Council Action Puts WERC Out Of Work

By Bob Eichenlaub, Greene County Editor

WAYNESBURG — In a surprise move Monday night, Waynesburg Borough Council took administration of a $510,000 housing rehabilitation grant out of the hands of the Waynesburg Economic Revitalization Corp. (WERC).

Councilman Kenneth Fox, who made the motion following a brief executive meeting, said that council was taking over the program as a means of reducing administrative costs.

"We think we can show substantial savings which will make more money available for rehabilitation projects," he said.

He said that council plans to use the services of Marian Chambers, a grant consultant with Gaydos/Chambers of Uniontown, as program administrator. Fox added that details, including new administration cost estimates, will be discussed at a public meeting to be held Thursday, Jan. 24.

WERC was organized four years ago after the borough received a $465,540 Small Cities block grant for a downtown renovation project which is expected to be completed by the end of this month.

The $510,000 Small Communities Program grant which the borough received early in 1984 was obtained through an application prepared by Marian Chambers. It provides for the bulk of the money to be used for grants and low-interest loans for the improvement of houses in the north-east section of the borough, bounded generally by Morgan Street on the west, the borough line on the north and east, and Cherry Alley on the south.

WERC Executive Director Robert Lang, who had reported on the status of both programs earlier in the meeting, made no comment when the council action was taken.

Following the meeting, he said that the move came "as a complete surprise" and would necessitate a meeting with his board of directors.

He said that WERC had projected administrative costs of approximately $65,000, or 12.9 percent, which falls within the guidelines of the Department of Community Affairs, the agency which oversees Small Communities Program grants.

He also conceded that since the downtown rehabilitation program is complete except for a few minor clean-up details, council's action would probably mean the end of WERC, especially since the motion included the provision that council would assume responsibility for obtaining any future grants.

"I would say it puts us out of business," he said.

WERC had recently engaged William Hook as solicitor for the housing rehabilitation project and had scheduled a hearing for the end of January to lay the groundwork for the start of the program.

In other action at the meeting, council authorized the Public Safety Committee to arrange for arbitration, if it becomes necessary, to work out a new contract with the Waynesburg Police Association.

The four patrolmen who are members of the association have been

Curry Home Contract Ratified

WAYNESBURG — The Greene County commissioners, at their meeting Thursday, ratified a one-year contract with union employees at the Curry Memorial Home. They also executed a deed returning Pumpkin Run Park to the borough of Rices Landing.

The union contract, which was ratified Wednesday by employees at the nursing home, runs through Dec. 31 of this year. While it provides for a wage freeze in 1985, the agreement stipulates that negotiations for a new contract to take effect on Jan. 1, 1986, will begin with the understanding that a wage raise of at least 15 cents an hour will be given.

The bargaining unit at the county nursing home includes some 115 employees who are members of Local 585, Service Employees International Union. Supervisory employees and registered nurses are not included in the unit.

The commissioners also announced that they have scheduled a bargaining session with the SEIU for Jan. 17 concerning contracts for other county employees who are members of the union. The approximately 80 employees are members of three separate bargaining units which include people who work in departments under the supervision of the commissioners, people in court-related offices and employees at the county jail.

At a meeting Wednesday, the commissioners and court-related units took no action on a proposal similar to that offered Curry Home employees, indicating that they wanted at least one more bargaining session before voting on a contract.

In line with a decision made last week, the commissioners executed a deed giving Rices Landing Borough title to 67 acres of land which make up Pumpkin Run Park. The borough can now apply for federal and state grants totaling $60,000 to improve a small section of the park adjoining the lock wall where Pumpkin Run flows into the Monongahela River.

The borough-deeded the property to the county in 1967 and it was officially opened as a county park in 1976. Last year, however, the commissioners kept the park closed on the grounds that the county did not have the financial resources to pay for maintenance and security.

With the transfer, the borough will assume responsibility for operating and maintaining the park.

John Higgins, county maintenance superintendent, announced at the meeting that a rural road in Morris Township, near Swarts, will be closed for approximately one month while repairs are made to a small county bridge located on the road.

He said there are no houses served by the road, which has an average daily traffic count of three vehicles. "A Head Start van uses it three times a week but it can detour around the road," he said.

He said the maintenance department has already done some work on the steel bridge and that replacement of the wooden bridge deck will begin Monday, weather permitting, at which time the road will have to be closed. He estimated the cost of repairs at from $10,000 to $12,000, which will make the span safe for a two-ton weight limit.

Higgins noted that the bridge was one of the county spans included in a PennDOT list of bridges which needed to be replaced, with the estimated replacement cost being $125,000.

"We will make it safe for a fraction of that cost through making repairs," he said.

An updated industrial appraisal was presented which lists the market value of county-owned buildings and contents at $16 million. The appraisals are revised annually to provide the county with accurate replacement figures for fire insurance purposes.

Area Men Die In Wreck

By Melanie Mars, Staff Writer

A Washington man and a Greene County man, both mechanics for USAir at Greater Pittsburgh Airport, were killed in a four-car pile-up on the Parkway West Thursday afternoon. Five other people were injured in the accident, according to Allegheny Deputy County Coroner Edward Dobson.

Eric Ahrens, 47, of 1525 Vista Valley Road, Washington, was driving eastbound two miles from the Greater Pittsburgh Airport at 3:20 p.m. when he apparently lost control of his car when it hit an icy spot in the road. The car spun across the medial strip into the westbound lanes of the parkway, when it was struck by a pickup truck.

The truck was then struck by two other cars traveling westbound.

Ahrens was dead on arrival at Sewickley Hospital. A passenger in the car, Wayne Pyle, 39, of Waynesburg R.D.1, was taken by helicopter to Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, where he was pronounced dead on arrival at 4:43 p.m.

