at the Waynesburg College gym Wednesday night. The Yellow Jackets, after plodding through a sluggish first half, needed every bit of intensity they could muster to defeat LaRoche, 80-67, in a District 18 game.

But not before the Red Devils, a vastly improved team from last season, could frighten Waynesburg with a hustling defense and an efficient passing offense for a 33-28 halftime lead.

LaRoche, surprisingly strong in the district so far this season, outplayed Waynesburg in the first half and led by eight points. Juniors Don Matthews (6-5) and Don Gruber (6-6) outbounded the Jackets and scored 21 points combined in the first half.

But in the second half, Waynesburg's senior point guard, Ray Natili, grabbed the offensive reins and broke out the Yellow Jackets' explosive fast break. Waynesburg outscored LaRoche, 12-4, to open the half and raced the rest of the way.

Natili provided the intensity. "It's all right up here," said Waynesburg head coach Rudy Marisa, pointing to his head. "Why do you think guys like Lombardi and Noll say 80 percent of the game is above the shoulders. It was a matter of us playing in the second half when we decided at halftime that we may be in trouble. We went out and did it. "The actions weren't that different but the concentration was there and we got the momentum rolling. The defense picked up and the rebounding improved."

Natili not only ran the fast break, dishing off assists, but managed to pump in a game-high 28 points, while shooting 18 of 21 from the foul line.

"It's like a lightswitch for them. When they start running it's hard to stop," said LaRoche head coach John Pasquinelli. "They came out running in the second half and no one can come in here and run them off the floor."

"I'm tired of watching them run so well and I'm tired of seeing Natili for four years... once they get rolling, we lost our poise and that was it."

While Natili ran the show for Waynesburg, now 7-4 overall and 5-1 in the district, in the second half, it was 6-5½ junior Paul Stanley who kept the Jackets close in the first half. Stanley scored 13 of his 17 points in the first against the Red Devils.

Matthews, who finished with 21 points and Gruber, 17, had five rebounds apiece in the first half and kept Waynesburg from more than one shot many times.

"We had a good first half but didn't respond to some situations in the second," Pasquinelli said. "We tried to keep pushing the ball inside; maybe too much, because we did hit some outside shots. I thought we should have shot more outside."

"We outbounded them in the first half and were successful down low with the ball. I'm not disappointed with the loss because I think Waynesburg is playing the best ball in the district, but I'm worried about the mistakes."

One mistake for LaRoche, now 8-7 overall and 3-3 in the district, was not getting back on defense. During Waynesburg's comeback Natili dribbled the length of the court for a layup and senior forward Roosevelt Kirby (12 points) broke free for a tremendous slam dunk, giving the Jackets a 40-37 lead.

Early Showdown In District 18

By Tom Rose, O-R Sports Editor

All right, just who is the athletic director at Waynesburg College? He's the mascot who sentenced the Yellow Jacket basketball team to play six NAA District 18 games on the road in the second half of the season.

And by the way, who's the athletic director at Point Park College? He's the guy who hasn't provided a home game for the Pioneers since Dec. 17. That's eight, count 'em, eight straight on the road.

Hey, wait a minute. Isn't the athletic director at Waynesburg also the school's head basketball coach Rudy Marisa? And doesn't Jerry Conboy carry the dual role of basketball coach and athletic director at Point Park?

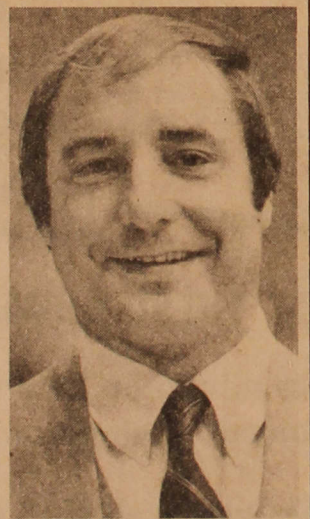

Then what are these guys doing to themselves? They'll find out tonight (8 p.m.) when Point Park concludes its eight-game journey at Waynesburg in a battle between the District 18 co-leaders.

"It's been tough but then again how many coaches would complain about being 5-1 in district games that have been on the road," Conboy said, taking time out during a Super Bowl party to talk about his team in a telephone interview Sunday night. "This is a big chance for us (against Waynesburg). We'd be in a great position if we could win and be in first place. Everyone comes to our place in the second semester and after the Waynesburg game we only have to play at Geneva."