"We will not know the exact cause of death until the pathologist files his report Friday morning," Dobson said.

State police said "there is a concrete medial strip a few inches high on the Parkway West between the lanes of east and westbound traffic. However, we regularly have cars going over the medial strip and onto the oncoming lanes."

Dobson said the rescue squad had difficulty extricating the two men from the sub-compact car.

The driver of the truck, John Murray of Chester, W.Va., suffered internal injuries and is listed in serious condition at Sewickley Hospital, ac-

Snow Fight

Walking home from school after a snowfall can mean only one thing to a couple of high-spirited boys — a snowball fight. Kenny Yeager smashes a snowball on Levon Reggetz's head Thursday afternoon on South Washington Street in Waynesburg.

5 Expected In Judicial Race

WAYNESBURG — Greene County is gearing up for its first contested judicial election in 20 years.

Although nominating petitions can't be circulated until Feb. 19, at least five Waynesburg attorneys are expected to be in the race to succeed Judge Glenn Toothman, who has held the county's only judgeship since 1966.

Toothman, who was elected to a second term on a retention ballot in 1975, has already announced that he will not seek a third 10-year term.

All five attorneys confirmed Thursday that they plan to run in the May 21 primary election. Most, if not all, are expected to exercise their right to cross-file and run in both the Democratic and Republican primaries.

The candidates are Charles J. Morris, who was elected to his second term as district attorney in 1983; C. Robert McCall of the firm of McCall and Stets; H. Terry Grimes, who has his own law firm; William P. Thomas of the firm of Pollock, Pollock and Thomas, and William R. Nalitz of the firm of Sayers, King, Keener and Nalitz.

Speculation about a sixth possible candidate, John W. McIlvaine, could not be confirmed because he was out of town.

Under a new revision to the state election code, judicial candidates will be required to obtain the signatures of at least 250 registered voters in the county on their nominating petitions, both Democratic and Republican. While there are more than 13,000 registered Democrats, getting the required signatures on a Republican petition could pose a problem since there are just 3,386 members of the GOP in the county.

In the last contested election in 1965, Toothman defeated attorneys W. Bertram Waychoff and Ewing B. Pollock in the primary and then went on to defeat the late W. Robert Thompson in the general election. Thompson had run unopposed for the Republican nomination, with the election having been held in the years before cross-filing was permitted.

The only other county offices to be filled this year are those of the sheriff and coroner and the two jury commissioners.

In addition, a large number of township and borough positions and school board seats will be filled.

Grimes To Seek Both Parties' Nomination For County Judge

WAYNESBURG — Attorney H. Terry Grimes, 42, of Holbrook is announcing his candidacy for judge of Greene County and will be seeking both the Democratic and Republican nominations in the May primary.

Grimes has had his law office in Waynesburg since 1976. Before that, he had his office in Washington County.

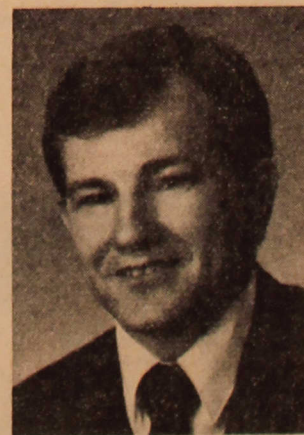

In addition to his private practice, Grimes has served as a trustee for the United States Federal Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania since his appointment in 1975.

He is a member of the Greene County and Pennsylvania bar associations and has been admitted for the practice of law in the federal court system. He has taught real estate law for Pennsylvania State University.

Grimes is active with the American Cancer Society, United Way of Greene County and the Southwestern Pennsylvania Lung Association.

He is a member of the Valley Chapel United Methodist Church in Holbrook and of the Knights of Pythias Lodge. He also is a lifetime member of the Reserve Officers Association of the United States of America.

Grimes is a native of Greene County. He and his wife, Carlyn, are the parents of four children; Mark of Rogersville; Kathy of St. Louis, Mo.; and Lori and Jeff, both students at West Greene Middle-High School. He also has a two-year-old grandson, Mark Jr.

He graduated from West Greene High School and received his bachelor of science degree in education from California State University and his Juris Doctorate degree from Ohio Northern University.

Grimes served in the U.S. Army from 1966 to 1969 as both an enlisted man and an artillery officer. He remained in the U.S. Army Reserves and attained the rank of major.

In seeking the nomination, Grimes cites his lifetime interest and concern for Greene County and its citizens as a major force behind this undertaking.

"It is necessary for Greene County to progress in an orderly and secure manner without undue burdens placed upon its residents from outside pressure and oppressive governmental regulation. Greene Countians have long been proud of their individuality and this tradition must be protected by the exercise of common sense and firm leadership of the Greene County Court," he said.

Grimes said he also is concerned the residents of the county be secure as possible from the criminal influence which has become more prevalent in these changing times.

"It is imperative the judiciary use all its available resources in deterring crime within our county. We have been fortunate to be among the last areas victimized by the ever-expanding and far-reaching influences of crime, but we have now reached a point where a concentrated effort must be made to repel the deeds of the criminal and his crime," he added.

Due to the importance of the selection of an individual qualified to serve the county, Grimes said he will make himself available to all individuals or groups who wish to become more knowledgeable of the function of the Greene County Court and his personal qualifications for service to the county as judge.

Authority Takes County To Court

WAYNESBURG — Franklin Township Sewer Authority has taken the Greene County Commissioners to court in a dispute over a right of way and property for a new sewer line.

The authority has received a maximum $75,000 grant from the state Department of Community Affairs to extend the public sewer to an area near Curry Memorial Home. Cost of the project is expected to be around $190,000.

When the project is completed, the Greene County Jail and county-owned Curry Home would be connected to the system. However, the commissioners have opposed the connection saying the on-site sewage treatment plant would be cheaper.

The authority would need a right of way and a small piece of land for the extension and would like to exchange tap-in fees and assessments in return for the land and right of way. Also, the revenue from the jail and Curry Home would make the extension more feasible.

Despite several meetings between the two groups, no agreement has been reached because the commissioners want to determine when, and if, the county connects to the sewer line.

The authority also has agreed to charge the county about the same as they are currently spending for operation of the on-site plant and to guarantee the rate for a five-year period.

Authority Solicitor William Hook was instructed to begin condemnation procedures immediately.

According to authority members, the action is necessary because under the rules of the grant, construction must begin by March 1 or the grant will be lost. The project must be completed by July 1.

In other action, the authority:
✓ Elected the same officers for 1985, including John Parker, president; Bob Lang, vice president; Tom Albert, secretary, and Jerry Hardey, treasurer. Hook & Hook was retained as solicitor.

✓ Tabled a request from Richard Scott that he be allowed to build his own on-site treatment plant at a planned car wash in West Waynesburg. Noting it would set a precedent, the authority wanted time to study ordinances.

✓ Directed Authority Manager George Scott to have Patterson Brothers Construction Co. uncover a sewer line for inspection.

✓ Will request a reduction of right-of-way payments to Monongahela Railway Co., which now receives $2,000 annual payment.

Jobless Rate Rises In The County

By Bob Robertson, Business Editor

HARRISBURG — According to figures released by the state Department of Labor and Industry, unemployment in Greene County grew worse during the month of November.

The continuing lag in coal production is probably most responsible for the rise in unemployment.

Labor and Industry reported unemployment in the county in November was 19.3. Greene County's increase in the unemployment level was the same as Washington County's decrease — 8 percent. In October it was 18.5.

Figures show that the civilian labor force in November numbered 14,300, up from 13,900 in October. The number employed was up 2,000, from 11,300 to 11,500, but so was the number unemployed, from 2,600 to 2,800.

In November 1983, the Greene County unemployment rate was 15.3, with 14,100 in the civilian work force, 11,900 employed and 2,200 unemployed.

The November jobless rate was the highest since the 19.4 percent of April 1983, when the county was in the midst of a steady descent from the peak of 24.6 reached in January of that year.

Arson Is Suspected In 3 Fires

WAYNESBURG — Borough police have ruled arson was the cause of three fires which occurred within an hour early Thursday morning.

The first call came at 2:04 a.m. from security personnel at Waynesburg College who reported a fire in a couch at the Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity at 355 North Morris Street.

Four minutes later it was reported that trash and old furniture were burning along the curb at the Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity at 311 North Richhill Street.

At 3:04 a.m. a pickup truck was reported on fire at the Sunoco station on West Greene Street. The truck, owned by Jack Beabout, was destroyed.

Borough police are asking if anyone has information or saw unusual activity at the time of the fires to call 852-2911.

working without a contract since Dec. 31. When asked about the status of negotiations, Frank VanCleve, who is chairman of the Public Safety Committee said, "Let's just say we are far from a settlement."

On recommendation of VanCleve, council approved an "outstanding merit increase" of $750 a year for Patrolman Randy Clark on completion of his one-year probationary period. "He (Clark) has an outstanding report and the committee and the chief (Timothy Hawfield) recommend that he be granted permanent status as a member of the force," VanCleve said.

VanCleve also reported that the committee is still considering steps to be taken to replace meter agent Pamela Fanfera of Rogersville, who resigned last month when her husband was transferred to Columbus, Ohio.

After considering three proposals, council voted to obtain a $90,000 tax anticipation loan from the Waynesburg office of Gallatin National Bank. Gallatin offered the loan at 60 percent of the national floating prime rate, which currently stands at 10.75 percent. It translates into an annual interest rate of 6.45 percent, plus a one-time payment of .05 percent ($450) for execution of the loan. The money will be invested to draw interest until it is needed.

In response to a question from the audience, council said the street committee will investigate a possible dangerous condition at the corner of Greene and West streets, where a utility pole which was erected last year has caused a cave-in which is threatening a storm drain.

Police Chief Timothy Hawfield, in response to a question from Bill Davison of Waynesburg, said that he feels the recent drug investigation in the borough has "definitely slowed down" drug trafficking in the borough.

"We still have a way to go, but we have received very few complaints about drug abuse in recent months," he said.

Kenneth Fox, also in response to questions from Davison, reported that arrangements have been completed for the demolition of a vacant house on South Morgan Street, but admitted that cars are still being parked on the grounds of the former South Ward School building in violation of zoning regulations.

"Enforcement of the ordinance is the responsibility of the zoning board and council will not overrule what it does," he said, adding that the board may very well be preparing to take action. "That's something you will have to ask them," he said.

according to a hospital spokeswoman.

She also reported that Clara Cukrovany of Service Creek Road, Aliquippa, the driver of the third car, suffered broken ribs and was in serious condition.

Three passengers in Cukrovany's car were also injured in the accident. Rita Christner suffered head injuries and is in satisfactory condition at Sewickley Hospital. Dina Bordis and Cathy Boranko were both treated and released from the hospital. No addresses were available.

John Decaire of Baltimore, Md., the driver of the fourth car and his passenger, Lowell Naley of Minnesota, escaped injury.

County Gets State Help For Industry

WAYNESBURG — Greene County has been allocated $3.5 million of the $1.2 billion in Industrial Revenue Bond (IRB) financing which Pennsylvania counties will have in 1985 to assist private companies with new construction or expansion.

The IRB program, which is administered locally by the Greene County Industrial Development Authority, is designed to provide low-interest financing to companies which are planning projects which would provide additional jobs.

George K. Stennett, GCID executive director, said the $3,563,000 ceiling placed on the program for Greene County is well below the $5.6 million in IRB financing which the county authority approved in 1984.