"If Waynesburg wins we would have two losses and they'd be in first place but they have some tough places to play yet this year."

Waynesburg (8-4, 5-1) has a lot of tough places left to play in the second half of the season, thanks in part to a late schedule switch with Point Park. The Yellow Jackets, after tonight's meeting with Point Park and Wednesday's game against St. Vincent, will have just two district home games left. And those opponents (Alliance and Pitt-Bradford) won't appear at College Gym until the Jackets finish a grueling six-game district road stretch.

"We've got a tough road ahead," Marisa said. "After this week we'll be going to places like Pitt-Bradford, St. Vincent and LaRoche, all of them teams that could win the district. But I tried to impress upon the team to try and abide by one of the ancient rules of sports and take things one at a time."

Point Park (9-6 overall) appeared to be on the verge of falling out of district contention with the academic ineligibility of center Perry Dickens. The Pioneers were beaten soundly at Pitt-Bradford and lost at West Liberty but rebounded with a brilliant effort in a 77-65 victory at Westminster.

"That was one of the most satisfying wins we've had," Conboy said. "If we would play all of our district games like that we'd be hard to beat, the players just did a super job. And it came at a big time for us, we had lost to Pitt-Bradford and West Liberty and we were going through an adjustment period with the loss of Dickens. This win was a boost for our morale and our players found out they can still play well."

Waynesburg Proves Point In Double OT Win

By Bob Grove, O-R Sports Staff

WAYNESBURG — Coach Rudy Marisa was playing with speed here Monday night, and popular opinion in the Waynesburg College locker room was holding that his game went a long way toward pushing the Yellow Jackets into the pole position in the NAIA District 18 race. Across the track, in the Point Park pits, they were disagreeing.

However, there was one thing everybody agreed on: the race was exciting.

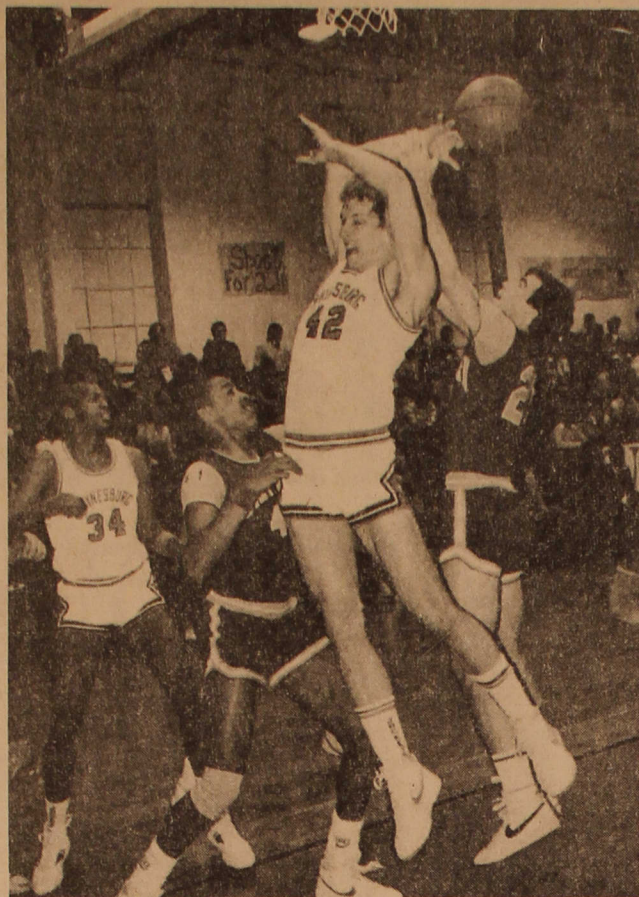

Point Park's Rich Condo missed a short jumper with five seconds left to play in the second overtime, and by the time Waynesburg's Theron Hogue went speeding down the right side of College Gym with the rebound, the Yellow Jackets were in sole possession of first place, 69-67.

"Anytime you're given the opportunity to run somebody out and you can't do it," Marisa said, "you go the other way with it, slow it down. You never know if it's working. Even if they stay in a zone, you don't know what it's doing to them mentally. I think there's a lot of psychological advantages to holding the ball."