"We've already approved $2 million in financing for a mine expansion project this year, so we have only $1.5 million left of our allocation," Stennett said. "When it is gone our only chance to provide financing for additional projects would be to apply to the Department of Commerce in the hope that some unallocated money is available."

Another major change made by the Federal Deficit Reduction Act of 1984 bars use of IRB funding for retail commercial projects, Stennett said. He noted that Greene County in 1984 provided IRB funding totaling $1.3 million for three such projects, with the other $4.3 million being used for two industrial projects.

Betty Long, Community and Patient Relations director, said, "The patients will be able to check themselves in and be able to receive results." Physician referral will be accepted.

The exam will include the screening of both breasts, education material on self-breast examinations, instruction in breast self-exam, and an interpretation of mammograms.

Statistics show that breast cancer will develop in one of every 11 (nine percent) women in her lifetime. Breast cancer is the most common female malignancy and is the leading cause of cancer death in women.

The reason for this exam is so, "women can detect lesions which are non-palpable — too small to be felt," said Dr. Roy Springer, radiologist associated with the program.

By using the new low-dose mammography equipment, there is a much smaller cumulative effect on women who have X-rays done. Survival of patients with breast cancer has increased from 40 percent in women who have spread of cancer to 80 percent when the cancer is small.

Mammography is the only way to pick up those early non-palpable breast carcinomas.

Long said, "Female technologists are used for the positioning and the radiology examinations, to help ease the comfort of the patient."

Springer added that the entire screening "takes about 15 to 20 minutes from start to finish. The written results should be received in about 48 hours."

The breast screening for area residents will take place on Jan. 25 and 26 between 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. by appointment only. For more information, Memorial Hospital at 627-3101, extension 242.

Apartment House Fire Should Sound Warning

A recent fire in a Waynesburg apartment and rooming house sent 38 persons into the street until the blaze could be brought under control. No one was injured, but a major tragedy could easily have occurred since the blaze broke out in an unoccupied room during the middle of the night.

There are several multi-family dwellings in Waynesburg that should be under close observation by some government agency to assure all safety measures are being provided by the owner.

Especially during the current cold weather, a house is only a spark away from disaster and death.

Unfortunately not all landlords are caring enough to provide safety measures such as smoke alarms or extinguishers. Such landlords must be made to provide these measures to protect their tenants and those who tend to forget or procrastinate need a reminder short of a tragic fire.

Potential disaster awaits not only Waynesburg but other communities in the area. Proper authorities should proceed immediately in correcting this situation before a tragedy occurs.

Too often, it takes a story in the morning newspapers to spur officials into making changes. Hindsight is of little solace to the families of fire victims. On the day after a tragedy, the procrastinators will bemoan the fact something should have been done sooner.

Perhaps we should look at the fire on South Morgan Street as a warning to do something now.

Certainly some one in local or state government has the authority to approach landlords and demand safety measures.

Important fashion announcement: "The great shirt is the big statement for spring and summer."

The fashion designers are coming at us again, according to the papers. This time, they want us all to wear great, as in huge, shirts. It is a "trend."

Now, according to one article, "When a trend shows up in previews of spring and fall fashions, it is very often a simple thing." Sure it is. Like silk sweat pants or Cossack helmets. They've tried to push those on us, too.

Well, the "simple thing" may be something like "a new way of wrapping a muffler around the neck, a large pin on a lapel, a belt worn low on the hip."

"Or it might be an oversized shirt. That's what has happened for spring and summer."

I guess I am never going to understand fashion writers. I don't know why they get all excited about where to wear their belts or their mufflers, and I can't figure out their grammar. How, for instance, does a shirt "happen?" Even an oversized one.

If shirts have indeed "happened" for spring, what else do you suppose is going to happen? Slacks? At that rate, spring shapes up to be a depressingly dull season.

Fashion writers are always talking about fashion excitement, another phase and feeling which somehow escapes me. To me, excitement for spring would be President Reagan deciding to throw out the first ball to open the W&J baseball season. Or the Steelers deciding to hold their training camp at Waynesburg College instead of St. Vincent's.

But not the length of a shirt.

"Certainly a shirt is nothing new," the fashion writer admits, rather sheepishly. "But somehow somebody decides there's a new way to wear it. And that means it is worn as a jacket this time around. A casual toss of a big shirt over just about anything - a sweater, a camisole, another shirt. And it can be casual or dressy. It might be in linen, silk, cotton, sheer organza. Now we are making the shirt-jacket a fashion statement for the warm weather."

The "new" shirts have shirthead hemlines; "some are squared off. But the identifying features - oversized with dropped shoulders and fingertip lengths - announce the shirt's newness. Roll up the sleeves and you are ready to go."

Actually, fingertip lengths could also announce the shirt's oldness - like the flannel shirts I sometimes wear around the house in the winter. These becoming items fill the bill of "a casual toss of a big shirt over just about anything." Also the part about, "Roll up the sleeves and you are ready to go." These shirts are faded (fashionably, of course), have buttons missing, and the sleeves are rolled up because otherwise they would be hanging to my knees. The shirts are so old their original owners are untraceable, and the only statement they make is that the house is cold.

Of course, I have been wearing

"oversized shirts" since high school, when we all took a spell of wearing our fathers' shirts. I don't know what statement we were trying to make, and I wouldn't like to hear what a psychiatrist had to say about it.

If you're really looking for oversized shirts, though, you could always find one in a maternity show. Then everyone would understand what statement you were making.

Knap's Battery To Participate In Parade

WAYNESBURG — Knap's Independent Battery E, a Civil War artillery re-enactment organization based in Waynesburg, has accepted a special presidential invitation to participate in President Reagan's inaugural parade in Washington, D.C., on Monday, Jan. 21.