So Waynesburg (9-4 overall and 6-1 in district play), a team that loves to run and does it well, held the ball for periods of Monday night's game. Ray Natili, Waynesburg's senior point guard, said it worked.

"It works, usually, against this team," said Natili, who scored 12 points. "I've been here for four years and we've been doing it for four years. We run with the ball for five minutes or so and then slow it down for a few minutes. We keep changing the tempo back and forth and it gets them frustrated. They get upset when somebody holds the ball on them."

Added senior center Roosevelt Kirby, "Sometimes you can get to people's heads by running like that and then slowing it down. I think they got a little rattled."

Pioneers' coach Jerry Conboy was in favor of the idea, too.

"I didn't mind them slowing it down," he said. "I'm glad. Everybody does what they have to do, and Rudy had it in his mind that they had to pull it out to win."

Aside from what he thought his game would do to the Pioneers' psyche, Marisa had one very good reason for the slow down: Point Park can leap, and you can't run without the ball. The Pioneers (9-7 overall, 5-2 in district play) outrebounded Waynesburg, 59-48.

"They are great, great jumpers," he said. "There's no question about it. And they're very quick. (Junior center Fred) Myrick may be the best player in the district."

Myrick led Point Park with 19 points and spearheaded its rebounding game, which kept them in the running. Waynesburg, on the other hand, lost senior forward Mark Doppelheuer when he was shaken up with 16:32 to play in the first half, and the Yellow Jackets had their hands full grabbing rebounds the rest of the way.

Only four Waynesburg players scored, junior guard Paul Stanley leading the way with 22 points, including the 1,000th of his career. Kirby added 18 and freshman forward Harold Hamlin 15, including nine in the second half.

Waynesburg trailed, 37-32, at halftime but ran off 12 unanswered points early in the second half to take a 46-39 lead with 14:36 to play. The Yellow Jackets then slowed the tempo again, and the Pioneers slowly pulled back into the game. Senior forward Joe McMillan hit three crucial jumpers down the stretch to help Point Park gain a 63-63 tie at the end of regulation.

Both teams managed just one field goal in the first five-minute overtime, and a field goal by Stanley and two free throws by Natili gave Waynesburg a 69-66 lead with 1:22 to play in the second overtime.

"I think they had to win; we didn't," said Conboy. "If we win, we're 6-1 and everybody's chasing us because we're at home the rest of the way. Sure, now they're 6-1, but they still have to go to some pretty tough places yet to play."

Stanley Settles Jackets' Score

By Tom Rose, O-R Sports Editor

WAYNESBURG — He had a chance for a Walt Disney ending, the star of the night sinking a free throw to clinch an important victory for his team.

And they all lived happily after, etc., etc.

But fate wasn't entirely kind to Waynesburg College junior Paul Stanley. For the most part it was indeed a game for him to remember as Waynesburg edged NAIA District 18 rival Point Park 69-67 in double overtime here Wednesday night.

And he eclipsed the 1,000-point mark for his career, so that relieved a bit of pressure and brought a slight smile of satisfaction.

It could have prevented the Pioneers' bid for a third extra period but Condo's erratic shot suddenly made Stanley's shortcoming quite insignificant.

To everyone but Stanley.

"I think I pulled up a little short. I didn't follow through with my hand," Stanley said, trying to explain his attempt while teammates passed by to glad-hand their teammate. "That bothers me because I hadn't missed one all night, I was six-for-six."

Stanley had an earlier opportunity to provide a storybook ending, as his jumper from deep in the right corner rolled in and out of the basket at the end of the first overtime period.

"We went to Paul in the overtime,

Stanley is no stranger though to pressure or the hero's role. In one of the most memorable finishes in district small college history, he scored four points in four seconds against Pitt-Bradford in last year's NAIA playoffs to save Waynesburg's bacon and send the game into overtime. From there, the Jackets rolled to victory.

"Other than last year's Pitt-Bradford game, this is the most exciting one I've ever played in," Stanley said. "Every time I think about that game I have to think someone other than us had a hand in helping us win. We must have had a little help upstairs."