The battery was selected to represent Southwestern Pennsylvania because of its national and international reputation for high standards of authenticity in uniform, equipment and drill.

Knap's Battery has provided numerous demonstrations for the National Park Service, historical societies and has been approached by the British Broadcasting Corp. to film a television documentary on the unit.

Knap's Battery derives its name from the original battery which was recruited in the greater Pittsburgh area during the Civil War. Many of the recruits were from Greene and Washington counties.

Members distinguished themselves in many of the important battles of the war including Cedar Mountain, Antietam, Chancellorsville and Gettysburg. They were mustered out of service at the end of the war.

Today, the non-profit organization manages to preserve the heritage and history of the famous fighting unit. The battery is comprised of volunteers from the tri-county area who are interested in the Civil War and enjoy re-enacting and reliving historic battles.

Two full-size cannons owned by the battery were made by members of the unit to exact specifications, using the original plans set forth by the ordnance department during the Civil

Chamber Of Commerce Elects New Officers

CARMICHAELS — The Carmichaels Area Chamber of Commerce elected both officers and directors Monday night during a meeting held at the Greene Academy.

Re-elected as president was John Brodak. Others elected were James Clovis, vice president; Patricia Rogers, secretary; and Gregory Harding, treasurer.

Directors elected were Stephen McCann, Coral Brodak, Edward Walko, Joseph Cybak, Del Sloneker, Jack Bayard, Janice Rosendale, Sam Miller, Michelle Sabo, Robert Encl, James Miller, Joe Scheider, Sara Ruth, Betsy Bailey, Charles I. Donley, Emil Bertugli, Ruth Smith, Francis Krempasky, Charles Workman, and Louis Pascuzzo.

Chamber members received a year end financial report which showed 1984 receipts totaled $14,530 and disbursements totaled $12,438. Of the expenditures $1,712 was used to acquire seven new strings of Christmas lights for the streets; $1,179 on Christmas treats for children; and $1,563 for other Christmas street lighting expenses such as installation and utilities.

Smaller expenditures were used for other community projects such as flowers sent to new businesses, repairing the Welcome to Carmichaels signs, and the chamber's annual banquet. One major expense was the chamber's sponsoring of two side-walk days sales at a total of $3,556.

Receipts came from annual banquet ticket sales, membership dues, and special fund drives.

Chairman Coral Brodak reported 300 Christmas bulbs depicting the Carmichaels Covered Bridge were sold this year. She said there are still 200 bulbs picturing the covered bridge available as well as 42 of the 1983 bulbs which pictured the town square. They will be offered for sale at other chamber events during the year.

Faces From The Past-Do You Recognize Them?

The late Bill Taylor of Waynesburg, noted more for his professional baseball and gas drilling career, is pictured with crows he shot during a successful hunt here in Greene County.

Fact and Folklore

John O'Hara

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following Fact and Folklore column was first published in February, 1973.

The story of Greene County is not the one that is related through the visual impact of its hills and forests, its coal mines nor its livestock.

The real story is that of its people who were born and reared here and those who came here later and in a sense filled the vacant spaces of those who left to fulfill their great adventure in another place.

Many of those who left for good while still in the prime of life left a good portion of their hearts behind them. For those who lived in towns such as Waynesburg, Jefferson, Carmichaels and Rogersville, the affection they held for their own particular neighborhoods, their own "crowds" has been the tie that still binds them back to the scenes of their youth.

For those who lived on farms or in rural villages of a few people, but who have spent their later lives in metropolitan cities or industrial mill towns, it is the love of the land which still carries them home either in body or spirit during holiday seasons or when nostalgic memories steal upon them.

One of those who left the town of Waynesburg and in one way or another typifies many others is Ed Beeler, whose boyhood home was on South Morris Street in the block between Lincoln and Elm Streets.

Typical of all other South Siders, he regarded Duvall's Hill and Ten Mile Creek as the common property of all on which to roam and hike or in which to fish and swim.

The other focal point of his boyhood days was the corner of West Elm and South Richhill Streets (both then still unpaved) and lined with shade trees in front and along the side of the Frank Black home which occupied an entire quarter block.

The intersection of te street was their own ball diamond for pickup games of baseball and its variation of "striking dog" when there were not enough players around to pick up sides for two full or partial teams.

On rainy days it was hide-and-seek in the big haymow of "Black's Barn" and after dark outdoors on warm evenings with Gray Wolf as a nocturnal alternate.

As he went through adolescence and was absorbed into the uptown Main Street stream of life he came to know all the shopkeepers, like Albert Cancelli, Nick Thomas, K. Scope the shoemaker, Harry Yee the Chinese laundryman, Si Billingsly the harnessmaker, Jim Anderson who drove the Express Company delivery wagon, Sam Cleavenger the policeman and others.

Gradually he became a full-fledged Waynesburger of his own era.

When he decided on his life work it was natural that he would lean towards railroading because like all other South Siders he had played in the roundhouse and the station of the old W. & W. Railroad.

Shortly he was a brakeman on the line and later on went to Brownsville to work on the Monongahela Railroad. In 1925 he went to Ammirillo, Texas, one of the principal rail junctions of the southwest, and has been there ever since although now retired.

He worked on both the passenger and freight service making runs to the west coast and east to Chicago. He and his wife, the former Florence Dunbeck, who was a nurse at the Waynesburg Hospital, reared a family of two girls there.

But much of Ed's heart and most of his memories are still back in the town where he was born. He has perhaps the most vivid memory of the town and its people of any who have ever left here.

In letters and phone conversations he recalls many of the people and the incidents which those who have stayed have forgotten. He feels an eternal debt to the town and its people for the happiness he knew here but has never been able to duplicate anywhere else. In short, a typical Waynesburger whose memories still carry them back home when loneliness assails them.