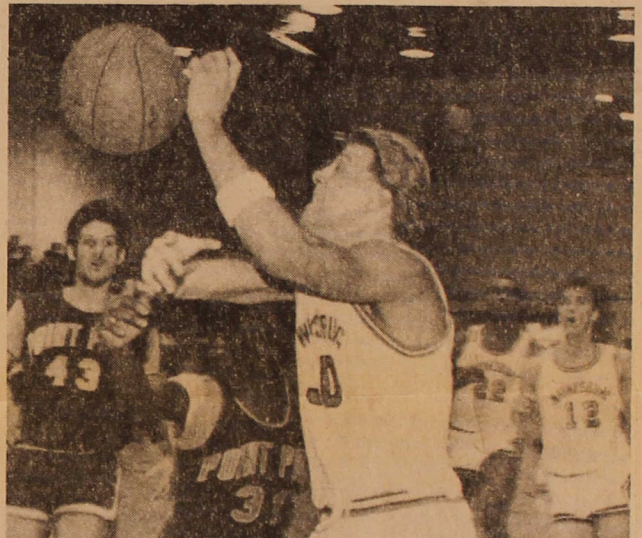

In that hectic finish Stanley picked up a loose ball and tossed it in the basket from 22 feet and then, when everybody staring at me," he said. "I got the feeling that if I missed one, they would strangle me after the game."

"That's why I felt so confident tonight after what I went through last year. Then I go out and miss it."

But his teammates were more than willing to forget about his miss. They owe him one anyway for last year's miracle, and with nearly a season and a half left in his college career, Stanley is likely to provide plenty of points and thrills for the Jackets.

"I'm feeling confident now with my shooting because the team is playing well. I becoming more confident along with them," Stanley said. "It's hard to feel good about yourself if the team doesn't feel good about itself."

Assess Plants Before Pruning

February is usually the time homeowners think about pruning their ornamentals.

Pruning "when the knife is sharp" can cause more harm than good. Before pruning, consider the plant to be pruned and what you want to accomplish.

The purpose of pruning is to remove unwanted growth. Develop a system to accomplish four or five major objectives.

First, remove all dead wood or parts of plants severely damaged by disease or insects. Second, remove parts of plants injured by weather conditions. The severe storms of last summer resulted in damaged or broken limbs. Third, rejuvenate older plants by removing older stems and branches to encourage vigorous new growth to take their place. This is often overlooked when maintaining hedges.

Fourth, prune to produce more or better flowers or fruit. Fifth, prune to maintain or develop a desired size or form.

Site selection is most important.

Assembly Candidate

WAYNESBURG — G. Ronald Hall of Waynesburg R.D.2 has announced he is a Republican candidate for general assembly in District 50, which encompasses Greene County and parts of Washington and Fayette County.

A long-time resident of Greene County, he is the owner of the Waynesburg Auto Center at 110 Bill George Drive.

He is married to the former Jacqueline O'Rourke, daughter of Francis and Freida O'Rourke. They are the parents of a daughter, Francine, a junior at Waynesburg Central High School.

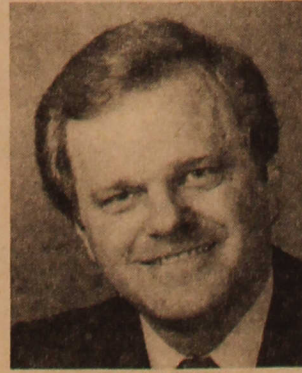

The son and grandson of retired coal miners, Hall says he understands the problems facing today's mining families as well as the tough business situations encountered by the producers.

In making his announcement, Mr. Hall said, "I intend to be a full-time legislator and hope to be able to help locate much-needed new businesses in Greene County which are so necessary for our community's growth and prosperity. I would like to see some high technology businesses open here as well as additional small businesses of all kinds as we really need diversification in our district."

"As a taxpayer, I feel it is important for me to try to do something about the current tax situation. I became very disturbed after being informed that the state Unemployment Compensation Fund was in serious financial condition and that the legislature has chosen to raise both employer and employee contributions, then shortly thereafter found funds available to increase their own salaries. It was not a small increase, but an increase that was more than some families in this area make per year."

"The economy seems to be on the upswing across the country and unemployment is down, except locally. We still have many unemployed and we are losing more businesses than we are starting. I am very concerned over the economy in this district and would like to see more done to provide our district with better representation."