AROUND TOWN

By THE STAFF

The Republican welcomes news from former residents and would like to have newsy items for publication.

That must have been some party to observe the 65th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Robinson of Graysville. If all the offspring showed up there would have been 130 direct descendants including six sons, three daughters, 45 grandchildren, 71 great-grandchildren and five great-great-grandchildren.

Waynesburg Borough police were busy in 1984. Chief Tim Hawfield reported 361 traffic violations, 38 drunk driver arrests, 156 traffic accidents and 240 criminal arrests out of the 259 cases investigated. In all, there were 1,798 incidents handled while the patrolmen put 32,719 miles on the patrol cars.

Howard L. Chew, the Grand Master of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, visited Waynesburg Lodge 469 this past week. Representatives of various lodges in the tri-county area were special guests.

In service news, Airman Tabetta A. Bierer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Bierer of Mt. Morris, has graduated from U.S. Air Force munitions maintenance school and will be heading for duty on Okinawa at Kadana Air Force Base. Airman Robert Grim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Grim of Graysville, graduated for USAF turboprop aircraft maintenance school and will be stationed at Castle AFB, Calif. with the 93rd Organizational Maintenance Squadron.

So much for the extended "Indian Summer" in Greene County. We received five inches of snow late last week and the temperature, including the wind-chill factor, dipped to well below zero this past weekend. But we were still better off than San Antonio, Texas which received its heaviest snowfall in history.

It's time to begin thinking about the squirrels in the courthouse yard again. The chore, handled for many years by the late Homer Jackson, is now being handled by several volunteer animal lovers.

Finally, after many months of legal arguments, a former service station and old home in Morrisville has fallen to the wrecking ball. The station was a model facility while it was owned by the late Bill Kerns and was a favorite meeting place for baseball fans. The property is now owned by a lumber dealer in Greensburg.

Kenneth and Ruth Morris of Greensboro Star Route, Waynesburg, spent the Christmas holiday with their daughter, Brenda and grandchildren Andy and Adam in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. While enjoying the warm weather, they also witnessed the birth of their 20th great-grandchild, Stephanie Elizabeth Young born Dec. 24 in Plantation General Hospital. Also in attendance were Stephanie's grandparents, Doug and Martha Morris Peirce of Cleves, Ohio.

Deputy Director Named By SPRPC

Norman Howenstein, a 1954 graduate of Waynesburg College, has been named deputy executive director of the Southwestern Pennsylvania Regional Planning Commission.

Howenstein previously worked for the agency as a regional planner, a position he held since 1965.

Prior to that, he served as regional planning supervisor of western Pennsylvania for the Pennsylvania Bureau of Community Development and planning director for the state of Minnesota.

He received his bachelor's degree in economics and government from Waynesburg College and his master's degree in urban planning from the University of Pittsburgh in 1962.

BIRTH ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Morris Jr. of Carmichaels are announcing the birth of their second daughter, All Marie on Thursday, Jan. 10 in the University Medical Center in Morgantown, W.Va.

The Greene Academy building, The winning drawing will be reproduced on the Christmas bulb to be offered for 1985. The winning drawing will be announced at the chamber's annual banquet to be held April 27.

Steve McCann announced that more than 50 histories of local businesses have been received for the booklet being produced by the chamber. McCann said the committee will begin to assemble the booklet this month so it will be ready for the April banquet.

The chamber received a check for $800 from the King Coal Association as its share of the profits from the 1984 Coal Show as one of the organizations which make up the association.

Stanley Keys Jackets' Win Over Titans

By John Barker, O-R Sports Staff

NEW WILMINGTON — Paul Stanley's efforts Saturday night at Westminster College's gym were, at the least, overwhelming both in terms of his overall game and one stunning, game-changing play.

In perhaps the best overall game of his career, Stanley, a senior guard-forward on Waynesburg's basketball team, dominated the game as the Yellow Jackets defeated Westminster, 86-74, in a District 18 matchup.

The statistics were mind-boggling. The 6-5 1/2 Stanley scored 38 points, shot 16 of 22 from the field, grabbed eight rebounds and made the one play that changed the complexion of the game. His slam-dunk over two Titan players in the second half, which resulted in three points after he made a foul shot, deflated a stirring comeback by Westminster.

Waynesburg head coach Rudy Marisa, smiling about beating the Titans on the road, tried to explain Stanley's performance. "We know that Paul is a heck of a player," he said. "You might care to be reminded that he missed the game up here last year. Maybe he wanted to make up for it. I don't know. He certainly had a good game."

After watching his team fall to 5-1 in the district, Westminster head coach Ron Galbraith attributed much of Waynesburg's success to Stanley.

"We thought we would deny him (Stanley) the ball. We made up our mind not to let him get it but he kept slipping away and he dominated the game offensively," Galbraith said.

"We tried to defend him with a quicker player but he is quick for a big man. (Joe) Lafko is very quick and we thought he could keep the ball away, but Stanley is so hard to cover.

"It was frustrating watching him make all those shots, but he's a player. I'm making plans to come to his graduation," he chuckled.

Stanley was deadly in the first half as Waynesburg, now 3-1 in the district and 6-2 overall, roared to 38-16 lead on its way to a 50-32 advantage at the half.

Then Westminster, now 7-5 overall, slowly cut the lead in the second half.

The Titans' big push started with about 12 minutes remaining when they scored three unanswered baskets and cut Waynesburg's lead to 66-56 with 10:50 remaining. Les Ward canned a 22-foot jump shot, then the 5-9 Lafko, a graduate of Frazier High School who finished with 20 points, drove through the lane for a layup and Rich Kunselmen, who had 19 points, scored an easy layup inside.