"I don't intend to make promises or statements that cannot be kept, but I am going to listen to people and together find where the basic problems lie and what we can do both as individuals and myself as a public servant to correct them."

ective director of the federal program, Loar has seen many changes in the programs it offers to county farmers, both in the area of programs designed to stabilize agricultural prices and those designed to encourage conservation practices on farms.

"At one time cost sharing on the development of farm springs and the construction of farm ponds were our most popular programs," he said. "I would estimate that 11,000 farm springs were developed and many farm ponds were built with the help of ASCS funding."

"Last year one farmer took advantage of the spring development program. And the cost of building a farm pond has risen to the point where few farmers can afford them. They used to be able to build a pond for $500. The last one we built cost $12,000."

Loar also said that the large growth of the county deer herd has virtually eliminated the tree planting program since the animal destroy the seedlings, and that the number of persons in the wool incentive program has also declined sharply from some 700 participants to about 200. "Fewer farmers are raising sheep," he said.

On the other hand, he feels that new programs such as the dairy incentive program which is going into effect this year are indicative of changes which will occur in the years ahead.

Loar, a son of the late William and Ella Whipkey Loar, was born near Wind Ridge but moved to Whiteley Township with his family while a boy. He graduated from Waynesburg High School and joined the Democrat Messenger as circulation manager in 1939, returning to that position in 1945 after four years of service in the Army during World War II, including service in Europe. He remained with the newspaper until he became the ASCS executive director in 1959.

He was married April 15, 1941, to Kathleen Waters. They have one son, Jerry Loar, who is also with the ASCS, serving as chief of the information resources branch in Washington, D.C., and two daughters, Judy, director of education for the Associations of Builders and Contractors at Annapolis, Md., and Jenny, who is employed by the First National Bank of Carmichaels. They have one granddaughter, Traci, a sophomore at Waynesburg Central High School.

Loar is a member of the Washington Street United Methodist Church, where he has served as treasurer of the Sunday School for many years. He is also a member of the East Franklin Grange and James Farrell Post 330, American Legion.

GCID Contribution OK'd

WAYNESBURG — Franklin Township Supervisors approved Monday a $2,500 contribution to Greene County Industrial Development, Inc. — an increase of $1,000 over last year.

During a brief discussion of the budgeted item, the supervisors cited the amount of revenue realized from businesses located in the township through the efforts of GCID. The motion to increase the annual contribution was passed unanimously.

The annual $500 donation to Bowly Public Library also was approved as was the $2,500 donation to the township's recreation board.

Milnovich & Co. was named to audit Franklin Township's share of tax collections received by Central Tax Bureau. The township will pay $552 for the audit.

At the suggestion of the township auditor, the board voted to formally adopt a budget revision calling for interest from the capital reserve fund to be used for general purposes.

Cumberland Residents Want To Know

CARMICHAELS —

The Cumberland Township Supervisors meeting Thursday night was taken up mostly with questions from township residents concerning township services and the township employees pension plan.

Mary Torok, of Nemaquin, questioned the propriety of the township's employee pension plan saying basically the township should not use general fund money to purchase annuities for the three township supervisors. She said she had called the Department of Community Affairs, State Ethics Commission and other state agencies and had received this opinion.

According to Supervisor William Groves, who serves as board secretary, said that the retirement program has been in effect since 1967 as a matching plan with Baltimore Life Insurance Co. Groves stated he had checked the pension plan with the Department of Community Affairs, the Auditor General's office, the Association of Township Supervisors and all had approved the plan.

Township Solicitor William Hook told Mrs. Torok the pension plan is proper and applies to all township employees. It also has been approved by the township auditors. He said the plan does apply to the township supervisors since in Cumberland Township they are also employed as township road managers. In questioning on other matters, Clyde Jeffries asked that a stop sign be installed on Township Route 662, known locally as the Rices Landing Hill road. He said he feels the sign is needed as a safety measure. He said that trucks entering the road from a strip mine operation may be causing a hazard to other motorists. The supervisors said that they cannot erect signs on private property but agreed to talk to the contractor, Boyle Land and Fuel Co., about placing the signs.

James Walters, representing the Crucible Volunteer Fire Co., asked the supervisors for assistance in construction of a playground to be located behind the Crucible fire hall. The supervisors agreed to help with grading and other site preparation