"I'm concerned about them getting shots inside because I've been saying since the beginning of the season that we weren't a strong rebounding team and we had some problems inside," Marisa said. "But what really shouldn't have happened was the shooting outside. We should not have given up all those shots. Tim (McConnell) was hustling and maybe trying to do too much and covering for others. It left us vulnerable."

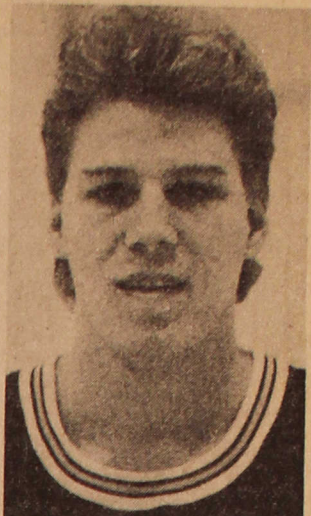

Westminster cut the lead even more as Lafko drilled a long jumper, Mark Stanley, who had 12 points, made two jump shots from the left of the key and Ken Estelle made a steal and a layup to make it 71-66.

Then Stanley quieted the large Westminster crowd with his dunk and cushioned his team's lead to 74-66 with 4:55 left. It came after teammate Harold Hamlin, who finished with 16 points and 11 rebounds, was called for charging and the Titans had a chance to cut Waynesburg's lead to three points. But McConnell made a steal and fed a pass to Stanley.

"They were overplaying me, trying to make a steal. Lafko was on me, and I got it and saw that the whole baseline was open," Stanley said.

"I thought McConnell made a couple of baskets which changed things," said Galbraith. "He makes a big difference. They are a better team with him at the point."

PAUL STANLEY

Jacket Winning Streak Is Ended

WEST LIBERTY — Waynesburg College basketball team's five-game winning streak came to halt Monday night against a team the Yellow Jackets probably figured to be one of the weaker they would face in the middle of the season.

But West Liberty State College's 70-65 win against Waynesburg proved otherwise in the non-district matchup. Waynesburg, though young and inexperienced according to head coach Rudy Marisa, can't take any team lightly.

The Yellow Jackets, despite 23 points from sophomore Harold Hamlin, shot just 41 percent from the field while the Hilltoppers shot 52 percent. Hamlin also grabbed 10 rebounds while West Liberty was able to cool off senior Paul Stanley.

The Hilltoppers held Stanley to 17 points after his 38-point performance Saturday in the Jackets' win against Westminster. Point guard Tim McConnell, after scoring 14 against the Titans, was held to three.

Waynesburg led 12-10 in the first half but then the Hilltoppers took the lead and built it to nine points in the first half and seven at halftime using a patient, slow-down offense.

West Liberty, which plays in the NAIA West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, controlled the second half, also.

Waynesburg didn't mount a comeback until it employed a half-court trap. With that defense, the Yellow Jackets managed to pull within five points but came no closer.

Center Levi Witherspoon led West Liberty with 16 points while David Brown scored 21 and Bill Swann 13.

The Yellow Jackets will get a chance to even the series with West Liberty, however, at home when they play the Hilltoppers Feb. 6 in a non-district game.

Waynesburg is now 6-3 overall and plays Wednesday at LaRoche in a NAIA District 18 meeting. That 7:30 p.m. game will be at the Carson Middle School in Wexford.

The Running Red Devils haven't won yet in district play and lost last night to Point Park, 70-65. LaRoche, which is 2-7 overall, is buoyed by the addition of center Don Matthews, who sat out the first half of the season.

Earlier in the week, instead of talking about a new gym, the Waynesburg College basketball team finally was playing in one.

For approximately 1,200 fans, it meant the end of snagged trousers from the overworked wooden bleachers in the old place that now stands idly by. And the beginning of new legends.

For Yellow Jacket head coach Rudy Marisa, it meant mixed feelings that were salvaged by Waynesburg's crucial 80-72 NAIA District 18 victory over Geneva.

But this snowy Thursday night may be best remembered by the newest and smallest Yellow Jacket, junior transfer point guard Tim McConnell. This was his debut in Waynesburg as well, in the new facility, against some very familiar faces. The same faces he called teammates a year ago.

"I was concerned about Tim's reaction tonight," Marisa said. "I thought he may try to do too much and hurt himself as well as the team. But he assured me he would keep things in perspective, and I think he did."

McConnell's reaction was predictable. But he interjected his emotional level into his game and came away with a superb performance by finishing with 10 points and providing the key defensive play and subsequent fast break layup of the game.

In short, he couldn't have written a better fairy tale ending himself.

"I was really fired up. My first game here, a new gym and against the team I transferred from, I've been waiting for this for so long," McConnell said. "It's been killing me to just sit and watch, especially when we went up to Geneva and lost. I just enjoy playing so much."

And McConnell and the Yellow Jackets certainly enjoyed the victory, which raises their overall record to 5-2 and district mark to 2-1. But while Waynesburg jumped to a 42-32 half-time lead and never surrendered the edge in the second half, the game was tense and close.

And it became a shooting match between the team's stars. Waynesburg's Harold Hamlin had another sensational all-around game, finishing with 28 points, while teammate Paul Stanley added 20.

Meanwhile, Geneva's Charles Hawthorne, who was saddled with personal foul trouble throughout, had 20 and teammate Thomas Gaston added 15. But it was McConnell, and his ability to beat the rap that he carried while at Geneva, who made the difference in the final minutes.

McConnell knocked the ball out of Hawthorne's hands, then hustled down court to score on a layup with 3:35 left to give Waynesburg an eight-point lead that Geneva (3-4 overall, 2-2 in the district) never seemed to recover from.

Dukate Aims Toward Top In District Scoring Race

By Fred Sigler, O-R Sports Staff

A change in positions and added strength have made a big difference in Mark Dukate's basketball performance.

The 6-2 Waynesburg Central High School senior forward, who played guard during the 1983-84 season, has taken second place in the Washington-Greene County scholastic scoring race with a 20.4 average. He trails only Mario Bongiorno of Burgettstown.

Included in Dukate's showing was a 40-point performance against Brownsville last Tuesday, the best single game effort this season by any high school player in the two-county area.

"Mark really hit the weights during the past off-season and gained a lot of strength," said Waynesburg head coach Glenn Kyle. "He is doing a great job inside. One of his best qualities is the fact that he can go up with his opponent and make a good fake. When he played guard last year I often thought he could play well inside. He has proven this year that he can."

Discussing Dukate's 40-point game, Kyle said, "I think he was as surprised as anybody when he found out how many he had scored because he's such a great team player. I realized that he had a bundle but I didn't think it was quite that many. I think he has some ambitions to play college basketball but right now he's concentrating on helping the rest of the team to make a good showing in our section."

Dukate, who has scored 224 points, holds second place in the race by a narrow margin over Harry Ervin of Beth-Center.

Ervin has scored 223 points for an average of 20.3 per game.

Bentworth's Tom Hollandsworth occupies fourth place with an 18.8 average, while Tim Oakley of Charters-Houston is in fifth position at 18.0.

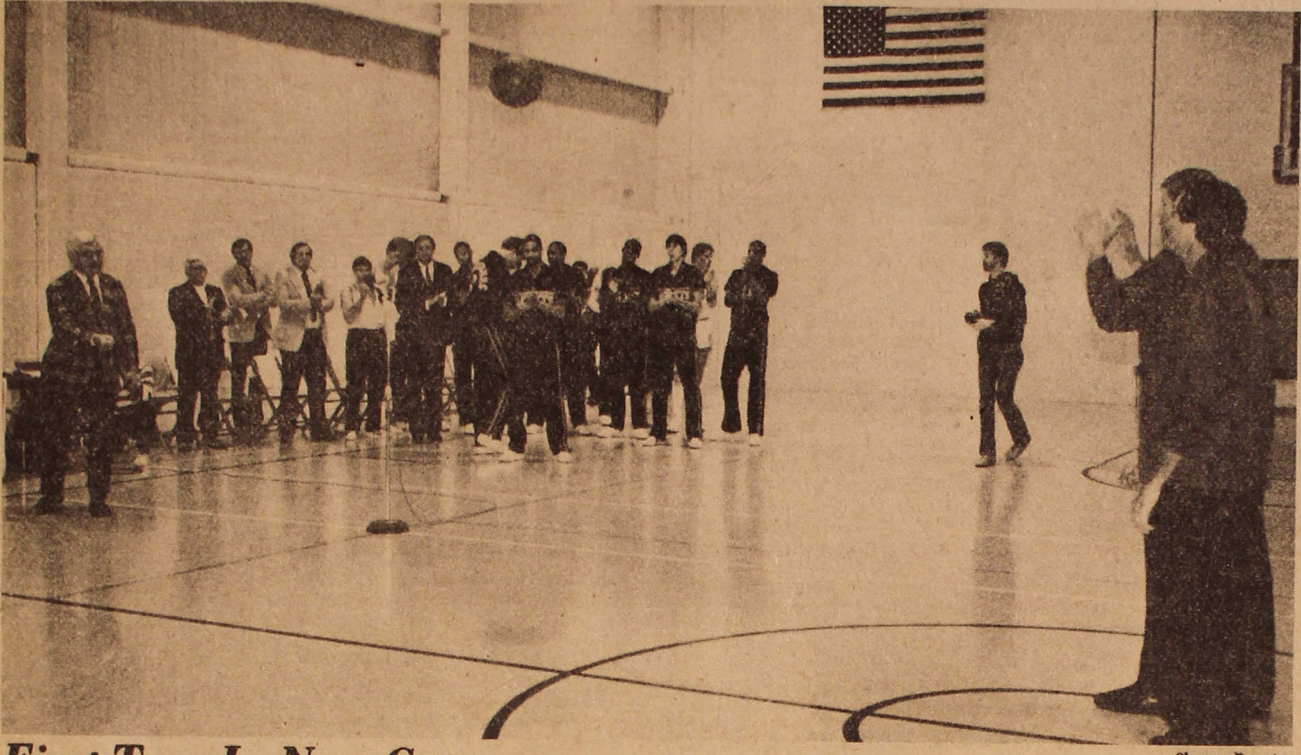

The top 10 for the week also includes Mike Selway of Trinity at 17.8; Brian Anselmino, Ringgold, 17.5; Rich Revis, South Fayette, 17.5; Mark Meiter, Carmichaels, 17.0 and Tim Lipniskis, Beth-Center, 16.8.

Bongiorno increased his lead in the race with 50 points in two games last week.

The Burgettstown sophomore star scored 19 against Albert Gallatin and came back to toss in 31 in a game with Waynesburg.

The past week was an excellent one for individual scoring performances with eight other players accounting for at least 23 points in single games.

Beth-Center's Lipniskis and Ervin scored 32 and 24 respectively against Geibel.

NEMACOLIN — Increased demand for coal will result in reopening of the Nemacolin mine, which has been idle since September of last year.

A spokesman for LTV Corp., the Cleveland-based owner of the Greene County mine, confirmed Tuesday that some miners will be called back within the next few weeks.

Mark Tomasch, director of public relations, said he did not know how many of the 250 miners who were working at the time of the shutdown would be called back. He did say, however, that the first shipment of coal is scheduled to move on Jan. 28.

"We'll notify the people we need back," he said.

David Menhart, president of the Nemacolin Local, said he understands that a few people will be recalled the later part of this week and that 50 people will be back on the job by next week to begin preparation work for reactivating the mine.

"It is my understanding that the 258 people who were working when the mine was closed in September will all be called back," he said.
